ASSISTANT UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE AND TWO OTHERS ARE IMPLICATED BY INVESTIGATION

Charged With Being Involved in Recent Foreign Currency Speculations.

REPORT READ ON SERVICE.

J. D. Gregory Dismissed, While St. Clair O'Malley Permitted To Resign.

LONDON, Feb. 28 (AP).—The British government has taken prompt action against attaches of the foreign office involved in recent foreign currency speculations.

J. D. Gregory, assistant under-secretary of state in the foreign office, who had previously held important diplomatic posts at Vienna, Bucharest, and other foreign capitals, has been ordered dismissed from office. St. Clair O'Malley, it was announced, will be permitted to resign, and Lieut.-Commander H. F. B. Maxse is in for a severe reprimand, with the forfeiture of three years' seniority.

The trouble arose out of a suit brought by a banking firm against Mrs. Aminta Marjorie Dyne, who, during the war, was Gregory's secretary. Mrs. Dyne was said to have cleared a profit of £24,000 in a period of three months, but later to have lost much more than that. A verdict in favor of the bank of £38,938 was rendered against her in the King's Bench Division on February 1. She pleaded the "gaming act" in defense, but her plea did not hold with the jury. It was disclosed that various government officials had some connection with the woman's speculations, and Premier Baldwin ordered a board of inquiry, which quickly rendered its findings—and punishment for those implicated followed.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, made the observation in the report that, serious as were the offenses in certain of the cases from his point of view, there was no question of corruption or abuse of official information.

The committee which made the investigation declared that it was fully satisfied that the three men "neither used nor endeavored to use any official information for the purpose of their transactions and that there was no foundation for the suggestion that Mrs. Dyne was operating as the agent of a syndicate of civil servants with the assistance of advance information furnished by them."

The report finds no extenuation for Gregory and points out that O'Malley, although his transactions were smaller, was the initiator of the whole transactions.

With the exception of two other isolated and minor cases of transactions in currency, the report gives the civil service a completely clean bill.

Steps Justified

LONDON, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press Cable).—Press comment on the dismissal of J. D. Gregory, Assistant Under-Secretary of State in the Foreign Office and the punishments measured out to others in the Foreign Office for having been implicated in speculation in foreign currency, draws attention to the fact that not within the memory of man has such a revelation been made in connection with any department of the government. The press agreed on the matter of penalties inflicted upon all involved in the scandal and makes the ground that while these are drastic they are justified.

NEVER ADVISED OF FIRE HAZARD SAYS MANAGER

Knox Did Not Know There Was Danger in Some Stopes.

INSPECTOR MIGHT KNOW.

Witness Unable To Say Who Issued Orders About Thawhouse Refuse.

TIMMINS, February 28 (Canadian Press). — That he had no recollection of any representative speaking to him of a fire hazard in stopes Nos. 1 and 55 was the answer given by John Knox, assistant general manager of the Hollinger Mine, to questions by W. A. Gordon, miners' counsel, before the Royal Commission of Inquiry into the disaster to-day.

Mr. Knox said further he recalled an interview with one, Allan Mackenzie on New Year's Day, 1926, but Mackenzie, he said, had never discussed the matter of refuse in the stopes. Also, he did not know who had issued instructions for dealing with thaw house waste.

Mr. Gordon asked if the mine's safety inspector would be responsible for seeing that refuse was not dumped in the stopes. The witness said Mr. Williams or Mr. Emery might answer that question, bringing forth comment from Commissioner T. E. Godson that there seeme to be a lack of cohesion among the higher officials.

The Commissioner said the safety inspector would have to explain to him why he allowed the practice, and held that as general manager he naturally expected Mr. Knox to say that he, Knox, also expected that of the inspector. The witness told Judge Godson he was informed there never had been a report made on the condition of the stopes. At the weekly meetings on safety, the sessions were largely educational.

LIBERALS PROTEST CAMPBELL'S SPEECH

Progressive Member Says Government Holds Office By Fraud and Deception

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 28 (By the Canadian Press).—A passing breeze yesterday disturbed the even tenor of house debate on the budget. M. H. Campbell, Progressive of Mackenzie, had referred to appeals made by Premier King to Western Progressives during the election campaign of two years ago. "This Government holds office to-day by fraud and deception," Mr. Campbell warmly added. There were shouts of protest from the Liberal side of the House. Pierre Casgrain, Chief Government whip, was on his feet demanding a retraction.

In the midst of some commotion, Speaker ruled that the expression was unparliamentary.

Mr. Campbell withdrew the statement but added that that would not alter the facts.

This brought Mr. Casgrain to his feet again with a demand for a full withdrawal. Speaker Lemieux added that the qualifying remark should also be withdrawn, and the incident closed with Mr. Campbell meeting the ruling of the chair.

H. G. Errs, Conservative of Queens-Lunenberg, pressed the case of Nova Scotia fishermen. He urged action along these lines, intensification of scientific research; organization of fishermen co-operatively; development of markets with improved transportation; standardization, inspection and grading of product; improved system of issuing storm warnings; facilities for supplying fishermen in isolated parts with market quotations; more intimate association between the Ministry and practical fishermen by the appointment of a minister of fisheries.

36 CHILDREN HURT IN CRASH

ELEVEN BADLY HURT.

ROCHESTER, Ind., Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press.)— Eleven children were seriously injured today and twenty-five others slightly hurt when an Erie freight train, eastbound, struck a school bus loaded to capacity at a crossing near here. The driver of the bus was also injured. Frantic parents filled the hospital seeking to learn if their children were among those seriously injured.

TEAM LEADERS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CAMPAIGN

Meet For Discussion of Final Drive For Chamber of Commerce.

NEARING OBJECTIVE.

Corporations Having Branches Here Respond To Request For Investment.

Enthusiasm was the keynote of the meeting of the Executive council, majors and captains of the Chamber of Commerce following the meeting held at the council chamber last night. The attendance was almost 100 per cent. and the interest shown indicated that though the prospects had not been seen the showing was most encouraging.

An analysis of the report showed 146 new members signed up for three years who have not heretofore been connected with the organization. Virtually all of the old membership are renewing their pledges and the larger firms are signing up increases ranging from 200 to 500 p.c. There were 470 cards in the hands of the teams workers not yet reported. In addition to that over 100 cards that had not been signed or were still good prospects were reassigned to the executive council and captains.

"One hundred and seveny-five more memberships will put us over the top," announced President Gillespie. They are in the hands of the teams and if they continue their work as loyally and enthusiastically as they did last week there will be no question about results.

The corporations with branches here are beginning to hear favorably from the home office. A check for $50 from the British American Oil Company came to President Gillespie this morning, accompanied by a fine letter of approval.

In his address before the meeting last night general chairman J. J. Turner said:

"I have given serious thought to the Forward Movement of the Chamber of Commerce, thinking of the amount of the budget, which is desired to be raised for a three year period, which has been set at $12,500 per year, made up as follows:

500 memberships at $15.00 each, $7,500. Activities funds, $5,000. Total $12,500.

"It seems to me this is a conservative budget to enable the Chamber of Commerce to function properly, as I have in mind the Chamber's relations to various activities of the city The board room can be used by any organization of the city for meetings morning, afternoon or evening. At the present time it is the office of the Automobile League, the Horticultural Society, the Engineers' Institute, the Manufacturers' Association, the Trent Waterway Development Association, the Children's Aid Society, the Peterborough Health Association, and the many of the sporting organizations. From this it will be seen the rooms are extensively used, and the staff of the Chamber of Commerce is at the disposal of these various organizations if their services are required.

"In addition to issuing the Motor Licenses for the city and district, it is also a headquarters for visitors who desire information.

"Thinking of the amount of the budget, it represents about fifty cents per head of population. When one thinks of the percentage of houses owned by the citzens which is 55 to 60 per cent., and thinking of the amount of money circulated every week by the retail merchants industries, stores, banks, utilities, hotels, garages, and other places where help is employed, which must be well over $125,000, it does not appear as if a membership of 500 at $15 each, is an unreasonable number.

We stand in certain relationship to surrounding communities who look to us for leadership, and Peterborough cannot afford to have failure written against such a modest enterprise as the Forward Movement Campaign to provide funds to carry on the work. Failure will not be written against the project if everyone does his share, either by taking a membership or subscribing to the Activities Fund. There are those in the community who can do both without embarrassment.

"I appreciate the time and energy given by the splendid body of men to help with the work and I am glad the campaign will be continued during two or three days of this week, and trust when the work is completed it will be found to have reached our objective."

The meeting adjourned at a late hour, the men determined to put the campaign over the top with 600 memberships and a 5000 activities fund.

A report from the Oshawa campaign, now under way under the auspices of the American City Bureau, showed a splendid start there on Monday morning The Early Bird breakfast was attended by 128. The Activities Fund of $6000 was in sight one man having subscribed $1000, and others $500 and $250 each. There were several $100 pledges. They expect to raise $9000 from memberships at $25 each. The report indicated that the merchants were signing pledges almost to a man, and that enthusiasm was running high.

In his closing talk last night Mr. McKeen paid high tribute to Mayor Denne for his strong appeal for support of the local Chamber of Commerce and to the fine body of men who had been so faithfully sticking to the task here in Peterborough.

"Just knock that "T" out of can't the next few days and a great victory will be yours," concluded Mr. McKeen.

BOYS May Enjoy Pickerel Says Source Book; Book Of Knowledge Backs Up Madden Howard

Interesting light is thrown upon the controversy now raging in The Examiner as to the status of the pickerel in good fishing society. "The Source Book Encyclopedia," the latest work of its kind, says:

"By the boys, they (pickerel) are considered excellent both as game fish and as food fish, but the older angler is apt to pass them by." (Page 2255, Vol. 5.)

As to the inroads made by the pickerel on other fish, Madden Howard's observations are backed up by the Book of Knowledge (Vol. 9, Page 2704), where it is stated:

"This is the fiercest fish in our waters. He will eat anything. . . . . One youngster, only five inches long, was found to have swallowed a gudgeon as big as itself, and was cheerfully swimming about with the gudgeon's tail sticking out of its mouth."

And that's that!

ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING IS OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Byers Recipients of Gifts From Friends.

MARRIED IN 1878.

Community Celebration Held in Honor of Bailieboro People.

BAILIEBORO, February 28. — On February 25, 1878, just fifty years ago, at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fisher, of South Monaghan, Levi Byers and Matilda Fisher were married. Yesterday a family re-union celebrated the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Byers at a dinner at which only the children and immediate relatives were present. From three to six o'clock p.m. a reception was held to their friends at their home.

Then at 7.30 o'clock p.m., a presentation was held at Centreville Sunday School Hall, when almost the entire community gathered to extend their congratulations and to present Mr. and Mrs. Byers gifts, including a beautiful bouquet of flowers and a vase containing over $100.00 in gold coins to Mrs. Byers and a gold-headed cane to Mr. Byers. J. C. McRoberts read an appropriate address, while the presentations were made by Miss Betty Lucas and Harry Barnard. Roy Byers son of the bride and groom, replied to the address

William Lucas, M.P., of Alberta, a former Bailieboro boy, acted as chairman, and at the conclusion of the presentations an excellent program was enjoyed, including speeches by Thomas Donaldson, George Berry, Sr., friends of the groom who have already celebrated their golden weddings, and Rev. John Riddle, the groom's brothers Josiah and Albert, James McGill, David Dodds, J. C. Campbell, Dr. Elliott of Toronto, Dr. Moir of Peterborough, and Harold Fisher, K.C., ex-M.P.P., a former Mayor of Ottawa, nephew of the bride and groom.

Musical numbers and readings were rendered by Mrs. Fred Waterman, Miss Viola White, Edith Deyell, Dorothy Hall, and Messrs. J. Isbister, M. Bradshaw, and George Berry. Edmund Dawson, convenor of the committee in charge, moved a vote of thanks to all who had assisted in making the celebration a success.

Among the relatives and friends present were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fisher, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Byers and daughter Betty of Toronto, Dot Byers of Ottawa, Harold Fisher, K.C., of Ottawa; Dr. and Mrs. Elliott and daughters Kathleen and Mary, of Toronto; Fergus Byers of Toronto, William Lucas, M.P., of Alberta; Dr. and Mrs. Moir of Peterborough; Mrs. Mathison and son of

Prominent Orientals Killed In Tong War

CALEXICO, Calif, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—Tong warfare broke out in the Chinese quarter of Mexicali, across the Mexican border from here, Sunday night, and yesterday one of the most prominent Oriental resort owners in Lower California and two of his henchmen were dead, while three others were injured.

Francisco Chao, Chinese owner of the resort, "Casino Chino," and the "Mexicali Cabaret," died with five bullets in his head and two in his chest.

Chee Gee and Alfonso Yee, both employed in the two gambling palaces, were the others killed.

Three persons, at least one of whom were considerably fatally wounded, were in the Mexicali Hospital.

MINE OFFICIAL FIRST WITNESS AT FIRE INQUIRY

WASTE BOX PROVIDED

Would Have Stopped Practice Had He Known Debris Dumped Into Stopes.

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 28 (CP).—Evidence that he would have stopped instantly the practice of dumping Thaw house debris into stopes had he known this method of disposal was in general use was given by John Knox, assistant general manager of the Hollinger mine, in the course of yesterday afternoon's session of the royal commission enquiring into the recent disaster, in which 39 men lost their lives. Under examination by Peter White, K.C., Counsel for the commission, Mr. Knox contended that, had the rubbish from this source been mixed with the current waste flow of rock, it would have been a satisfactory scheme, but he told Mr. Justice Godson, residing at the investigation, that since the method employed had broken down, his feeling now was that it was a better plan to bring the discards from the Thaw house to the surface.

Preparations to thaw all powder above ground were being made now, and under this method the sawdust and waste material from the 200 boxes used daily at the mine would not be returned underground. Mr. Knox said. He estimated that the daily amount of waste from the Thaw house would be one hundred pounds, consisting of broken boxes, lids, paper and fuse ends while the current waste flow was between 800 and 1,000 tons of rock daily. The assistant general manager told the court that a waste box was provided in the Thaw house, to receive the sawdust and refuse from the powder boxes and that, when this box was full, it was taken away, although he personally never had seen this done, knowing of the practice only from hearsay. He had believed the refuse was mixed with the current waste flow from the explanations he had been given.

Only Witness Examined.

Mr. Knox was on the stand when the commission adjourned for the day, he having been the only witness examined to date. Mr. White has not yet finished with the witness, who also still has to undergo cross-examination by Arthur G. Slaght, K.C. for the company, and W. A. Gordon, appearing for the men.

BEER BY GLASS TO BE VOTED ON THIS AFTERNOON

Defeat Expected For Wilson Resolution—Government is Opposed.

FOUR SUPPORT PLAN.

Premier Only Contrary Speaker, Declaring Intention To Give Act Fair Trial.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—Frank W. Wilson, Conservative member for East Windsor, fought a determined battle for "beer by the glass" in the Legislature yesterday, but it was a losing one. When the House assembles this afternoon it will deliver Mr. Wilson's resolution, by way of a vote, the knockout punch which was withheld yesterday.

The Ontario Government wants no "beer by the glass." In the words of Premier Ferguson, it wants no tinkering, nor any interference with law, just to meet the demands of some isolated sentiment in certain localities." A thorough trial is what the Prime Minister has in mind for the present law, and after his utterances of yesterday it looks as if the act will get it. Until such time as the Government finds itself unable to maintain it or support it, and public opinion is no longer behind it, it will remain "untouched and unaltered."

Premier Presents Opposition

The Prime Minister provided the sole opposition to the East Windsor member's resolution, but it was enough. Mr. Wilson, who, in arguing the merits of his resolution, indirectly made out a fine case for opponents of the Liquor Control Act, was supported by W. C. Weichel (Conservative, North Waterloo), and seconder of the resolution, and rather lukewarmly by Edmond Proulx and T. Legault, "wet" Liberal members for Prescott and Sturgeon Falls, respectively. There was little fire in the debate, save that kindled by Mr. Wilson in its closing moments, when he said: "I made a pledge to my constituents that I would support this policy, and, so help me, I'm going to keep it and vote for this resolution."

Not Seeking Bar's Return

Government control, said Mr. Wilson, could not effectively be obtained unless the act in its present form was extended to permit sale of beer by the glass. No question of return of the bar was involved in his resolution. It stipulated that consumption of beer should be confined to places under Government jurisdiction, subject to local option vote. It was not to be enforced on communities which didn't want it, and it was to be granted to those who wanted it. No set arbitrary rule in this connection, he stated, could be laid down for the whole Province. For one community might want consumption in a standard hotel, while its neighbor might desire it to be consumed in properly regulated rooms without the meals.

NEW ORGAN CONSIDERED

Advisory Board of St. John's Church Names Committee To Inquire.

WARDEN'S REPORT.

At a meeting of the Advisory Board of St. John's Church, which was held last evening in the Parish Hall, W. Sangster was appointed as convenor of a committee to go fully into the ways and means of financing the installation of a new organ for the church, to work out details and submit them at the next meeting.

J. A. Aylmer was elected chairman of the board for the ensuing year with Dr. Holloway as vice-chairman, and W. R. Thompson, secretary.

The Wardens' report, given by W. J. Kent, showed the general affairs of the church to be in a good condition.

Gordon W. Brown Is Badly Injured

Young Man Receives Shock of About 20,000 Volts While at Work in Test Department—Doctors Are Still Working Over Injured Man.

TWO TANKS OF OXYGEN USED IN ATTEMPT TO REVIVE VICTIM

Gordon Wilson Brown, a student engineer from Nova Scotia in the Testing Department of the Canadian General Electric plant, was perhaps fatally injured this afternoon when he received twenty thousand volts through his body. Dr. J. M. McCulloch and the fire brigade with the pulmotor were called to the plant at about two o'clock, and for the next hour gave medical aid.

The firemen received their call at 2.09 p.m. and reached the plant a few minutes later. For nearly half an hour, the pulmotor was in operation, using up two tanks of oxygen. Dr. McCulloch was later assisted by Dr. T. W. H. Young, and Brown was removed from the testing department to the surgery department in another building.

He was still alive at 4.15.

Five Years Ago.

It is five years since there was a case of electrocution in Peterborough, the victim at that time being Harry Parks, 61 Morrow street, who was killed on August 23, 1923.

Mr. Parks had reached up to an electric lamp in his cellar and made a contact which in the most mysterious way killed him. Doctors expressed surprise that 110 volts should prove fatal in view of the fact that Mr. Marks was considered to be perfectly healthy and robust.

On June 4, 1924, Henry Warren was electrocuted while working on an electric switch in the plant of the Deloro Refining and Smelting Company.

Many Lose Lives In Moriage Fire

MORIAGO, Italy, Feb. 28. — With thirty five persons known to have perished in the fire which destroyed the only moving picture theatre of this hamlet of northern Italy, there was still doubt last night whether others had not died. The little village, with so many of its residents, at least a score, burned, bruised or recovering from near-asphyxiation, was nursing its wounds while planning for the funerals to-day of the dead.

It was the familiar tragic story of a big wooden barn made over for the theatre, with only one exit crowded by a holiday throng, and with an inexperienced operator on duty in the projection room, where the blaze began. The structure kindled like shavings. Panic broke out in the audience and women and children were trampled under feet.

The village possessed inadequate fire-fighting apparatus, and help came too late from the nearest large centre, Treviso.

FIRE DAMAGES OLD DWELLING

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

Fire broke out in the old frame house at the corner of George and Sherbrooke street, this morning, and caused slight damage to the woodshed and the south side of the building. The house is occupied by Roy Wright, and is owned by Miss Hurley. It is one of the oldest houses in the city and is built entirely of lumber.

The dry lumber added fuel to the flames and in a few moments after the fire was discovered the flames were reaching out through the roof. Fire Chief Gimblett laid one line of hose from the hydrant at the corner and in a few moments the firemen had the flames quenched and nothing but steam was seen rising from the building.

Chief Gimblett was unable to say how the fire started as there is no stove in that part of the building. The house is situated about 60 yards in from the street and is immediately north of the Dustless sweeper factory. Many other small buildings are very close and but for the timely action of the brigade a bad fire might have developed.

Robins Reported Throughout City

Is this The Examiner robin? Early Monday morning Andrew Crebar of 91 Hunter Street East saw a robin perched high in the limb of a tree on Mark Street. The bird appeared to have winntered well and his joyful notes drew the attention of many passers-by.

Several other robins were reported as being heard singing in the north end on Sunday morning apparently not daunted by the 14 below zero weather.

TELLERS' SHORTAGE MAY REACH $100,000

Auditors Not Yet Prepared To State Exact Amounts Taken.

TORONTO, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—Officers checking up the defalcations of Norman Bray, bank teller, and George Laughlin, trust company teller, charged with theft respectively of $25,000 and $31,000, indicated today that the combined shortages of the two may be much higher than that figure. The accounts are so complicated, however, that the exact amounts stolen cannot be ascertained even yet, and there is said to be a possibility that the defalcations will amount to $100,000 in the end. Laughlin had declared he lost the money he stole through stock market speculations, while Bray blamed the race tracks.

MANY AVIATORS LOOK FOR PLANE

Three Naval Aviators Have Been Missing Since Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. Canadian Press. — Twenty three airplanes and two army blimps were ordered out to-day to search the lower Chesapeake Bay area, for three aviators of the Carrier Lexington, who have been missing since they took off from the Norfolk air station for Annapolis yesterday.

80 VILLAGES INUNDATED.

PEKING, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press.)—"China's sorrow," the Yellow river, is on the rampage again according to reports reaching the Chinese International Famine Relief Commission to-day. Eighty villages were inundated and twenty thousand persons are homeless. Despatches to Chinese newspapers said hundreds of persons were drowned but added no details.

TWO CONFESS TAKING PART TRAIN HOLD-UP

Several Held As Suspects in $133,000 Chicago Pay-roll Robbery.

PART OF LOOT RECOVERED.

Police Had Known of Robber's Plans Prior To Hold-up.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 28 (CP). — Two dozen men, two of them confessed participants, and six women last night were in Federal cstody as suspects in the $133,000 Grand Trunk mail train robbery last Saturday, and $17,125 of the loot had been recovered.

It developed yesterday that the police were in possession of the robbers' complete plan for three days prior to commission of the holdup and that a squad of riflemen wanted to shoot to kill immediately upon the descent on the train. A mixup of instructions, however, sent the policemen to the Evergreen Park station, five city blocks from the lonely St. Maria station, where the train was halted.

An elaborate system of telephone wire tapping, installed with a special switchboard in a downtown office a year ago by W. E. O'Connor, chief of detectives, revealed the entire plot to the police.

It enabled them also to raid the home of Charles ("Limpy") Cleaver, whom they identified as the leader and "brains" of the robber band, just after he had, in desperation, telephoned to other members of the band instructions to rush away to Cuban vacations.

The police said their wire-tapping system permitted them to hear a woman friend of Limpy upbraid him because he had not given her enough of the loot for the purchase of a fur coat and threaten to "squeal."

Suspects Released.

Yesterday also brought the release of five men and two women arrested Saturday when the catch netted fourteen men and six women, and the arrest of thirteen more men who were turned over to the Federal authorities.

Named with Cleaver as a leader of the robber band was William Donovan, also said to have confessed.

The arrests brought the partial solution of several other robberies, Joseph Fekete, president of the Fekete Mortgage Company, picked Cleaver and two others as the men who rifled forty safety deposit boxes and escaped with $20,000 cash from the bank.

Donovan, confessed author of the robbery plan, told in his confession how the robbery was planned in minute detail, using a cardboard train and a cardboard station to represent that at St. Maria's. Only the retreat had not been rehearsed. At that the robbery was done so quickly that the policemen in the ambuscade at the wrong station arrived at St. Maria's a full minute after the robbers' automobile had roared away, although they raced towards it immediately upon hearing the crash of the explosive as it wrecked the end of the mail car.

After long questioning of the prisoners turned over to him, K. P. Aldrich, chief of the postal inspectors in the Chicago district, stated that none had confessed to him.

Wants Dry Agency To Kill Off Enemies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. Canadian Press. — A man in Chicago has applied to the Prohibition Bureau for a job as a prohibition agent saying: "I have two or three men I would like to kill, and I would like to do it under government license."

MILLBROOK PUPILS DISPLAY ORATORY

Jean Bothwell and Bertha Lang Win First Place In Two Classes

MILLBROOK, Feb. 28.—The annual oratorical contest, in connection with the Continuation School, was held in the Assembly Room on Thursday evening, and as usual the event proved one of both interest and instruction.

Eddie Nattress, president of the M.C.S. literary society, acted as chairman, while H. R. Armstrong, representing the school board, announced the conditions governing the contest, and acted as timekeeper.

The uniform which the girls of the school have evidently adopted as particularly their own for public appearances, white middies with navy collars and cuffs, and dark skirts, gave them a most attractive appearance when the pupils lined up for the opening chorus, "Millbrook High School."

The chairman explained that the contest, which is internatoinal in its scope, is sponsored by the leading newspapers of the Dominion, in conjunction with a number of educational organizations; Ontario has been divided into districts, the winner in each school going to a larger centre, and the district winners to Toronto. The one topping the list in the final contest will be given a free trip to Europe, and the finish in connection with the entire competition takes place at Washington.

Last year the mistake was made of setting no time limit to the speeches and the result was, with seventeen contestants, that it was midnight before the event concluded. This year the juniors were allowed eight minutes but must speak five; the seniors might have ten minutes, but must speak seven.

Appropriately following the Confederation anniversary speeches of one year ago, the subject officially set for 1928 is "Canada's Future" though on Thursday evening this topic was not made compulsory.

Only eight of the pupils, five juniors and three seniors, undertook the oratorical contest this year, and while a decided nervousness is almost invariably a factor that intrudes itself when attempting a public address, it was evident that there had been a careful preparation of material in every case, and the speeches were marked by earnest-

Body of Brooks Is Still Missing

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—A turbulent sea last night apparently still clutched the body of Harry Brooks, who dived to his death off Melbourne, Fla., Saturday, while trying to make aviation history in a "flivver" plane.

Spurred to greater effort by discovery of the wreckage of his tiny craft where it had been tossed ashore by the waves, pilots of seaplane and motorboats and motorcycle police redoubled their search for the body of the daring Ford chief pilot. The battered fuselage gave little evidence as to whether the young flier had managed to free himself before he struck the water, but the safety strap was unbuckled. Ford officials said the strap was buckled when Brooks took off from Titusville, Fla., Saturday, bound for Miami, after his unsuccessful effort to make a non-stop flight from Detroit to Miami last week.

Accident to Prince Henry Revises Anxiety About Brother

MELTON MOWBRAY, England, February 28 (Associated Press). — Although Prince Henry, third son of the King, sustained only bad bruises in a fall while hunting with the Quorn Hounds yesterday, the accident revived the anxiety which has been periodically kindled for the safety of the King's sons, especially in the Prince of Wales as heir to the throne.

Prince Henry's horse, Near Hobby, fell when he put it to a hedge fence, and kicked the Prince in the left leg before he could disentangle himself. The Prince made light of the incident, and wanted to resume his ride, but he yielded to insistence and submitted to examination and treatment of his injuries. He then returned to Craven Lodge Club, where he spent the night.

The Prince of Wales visited his younger brother and assured himself that he was not seriously injured. He then hastened to join the chase on which he said he was "awfully keen." The Prince of Wales was not with the hunt at the time of the accident to his brother.

Henry is said in some quarters to be the best horseman of the Royal Family. He has experienced a number of falls. Edward, however, seems to surpass Henry in his zeal for hunting, and it is generally agreed that he has suffered more rough tumbles than any of his brothers.

This season has been marked by a number of accidents and at least two fatalities, but the Prince of Wales has not permitted these to interfere with his riding. Despite the popular concern for his safety, he has evidently determined, as he did during the war, to defeat any attempt to coddle him, or, as he terms it, to wrap him in cotton wool.

MILLBROOK WOMEN MEET FOR PRAYER

Many Take Part In Meeting Held in Grace Church

MILLBROOK, Feb. 28.—The World Day of Prayer was fittingly observed on Friday, when a joint gathering, representative of the Missionary Auxiliaries of the three local churches, met in Grace Church. Mrs. R. J. Doak, president of the Presbyterian W.M.S., occupying the chair, outlined in a three-minute talk the object of the Day of Prayer and the challenge to prayer because of the present world conditions.

Those taking part in the program were: Scripture reading, Mrs. J. R. Eakins; prayers for Canada, Mrs. P. C. Howard, Mrs. F. A. Kidd, Mrs. J. H. George, Mrs. F. H. Howard and Miss Estelle Hetherington; prayers for foreign lands, China, Mrs. John Riddell; Japan, Mrs. C. McNeil; India, Mrs. L. H. Rea; and Africa, Mrs. H. K. Grassett; for "The Moslem World and all other fields", Miss Kennedy and Mrs. Thomas Ingram.

Mrs. Allen gave a brief talk on the purpose of the Jerusalem International Missionary Conference.

This service is held in rotation in the three local churches, it being the turn of Saint Thomas' Church in 1929.

"Proper Food and Exercise"
By ARTHUR A. McGOVERN
Former Physical Director, Cornell Medical College

Overeating Often Causes Slimness

PERSONS who are thin or underweight may trace their troubles to a number of possible causes. But one case will serve to illustrate a quite common cause of the underweight evil.

The case was that of a business man nearly six feet tall who had never weighed more than 130 pounds. He was organically sound and in fair health, but tired easily and did not sleep well.

I found that he was taking approximately 6,000 calories of food a day. His diet was gradually reduced to 1,500 calories a day. He started to gain and his diet was increased to 3,000 calories daily. He had been overloading his digestive tract to the extent that he was getting just enough food to live on. His diet lightened, in six months he showed an increase of 30 pounds and a generally improved physical condition.

Overloading the digestive organs is a frequent cause of underweight. From my personal observation, the average person eats three or four times the amount of food that is actually required.

Diet to Gain Weight

BREAKFAST: Stewed fruit, unsweetened; dark cereal; cocoa, chocolate, milk or coffee substitute with a little sweetened condensed milk; dark bread toasted with plenty of butter. Between breakfast and lunch, one glass of water and one glass of milk. LUNCH: A thick cream soup; vegetable luncheon; dark bread; glass of milk; gelatin with whipped cream. Between lunch and dinner, two glasses of water and one glass of milk. DINNER: For dinner, broiled lean meat, chicken or fish; a green vegetable; baked potato with plenty of butter; gelatin salad; dark bread; cocoa or weak tea; for dessert stewed fruit or tapioca pudding. Between dinner and bedtime, one or two glasses of water.

DOURO GIRL WINS IN ESSAY CONTEST

Anna McMurray Wins Another Contest; Fourth In Two Years

DOURO, Reb. 28.—"Canada Sixty Years Ago and Now", was the subject in which Miss Anna McMurray won first place in a contest conducted by the Confederation Life Assurance Co. This is the fourth time in two years that Miss McMurray has won prize money in essay contests, making a record for a fourteen-year old girl. She will be remembered as the winner of the grand prize in the essay contest staged by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce competition two years ago. During the past summer she competed in a contest sponsored by the Women's Liberal Club of Toronto, which was open to all high and public school pupils in Ontario, and in this she won third place. In the other Toronto competition staged by the Women's Music Club, she won fourth place in a contest open to all public school pupils in Ontario.

Miss McMurray has never attended high school, but succeeded in obtaining her High School Entrance with honors at the age of twelve years, when she also won a Limerick contest given by The Examiner. Miss McMurray is a talented musical student and will undoubtedly have a brilliant future.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET IS HELD

Hastings United Church Gathering Addressed By Rev. J. E. Todd

HASTINGS, Feb. 28.—The fathers and sons of the United Church held their annual banquet recently, when ninety-five partook of the repast.

Dr. J. H. Hess was chairman, while Rev. J. E. Todd, pastor of George Street United Church, Peterborough, was the main speaker. He said it gave him a thrill to be able to address such a group in the church and for the grand purpose which it was held. "Wholesome, red-blooded living go hand in hand with religion," he quoted, "and our religion goes as does our life and cannot be shut up in one compartment. This sort of banquet bridges the gulf between youth and age and tears down the barriers which exist between youth and age, or sons and fathers. The barriers which exist between youth and age, or sons and fathers. The boys were instructed to always respect and honor age. Selfishness is one of the greatest faults found in men and boys", said Mr. Todd, citing as an illustration the recent war, which was for lust of power and fame. "Woe unto the man who becomes rich and famous through the weakness of his brother and fellowman, but blessed are the men of today who are seeking to enrich life, so that when they have passed to the Great Beyond we can say they are the builders of a true, honest, and righteous country". He said it is a great thing to have a saving sense of humor, and not a shallow, superficial shadow of life, not to take one's life too seriously, so that the

MADOC INSTITUTE CLASS CONCLUDES

MADOC, Feb. 28.—The Demonstration Lecture Course under the auspices of the Women's Institute of Madoc closed on Friday after one of the most interesting and popular classes ever held here.

The classes were held in the community hall over the new fire hall through the courtesy of the Reeve and Council to whom the hearty thanks of the members of the class and of the Women's Institute are tendered. The hall is bright, clean, commodious, well-heated, and very convenient, and all enjoyed the privilege of meeting there.

The class membership was 26, with an aggregate attendance of 201, giving an average attendance of 20 for the ten classes.

Miss Le Grand, of Toronto, was in charge, and her unfailing cheerfulness, her patience, and her ready skill did much to ensure a steady attendance and good work. Twenty-five hats were made, which would have made a brave show in any milliner's window. Twenty-eight last year's felt hats were re-blocked and re-trimmed, and innumerable suggestions given for future use. The Institute is the gainer by renewed enthusiasm, and by the addition of nine new members, and all are already looking forward to the course in dressmaking and sewing which has been applied for.

Thursday afternoon was parade day and each member came prepared to wear her new hat in parade, when these hats were inspected, criticized, and judged by Miss Le Grand, the good points noted and suggestions made.

The class took advantage of this occasion to present an address to Miss Le Grand, accompanied by the gift of a beautiful mirror of French ivory. The address was read by Mrs. E. West, vice-president, and the presentation made by Mrs. Nickle on behalf of the class, whose signatures were all recorded. Miss Le Grand replied in a few well chosen words expressing the pleasure she had experienced in conducting the class, and regret that the time to leave had come, and also expressing the hope that she might have the opportunity of conducting another class in Madoc at some future date.

FARM STOCK SALE

W. Dainard, Cavan, Sells Entire Farm Stock and Implements

CAVAN, Feb. 28.—On Thursday afternoon, February 23, W. Dainard, of the eleventh concession of Cavan, disposed of his entire stock and farm implements. Everything sold well, with J. Wilson of Port Hope as auctioneer. Mr. Dainard is moving to Oshawa.

GRANDMA SHOWED HOW TO STOP CHILD'S COUGH

Doctors at Hospital Praise Way She Broke Up Cold—Is Ideal Method For Home Use

No longer is it necessary to stand by helplessly when children suffer the hardships and danger of coughing spells. For numbers of Peterborough mothers have learned to give children both quick and lasting relief with a pleasant and dependable remedy now endorsed for home use by the hospital.

Mrs. Edith Cummings, for example, became frightened when her seven year old granddaughter, Betty, coughed so hard Sunday night it seemed she would strangle. Her little bronchial tubes were rapidly filling up with congestion and pneumonia was feared.

As soon as daylight came she called her family doctor who phoned the druggist to send up a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the most dependable. Little Betty liked the taste and just a pleasant swallow or two relieved the hard coughing spells. She continued taking it as the doctor ordered and in a day or so was out frolicking—as well as ever.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It goes straight to the seat of a stubborn head cold or chest cold. Absorbed through and through the whole system, it quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and bronchial tubes.

Even sick children love the flavor—and mothers who have once tried Cherry Pectoral have been delighted to find that it keeps the whole family free from colds and coughs all winter. If used according to the hospital directions in each carton.

Sir Austin Chamberlain Says Film "Dawn" Outrage On Nurse's Memory

LONDON, February 28 (Associated Press). — Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, who has been severely criticized in some quarters for his action in connection with the film "Dawn," depicting the life and execution by the Germans in Belgium of the English nurse, Edith Cavell, declared himself in the House of Commons yesterday as quite unrepentant, and ready to take the same course again. Sir Austen made a full disclosure of the motive which animated him in his efforts to prevent the exhibition of the film.

The Foreign Secretary frankly declared that as an English gentleman, meaning not in his official capacity, he considered the film an outrage on humanity. Repeating details of the particular scene of the execution as it had been described to him—one soldier refusing to point his rifle, and being himself shot down, the other members of the firing squad levelling their rifles at her head, the nurse falling in a faint and being despatched by a German officer—he deemed it to be wholly improper. He felt it was an outrage on a noble woman's memory to turn to purposes of commercial profit so heroic a story.

Replying to a hot fire of questions intended to reproach him for judging without seeing the film, he scornfully declared he had no intention of seeing it.

The Foreign Secretary further remarked that the account given to him of the firm version of Miss Cavell's death "appeared to be inherently incredible, and certainly on my information it is incorrect."

Teeth are whiter STILL . .
they are only as Healthy as the Gums

YOU may be in danger of the disease of neglect (Pyorrhea) even though your mirror reveals teeth of flashing whiteness.

Dread Pyorrhea, ignoring the teeth and attacking the gums, swoops down on the unwary. And as a penalty for neglect, 4 out of 5 after forty, and thousands younger, surrender precious health to this foe.

Take this precaution: See your dentist twice each year. And morning and night, every day, use Forhan's. It keeps teeth clean, and restores them to their natural whiteness without the use of harsh abrasives. Also it helps keep gums firm and healthy—the best protection against the attack of dread Pyorrhea.

Forhan's for the Gums is designed for the job. Get into the good habit of using this dentifrice morning and night. And massage your gums daily with Forhan's, following directions in booklet that comes with tube. In tubes, 35c and 60c.

Cuticura
Soap and Ointment
Announce their Golden Anniversary

FOR 50 years the name Cuticura has stood for all that is best in Toilet Preparations for cleansing, purifying and beautifying the Skin, Scalp and Hair.

First manufactured and distributed in the United States, they are now known and used throughout the world, ever-growing demand necessitating the establishment of additional laboratories for their manufacture in Canada, England and Australia.

Originated in 1878, the Cuticura Preparations have been able, through their wonderfully effective super-creamy emollient qualities, to meet the constantly changing demands of successive generations, and are today held in highest esteem for all the needs of the daintiest of modern toilets.

The Cuticura Preparations consist of:

Cuticura Soap — Cuticura Ointment
Cuticura Talcum — Cuticura Shaving Stick

Each is a highly developed product, with the Medicinal, soothing and healing properties of Cuticura so delicately and delightfully blended that they are unique in Toilet Requisites.

SEARCHERS COMB BEACH FOR BODY

Seat Cushions and Thermos Bottle From Brooks' Plane Found.

SEBASTIAN, Fla, Feb. 28. Canadian Press. — Searching parties today thrust their paths through the matted palmetto and saw grass which thrives on a desolate stretch of the coast in quest of the body of Harry Brooks who plunged with his little one seater monoplane into the ocean late on Saturday. Seat cushions and a Thermos bottle, washed up on the beach last night, near where the plane was found, were definitely identified as having belonged to the missing pilot.

HE SEES WINGS.

(By Jeanette.)

He was a little boy, not more than seven years of age. He was watching along with his brother and another small lad, the picture of "Wings" at the Saturday afternoon matinee at the Opera House. Half of the time he was on his feet, that is, in the air scenes. The sentimental episodes left him cold. He sat quietly through them, evincing little interest. "There's the girl," was his only comment when the lady appeared. And he clung steadfastly to the belief that David and Jack were brothers. That's why they were such pals, in his opinion.

He knew instantly what would come later on. "Watch the girl," he said. "She's going to climb under the car." She did. "Now they'll hit the car." They did, with one of their bombs.

The Germans were "bad guys" and the two heroes of the picture were "good guys." They were also Canadians, instead of Americans, as the producers intended. "Watch the Canadians win," he said, every time that the camera depicted a triumphant advance.

"There's one of the good guys in the wee, white car," he announced, triumphantly. "He's going to get the bad guy's balloon. Watch him get it—oh, lady, lady!" (as the flames consumed the big gas bag). He read the sub-titles rapidly. "Weeks pass." His brother: "What passed?" Little boy (impatiently): "Any weeks." They all subside, to brighten up again when the planes "strafe" the German trenches.

"Oh, boy, look at 'em run! Look at the good guys smash the bad guys. Hurray!" (as the tanks rumble over an energetic machine gun nest). "They're all Canadians in that tank. It goes that way because they're all drunk inside. Look at the rest of the Canadians coming along behind the tank so they won't get killed."

Later: "Gee, he killed his brother. Look at him yellin' at the good guy and he can't hear. Gosh, he killed him. Look at the lady cryin'. That's their mother. She liked the dead one best." They quiet down. The killing is all finished and the "good guy" is dead. As far as they are concerned, the picture is over.

TRUTH.

"For it is appointed unto men once to die, after this the judgment," Heb. 9, 27. Acts 17, 31: "Because he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained giving assurance unto all men that he hath raised Him from the dead." 1st Peter 4, 5: "Who shall give account to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead." 2nd Timothy 4, 1: "I charge thee therefore before God and the Lord Jesus Christ who shall judge the quick and dead at his appearing and his kingdom." Now we read, 1st Cor. 15, 38: "God giveth it a body as it pleaseth him. Bodies terrestrial and bodies celestial. The glory of the celestial is one and the glory of the terrestrial is another. Verse 44: There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body. The Scriptures clearly prove there is a natural body corruptable, to be raised incorruptable. Verse 42: And a natural body to be raised a spiritual body, showing very clearly two kinds of resurrection, and the Scriptures say: Blessed is he that hath part in the first resurrection, and the Scriptures say again: All that are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth. Jesus went into the grave but we have no Scripture that tells of two apartments, death and God raised Him from the dead. Being the first fruits of the spiritual of them that slept (in sheol) grave or hell but not in Gehenna.

Now if we read the Scriptures correctly it says Christ died for the ungodly, i.e., all are included for all have sinned. We would understand from Scripture, that the death of our Lord was to redeem mankind. He paid a ransom for all to restore all that was lost, all the seed of Adam, that in the resurrection he will be the everlasting Father, or life giver of all that were lost, not changing the human nature but simply from corruptable to incorruptable, 1st Cor. 15, 54, which will be everlasting, if obedient under the new covenant, sealed with his precious blood, and whosoever will not hear that prophet shall be cut off from among the people, Acts 3, 23, which covenant he has promised to put in their minds and write it in their hearts, and all shall know Him from the least to the greatest, but the wilfully wicked will God destroy, i.e., during the judgment day when the saints shall reign with Christ a thousand years, judging the world in righteousness; for God willeth not the death of one sinner, John 3, 16, for God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life, in Paradise that Adam lost where the lion and the lamb shall feed together and the cow and the bear and the child shall play on the hole of the asp and put his hand on the cokatrice den they shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy kingdom. Paradise being restored, earth is God's footstool made glorious.

FUNERAL SERVICE CONVENTION HERE

Ontario Association Will Meet in City For First Time.

The annual convention of the Ontario Funeral Service Association will be held in Peterborough, August 7, 8 and 9, with an attendance of between 250 and 300 members. This is the first time the association has turned east of Toronto, and in extending the invitation to come to Peterborough, J. Comstock felt confident that this city afforded all the necessary accommodation. The choice lay between Peterborough and Ottawa, but Mr. Comstock's persuasiveness prevailed.

Although the convention is scheduled for only three days, allied activities of the association will likely continue for a full week, probably from the 4th to the 10th of August. The sessions will be held in the Canadian Legion Hall, according to the contemplated arrangements, and the armouries will be secured for display purposes. The local committee is composed of Messrs. John Comstock, W. T. Belleghem, Gerald McFadden, and Thomas Lane. Since the association decided several years ago not to confine their conventions to Toronto, the members have held their meetings in London and Hamilton. This year many of them will visit Peterborough for the first time.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

FIVE PERSONS BURNED.

Mother and Four Children Lose Lives in Quebec Village.

QUEBEC, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—A mother and four of her children were burned to death and another child is now lying in hospital in a critical condition, as a result of a fire which destroyed the home of Mrs. Raoul Garneau, 35, at Grospin, a small village near here today. Six other children were saved. The ages of the four children burned were given as one, two, three, and four. The mother perished only after making a heroic effort to save the younger ones, and all perished together.

Blanche, 15, managed to escape from the burning building and succeeded in rescuing five little sisters and brothers. Marguerite, 12, was severely burned, and rushed to the hospital. The father, Raoul Garneau is away at Rouyn. The origin of the fire was unknown.

"200 Years of Excellence 1728 - 1928"

WHEN the grave young scientist, Dr. Joseph Fry, was introducing his famous beverage in 1728, he found his best advocates were the quality, flavour and absolute purity of his Cocoa. Such, indeed, remain its best arguments today.

Fry's

Purity Always First

For 200 years no demand, however great, has ever been allowed to cheapen or to hasten in the least degree the processes by which this famous Cocoa is made. It means something to know that 200 years of experience and adherence to century-old ideals of purity and care, are represented in that tin of FRY'S which you will buy today.

Yes! It's a Whippet Coach

Our choice, difficult though it was, finally centered on the beautiful, easy riding, fleet Whippet Coach. It's wonderful economy of gas, mileage record, speed, easy riding, low repair record and beauty of model, gave it a slight edge on the other cars reported on by our three investigators, and we made our decision accordingly. The price was not a factor in making this decision, as all agents for automobiles of this type were requested to send in their tenders to Mr. E. J. H. Vanstone, Manager of Bank of Toronto, and said tenders to be handed over to E. F. Mason, only after the Bank Manager had seen the car named in The Examiner.

Now, it's up to our customers to work out really practical answers to our questionnaire, and give us some workable suggestions that will show us ways of making our places of business more acceptable to the public, an object that has always been our chief aim.

JUVENILE CASES.

The annual report of Chief Constable Samuel Newhall does not indicate much need for the appointment of a juvenile magistrate in Peterborough.

Chief Newhall reports that altogether during 1927 only twenty-three juvenile cases were heard here, a total that is evidence that under present conditions the available court machinery is able to take care of these cases without trouble.

Juvenile courts with a magistrate specially appointed for such work are no doubt needed in large centres where there is necessarily a much larger amount of juvenile delinquency and where the other courts have all the business they can attend to, but in communities of this size there does not appear to be the slightest justification for advocating a special court for juvenile cases.

Such cases are, of course, heard in camera and the same effort is made by Magistrate Langley to put young offenders on the path that leads to good citizenship as would be made by a special Juvenile Court.

That only twenty-three juvenile cases were heard during the year is a showing that throws a very favorable light upon general conditions in this city.

MR. HENRY'S CAMPAIGN.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways for Ontario, said something the other day about "getting after" the reckless drivers on Ontario's highways.

The statement would create a greater stir if Mr. Henry had not made other promises that were not followed by any striking display of activity along the line indicated.

There is room for improvement in spite of the safety first campaigns and other efforts to bring about safer driving conditions.

Last year 422 people in Ontario lost their lives in automobile accidents as compared with 298 in 1926.

The resaon why there were 124 more fatalities last year than in the previous twelve months should give Mr. Henry something over which to ponder and perhaps afford him a good starting point for the campaign against reckness and careless driving he has promised to carry out.

And if he is looking for any suggestions may we just point out that the system of licensing drivers gives him a real weapon if he wants to use it.

Cancel the license of all drivers found guilty of recklessness and a long step will have been taken toward the desired goal of safer highways.

WHY IS THIS?

Looking at the immigration question without political bias it must be admitted that there are few questions of more importance to this country and fewer still that present more difficulties.

The Government is deluged with advice but unfortunately the suggestions are so contradictory in nature that they add to rather than diminish the obstacles in the way of a successful solution.

"What Canada needs is more people", one section of the press declares. "Bring in only farmers and farm laborers", says another, "there is no work in the urban centres to absorb more industrial workers."

So wages the controversy and The Examiner has no desire to increase the difficulties of the Government in this respect.

At the same time one feature in connection with immigration is puzzling to us.

While British immigrants into this country last year were fewer than the number of foreign born newcomers the immigration into Australia continues to be practically all British and in the past six or seven years the Commonwealth has received considerably more Britishers than come to Canada.

And it must be remembered that these settlers remain in Australia while unfortunately many of the immigrants who come to us merely use Canada as a jumping off place into the United States, either legally through the quota system or by the underground route.

This is an aspect of the question that should give considerable concern to the Government.

No satisfactory answer has yet been given why Australia, much father away from the mother country, is able to attract and keep more Britishers than we can induce to come to Canada.

CLASS FEELING.

It is unfortunate that class feeling has been stirred up in the mining area on the eve of the investigation into the Hollinger disaster.

One Big Union officials who seek to convince the miners that their comrades were "murdered" are not following a course that will help their cause.

Public opinion demands a wide-open inquiry, of course, and nothing less than that will satisfy the people of Ontario, but such agitation as is reported from Timmins will be deprecated by most citizens.

What the inquiry will show remains to be seen, but at any rate it is fairly obvious that the possibility of such a tragedy does not not seem to have ever crossed the minds of anybody interested in the mining industry.

The officials, as well as the miners, apparently accepted the view that a fire could not possibly happen in a gold mine.

O.B.U. leaders who now seek to represent the company as "murderers" should ask themselves the question as to whether they themselves at any time have advocated changed conditions in the mines that would have made such a tragedy impossible or to impress upon the miners themselves the need of care.

They will probably admit, if they are truthful, that no thought of a fire of this nature occurred to them and that therefore they took no steps to see that the company provided better protection for its employees, something that they, as heads of the union, should have been interested in as vital to the interests of their members.

Again there is undoubtedly much truth in the view of the Monetary Times which, pointing out that in a mine like the Hollinger, with one hundred miles of underground workings, it was an easy matter for a lazy or careless man to stow away waste material in some obscure cranny rather than carry it to the shaft where it could be disposed, adds: "The readiness to take a chance which is characteristic of many people and the fact that the north country had been free of tragedies of this nature possibly led to carelessness on the part of some while others acted through ignorance. No doubt many of those who were employed at the Hollinger and other mines in that section have learned a lesson which they will never forget, but there will be others, especially newcomers, who must have it impressed on them that their own life may depend on the care they exercise in such matters. By pictures, lectures and constant education the mine worker can be brought to the point where he regards fire prevention as necessary to his own existence. Laws and regulation are necessary, but in big mines with so many drifts, crosscuts and stopes, many of them fallen into disuse and abandoned, these regulations must be backed up by the sentiment of those actually working there day after day if accumulations of inflammable waste are to be prevented. One forceful lesson has been taught at great cost. It is to be hoped that no other will be required. As President Noah Timmins said, "It was all so unnecessary."

THE EXPORT OF ELECTRICITY BILL.

When the bill of H. A. Stewart, the member for Leeds, to regulate the exportation of electric power received second reading in the House on Tuesday, the Minister of the Interior, the Hon. Charles Stewart, made it perfectly plain that the Government had no objection whatever to make to its provisions and that, in fact, it was of the opinion that the export of power should be prohibited. There is thus every prospect that Mr. Stewart's bill will pass the Railways Committee, to which it has been referred, and that ultimately it will be adopted by the House and be incorporated in the statutes of the country.

The purpose of Mr. Stewart's bill is not, however, wholly to prohibit the export of power. Hitherto, under the existing statute, it has been permissible for the Governor-in-Council to grant a license for the exportation of power after application to that effect has been made; that right, under the terms of Mr. Stewart's bill, will pass to Parliament and the consent of the House will be ed before any transfer of power from Canada to the United States or elsewhere is permitted. To provide for a provision of power in case of emergencies, the mover of the bill has indicated his readiness to insert a clause overcoming this difficulty, and there is the further provision that the bill shall not be interpreted as affecting in any way the rights exercised by the Provinces.

The Premiers of both Quebec and Ontario, the two Provinces most chiefly concerned in the development of hydro-electric power, have already indicated in no uncertain manner that they are opposed to any further exportation of electric power. It is a well-known fact that some of the energy developed at Cedar Rapids, in the Province of Quebec, now goes to Massena, N. Y., to assist in the operation of the aluminum works at that point, and that a block of power developed on the Canadian side of Niagara Falls is transmitted to the neighboring industrial centres of the United States. The legislation which is in prospect does not interfere with these established diversions of Canadian power, but it does lay down as a principle to be followed that no further exports of power shall be permitted without the approval of Parliament, rather than merely the approval of the Government which happens to be in office. It thus acts as a further safeguard upon the disposal of Canada's power resources and guarantees full examination of every application for the export of electrical energy which may be made.

The intimation of the Hon. Mr. Stewart, speaking for the Government, that the latter is opposed to any further exportation of power is of much importance in view of the fact that at the moment more than one proposal for the private development of hydro-electric power upon the St. Lawrence is before the country, and in view of the further proposal in some quarters that part of the cost of developing the international section of the same river should be met by marketing a portion of the power so developed in the adjoining States. It is clear that, whatever the attitude which it may assume towards these proposals, the Government will not tolerate any export of the power derived from such developments, and will insist upon all of that power being retained for the use of Canadian consumers. In this it follows the expressions of opinion which have been made by both Premier Taschereau and Premier Ferguson. The former, in particular, has been outspoken in declaring that all of the power hereafter developed within the Province of Quebec shall be kept for the use of the people of that Province or of other Canadian Provinces, and not be permitted to contribute to the expansion of industries situated in a foreign land. As a result of the adoption of such a policy by Mr. Taschereau, marked progress has been made in the matter of establishing industry in the neighborhood of newly-opened water-powers in Quebec, with corresponding benefit to the wage-earners and all other classes in the Province. Application of a similar policy to the power which, eventually if not immediately, will be developed on the St. Lawrence is most desirable if the full benefit of that development is to be received by this country.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Ontario Budget will be brought down on Thursday. If it doesn't show any reduction in taxation, let us hope few increases are proposed.

The movement to make Ontario safe for chicken-raisers will have plenty of support in all parts of the province. The motor car has developed chicken-stealing into a major industry.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—With cattle receipts of 2,369 head, the opening session of the week at the Union Stock Yards was slow, the tendency on the part of the buyers being to seek lower prices. A few butcher cows during the early trading sold at fairly steady prices up to $3.25 a hundred.

There was a weaker feeling in the calf trade, they being 50c a hundred lower at prices from $14.50 to $15.50 for choice, with an odd fancy one at $16.

There were 204 sheep and lambs received for yesterday's trading. The lambs sold at steady prices of $14.50 to $14.75 for good ewes and wethers. Sheep brought from $3 to $7 a hundred.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 28 (Canadian Press). — The demand from local and foreign buyers for grain here yesterday was quiet, the only inquiry being for odd cars of oats for all-rail shipment from Fort William. Spot prices were rm.

The trade in spring and winter wheat grades of flour was moderately active, and the undertone was steady.

The millfeed market was active and firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats continued inactive and prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in fresh eggs and values were firm. In the storage section prices for seconds were advanced three cents per dozen, which was attributed to the good demand and the small supplies available. The receipts were 551 cases.

The demand for Quebec potatoes continued good and prices ruled firm.

A feature of the butter trade was the stronger feeling that developed, and prices scored another advance of ½c per pound . This was attributed to the small offerings by holders and the stronger cable advices. The receipts were 443 packages.

Extreme dullness again marked the local and export trade in cheese, but the undertone was firm. The receipts were 117 boxes.

The bean market report was not available last night.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 28 (Canadian Press). — Corn took to the lead yesterday in a general advance of grain values. An unexpected decline of the corn visible supply was largely responsible, and so too were assertions that coming unofficial estimates of farm reserves both of corn and wheat would prove bullish.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1⅝c to 2⅛c net higher, with wheat ⅝c to 1⅜c up, oats showing ⅝c to ⅞c advance ,and provisions at a rise of 17 to 27 cents.

Corn visible supply figures indicated 520,000 bus. falling off in the last week, and left the total at only 37,936,000 bushels compared with 45,103,000 bushels a year ago. In addition, milder weather yesterday over the corn belt promised to curtain a further general movement of corn to market. Meanwhile, country offerings of corn to arrive were almost nil, and a leading corn industry advanced prices 15 cents a hundredweight on bulk products, bringing the level up 50 cents above that of 1927.

On the other hand, arrival of 910 cars of corn in Chicago yesterday gave a temporary downward trend to the corn market in the earlier dealings. Under such circumstances, the prices rose rapidly toward the last, and the finish was at about the day's top level.

Wheat values were lifted chiefly on bullish forecasts of March unofficial estimates of farm reserves. The advance was also helped by good domestic milling demand, together with persistent reports of wheat crop damage in the central west.

Oats displayed more independent strength than for some time past. Cash oats were in exceptionally good request.

Provisions were firmer, sympathizing with hog values.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

Being confined in the Nichols Hospital suffering with a sore foot for the past five weeks would like to say we have been visited weekly by two Salvation ladies distributing War Crys and offering cheering words to the sick and mained. But Mr. Editor, when I see them kneel on the hard paved floor and offer prayer it certainly moves one to say: God bless these comrades.

A Thought

OPPOSITE THE GATE.

A great deal of buried treasure lies in the commonest words of our English language. The word, "opportunity", for instance, contains an idea of great beauty and significance.

It is derived, as every tyro knows, from the two Latin words, op and portus, meaning literally "over against the gateway." The picture is this: A great ship was sailing along to make the land. Just around a projecting point lies the safe, quiet harbor.

The channel leading to it is small and can be reversed with difficulty but at the right point the ship is turned and carefully guided by skilful hands makes the port in safety. It knew when it was opposite the port. It knew when to turn and take advantage of its position. It seized its opportunity—Lucy Rider Meyer.

ACTRESS IS ILL.

GOD'S MINUTE

As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten; be zealous therefore, and repent. Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with Me. To him that overcometh, will I grant to sit with Me in My throne, even as I also overcame and am set down with My Father in His throne.—Rev. 3:19,20,21.

O Lord, Thou art ever knocking at the door of our souls, seeking entrance into our lives. Help us to recognize Thy knockings, and to open to Thine entrance.

We would have our hearts open to Thee at all times—in sunshine or in shadow, in joy or in sorrow. Whether Thou comest in the time of the singing of birds, or in winter's chilling blasts, may we receive Thee joyfully.

Show us that we need Thee more than anything that Thou mayest give us, and that Thou, Thyself, art more than all Thy gifts. So, when Thou knockest, Lord, may we open to Thee, and receive Thee as an abiding guest. Amen.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.
2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.
3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.
4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.
5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.
6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.
7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.
8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.
9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.
10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.
11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.
12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

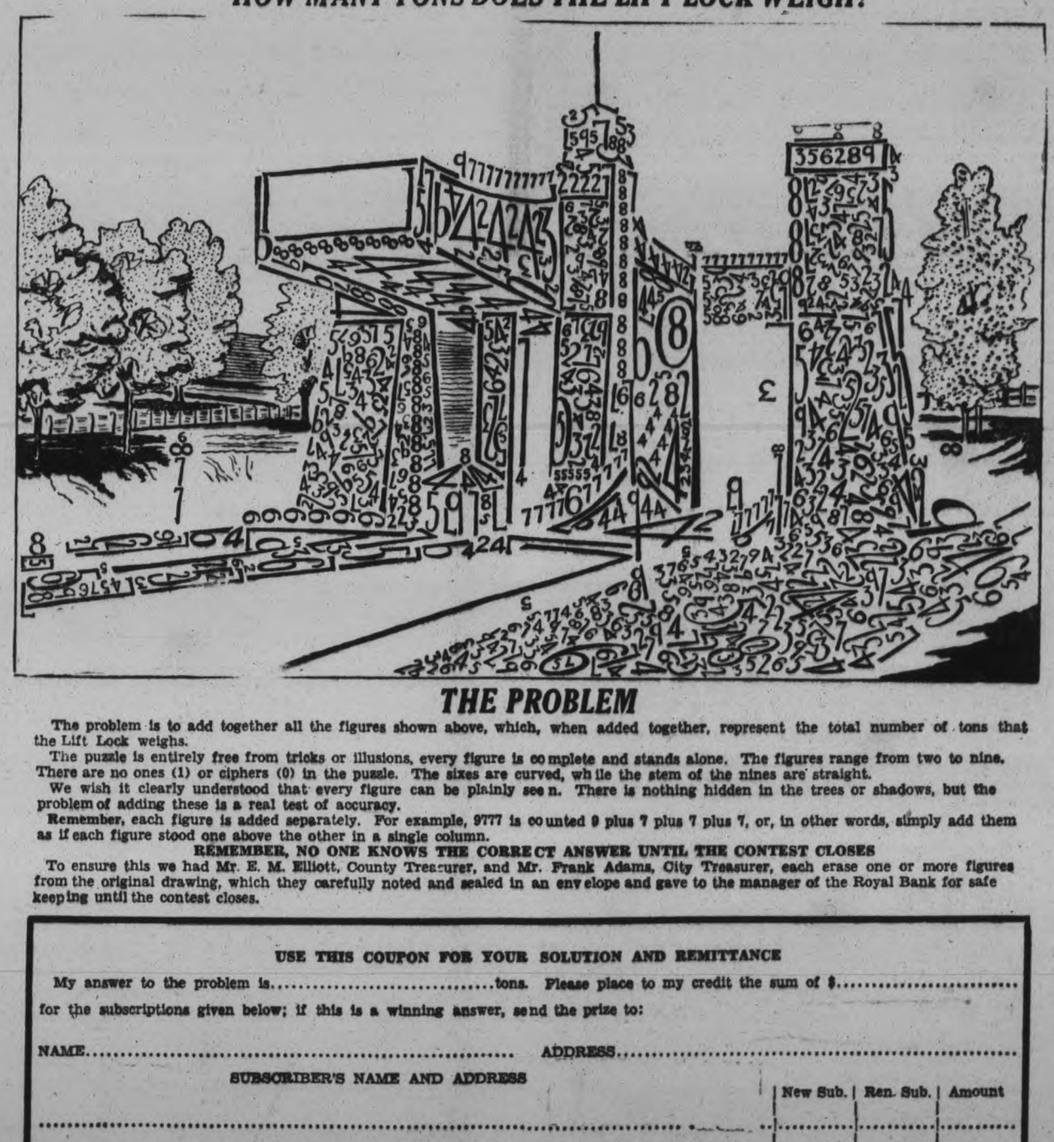
HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.
2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.
3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.
4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 28. — It is needless to comment on the much improved market conditions which were quite apparent in prices this morning. Kirkland Lake Gold was the feature opening up 10c per share over yesterday's close and selling as high as $1.90 per share but later reacting to around $1.80. This move is apparently result of reports of good widths of comparatively high grade ore located on the 2725-ft. level, the lowest level of the Kirkland Lake Gold at the present time As underground exploration and development proceeds on this level further favorable reports seem anticipated and it would not be surprising to see higher prices for this stock.

The next stock to show action was that of Wright-Hargreaves, which jumped quickly to as high as $4.90 per share. This is apparently in anticipation of results of the Wright-Hargreaves annual meeting to be held shortly.

Amulet also showed a very appreciable rise to as high as $3.75 per share seemingly on newspaper reports that the annual meeting of Amulet to be held at the end of March or sometime in April, the statement will be given regarding ore reserves which is expected to be at least $15.000,000 and probably much more. Abana remains firm while the rest of the market showed better strength than for some time.

The general market outlook certainly appears much brighter than it has been for many week and it also looks as though this is a real buying market, and quite possibly that the market is commencing the long expected upward swing.

Answer: Because the strain of the study-period and playground uses up energy, and emulsified cod-liver oil not only provides energy but also protects with its vitamins.

New York Market Is Unsettled To-day

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—Uncertain price movements characterized today's dull stock market. Standard industrials and rails moved within a rather narrow range while bullish demonstrations in a selected assortment of tobaccos, 'ls, and public utilities were offset by the weakness of a few specialties.

There was little in the day's business new to influence the price movement, other than an extension of recent gasoline price advances which found reflection in better demand for some of the oil shares. Call money was slightly firmer on the approach of the month end although there appeared to be a plentiful supply of funds available at the renewal rate of 4½ per cent. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans during the morning.

Nickel Recovers In Quiet Market

TORONTO, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—International Nickel made a good recovery in active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, touching 80¼ during the session and closing at noon at 79¾ for a net gain from yesterday of two full points. Elsewhere the list was quiet, with trading fairly light and price movements indefinite. Seagram eased a point at 22 and Page Hersey the same amount at 91, but Hiram Walker's improved fractionally and Brompton was quietly maked up two points at 58. British American Oil eased very slightly at 34⅞. Dominion Stores recorded a gain of 1½ at 115½.

Kirkland Lake Shares Feature Firm Session

TORONTO, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—The strength and activity of Kirkland Lake, on reports from the mine, and consequent firmness of the associated issues, was a bright feature of this morning's active session. The whole list was firm, though occasional losses were shown. Kirkland Lake Gold advanced another 22 cents at 187, Lake Shore firmed 25 at 21.85, Teck Hughes improved 20 at 8.50, and Wright Hargreaves sold 30 higher at 4.90.

Corn Prices Go Up But Wheat Weakens

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—Corn prices averaged higher early today and wheat lower. Prospects of unsettled conditions likely to hinder the corn crop movement gave relative strength to the corn market, whereas unresponsive cables tended to weaken wheat. Starting ⅜ to ½c off to ⅛c up, corn afterward scored moderate gains all around. Wheat opened unchanged to ½c lower, rallied a little, and then underwent a general sag. Oats were firm. Provisions inclined downward. Opening prices were: Wheat, March 133¼, May 134¾. Corn, March 94¾, May 98⅞. Oats, March 55⅝, May 55¾.

CAMPBELLFORD OUT OF RUNNING

OVERTIME NEEDED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 28. —Women, race horses and elections are usually considered the three most uncertain things in the world, but to these may also be added hockey enthusiasm. It was necessary that one hundred and twenty passengers journey to Tweed by the special train if it were to prove a paying proposition. At noon yesterday, scarcely forty tickets had been sold. When the train left at five fifteen yesterday afternoon there were one hundred and sixty-one passengers on board. When the special arrived in Tweed, the passenger list had grown to four hundred and twenty-seven. The five coaches were crowded to the roof with cheering, shouting fans, all out after victory for the visiting team. The train rolled on to the siding at Tweed with the bell ringing and the fans cheering hoarsely. Hardly had the train stopped when there was a mad rush for the arena. Nor was this out of order. Half an hour later even standing room could not be obtained at any price.

And in spite of all the support and hopes of the fans, Campbellford lost by one goal in a game which went ten minutes overtime and was the fastest yet played in the league this year. There were only sixty shots on both goals and of these three were counters, two for Tweed and one for Campbellford. Fourteen minor penalties were equally divided between the teams and although most of these were for tripping, an occasional one resulted from improper use of the hips when the boards were too near and the referee's eye too wide open. Max Geraldi got the first goal of the game when he scored for Tweed six minutes after the second period started. Ibey evened the score six minutes after the beginning of the third period, and Houston scored the winning goal for Tweed in the overtime period.

Just as the fans were thinking they had seen the best game of the season and there was only one minute to go, Cowell and A. Geraldi were sent to the penalty box for becoming overly zealous where each other was concerned and that ignited the dynamite. There was a swift, fierce exchange of blows, the two players were down on the ice and their team mates were tearing at them to get them separated. Spectators began to flock on to the ice and a mob scene threatened as side issues came to blows among some of the fans. Running hither and yon among the burly fighters was a comparatively small policeman waving his "billie" without doing much harm to anyone. Eventually peace of a sort was arranged and the last minute of the game was played without any appreciable interest. Beginning with three men on each side, it was slow work for a few seconds till two more players came on. The game ended with four men playing on each team.

After the game a crowd hung around the entrance to the arena and there was every indication of a free-for-all when the players emerged, but if such was the intention, it was never put into action. The Campbellford players returned to their train unmolested.

Ten minutes after three this morning saw a tired but none the less enthusiastic crowd detrain here. The last hope of being in for the play-off was banished by the game last night. Blood stains on the ice at Tweed show the intensity of the struggle, but it was the game of the season and not one disappointed person was known to be on board the special on the return trip.

First Period

The referee found it necessary to keep his eye on every little play right from the beginning. There were a few scattered offsides and one or two kicks, but the first penalty was meted out to Ray Quinn for tripping Ingram. While he was off, Fox was called on to make two miraculous saves. Just as Quinn returned to the ice, Tweed lost a wonderful opportunity to score on a loose puck close in front of the Campbellford goal.

Tweed began using subs at every opportunity arising out of offsides or kicks. Reynolds for Campbellford also got a show in this period and did very good work. Ibey drew the next penalty for using his body against the boards. Fox kept his head and saved the day when there was a scramble in front of the Campbellford goal. Ibey got back on again and there was a mob scene in front of the Twedd net, but no score. A slow shot on a loose puck was easily stopped. F. Geraldi drew a penalty for a trip, and a little later Ingram was penalized for bodying a player into the boards. Fox saved the day when all seemed lost and won cheers from both sides. F. Geraldi took the puck and scored, but he was offside and shot after the bell rang. Hence the period ended without a count for either side.

Second Period

From the beginning, the referee had his hands full checking up on kicks by both sides. Ibey and Ingram got well under way and saved the situation on more than one occasion. Ingram made some beautiful solo rushes as did also McArthur, his defense partner, but neither were successful in making a count. Ingram was trying hard for a tally, Cowell was checking hard and taking a few long shots. The Campbellford forward line was sure of their checking and the defense seemed impregnable. The game kept up at a furious pace. Houston got sent off for a trip and Cowell for using his hip. Houston went back on with a rush and Ingram went off for bodying. With only four men on for Campbellford, the Tweed rooters began yelling for goals, but ther ywere not forthcoming. The visitors managed to hold their own during the precious seconds till their men returned and then tried had to even the score. But it was a fruitless effort and the second period ended with only one goal being scored, and that for the home team.

Third Period

When the players took the ice for what should have been the final issue, the crowd went wild. Advice from all sides was hurled down at the players. Max Geraldi broke some of his equipment and time had to be deducted for repairs. Campbellford forced the first part of the play and there was a scrimmage in Twedd goal when Cowell followed in for a rebound. Max Geraldi got a rest for bodying into the boards and Ibey was going like lightning. With only six minutes of the period gone, Ibey scored the tie goal on a pass from Ingram. The fans yelled their heads off, but the period ended without the tie being broken and overtime was necessary. To get anywhere in the league, one team must win.

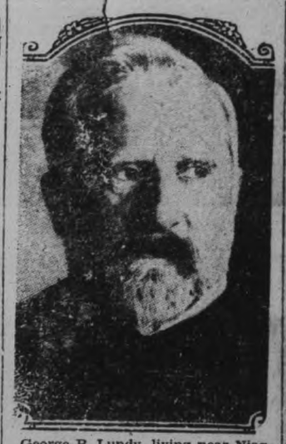
Overtime.

In the overtime period Tweed got four shots at the Campbellford nets, and the visitors got three at the Tweed goal. The referee's bell ended a scrimmage in front of the Campbellford net and Houston scored on the face off which was directly in front of the goal. Penalties began to become more frequent occurrences and finally when Cowell and A. Geraldi were being sent off for mixing it between themselves, sudden and desperate blows were exchanged, and in the flash of a moment both players were down on the ice with their teammates and officials of the league striving to separate them.

The fight soon assumed more generous proportions and for a minute or two threatened to end the game, but eventualy order was restored, and the one minute left to play was begun with three men on each side Soon it was all over and Tweed had wrested the victory from the visiting team by one hard earned goal. All that remained was the mute evidence furnished by the blood stains on the ice on the immediate scene of the battle.

After the game there was a small mob waiting around the front of the rink and later at the corner of the street nearby, but the Campbellford

IN CLUBHOUSE DEAL



George B. Lundy, living near Niagara Falls, Ont., whose name is linked up with a project by which a $20,000,000 millionaire's sanctuary is to be established between the Welland and the Niagara Rivers. Mr. Lundy has bought the Hawkes property, comprising over 118 acres. THE CANADIAN LEGION WANTS 1000 MEMBERS

The most exclusive organization in Canada with its high ideals and worthy objectives invites into membership all those who have served the Empire in war and now wish to serve it in peace. Read the aims and objects—are they worth-while?

If you are privileged to join the Legion, do it now while this campaign is in progress, and help along the good work. You returned soldiers can make the Legion what you will—you can build up a strong, friendly force for good throughout the Dominion.

DoYouKnow

That the Canadian Legion in Peterborough has secured scores of pensions for returned soldiers in this city who, without its assistance, must have suffered?

That every year hundreds of dollars dispensed in relief bring comfort to returned men whose war disabilities have reduced their earning capacity?

That women who during the war years labored without ceasing to make comforts for your overseas men are now carrying on in the Legion Auxiliary, bringing relief to families of men who died, and others who are disabled?

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The aims and objects of the Legion shall be:

1. To bring about the unity of all who have served in His Majesty's navy, army, air force or any auxiliary force.

2. To further among them the spirit of comradeship and mutual help, and the close and kindly ties of active service.

3. To preserve the records and memories of their services, and to see that their services generally shall not be forgotten by the nation, and that due attention shall be paid to their welfare and that of their dependents.

4. To perpetuate the memory and deeds of the fallen and of those who die in the future; to promote and care for memorials to their valor and sacrifice; to provide suitable burial; and to keep an annual memorial day.

5. To see to the maintenance and comfort of those who require special treatment, of the disabled, sick, aged and needy; and to promote the welfare of the women, children and others their dependents.

6. To educate public opinion regarding national duties to the dead, the disabled, and others who have served, and their dependents.

7. To foster loyalty among the public and education in the principles of patriotism, duty and unstinted public service.

8. To support suitable undertakings for the training, employment and settlement of ex-service men and women, and the education of their children.

9. To defend their statutory, acquired and legitimate rights, and those of their dependents; and in so doing to offer the Legion's co-operation to those officially charged with the responsibility of administering such rights by Federal or other Governments in Canada.

10. To pass on to their families and descendents the traditions for which they stand.

11. To assist comrades now serving, especially in connection with their return to civil life, and to safeguard the interests of their dependents whilst they are in service.

12. To assist ex-service men to secure not less than the recognized standard rates of wages, in accordance with their ability.

13. To secure adequate pensions, allowances, grants and war gratuities for ex-service men, their dependents, and the widows, children and dependents of those who are dead, and to labor for honorable provision being made for those who in declining years are unable to support themselves.

14. To raise and co-ordinate funds for assisting those mentioned in the preceding paragraph, and to see that these and other funds raised for such purposes are applied to those purposes and none other.

15. To acquire and hold such property in the nature of club rooms, offices and equipment, and material, as may be necessary for the administration of the Legion and its authorized branches, in pursuit of its aims and objects as herein described.

16. To co-operate with Empire and allied associations of similar aims and objects.

17. There shall be nothing in this constitution to prevent the Legion from adopting a definite policy on any question directly or indirectly affecting ex-service men, and taking any constitutional action considered necessary in pursuance of it, provided that such action has been considered and endorsed by a majority of the branches of the organization; and also providing that such a policy or action is strictly in accordance with the principles laid down in this constitution.

The Legion

Is democratic and non-sectarian, and has no politics. Every member has equal voting rights; officers are elected by the members and hold office for one year.

Meetings are held monthly of all members and between these meetings business is carried on by the Commander and his Executive, chosen by the members.

The Legion Hall is open to all members. There are billiard and pool tables, reading room, writing room and canteen. All cases of distress among returned men or their families are promptly dealt with, and efficient machinery is in existence locally for dealing with cases of pension appeals.

It is an organization of returned soldiers, for returned soldiers.

No salary or remuneration is paid to any member of the local Executive or of the Provincial Executive, all of whom serve gratuitously. The local branch has complete autonomy in regard to its own property and affairs, making its own by-laws and regulations.

FUNDS

The small quarterly payments of dues go toward running expenses of the Legion and for payment of Dominion per capita dues. The proceeds of euchre drives and dances under Legion auspices form the basis of the relief work. It is from these sources that nearly all relief funds come, aided by the annual Poppy Day collection

FERTILIZERS ARE ESSENTIAL ON GOOD FARMS

Representatives From Dominions Discuss Question in London.

AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE

Sir Alfred Mond Describes the Great English Fertilizing Plant.

Representatives from every part of the British Empire assembled recently in England at the Imperial Research Agricultural Conference. Fertilizers and their importance to the farmers were stressed and Sir Alford Mond, the chairman, said: "The agricultural problems of the Empire, are diverse in many ways, but they have at least this as a great common factor—the value of fertillizers."

Discussing the British plant, he said:

FERTILIZERS AS A VITA FACTOR

"The first building we erected was not a works nor an office but a research laboratory; here every detail of the process was tested out on a scale sufficiently near to that of eventual manufacture to enable all necessary deductions to be drawn from it and sufficiently small to allow of easy and rapid alterations. All our personnel, managers, foremen and workmen alike were carefully trained on such plants.

"We have set ourselves the ambitious task of supplying the whole Empire with fertilisers, calculated to meet its vast varied and growing needs, and are not content to leave it at that. We have under the direction of Sir Frederick Keeble, a large experimental agricultural station of our own. We are anxious to co-operate with similar institutions throughout the Empire, and I would ask you to take this on your part as a cordial invitation to do so, and to assure you that any assistance such as is in our power will be fully and freely offered to you.

"I would like to say a few words on the importance of such an organisation as this to our national safety in time of war. The Great War was as far as this country is concerned fought on Chili nitrate. Any failure on our part to maintain that long sea route would have meant irrevocable national disaster. The very processes used to convert nitrate of soda into explosives in the war, which were all worked out and carried through by this Company, were difficult, trying to a degree in their initiation, and quite uneconomical. This state of affairs can never happen again. In the event of any future danger to the Empire, this organization will have no difficulty in rapidly and economically producing the essential raw materials of explosives: ammonia and nitric acid.

"Some of our other activities on this site have a great though indirect interest to agriculturists. The mechanisation of agriculture is proceeding apace.

"It may well happen that the chemical industry will be called upon to provide large centralised plants for agricultural operations, such as the drying and baling of grass, and if we ever were asked to do so, our general experience of the handling of materials of every description will be invaluable, and it is at your service.

"There is at this moment a world tendency towards the formation of large groups. Whole industries are amalgamated, as my lack of leisure tells me to my cost. Various groups of nations are becoming more closely connected, both politically and industrially, and not the least of these is the British Empire, which economic forces and improved means of communication are rapidly welding into a homogenous whole. If we do not hang together, we shall hang separately. Even in industrial England, agriculture is our greatest trade, and it is unnecessary to tell you of its importance in the Empire. The extended use of fertilisers will play a large part in encouraging agriculture and thereby assist in increasing the prosperity and cohesion of the Empire.

Fraction of Output.

"I would remind you, however, that vast as is the organisation of the Billingham factory, it can only produce a fraction of the output already available elsewhere. Inasmuch as the world continues year by year to be capable of absorbing the vast and ever increasing output of synthetic nitrogenous fertilisers, it is evident that we will not remain content to produce a quantity which though large in itself is small in comparison with the world's output and the requirements of the Empire. We will not be content with participating on the basis of our present production. Additional units are to be erected immediately. We shall endeavour to keep pace with the increased Imperial and world demand."

"Forseeing the possibility of these great developments we recognised that a selling organisation must be formed on such a scale that it would be capable of handling not only existing supplies of fertilisers, but also the potentially vastly greater quantities, which we confidently expect to make. The consequence of this has been the formation of Nitram, which combines all the previous existing selling organisation with the additional help which we have been able to give.

"But a selling organisation, however efficient, cannot do all the work that is required, if the synthetic fertiliser industry of this country is to be developed and hold its own in the world. It is no exaggeration of language to say that, with the large scale manufacture of synthetic nitrogenous fertilisers, a new era has dawned on the world. It is the era of nitrogen plenty. Before the coming of synthetic nitrogenous fertilisers, the sum total of life upon this planet was limited by the amount of available nitrogen. The only synthetic agents for augmenting supplies of nitrogen compounds suitable for supporting vegetable life were the vetches and the clover, on the one hand, and on the other the nitrogen-fixing bacteria of the sea dnd of the soil. The slow rate of action of these agents sets a limit to the development of plants, animals and of human societies. With the advent of synthetic nitrogenous fertilisers this limit has been removed. Nature can no longer parsimoniously say to life—"Thus far shalt thou go and no farther."

Research Necessary.

"New knowledge and new sources of power must, however, be made known before they are widely used, and therefore Nitram Limited determined that, side by side with the large selling organisation which it had formed, there must be a no less large and world-wide propagandist organisation whose business it should be to make known the use and values of the new synthetic fertilisers. The admirable service instituted by the British Sulphate of Ammonia Federation formed the nucleus of this advisory service of Nitram Ltd. This service is rapidly growing; already it has a large staff of district advisers, whose sole duty it is to give free and disinterested advice to farmers on the use of fertilisers—not only nitrogenous fertilisers, but fertilisers of all kinds.

"Nitram Limited has also established a research station, with upwards of 400 acres of farm lands, where problems relating to the use of fertilisers and to the feeding of stock are to be investigated. One of the most important subjects which will be undertaken at the Research Station is the experimental enquiry as to the synthetic fertilisers most suitable to overseas requirements, for it is evident that the synthetic manufacturing activities of Billingham are not likely to be confined to the manufacture of simple nitrogenous fertilisers, such as sulphate of ammonia, but will extend to the production of what may be called dual and triple fertilisers. Some soils require mainly one ingredient, say nitrogen; some soils require both nitrogen and phosphates, or nitrogen and potash and all intensively cultivated soils require frequent applications of nitrogenous, potassic and phosphatic fertilisers. Therefore, the producers of the synthetic fertilisers of the future will be engaged in the manufacture of what may be called simple, dual and triple fertilisers. There will be sulphate of ammonia or synthetic nitrate or urea, etc., to supply the nitrogen requirements of the soil; there will be ammonium phosphates for the soils which need both nitrogen and phosphates; and there will be complete chemical compound fertilisers, containing the three chief plant foods, to be used by all who cultivate the land intensively. Nitrogen, Phosphates and Potash form the trinity.

"It is certain that great prosperity will come to those countries which are first to seize and apply the new and great opportunities which present themselves now that the synthetic manufacture of fertilisers is an established fact, Nitram, Ltd., therefore, feels that it has not only a commercial duty to fulfil, but also a national and Imperial duty."

This striking address is in a way really a message to the farmers and the farm scientists of the Empire. Already the activities of Nitram Limited are by no means confined to Great Britain. Considerable developments in the Dominions and Dependencies are in progress. For example a propaganda and marketing agency is in active operation in India, whilst in other parts of the Empire most careful thought and experience are being applied to hasten the dawn of the new era of Nitrogen. Almost daily an authoritative announcement is expected of the concrete services which the Empire organisation for the production and distribution of nitrogen fertilisers, can render to the increased production of foodstuffs and essential raw materials throughout the world. Nitram must render ever-growing services, and the farms of the whole Empire are going to benefit by the great scientific pioneering work already done at Billingham.

WEIGH WHAT YOU DESIRE

If you over-weigh, the cause may not lie in over-eating or under-exercise. It may lie in a fault in nutrition which modern research has discovered. And which science now corrects.

The method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And many of the people you envy—with slender figures, new vivacity and health—will urge you to adopt this way.

The use of Marmola does not require abnormal exercise or diet. In every box you will find the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know just why your weight comes down and why every effect is helpful. Learn the facts, and do it now. Do so by asking your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola.

VISITORS CALL ON MILLBROOK S.O.E.

White Rose Degree Is Exemplified By Lansdowne Lodge

MILLBROOK, Feb. 28.—A meeting of unusual interest and importance was held in the Sons of England Hall, on Friday, February 24, when Saint Ives' Lodge, No. 243, was honored by a visit of officials from Sister Lodges in Peterborough and Port Hope, the Degrees Team of Lansdowne Lodge, Peterborough, exemplifying the White Rose Degree to which five candidates were initiated. Short addresses were given by the visiting officials, including the Worshipful District Deputies from both Peterborough and Port Hope, and by local members, W. H. Coombe, R. H. Hubbeard, B. L. Richards and others.

At the conclusion of the formal Lodge session, adjournment was made to the dining-hall where supper was served by Milton Challice.

R. H. Hubbeard is president of Saint Ives' Lodge, J. W. Hilton, vice-president, and H. J. Hubbeard, secretary. The Lodge meets on the second and fourth Fridays of each month, and applications for membership from all young Englishmen are always welcome.

MINE OFFICIAL FIRST WITNESS

The latter has the assistance of Thomas B. Roberts, a practical miner from Kirkland Lake, and who has been officially recognized by the commission. Gordon Gauthier has a watching brief for the Consul-General of Finland. The earlier part of the sitting was devoted to establishing what Mr. Whit termed "a chain of responsibility" with Mr. Knox detailing the duties of the various officials of the mine from the general manager down to the shift bosses.

Method New to Him.

According to Mr. Knox who has been at the Hollinger just over three years, the Thaw house method was new to him when he came north and he made enquiries "as a matter of interest." He considered that if the waste material from the powder boxes had been uniformly distributed through the mine he would have been "reasonably satisfied" with this method of disposal, but he had found out that this practice was not followed and that instead the debris was dumped into 55A where the fatal fire originated, and other stopes. The oldest material he had seen was dated 1923 he told Mr. White. Since the accident he had seen "a good big pile" of refuse of this nature in astope on X-2 of No. 1 vein but this has been cleaned out. Looking down with a lamp into the stope the heap seemed about 50 feet long, 20 feet wide and of a depth hard to determine. In that condition he thought it could not be diluted with rock as it had too much bulk. The material was "highly inflammable" he said.

In the stope also would be a certain quantity of waste and rags which had been soaked in oil and which the men had used to wipe off their drill hose, Mr. Knox said. He told how the boxes of powder were unpacked in the Thaw house, which held the current day's supply of dynamite, about five tons. Waxed paper, manilla paper and sawdust comprised the packing material, and this with the lids constituted the discards to be disposed of with the current waste, of which they would constitute an "insignificant part." He had made no enquiries as to the bulk of the material apart from the weight he said. There was a clean-up gang employed to go through the mine and pick up ends of timber and other material he objected going into the curren waste flow. According to Mr. Knox he went down the mine about once a month only. A. F. Brigham, the General Manager "very seldom" and C. G. Williams, the General Superintendent, three times a week on an average.

WAS SO NERVOUS and SHORT OF BREATH COULD HARDLY SLEEP

Mrs. Louise Raglin, Golden Lake, Ont., writes:—"For several years I was greatly troubled with my head. I was so nervous and short of breath I could hardly sleep at night, and if I did sleep for a while I had bad dreams.

"I managed to keep at my work, somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I had to give up. I used many kinds of medicine, but found no help until I got a box of MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS. After the first box I found a great change, and after two boxes I was as well as I could be.

"I told my mother, who had choking sensations, about them and they helped her greatly."

Price 50c. a box at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Obituary

WILLIAM WHITE.

BAILIEBORO, February 27. — The funeral of the late William White took place from his late residence at Bewdley on Thursday afternoon. Interment took place at the Bewdley Cemetery. The late Mr. White died on Tuesday at Port Hope Hospital.

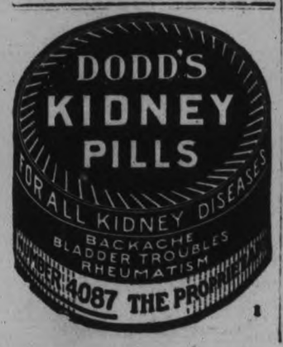
MRS. JANE WALLBRIDGE.

MADOC, February 27. — The funeral of Mrs. Jane Wallbridge, widow of T. C. Wallbridge, who represented North Hastings in the old Legislative Assembly of the United Canadas before Confederation, who died on Wednesday in her 87th year, at her residence, 480 Brunswick Avenue, Toronto, was held on Friday last.

The service was conducted by Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Bloor Street, and the pall-bearers were two sons of the deceased, Campbell M. and Gavin M. Wallbridge, Norman Gash, K.C., A. R. Clute, barrister, E. Sterling Dean, and Harold McMahon.

There were many floral tributes from relatives and friends. After the short but impressive service at the home the cortege left by C.N.R. for Belleville, where interment took place.

MARMORA, Feb. 27.—Another aged resident, Robert Harvey Young, passed away at his residence on the northern outskirts of Marmora village on Friday morning. Deceased, who was in his seventy-seventh year, had resided in the village for the past eleven years, having previously lived at Cooper and Cavan. His occupation was in turn, farm laborer and mason. Three years ago his health began to fail. For the past two years he had been unable to follow employment of any kind, and his end was not altogether unexpected. Those who knew him will remember him for his friendly disposition. He was of quiet retiring habits, adhering to the United Church in religion and to Conservatism in politics. He was thrice married, and besides his widow, leaves nine children of his first marriage to mourn his loss. They are: William of Cooper, Fred of Campbellford, Walter of Port Colborne, Mrs. Edward Martin of L'Arnable, Mrs. William Bowen, Mrs. Samuel Bowen and Mrs. Herbert Bowen of Stirling, Mrs. Arthur Smith of North Bay, and Mrs. Charles Wood of Frankford. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. John Moore of Queensboro and Mrs. Chas. McCaw of Niagara Falls, Ont. The funeral left his late residence at 10 o'clock on Sunday for service at Hazard's Corners United Church, the officiating minister being the Rev. J. N. Whyte of Eldorado.



MRS. MARGARET CALLAGHAN

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Callaghan took place on Thursday morning, February 16, from her late resident on the 13th concession of Emily to St. Luke's church and cemetery. Deceased was born in Cork, Ireland, ninety-two years ago, coming later to Canada. On the steamer, a regular passenger liner of those days, they were overtaken by storms and tossed about, taking three months for the trip. Many of the passengers were ill with fever and over one hundred and fifty died and were thrown overboard. The captain being one of those who perished. Coming to her present home sixty-nine years ago Mrs. Callaghan endured all the hardships of pioneer years. Survivors are two sons, John and Timothy on the homestead, five daughters, Mrs. Patrick Hickey of Detroit, Mary, Catherine, Mrs. Patrick Duffy and Mrs. Dennis Shine, all of Downeyville. Her husband, the late Michael Callaghan, predeceased her twelve years ago. Pallbearers were: Dennis Shine and Patrick Duffy (sons-in-law), Michael Harrington, John O'Connell, William O'Brien and Simon O'Connell.

Rev. Father Galvin preached a touching sermon on death and the judgment that follows and spoke feelingly of the long, virtuous life of deceased.

MRS. CAROLINE SMITH.

WARSAW, Feb. 28.—After an illness extending over more than two years Mrs. Caroline Smith passed quietly away at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Choate, where she had made her home for several years.

Mrs. Smith was born near Brighton, lived for some years in the United States and then came to Warsaw. Since her ninetieth birthday she failed rapidly, but bore her illness with fortitude and so long as she was able she did little things for others. She was a life-long member of the Presbyterian Church.

She leaves one sister in Ann Arbor, and her daughter, Mrs. Choate of Warsaw. There were many floral tributes from family and friends also from the Woman's Institute, of which she was a charter member.

The funeral service was held in St. Mark's Church, conducted by Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton, and the interment took place in Warsaw cemetery.

MRS. LOUIS SULLIVAN.

DOURO, Feb. 28.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Louis Sullivan took place on Tuesday morning from her late residence to St. Joseph's Church and cemetery. Rev. J. Collins of Parry Sound sang the requiem mass and Rev. J. F. McGuire conducted the services at the vault.

The bearers were four sons of the deceased, Messrs. Wilfred, Alex, John and Stephen Grisdale, Samuel O'Brien, a nephew, and John Sullivan.

Those who attended the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Grisdale, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Grisdale and daughter Marita, Mr. and Mrs. John Grisdale, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Grisdale, Mrs. James Grisdale and daughter Rita, Mr. Michael O'Brien and Mr. Dennis Maloney, all of Peterborough.

DOGS MAKE SHOW DEBUT

Here are the youngest entries in Kennel Club show at Toronto. Little Lady and Major arrived at their first exhibition on a cold night, so Mrs. Vera Short, owner of the fine little B oston bulls, had the puppies wrapped up very carefully. Here they are ju st as they emerged from the motor to make their debut at the show.

ness, simplicity, and a certain amount of directness and force.

The judges for the juniors were: Miss M. B. Turner, B.A., Rev. J. Riddell, and Dr. L. J. Stuart, and the competitors, with their subjects, included: Eva Howson, "Canada's Future"; Jean Bothwell, "The Union Jack—Our Flag"; Bessie Dawson, "The Life of Queen Victoria"; Laird Bothwell, "The Advantages of Education"; and Ruby Cunningham, "The Life of Sir John MacDonald."

Musical numbers were supplied by Miss Elizabeth Russell, whose solo, "Time Will Bring the Roses", was much enjoyed, and a Wand Drill by nine girls: Jean Stinson, Elsie Spence, Mragaret Russell, Audrey Larmer, Annie McMahon, Marian O'Brian, Margaret Armstrong, Marian Earle, and Margaret McCarthy. The accompanists of the evening were Misses Bertha Lang and Annie McMahon.

The entrants in the senior section of the contest were: Dorothy Crossley, who spoke on "Canada's Future"; Bertha Lang, who chose "Jack Miner and the Birds"; and Clara Bonner, who took the official subject "Canada's Future." The judges were: Messrs. A. A. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the school board, B. B. Dawson, principal of the public school, and Miss Pearl Burnham.

Miss Jean Bothwell was awarded the highest place among the junior contestants, the judges announcing a draw for second standing between Bessie Dawson and Ruby Cunningham, the latter winning. Miss Bertha Lang stood first among the seniors, and Miss Dorothy Crossley second; the former will represent the school at Cobourg where the district competition takes place next month. Miss Jean Fairbairn had this honor last year and while she did not succeed in going to Toronto she brought credit upon the M.C.S., as well as upon herself.

Miss Shirley L. Muir, principal of the Continuation School, presented the juniors with their prizes on Thursday evening, books being the awards given, and every competitor being remembered; a difference in the value of the books distinguished those won as prizes and those given as souvenirs. G. E. Gurnham, chairman of the school board, presented the senior pupils with their awards.

In her brief address Miss Muir, after welcoming the parents and friends, gave assurance that a visit to the school at any time would be appreciated, and urged a frank discussion with the members of the staff when problems of various kinds arose in connection with the pupils and their school life.

FATHER AND SON

foundation started can be built further by successors.

In addressing the sons, he said the fathers always longed to help them in ways of wisdom and happy is the young man who refuses to pay too much for his life, as life is not summed up in quantity but quality, and cannot be exchanged in value for either gold or silver. "Life's grandest thing is the work of making this old earth shine and glitter with love. God bless all those who are helping in this manner", were his closing remarks.

R. C. Doxsee proposed the toast to the King and Country, followed by a reading by Fred Rowe and a saxophone solo by Wilfred Knight. Walter Dodd proposed the toast to the Church, touching briefly on the growth of the church and its value to her people, to which Rev. Mr. Hie responded.

Iden Bond gave a solo and community singing was indulged in, and the toast to "Our Sons" was proposed by W. Brake, and responded to by Martin Rusaw, after which another saxophone solo was given.

The toast to "Our Fathers" was given by Marvin Preston and responded to by Iden Bond, after which Neil McDonal sang 'My Blue Heaven.'

Mr. Elliott told a number of jokes on several fathers present and kept the gathering in merriment and laughters.

Rev. Mr. Hie gave a short address and moved a hearty vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Todd, the ladies of the Women's Missionary Society and the local talent for assisting in making the event so successful, responded to by Neil McDonald.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

The Devotion of the Forty Hours commenced yesterday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, with a procession and recitation of the Litany of the Saints and a special sermon in the evening. It will continue until Tuesday night, with evening devotions and sermon and three morning Masses, at 5.30, 7 and 8 o'clock.

Speaking from the fourth chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew at the Masses yesterday morning, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien referred to the temptation of Christ by Satan. He spoke of the forty days' fast undergone by our Lord, prior to His embarking on his public life, as an example to His followers, who should strive to follow His steps in this way.

Satan did not hesitate to tempt Christ and Christ did not refuse to allow Satan to tempt Him. He was stronger than the evil one, as the soul may become strong that harbors within it the grace of God. The man or woman who is lost walks down to hell with open eyes, pushing aside the grace which God has provided for it. We must not tamper with temptation. Satan, who is the father of lies, always presents evil in the guise of good, realizing that no one is foolish enough to wish to choose evil for its own sake. The soul of man revolts from wrong-doing and therefore Lucifer clothes it in appetizing array to deceive the mind of man.

In the Lenten season, said His Lordship, opportunity is afforded for the garnering of the grace that will prevent the onslaught of evil and the Forty Hours' Devotion is especially appropriate for its commencement.

HON. JOHN MARTIN WANTS SHEEP CLUB

Cavan Young Men May Form Club Suggested at Banquet

CAVAN, Feb. 28.—The Hon. John Martin, Minister of Agriculture, is, as he recently assured his hearers at the banquet in Millbrook, very interested in improving conditions for agriculturists and in trying to induce more of farmer's sons to remain on the farms. He announced a new policy by which the government offers assistance to any farmer starting in sheep. The policy calls for the organization of ten farmers, to which the government will supply eight ewes to each member and the use of a pure bred ram for two years. The members are to give the sheep the best of care and the lambs are to be prepared for market in the most up-to-date manner. Payment for the original flock will start the second year when the government will be allowed to choose three lambs from the increase of each flock for each of four years. Thus the member with eight ewes would return to the government a total of twelve lambs. This work will be carried on through the Live Stock Branch. The members must, of course, agree on one breed.

This policy gives anyone a chance to get into sheep without cash outlay. This offer is already being discussed favorably in Cavan and very soon a club of young men may be formed.

FORCED TO SLEEP IN CHAIR—GAS SO BAD

"Nights I sat up in a chair, I had such stomach gas. I took Adlerika and nothing I eat hurts me now. I sleep fine."—Mrs. Glenn Butler.

BEST COURSE YET SAY POULTRYMEN

Officials Pleased With the Attendance and Interest Of Durham Breeders

"The best poultry short course that we have had this year," declared J. W. Clark, Cainsville, and T. A. Benson, Poultry Division of the Federal Live Stock Branch, at the conclusion of the three-day poultry course in Bowmanville.

This course was very well attended. The average for all sessions was over 95, with the highest attendance 120 on Thursday afternoon. The poultrymen and farmers who attended expressed themselves as being delighted with the course. Addresses were given on Breeds of Poultry, Housing and Sanitation, Judging and Culling, Diseases of Poultry, Incubation and Brooding, Feeds and Feeding, Grading of Eggs and Co-operating Marketing, Rearing of Chicks and Fattening and Killing.

Keen discussion on the egg grading regulations took place, after which the following resolution was unanimously passed by about 100 poultrymen and farmers present:

"Whereas our poultrymen at certain seasons have a large proportion of small eggs of the quality of extras which in spite of the fact that there is a grade of pullet extras, are graded by dealers as seconds, and whereas this constitutes a serious loss to poultrymen generally, we the members of this Poultry Short Course, Bowmanville, do ask the Dominion Department of Agriculture to take measures to have the grade pullet extras recognized by the trade, and further that the Department of Agriculture have the grade pullet extras included in the colored illustrations put out illustrating the grade of fresh gathered eggs. Be it further resolved that measures be taken by Dominion Department of Agriculture to point out to consumers the value of pullet extras and the distinction between these pullet extas and seconds."

A vote of thanks to the Bowmanville Town Council for their assistance and co-operation was also passed and a vote of thanks to the instructors. It is planned at an early date to have a meeting and organize a Poultry Association for Bowmanville and the adjacent communities. The interest shown by everyone in the course was very gratifying to Agricultural Representative J. Y. Kellough, who organized the course and who states that he hopes to hold similar courses annually in Durham County.

HALF A CENTURY OF ADVERTISING

Cuticura Company Was Founded Fifty Years Ago To-day.

HAS GROWN GREATLY.

Malden, Mass., February 28th—The Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation of this city are today announcing in newspapers all over the world the Fiftieth Anniversary of Cuticura.

Charles L. Hamilton, President of the Company, when seen today gave great credit for the worldwide success of the business to the use of newspaper advertising. The Company has steadily used this means of making known the merit of Cuticura soap, ointment, talcum and shaving stick, until today the name Cuticura is a household word in millions of homes.

In commenting on the fact that Cuticura is today one of the most famous of all advertised names Mr. Hamilton said: "Since the establishment of the business in 1878 by George R. White it has been the company policy to give the utmost in quality. Mr. White was a man of outstanding personality and business ability whose keen sense and knowledge of the consumer enabled him to establish an advertising policy, which, without the aid of salesmen or any of the so-called high pressure methods, has placed Cuticura in the households of the world."

To-day, the same purity and exquisite fragrance of Cuticura products are available. No stone is left unturned to maintain the high standard of quality which has been responsible for the remarkable continuation of Cuticura success. Upon the firm rock of worth-while products, sold at reasonable cost, resulting in public confidence, is built this outstanding advertising success—a landmark of modern American progressiveness.

ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

Stratford; F. Stinson, North Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. M. Stinson of North Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. W. Byers of Peterborough; Albert Byers of Toronto; Josiah Byers of Phensford; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher of South Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fisher of South Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Dawson of South Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buckham of South Monaghan; Mrs. Martin Parker, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Byers of Peterborough.

Over one hundred letters and telegrams of congratulations were received from friends from a distance who were unable to attend.

Relatives at the dinner presented Mr. and Mrs. Byers with a purse of gold and many other gifts of gold. Walter Fisher of Peterborough read the address while the presentation was made by their little granddaughter, Betty Joan Byers.

Mr. Byers was born in Hamilton township 76 years ago, while Mrs. Byers was born in the township of South Monaghan, 70 years ago. Mr. Byers has always resided in this township. Both Mr. and Mrs. Byers are enjoying good health.

In Mr. Byers' family there were twelve boys and two girls. Four brothers are still living, Josiah of Phensford, Levi of Bailieboro, Albert of Toronto and David of Peterborough. In Mrs. Byers' family there were four boys and four girls, three of whom are now living: Mrs. Byers, Mrs. Martin Parker and Mrs. Walter Fisher of Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Byers had three children, Gerald, who died some years ago while practicing law, Dot of Ottawa, and Roy, a druggist in Toronto, and one granddaughter, Betty Joan.

Mr. and Mrs. Byers moved to Bailieboro some years ago from the farm where they had resided since their wedding. They have always been faithful members of the Centreville Presbyterian church. Mr. Byers was a member of the local Orange Lodge and has always been a staunch Liberal in politics.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flue. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SMALL BOYS PLAY HOCKEY

School Youngsters Play Canada's Winter Sport on Lakefield Rinks.

STARS IN TRAINING.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 28. — The craze for hockey which swept over the village this winter is reflected in the play of the small boy, and in various parts of the village on miniature rinks games are played with future hockey stars playing their first game. In front of the rink a game is nearly always in progress out of school hours, and it is indeed a very small boy who can't play there.

Donald Yale has a rink and on this sheet of ice many games are played with teams of apparently equal strength, as the score is rarely large and near always a tie. The rink is small and the referee usually has hit pitch on an adjoining snow bank which overlooks the arean.

Among the stars who are in training are Donald Yale, Roger Wannamaker, Vivian Payne, Ollie Pearson, Bernard Pearsos asd Ralph Mason.

A "get together" party, which also took the form of a farewell gathering in honor of Mr. Charles W. Lapp, the well-liked and very popular manager of the local branch of the Canadian Departmental Stores, Limited, took place last evening on the second floor of the establishment on George Street, and members of the staff had a wonderful evening that included a programme of dancing and cards, with the service of dainty refreshments at small, gaily-decorated tables. During the evening, the presentation of a handsome gold watch, the gift of the staff, was made to Mr. Lapp by Mr. E. Manning, with the address read by Miss B. Dawson, as follows: Dear Mr. Lapp,—It is with deep regret we learn of your intention to sever your connection with the Canadian Department-Stores. Although you have been with us only a few short months, your ready smile and helping hand have endeared you to every member of the staff, and we feel, in your going, we have lost a real friend. We understand you are about to enter into a wider field of your business career and wish you every success in your new enterprise. We ask you to accept this small token of our esteem and good fellowship which has existed between us. Trusting you will have your share of all the good things coming your way. — Signed on behalf of every member of the Canadian Department-Stores. The music for dancing was supplied by an excellent orchestra: Ferdie Mowry and his Collegians, with Bill Steer at the piano, Bill Ellis, violin, Willis Dunlop, traps, and Ferdie Mowry, saxaphone. During an intermission, Pat O'Keefe played some violin music, with accompaniment by Miss Marthe Baumer, who also played for the violin solos by Grant Breckenridge. A dialogue carried on at the supper table created much amusement. It was entitled "A Proposal," and was enacted by the Misses J. Wheeler, D. Hawkins and Dorothy Clarke. The prizes for lucky chairs were won by Mrs. J. Hetherington and Mr. Max Board. The service of refreshments was in charge of Mrs. Hetherington and Miss H. Quinn, assisted by Mr. Harvey E. Henry, while Mr. C. H. Benson took a special part in the "Paul Jones," Mr. Arnold Lillow had charge of the programme and music and Mr. Bert Reid arranged the card games. Those present last evening were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lapp, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. B. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Lillow, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Heather, the Misses M. E. QUEEN IN MOURNING

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

The new cascade treatment from shoulder to hem appears on this spring frock of black satin.

You might think that with the increased length and width of skirts and the general expansion of the silhouette it would be a difficult task to make over last season's frocks for this season's wear. But just the opposite seems to be the case. The new frocks present ever so many workable ideas for the woman who wants to make over her own frocks. It's a season when the woman who is enough of a dressmaker to do this sort of thing is in luck.

Overskirt Up to Date.

The straight-line, one piece frock of crepe or satin—smart last spring—may be brought up to date by the use of finely pleated chiffon to match. This may be put on the skirt in the form of tiers or a single overskirt applied just below the hips and extending down below the hemline of the original frock in irregular, dipping manner at the sides. Narrow frills of the same finely pleated matching chiffon may be applied to give the new below-the-elbow fullness to the sleeves and there may be a jabot effect of the pleating at the front of the frock.

Much can be done with the new lingerie touches in giving an up-to-date appearance to last season's frocks and the revived interest in square scarfs presents several possibilities.

Make Two Scarfs.

For last year's sports frock you might buy enough figured silk of harmonizing coloring to make two of these large squares and use one to tie around the shoulders and the other as a girdle—tied with an informal knot over one hip.

The sketch shows a black satin afternoon frock with cascade drapery of the sort that is characteristic of the mode. This drapery made of chiffon or georgette to match a last season's frock might provide all that is needed to bring an old frock up to date. If the skirt seems too short an overskirt of a slightly flaring variety might be made of the same georgette or chiffon and posed over the original skirt.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1928

According to astrology the early morning of this day is fairly favorable, but later adverse aspects rule.

It is well to make plans and to outline ambitions immediately after rising, adhering to the first thought, for clear vision is indicated during early hours.

Writers and editors should benefit from the morning's sway, which quickens the processes of thought.

Newspapers and advertising is subject to the most stimulating influences and the year should be the most profitable in history.

Publicity will change in method and will increase in desirability the seers foretell.

This is not an auspicious rule under which to seek loans or to transact business with banks.

Thrift should be practiced unremittingly, for astrology indicates that the nation is to have uses for immense sums of money.

The federal government is to have heavy expenses that accrue from causes not connected with routine administration.

This is held to be an unlucky day in aviation and it is well to postpone hazardous journeys in the air.

New discoveries in science this year will go far toward eliminating dreaded diseases, the seers foretell.

Terrific gales accompanied by heavy rains will sweep France and Great Britain next month, it is predicted.

Physicians and nurses today will be in unusual demand and hospitals will be much sought havens, if the stars are rightly read.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of intrigues and troubles in which persons of opposite sex are concerned.

Children born on this day probably will have strong individuality. The subjects of this sign are likely to be fond of pleasure and inclined not to brook interference with it.

WHEN FOOD FAILS

Defective Digestion is the Cause and Misery Follows

There are thousands of people who do not get the proper nourishment from the food they eat, because their digestion is defective. Food that lies undigested in the stomach is not merely wasted, it will ferment and poison your system. Flatulence and sour risings in the throat follow and unless you are careful you will become a chronic dyspeptic.

By toning up the stomach to do the work nature intended, you will remove the cause of the trouble. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive organs than good new blood. Stomach nerves and glands all depend on the blood, and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. It is because of their action in building up and enriching the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved successful in so many cases of indigestion where ordinary medicines have failed. The new rich blood quickly tones up the digestive organs; the appetite improves and you are able to eat with comfort and get full nourishment from your food.

A little booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat", will be sent free to any address on request.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hints on Etiquette

2. Should a woman pin on such a gift immediately or wait until after dinner?
3. Where are flowers usually worn today?

The Answers.

1. At the left of plate, on the dinner napkins.
2. Immediately.
3. On the shoulder, preferably the heart (or left) side.

Why Kotex is Advised

Doctors Urge Against Unhealthy Old Style Sanitary Pads

WOMEN who still make their own sanitary napkins are risking their health. And they never feel complete security when wearing them.

Kotex is the answer. Scientists perfected it. Doctors recommend it. It is hygienically correct.

Kotex is soft and comfortable. Scientifically shaped corners give perfect fit. Absorbs 16 times its weight in moisture. That's true protection.

It deodorizes, so there is no worry on that score. It ends laundry for you, simply throw it away.

Today get Kotex at any drug, dry goods or departmental store. Learn why women everywhere have discarded makeshifts for the only true hygienic protection.

WHEN YOU CATCH A COLD

A cold develops mainly because of FATIGUE and OVER-EATING, and although colds from a bacterial origin may be "caught," the one catching them must have the proper conditions in which the bacteria can develop. These conditions are dependent upon enervation and wrong feeding.

When one watches the phenomena of a cold he can easily see that the body is trying to throw out waste products through the mucous membranes and by burning them up through oxidation which may or may not be accomplished by fever.

When a cold has really started the best plan is to assist the body by opening up all of the channels of elimination. Large quantities of water should be taken in order to thoroughly flush the urinary system and carry away liquid wastes. One or two enemas daily should be taken to wash out food and toxic wastes from the colon. The activity of the pores of the skin should be increased by several sponge baths daily or through inducing copious perspiration. The sweating treatment is probably the very best method of treatment which can be used in getting rid of toxins which exist during a cold.

After taking an enema, patient should then take a hot bath and get into bed, using only coverings for the body which are made entirely of wool. Hot water bottles should be placed at the foot of the bed, and several woolen blankets used to cover the patient. He should then be tucked in or pinned in so that no air enters under the covering around the shoulders. The nurse should then prepare an infusion made from pouring boiling hot water over grapefruit which has been cut into small pieces. The skin and all of the grapefruit should be used, one quart of boiling water used to each medium size grapefruit. This steeping process of producing the grapefruit juice infusion should be carried on in an earthen jar or an enameled pan. After the mixture has been allowed to stand for at least thirty minutes the patient should then be given from four to eight ounces at a time every thirty or forty minutes.

The grapefruit skin contains organic quinine which has a specific effect in eliminating the "cold" toxins.

The patient should be induced to sweat for as long as necessary until there is no abnormal temperature.

It is not necessary to change the woolen blankets oftener than once a day, and the sweating should not be interrupted for any reason during the first few hours, not even to give an enema.

As soon as the temperature is normal, patient must be changed to warm, dry clothing but kept well covered for several hours.

It is best to wait for a whole day after the temperature is gone before the patient should take any exercise, but from then on it is important to increase the exercise each day in order to gain strength.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. C. H. writes: "On three occasions during the past year I have been awakened from sleep with a numbness creeping over me. Have tried to call for help but could not move my lips, neither could I raise my hand or any part of my body for what seems like a minute. I would appreciate if you would inform me of the cause, and if there is danger of paralysis. I am 30 years old and weigh 130 lbs."

Answer: The numb attacks you have at night are probably caused from nervousness and would be classed under the name of hysteria. There is no reason for suspecting you are subject to paralysis because of this but you certainly should have a good diagnosis made, and study how to remove the cause of your nervousness.

Question: Illinois writes: "I have heard of an article of food called enchilada, but nobody in this part of the country seems to know what it is. Will you please tell me, also how it is made?"

Answer: The enchilada is a Mexican dish similar to the tamale, composed of meat, highly seasoned with garlic, pepper, etc., in combination with one of the meals or flours such as cornmeal or pumpkin flour. This dish is not unfamiliar on the Pacific coast and in that area of the country adjacent to Mexico, but is rarely if ever served in other parts of the United States.

Question: M. K. B. asks: "Can a loop in the colon be cured by dieting? What would you advise?"

Answer: A loop in the colon can be corrected through proper manipulative treatment, supplementde in some cases by certain electrical treatments. If these treatments are not taken we cannot expect diet to produce a cure, although one with a kinked or looped colon will certainly be in better health on a well-balanced diet than when eating haphazardly.

FOURTH PETERBOROUGH TROOP

The meeting of the Fourth opened with flag break and then inspection. Alex. Kay, the second vice-president of the local association, said a few words to the troop, hoping they would be able to go on a hike with him in the near future. A knot contest was held, followed by the instruction periods. After the instruction a new game was played. One of the screens was raised about eight inches from the floor. One patrol went behind the screen. One at a time the scouts walked by and the other patrols had to tell who walked by by the feet they saw. Next a hole was cut in the screen and each scout had to put his nose and then his ear through the hole and he had to be recognized.

The three patrol leaders were given points for passing their first class first aid test before Mr. Dickin. Gordon Hardie passed his compass test and Harold Stuart was awarded the points for the first class swimming test that he passed last summer.

Mr. Corbett read a short synopsis of the life of the Chief Scout.

The meeting closed with the singing of God Save the King, the lowering of the flag and the scout silence.

The scouts were urged to put exhibits in the hobby show. There are a large number of new divisions this year.

Juniors Defeat St. John's For City Honors

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS MUCH BETTER TEAM IN FINAL TILT BEATING SAINTS EASILY 5 TO NIL

OUTSCORE THE SAINTS.

(By F. D. C.)

The Peterborough Juniors were all over St. John's in the final game of the Junior City Series at Brock Street Rink last night, winning in convincing style by 5 to 0 and taking the round by 15 goals to 10.

The Blue and White team outwore the Saints in the long series, with the result that while the ultimate losers grabbed the first two games and managed to hold the round to a tie in the third they burned themselves out and last night showed little signs of the aggressiveness and close checking that marked their early performances.

The Petes, on the other hand, improved as the series developed and there were just as much the better team in the final dash as the figures would indicate; in fact, the Saints have to thank good goal-keeping by Payne for the fact that the margin against them was not larger. The Lake Shore group team outplayed them in each period, leading 1 to 0 at the end of the first and 3 to 0 at the close of the second, and the result of the game was never in doubt after the first goal was scored. Although the St. John's strong finish in the two previous games kept the Petes' supporters from breathing easy until the third period was well under way. The Saints, however, had no rally left under their belts last night and although they worked until the bitter end they were never in the picture.

The Petes had too much speed and played their positions much too consistently for the losers to get anywhere. They broke fast and did some clever stickhandling on the attack, while their defensive work was steady and careful and the Saints were given few good openings. Kenneally's speedy thrusts and fine puck-carrying again made him a stand-out on the Petes' line and he was unlucky to have only scored once. Jones also turned in his best effort of the year, his fast backchecking being of great help while he was always dangerous on the attack, getting three clever goals. Cripps had plenty of speed and his effective checking materially assisted in subduing the Saints. Hatton and LeBarr formed a strong defence and with Gillespie in stellar form behind them, easily held the losers off the score sheet.

Payne was the St. John's star. The Petes swept in on top of him easily and often and might easily have run their score into double figures if the Saints' goalie had not done some clever blocking at close quarters. The Saints' defence was outguessed frequently and both Johnston and Jarvis did more effective work on the attack than defensively. None of the forward line showed their form of the early games of the series, although regulars and subs alike gave everything they had to stem the tide. Hall, who had scored half of his team's goals and had beaten Gillespie in all the previous battles, was well taken care of by Kenneally and for the first time in the series did not find the nets. He and Buck Jones, however, shared the honors of being top scorers for the series, each getting five goals. Cuthbertson and Hartley both played under a handicap from injuries, but tried all the way.

The scorers in the four games were: Jones 5, Cripps 4, Kenneally 2, Hatton 2, LeBarr 1, and Calladine 1 for the Petes; and T. Hall 5, Cuthbertson 2, and Hartley, Jarvis and Johnston, one goal each for the Saints.

The biggest crowd of the series saw last night's game and as usually happens the fixture was the least interesting of the four played; the Petes' margin of superiority and the failure of the Saints to come back as usual, robbing the game of spectacular features.

The teams were:

Peterborough Juniors

Goal—Gillespie.
Defence—LeBarr and Hatton.
Centre—Jones.
Right Wing—Allin.
Lift Wing—Kenneally.
Subs—Cripps and White.

St. John's

Goal—Payne.
Defence—Jarvis and Johnston.
Centre—Cuthbertson.
Right Wing—T. Hall.
Subs—. Hall, Dunkerley, Frost.
Referee—Walter Jackson.

The Petes had the edge from the initial face-off and in the first few minutes Kenneally gave the crowd an inkling of what to expect when he stick-handled through the Saints' defence three times in a row; shooting over the net on his first attempt and being beaten by Payne on the next two occasions. The St. John's players were slow in breaking and Gillespie took care of their shots from outside without trouble. They had few chances close in while the Petes on the other hand were dangerous frequently. It was only a question of time and finally after thirteen minutes Kenneally broke from centre, skated through the Red and White crew and scored from close range. There was no further scoring in the period although both Hatton and LeBarr came close after nice rushes and Hall had a chance at the other end of the rink, but could not beat Gillespie.

The Saints showed more 'pep' in their checking early in the second period and for eleven minutes kept the Petes off the score sheet. Allin draw their first penalty early in the period but before he had been off long Johnston was chased for tripping. LeBarr soon after was benched for a similar offence, but the Petes scored playing a man short. Loose work by the Saints and the aggressiveness of Crippa were responsible. The losers fooled around with the rubber in their own territory trying to stick-handle round Cripps instead of passing up to the blue line, and finally he grabbed the puck and passed out to Jones, who slammed in goal No. 2.

Soon after, with Jarivs off, the Petes made it 3 to 0, when Jones grabbed the rubber after Payne had cleared it behind the net, carried it out in front, and scored. The Saints claimed the referee's bell had sounded before Jones completed the play, but the goal went just the same. It was the last score of the period.

Early in the last session Cripps was benched for slashing Cuhbertson but the Saints lacked the punch to take advantage of the opening. Then Jones was chased but got back in the game just in time to pick up the rubber at centre and tear in for a nice goal, putting the Petes four in front. Jarvis had the Saints' best chance when he stick-handled in on top of Gillespie and then shot wide. It was the closest call of the night so far as Gillespie's citadel was concerned.

The Petes were checking cleverly and although the losers sent their defence up the attack got them nowhere, and finally Hatton broke away and skated around Johnston to beat Payne for the last goal of the night. It was a speedy dash followed by an accurate shot. That made it 5 goals to 0, and from then on it was merely a case of playing out the string, although the losers worked hard to avert a shut-out and the Petes just as hard to hand them one.

The scores of the four games of the series were as follows:

First game.....Saints 2, Petes 1
Second game.....Saints5, Petes 4
Third game.....Petes 5, Saints 3
Fourth game.....Petes 5, Saints 0
Total.....Petes 15, Saints 10

Summary

1st Period:
1—Peterboro Jrs., Kenneally.13.00
Second Period:
2—Peterboro Jrs., Jones.....11.00
3—Peterboro Jrs., Jones..... 4.00

Believe Grads' Star Grabbed By Maroons

MONTREAL, Feb. 28. — The Star yesterday said: "It is understood that the Montreal Maroons have tied up one of the members of the Toronto Grads., world's amateur hockey champions, and that as soon as that team returns to Canada this man will sign a contract with the local pro team.

"Just which one of the men the Maroons have their eyes upon is not definitely known, particularly since none of the officials admit it, but is almost sure that it is Dave Trottier, former Pembroke boy, who did the majority of the scoring for the Grads in their games at St. Moritz."

TOOL ROOM WINS PLACE IN FINALS

Defeats De Laval 3-1 In Play-Off of City League Senior Series

On Saturday afternoon in the Brock street rink the Tool Room hockey team defeated the De Laval in the City Hockey League senior series and will meet the Maple Leafs in the finals for the championship. The final score was 3 goals to one. Neither team covered itself with hockey glory but on the afternoon's play the winners had a slight edge both in puck carrying and in combination. The De Laval defence proved to be the weak point on the losers' team for time after time it allowed the hard skating forwards of the winners to penetrate right up to the mouth of the nets. Jones, in center for the De Laval, was the best man on the ice but heavy bodychecking slowed him up in the final period.

The line up:

De Laval—Payne, goal; Ward and Miller, defence; Jones, center; Evans and Dallin, wings; Ashmore and Hamley, subs.

Too Room—S. Jones, Goal; Swanger and G. Williams, defence; E. Williams, A. Williams, and E. Broley, forwards; Rishea and Corkery, subs.

MINOR CHANGES IN RUGBY CODE

Touchdowns To Be Converted From the 30 Yards Line—Twenty Were Allowed.

MAN POWER RAISED.

TORONTO, February 28. — Practically speaking there will be no changes in the Canadian rugby code next fall. The Rules Commission of the Canadian Rugby Union met on Saturday morning and the C.R.U. held its annual meeting in the afternoon, and the only changes made in the rules were so minor as to be negligible.

This fall touchdowns will be converted—maybe—by a dropkick from the 30-yard line, instead of the 35-yard line, and in future, as soon as a team kicks into its own scrimmage or line the referee will blow his whistle immediately and give the ball to the opposing side. The delegates figured that a five-yard edge in dropping a goal after a touchdown might result in more scores and that the awarding of the ball to the opposing side immediately it was kicked into the scrimmage would do away with a lot of scrapping for the oval and disputes over the subsequent rights to the ball.

The delegates to the annual meeting decided that the only time changes may be made in the rules was at the annual meeting of the Rules Committee, which is held the same day as the annual meeting of the C.R.U., about the middle of each February. In September each year the Rules Commission will, however, hold a meeting to place an official interpretation on any rule where doubt might exist.

The meeting approved of a special committee's report upon the question of affiliation with the A.A.U. of C., and the proposition now goes on to that body for ratification.

The application of the Western Canada Intercollegiate Rugby Union for affiliation with the C.R.U., opposed the entrance of the Western Intercollegiate Union and insisted that they should join with them and so become affiliated with the Dominion body.

An application for definite and lasting arrangements for Dominion play-offs between the east and west both senior and junior rugby championships was refused. The meeting felt that no definite arrangement could be made regarding junior play offs with the western champions, but decided that if the western senior champions put in their challenge next fall through the proper channel and at the proper time that it would be accepted.

The financial report showed that the C.R.U. is in a sound condition the balance on hand of $1,784.59 being over three times as great as a year ago. The play-offs in the three minor series were conducted at a loss of $345.02, the interscholastic being the only play-off that came near paying its own way, there being a loss of only $13.65.

The officers for 1928 are:

Honorary president, Dave McCann, Ottawa; president, S. C. Holland Montreal; first vice-president, Dr. R. M. Bow, Edmonton; second vice-president, John DeGruchy, Toronto; third vice-president, Prof. Wilgar Kingston; secretary-treasurer, R. W. Hewitson, Toronto (seventh consecutive time). The Rules Commission is the same as last season except that President Holland succeeds Dave McCann as convenor. Mr. McCann remains on, replacing Murray Thompson, of Moose Jaw. Laddie Cassels was named as secretary of the Rules Commission.

Rival Promoters To Battle For Right To Stage Lightweight Championship Match

CHICAGO, Ills., February 28 (Canadian Press). — Jim Mullen packed up his long line of arguments last night, to invade New York, the domain of Tex Rickard, to-day and battle for the lightweight championship match between Sammy Mandell, the titleholder, and Jimmy McLarnin, the knockout sensation of the 135 pound ranks. Eddie Hane, Mandell's manager, is also going to New York to-day to listen to Rickard's proposition and attend to some other affairs.

The controversy just now, as boxing experts here view it, is between the National Boxing Association and the New York State Commission.

The N.B.A. compelled Mandell to put up a $5,000 forfeit to guarantee he would go through with the McLarnin match, and the Illinois State Athletic Commission is holding the money. In the meantime, McLarnin signed to fight for Rickard in May, and the New York promoter then began negotiations to sign the champion. It happens that Mullen had signed Mandell first for this match.

"I am prepared to outbid New York for this fight," Mullen said last night. "Everything is all fixed to hold it in Soldier Field, and we can draw more money here than New York. I have the promise of 'Pop' Foster, McLarnin's manager, and I expect to convince him it will be good business to keep that promise."

MOHAWKS LOSE TO ALGONQUINS

Defeated For Three Straight Games in A.Y.P.A. Contest.

BOWLING NEWS.

The Algonquins defeated the Mohawks in an A.Y.P.A. contest at the Duffus Bowling Academy one evening last week, taking three straight games from their rivals, though the totals for each of the three games were fairly even. J. Young, of the winners, hung up the highest score of the night with 556, while J. Hope, also of the Algonquins, scored 192 and 191—the highest single scores. The total scores for the teams were Algonquins 1650, Mohawks 2025. The teams:

Algonquins: J. Young, Mr. Kay, M. Ashnade, J. Hope, D. Morley, Mr. Resko.

Mohawks: S. Curtiss, Mrs. Hepburn, F. Pammett, C. Long and E. Eames.

In the same league the Senecas shut out the Crees, taking all three games, G. Manning of the winners, scoring the highest total 596. He also accounted for the highest single score, 22, while E. Kitchen, of the losers, ran him a close second with 219. In this case, the winners also had the higher total score, 2357, as compared with 1580 for their rivals. The teams:

Senecas: D. Bachelor, Dorington, G. Manning, F. Snelling, S. Smallwood, Mrs. Bachelor.

Crees: F. Andrews, N. Parkes, R. Howarth, F. Johnston, R. Kitchen.

Mic-Macs Defeated.

The Hurons defeated the Mic-Macs by 2-1, having a total score of 2442 to 2224 of the losers. J. Grierson of the winners had the highest score 584, and the highest single score, 270, while S. Payne and A. Hood tied for second place, with 225 each. The teams:

Hurons: G. Grierson, A. Doupe, G. Maniece, E. Thompson, V. Sedgwick, F. Curtis.

Mic-Macs: S. Payne, A. Hood, J. Yarn, J. Thornton, H. Ross, H.Crawe G. Nicholls, S. Hood.

By 3-0 the Iroquois emerged victors over the Sioux and also had a 2183 total while the opposition only counted 1911. T. Rye was the high player with a total of 540, while J. Stephenson tallied 200 in a single game. Rye was only one point behind with 199. The teams:

Iroquois: T. Rigby, N. Horn J. Stephenson, F. Hutchinson, B. Graham, M. Guthrie

Sioux: G. Beauclere, Mrs. Kay, dummy dummy T. Rye.

After being tied in the first game by the Blackfeet the Chippewas stemmed out to take the next two, largely through the efforts of J.Gore, who had a total score of 600, and a high single of 223, and a teammate, J. Pritchard, piled up 2263 in the final game. The teams:

Chippewas: A. Pammett, J. Pritchard, J. Gore, F. Shurety, J. Pattison, M. Bacon. Total score 2314.

Examiner Shop League.

Examiner teams took part in two shop league tilts last week. In the first of the two teams comprising White, Anderson, Wylde, McCauley and Dormer, defeated Scates, Butcher, Cullen, Holyman, dummy, by 2-1, having lost the first of the trio. The winners had a total score of 2436, as compared with 2213 of the losers.

In the other fixture Hounsell, Taylor Zeihr, Dugan and dummy lost by 2-1 to Logan, Wyllie, Gray, Dunkley and dummy, the winners totalling 2542 and the losers 2463

Jaffee Suggests Races For Title

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (Canadian Press).—Irving Jaffee of New York returned with the American Olympic speed skating team on the Leviathan yesterday and suggested one means of getting the 10,000 metres race back on the Olympic books.

Jafee was leading the field at St. Moritz, Switzerland, when the 10,000 metres event was cancelled because of soggy ice. He suggested yesterday that an opportunity be given the skaters of other nations to better his time and that the ultimate victor be adjudged Olympic champion.

POT-LUCK DINNER ENJOYED AT CAVAN

Mrs. C. Carr Is Hostess At Dinner to Fourteen Ladies

CAVAN, Feb. 28.—Not aware of what the other was bringing, each lady present at the pot-luck dinner given at Mrs. C. Carr's, supplied some part of the meal. Consequently the meal as a whole was very interesting to the guests, the spirit of anticipation and surmising adding to the merriment of the occasion. A well balanced menu formed the meals, the only thing missing being bread, but this was made up for by the abundance of other good things.

Fourteen ladies were present. Twelve formed the usual group, being drawn from the list of names of the ladies of the church, while two were guests of the hostess. Those present were: Mesdames Widdiss, A. Kennedy, W. Pritchard, Snyder, J. Swain, Card, Pethick, L. Newton, H. Tinney, L. Sutton, J. Armstrong, Melville Carr, Creighton Carr, and Miss Elnor.

CITY LEAGUERS MEET IN FIRST GAME OF FINAL

Both Senior and Junior Play-offs Begin To-morrow Night.

TWO HARD BATTLES.

Teams on Season's Record Have Been Evenly Matched.

All the hockey excitement is by no means over yet and the City League finals which begin at Brock Street rink tomorrow night promises to provide two battles that will keep the crowd on its toes. The City Leaguers whose members include many Junior and Senior O.H.A. players have been playing some great games down at the Sacred Heart rink with scores low enough to sound like the N.H.L. schedule.

The finals should be full of interest.

In the Junior City playoffs the finalists are the Albions and St. Peter's and these two fast young teams will get away at 7.15 o'clock sharp. There is keen rivalry between the two outfits both of whom have beaten the other once this season and with both teams at full strength there will be plenty of action. Bill Jackson is to referee this game.

The second game of the night will be the senior finals between the Maple Leafs and the C.G.E., who have finished at the top of the schedule. This should be a merry battle all the way as both teams are strong and supremely confident of victory. Walter Jackson is reefree.

In both senior and junior finals the teams will play a two-game series total goals to count.

The Hobberlin cup is at stake in the junior series and St. Peter's, who won the trophy last year, will fight until the last ditch to retain possession.

Hockey Scores

Hockey games played last night resulted as follows:

Senior O.H.A.
Varsity 4, Preston 3.
Intermediate O.H.A
*Cahawa 3, Kitchener 1.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LITTLE LOST BEAR

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

"You had better be very careful, Uncle Wiggily," squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as she saw the rabbit gentleman hopping down the front steps of his hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Careful about what?" Mr. Longears asked as he twinkled his pink nose upside down just for a change. "If you mean be careful of my clothes, I will most politely tell you that these are my old ones that I always wear when I go adventuring. So it doesn't matter if I get them dirty."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking about your clothes," said the muskrat lady housekeeper who looked after Uncle Wiggily when his wife was down at the five and six cent store buying diamond dishpans. "I means you had better look out for yourself. You have had several narrow escapes of late."

"You mean yesterday when I got away from the Bear by tickling his nose with the tall, feathery weed, don't you?" asked the rabbit.

"Yes, and the day before when you found the lost penny which rolled down hill so that the Wolf chased that instead of you," went on Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "You had better be careful."

"Thank you, I shall," promised Mr. Longears. "Have no fear for me."

"You haven't any for yourself, so why should I?" laughed Nurse Jane as Uncle Wiggily hopped away. Over the fields towards the woods the rabbit gentleman hurried, and he had nearly reached the clump of evergreen trees which marked where the forest began when, all of a sudden, from behind a big rock came the sound of crying and a voice said:

"Oh, dear! How lost I am! I was never so much lost before in all my life! What am I going to do?"

"Dear me!" said kind Uncle Wiggily to himself, "some one is in trouble and I must help them."

He hopped toward the rock as the voice again said:

"Oh, how lost I am! Never before was I lost so much!"

"Ha! That is funny!" chuckled the rabbit. "How can anybody be lost more at one time than another? Maybe this is Baby Bunty trying to play a joke on me. Ha! Ha! It would be funny!—"

But, all at once, Uncle Wiggily stopped laughing, for he saw a black, shaggy

"So you are lost, are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

shape coming from behind the rock and at once the rabbit whispered:

"It's a Bear!"

Surely enough it was a Bear, but not a big, black one, luckily. It was a little black Bear and as soon as the little Bear turned and saw the rabbit the shaggy fellow began to run toward Uncle Wiggily.

"Look out now! Don't you dare to bit me or I'll call the Police Dog!" cried Mr. Longears, taking a toy whistle from his pocket. There really was no Police Dog near enough for the rabbit to call by his whistle, but Uncle Wiggily thought it might hold back the little Bear to be told this.

However the little Bear came right on toward the old rabbit gentleman, smiling and grinning and flapping his paws and the Bear said:

"Oh, I'm so glad I've found you. Never was I so lost! Boo hoo!"

"So you are lost, are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I don't see how you can be lost more at one time than another. If you're lost you're lost, and that's all there is to it."

"Oh, no!" chuckled the little Bear, who wasn't crying any more. "If you're a mile away from your den you're lost a mile. But if you're ten miles from your den you're lost ten miles. And ten miles is more than one mile, isn't it?"

"I suppose it is," said Uncle Wiggily. "I never thought of it like that. But where is your den?"

"Ho! If I knew that, I wouldn't be lost," sighed the little Bear. "But can't you find it for me? I came out of my den a little while ago to look around and see if summer had come. But it hasn't and I want to go back to my warm bed in the leaves under the snow with my daddy and mother. But I'm lost! Oh, I'm ten miles lost, I guess! Boo hoo!"

"Yes," answered the little Bear, "he is, thank you."

"Then I know where your den is," said the rabbit. "It isn't ten miles away—it isn't even one. It's right here," and he pointed to a hole in the snow, near where the Tall Weed had grown, and where Mr. Longears had tickled the big Bear on the nose with the feathery weed the day before. "Scramble down there and you'll be home," said the rabbit.

"Oh, thank you!" gurgled the little Bear. He scrambled down the hole and was soon safe in his warm den, where he slept the rest of the winter until spring came. And then the bunny gentleman hopped home to his bungalow well pleased with his adventure.

Two Cruiser Owners Consider Trip Through System

Indicative of the fact that advertising does pay in the case of the Trent Waterway, is a letter received by Secretary Frank G. Stinson of the Trent Waterway Development Association. It is from E. J. L'Esperance, of Montreal, who, having read the Association's booklet, writes asking information relative to available charts to guide him in a cruise which he intends taking into the Trent country, this coming season.

Mr. L'Esperance also requests that literature of similar nature be sent to his brother in Montreal who also owns a cruiser likely to be seen passing through Peterborough this year.

"THE CHINESE BUNGALOW."

Matheson Lang has the role of the Mandarin Yuan Sing in the picturization of his famous stage success, "The Chinese Bungalow," the feature production at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week. It is an English picture in a Chinese setting. Lang is the imperturbable Oriental who tries to make an English woman live his life in one of the beauty spots of Malaysia. Becoming infatuated with Sadie, the premier dancer in a revue, he has her abducted and taken to his bungalow. At first she appears to be afraid of him but he charms her and later she becomes his wife. The life at the bungalow makes her lonely and she asks that her sister Charlotte be allowed to live with her. Yuan Sing consents and the sister makes the third in the family circle. Then Sing is called away on business and an Englishman on a nearby plantation, Harold Marquess, comes to the bungalow and makes love to Sadie. The Mandarin returns, discovers the intrigue and sets to work to avenge his insulted honor. Marquess dies suddenly, but his brother, Richard, who has come in answer to his dying summons, also makes friends with the wealthy mine owner and his wife and sister-in-law, falling in love with the latter. In the meantime, Sing also has discovered that Charlotte, his "Heart of Jade," as he terms her, is his real affinity and he decides to put his faithless wife away and wed her sister. If Charlotte will marry him, he will divorce Sadie and forget her. Otherwise, he will kill her, as the Mandarin law gives him the right to do. In the midst of this predicament, Charlotte sends for Richard and the latter, in a melodramatic scene with Yuan Sing, comes off the victor in a strange test arranged by the Oriental to allow Fate to cut the Gordian knot of the triangle.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

William de Mille, Director, Man of Style All His Own

By his slouch hat and his grey suede jacket you will know one of the foremost motion picture directors —William deMille!

Crouched low beneath the tripod of the camera, keen, alert to every move of his players, you will find him. There is no mistaking him, for his is a style—a manner all his own. His actions and procedure are as different from those of the average director as day is from night.

Instead of the conventional three foot megaphone, his is a miniature affair, similar to those employed by college rooters at a football game. Leather riding boots and directorial chairs, indispensable paraphernalia to most directors, are non-essentials to William deMille. In fact, he might easily be taken for an unpretentious 'extra' rather than director. And yet few directors have a more enviable record.

Back at the Cecil B. deMille studio after a vacation in New York, where he spent several weeks studying the offerings of the legitimate stage, he directed Vera Reynold's new star picture, "The Little Adventuress," at the Regent Theatre. This is a delightful screen version of "The Dover Road," A. A. Milne's stage success.

Victor Varconi, Phyllis Haver and Theodore Kosloff are featured and Robert Ober has an important role. Clara Beranger adapted the piece.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHO WERE KIND

I've forgotten who were rich,
I've forgotten who were poor,
For it doesn't matter which,
Money never does for sure.
Nothing matters much but this,
When your glance is cast behind
When you think of friends you miss,
You remember who were kind.

I've forgotten who were wise,
I've forgotten who were not,
For a fellow's folly dies,
And his wisdom is forgot.
But I never shall forget
Many a friend I used to find
Of the people that I met,
I remember who were kind.

I've forgotten who were great,
I've forgotten many men,
Many men who used to hate
Never do recall again.
But I always find a few
In my memory enshrined
Yes, of all the men I know,
I remember who were kind.

BUILDING CANADIAN INDUSTRIES

THE C. I. L. oval will now appear on all products manufactured by Canadian Industries Limited and its subsidiary companies.

You will find it on the labels of Paints, Varnishes, Enamels, Duco—with which products you can beautify and protect your home, your car, your furniture, your factory, etc. It identifies the lovely articles of Pyralin toiletware that adorn your wife's dressing table.

It will appear upon the rolls of Fabrikoid that go to the country's great makers of automobiles; to the furniture manufacturers for upholstery; to makers of fine luggage and to the bookbinders; and upon Tontine window shades and a score of articles for other industries.

It identifies the Explosives which release the minerals needed by industry and fuel to keep you warm; which blast paths through mountain and forest for your roads; which clear and drain land for larger crops, bringing food for your table at lower costs.

It identifies Dominion Shot Shells and Metallic Cartridges which have won fame the world over for their accuracy and dependability.

The oval trade-mark of Canadian Industries Limited appears on this varied and seemingly unrelated family of products as a result of the work of chemical engineers in developing a series of new applications of the basic materials used in its prime industry, the making of explosives.

Canadian Industries Limited, by continual experiment and research, hopes to make still further contributions to the comfort, the security and prosperity of Canadian homes and Canadian industry.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

Charles Scribner's Sons

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that Mannix, Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist all had been lying about their whereabouts on the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a Miss Frisbee in an apartment adjoining the "Canary's"; that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing that Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him and had been waiting in the alley outside.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

As Lindquist talked he became more and more agitated. The nerves about his eyes had begun to twitch, and his shoulders jerked like those of a man attempting vainly to control a chill.

"Remember, sir, I was suffering agonies, and my hatred of Spotswoode seemed to cloud my reason. Scarcely realizing what I was doing and yet operating under an irresistible determination, I put my automatic in my pocket and hurried out of the house.

"I thought Miss Odell and Spotswoode would be returning from the theater soon, and I intended to force my way into the apartment and perform the act I had planned. . . . From across the street I saw them enter the house—it was about eleven then—but, when I came face to face with the actuality, I hesitated. I delayed my revenge; I—I played with the idea, getting a kind of insane satisfaction out of it—knowing they were now at my mercy. . . ."

His hands were shaking as with a coarse tremor; and the twitching about his eyes had increased.

"For half an hour I waited, gloating. Then, as I was about to go in and have it over with, a man named Cleaver came along and saw me. He stopped and spoke.

"I thought he might be going to call on Miss Odell, so I told him she already had a visitor. He then went on toward Broadway, and while I was waiting for him to turn the corner, Spotswoode came out of the house and jumped into a taxicab that had just driven up. . . . My plan had been thwarted—I had waited too long. Suddenly I seemed to awake as from some terrible nightmare. I was almost in a state of collapse, but I managed to get home. . . . That's what happened—so help me God!"

He sank back weakly in his chair. The suppressed nervous excitement that had fired him while he spoke had died out, and he appeared listless and indifferent. He sat several minutes breathing stertorously, and twice he passed his hand vaguely across his forehead. He was in no condition to be questioned, and finally Markham sent for Tracy and gave orders that he was to be taken to his home.

"Temporary exhaustion from hysteria," commented Vance indifferently. "All these paranoia lads are hyperneurasthenic. He'll be in a psychopathic ward in another year."

"That's as may be, Mr. Vance," said Heath, with an impatience that repudiated all enthusiasm for the subject of abnormal psychology.

"What interests me just now is the way all these fellows' stories hang together."

"Yes," nodded Markham. "There is undeniably a groundwork of truth in their statements."

"But please observe," Vance pointed out, "that their stories do not eliminate any one of them as a possible culprit. Their tales, as you say, synchronize perfectly; and yet, despite all that neat co-ordination, any one of the three could have got into the Odell apartment that night.

"For instance Mannix could have entered from Apartment 2 before Cleaver came along and listened; and he could have seen Cleaver going away when he himself was leaving the Odell apartment.—Cleaver could have spoken to the doctor at half past eleven, walked to the Ansonia, returned a little before twelve, gone into the lady's apartment, and come out just as Mannix opened Miss Frisbee's door.

"Again, the excitable doctor may have gone in after Spotswoode came out at half past eleven, stayed twenty minutes or so, and departed before Cleaver returned from the Ansonia. . . . No; the fact that their stories dovetail doesn't in the least tend to exculpate any one of them."

"And," supplemented Markham, "that cry of 'Oh, my God!' might have been made by either Mannix or Lindquist—provided Cleaver really heard it."

"He heard it unquestionably," said Vance. "Some one in the apartment was invoking the Deity around midnight. Cleaver hasn't sufficient sense of the dramatic to fabricate such a thrillin' tale."

"But if Cleaver actually heard that voice," protested Markham, "then he is automatically eliminated as a suspect."

"Not at all, old dear. He may have heard it after he had come out of the apartment, and realized then, for the first time, that some one had been hidden in the place during his visit."

"Your man in the clothes-closet, I presume you mean."

"Yes, of course you know Markham, it might have been the horrified Skeel, emerging from his hiding-place upon a scene of tragic wreckage, who let out that evangelical invocation."

"Except," commented Markham, with sarcasm, "Skeel doesn't impress me as particularly religious."

"Oh, that?" Vance shrugged. "A point in substantiation. Irreligious persons call on God much more than Christians. The only true and consistent theologians, don't y' know, are the atheists."

Heath, who had been sitting in gloomy meditation, took his cigar from his mouth and heaved a heavy sigh.

"Yes," he rumbled, "I'm willing to admit somebody besides Skeel got into Odell's apartment, and that the Dude hid in the clothes-closet. But, if that's so, then this other fellow didn't see Skeel; and it's not going to do us a whole lot of good even if we identify him."

"Don't fret on that point, Sergeant," Vance counseled him cheerfully. "When you've identified this other mysterious visitor you'll be positively amazed how black care will desert you. You'll rubricate the hour you find him. You'll leap gladsomely in the air. You'll sing a roundelay."

"The hell I will!" said Heath.

Swacker came in with a typewritten memorandum, and put it on the district attorney's desk.

"The architect just phoned in this report."

Markham glanced it over it was very brief.

"Too bad, Sergeant," sighed Vance. "You'll have to drop the cinema idea . . . Sad."

Heath grunted and looked disconsolate.

"Even without no other way of getting in or out except that side door," he said to Markham, "couldn't we get an indictment against Skeel, now that we know the door was unlocked Monday night?"

"We might, Sergeant. But our chief snag would be to show how it was originally unlocked and then rebolted after Skeel left. And Abe Rubin would concentrate on that point.—No, we'd better wait a while and see what develops."

Something "developed" at once. Swacker entered and informed the Sergeant that Snitkin wanted to see him immediately.

Snitkin came in, visibly agitated, accompanied by a wizened, shabbily dressed little man of about sixty, who appeared awed and terrified. In the detective's hand was a small parcel wrapped in newspaper, which he laid on the district attorney's desk with an air of triumph.

"The Canary's jewelry," he announced. "I've checked it up from the list the maid gave me, and it's all there."

Heath sprang forward, but Markham was already untying the package with nervous fingers. When the paper had been opened, there lay before us a small heap of dazzling trinkets—several rings of exquisite workmanship, three magnificent bracelets, a sparkling sunburst, and a delicately wrought lorgnette. The stones were all large and of unconventional cut.

"This man Potts found 'em. He's a street-cleaner, and he says they were in one of the D.S.C. cans at 23d Street near the Flatiron Building. He found 'em yesterday afternoon, so he says, and took 'em home. Then he got scared and brought 'em to Police Headquarters this morning."

Mr. Potts, the "white-wing," was trembling visibly.

"Thass right sir—thass right," he assured Markham with frightened eagerness. "I allus look into any bundles I find. I didn't mean no harm takin' 'em home, sir. I wasn't gonna keep 'em.' I laid awake worryin' all night, an' this mornin', as soon as I got a chance, I took 'em to the p'lice." He shook so violently I was afraid he was going to break down completely.

"That's all right, Potts," Markham told him in a kindly voice. Then to Snitkin "Let the man go—only get his full name and address."

Vance had been studying the newspaper in which the jewels had been wrapped.

"I say, my man," he asked, "is this the original paper you found them in?"

"Yes, sir—the same. I ain't touched nothin'."

Mr. Potts, greatly relieved, shambled out, followed by Snitkin.

"The Flatiron Building is directly across Madison Square from the Stuyvesant Club," observed Markham, frowning.

"So it is." Vance then pointed to the left-hand margin of the newspaper that held the jewels. "And you'll notice that this Herald of yesterday has three punctures evidently made by the pins of a wooden holder such as is generally used in a club's reading-room."

How Virol builds Children for LIFE

Mrs. Baker and her new baby To-day

Two Generations of PROOF

TO-DAY Mrs. Baker is a splendid healthy woman, with a splendid healthy baby. Yet 15 years ago she was at death's door. Read how Virol saved her life when she was a child and laid the foundations of her own permanent good health and that of her child.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO Mrs. Baker's Mother wrote :—

"She was reduced to a mere skeleton (Photo 1). The doctor said the only thing that would pull her up was Virol. In five months she more than doubled her weight. Her illness left her so weak that she could not keep a particle of food down but the Virol—that seemed to feed her and strengthen her chest. She is now a picture of health" (Photo 2).

The top photo shows how Virol has enabled her to grow up into a healthy woman whose baby is also a picture of health—how, in fact, the beneficial effect of Virol continues even to the next generation.

Virol is the only food which can exhibit such a remarkable case of racial improvement. Give your child Virol in the dangerous winter months.

MRS. BAKER WHEN A CHILD

Age 6 yrs. Weight 44 lbs. 2 ozs. AFTER 5 MONTHS ON VIROL

These are guaranteed to be genuine photographs and accurate particulars of Mrs. Baker. This and every other case published by Virol Ltd. are open to the strictest investigation by any Doctor interested.

FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Mary, Queen of Scots (II) — By Nicholas Afonsky

Mary, Queen of Scots, when she returned to her own country, widowed by the death of her young husband, King Francis II of France, longed for the gaiety of the Paris court. She turned from the stern Scotch courtiers for sympathy to de Chastelard, one of a brilliant band she had gathered about her.

De Chastelard seems to have fallen in love with Mary. What her feelings and actions in this affair were remains a mooted question. At all events, there was gossip, and de Chastelard was finally executed—it is said by some that Mary allowed the execution to protect her good name from the gossip mongers.

It was a little after this that Mary married Lord Darnley, her half cousin, son of the Earl of Lennox. He was apparently more interested in Mary's throne than in Mary; but she was in love with him. He was tall, good-looking, with a beardless face that won him the name of Lady-face. He was also weak and treacherous.

Mary, who had a sense of her responsibilities, soon discovered that she and Darnley were unsuited. She had given him the title of king. He asked further power, which she refused. To get even with her, on the day when they should have opened their first parliament, he left her alone, and went hunting.

A PLAN FOR A SLOPING LOT.

Wright & Noxon, Architects.

This house has unusual accommodation and conveniences at very low cost and is a most interesting study in design and landscape treatment for a very sloping lot. It was built facing east on a corner lot having streets on the south and east and a decided slope from east to west, or from front to rear of the house.

On the lowest floor, which is level with the west side of the lot, are three bedrooms, bathroom and combined laundry and store room. The bedrooms have good light and are well protected from dampness and the furnace room, being under the garage, makes it possible to have ordinary floor radiators in these rooms.

The next floor up is on the level with the east side of the lot and contains the living room, dining room and kitchen, all being of ample size and convenient shape. Both living and dining rooms have a conservation of space and at the same time has the appearance of ample size, to which effect, the stair well going both up and down contributes a great deal.

On the top floor is another bathroom and two more bedrooms, which are large and comfortable as the roof is insulated against loss of heat in winter and admittance of it in summer.

The two car garage is on the level of the lowest floor and has a ramp driveway to the street. The drying roof above the garage has direct access from the kitchen and is another illustration of the thoughtfulness of the architects.

The front elevation shows only two floors, the upper one being in the roof, which creates an extremely snug appearance.

Simplicity is the main keynote of the exterior. The materials used are very rough, plastered stonework, similar to that found in old Canadian farm houses. The irregular texture and mixture of colors in this type of wall make it most effective and it is also quite inexpensive.

All main windows are of French type but have solid lower panels in which the radiators are set, the thick walls enabling them to be completely concealed in this manner.

The decorative treatment of the interior has been thoroughly studied and there are also many modern built in features.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with MacLean Builders' Guide, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont. who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 113. Copyright, 1928.

An old lady walked into the Canadian Pacific ticket office at King and Yonge streets, Toronto, and asked about the trains and routes to New York.

"Do you wish to go by Buffalo? said the clerk.

Had she been going to Vancouver or anywhere in the West she would not have asked at all, as she would know as mostly all do, that the Canadian Pacific "Vancouver Express" which leaves Toronto Union Station at 9.00 p.m. daily is really the ideal way. This train of highest grade all-steel equipment provides the utmost in travel comfort; the excellent cuisine and the outstanding courtesy accorded all passengers have earned for it an enviable reputation.

When going to the West travel "Vancouver Express", nearest Canadian Pacific Agent will gladly arrange every detail of your trip.

Swift's Circle S Picnics

Are specially selected for quality—mildly sugar cured—and well smoked, which brings out the excellent flavor of the meat.

They need no soaking before cooking.

Swift's Circle S Picnics are prepared in a manner that gives them a mild, sweet, delicious flavor different from that of the ordinary Picnic, and are put up for the purpose of giving the trade something distinctive.

Especially fine for Baking or for Boiling.

Recipe For Baking

After washing Circle S Picnic, put on to cook with enough cold water to cover it. Bring to a boil and cook until nearly done (about twenty-five minutes per pound).

Remove from water—take off skin—stick cloves in soft fat and sprinkle the fat lightly with brown sugar. Place Picnic in a covered baking pan with a little cold water. Bake slowly for about one-half to three-quarters of an hour or until well done.

BOYS HEAR TALK ON BOOK READING

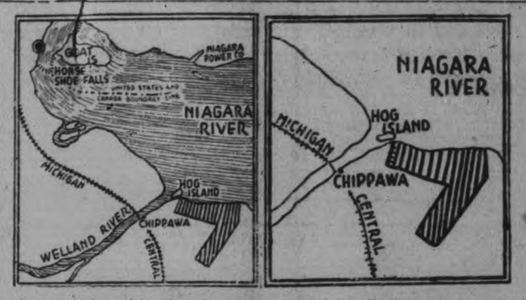
Rev. J. W. Gordon Addresses Friday Night Supper Club.

"Books and how to read them" proved the subject of a most interesting and instructive address delivered at the Friday Night Supper Club meeting in the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening. The Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's church was the speaker and his talk to the large number of young men who attended, was one of the finest of the season. At its conclusion, a hearty vote of appreciation was moved and seconded by John Thompson and Bill Sangster.

An "inter-table" singing contest was conducted—or misconducted—during the meeting. It was also decided to hold a sleigh ride next Friday evening, weather permitting.

Goes 30 Years Without Pension

NEW YORK, February 28 (Canadian Press). — Herman Hunter, who was a seaman on Admiral Dewey's ship in the Spanish-American War, went without a pension for thirty years because he did not know he was entitled to one. Two days after he finally received his first payment he died.



A group of wealthy Americans are reported planning a $20,000,000 clubhouse and airdrome for some point on the border near Niagara Falls. The project has been given further credence by the purchase of the Hawkes property, between the Welland and Niagara Rivers, by George B. Lundy, of Stamford Township, who states he has, in turn, had a "very substantial" offer for the site. Reports are that the project would be a sanctuary for America's "tired business men," with modern air equipment to enable them to commute to Wall Street. Maps show the proximity of the Hawkes property to the Falls and an idea of its proportions.

HOBBY SHOW LIST IS DRAWN

Exhibit Directors Make Final Adjustments and Additions.

MUSIC SECTION ADDED.

Final adjustments to the exhibit list for this year's show were made by the board of directors of the Boys' Hobby Show at a meeting held in the Y.M.C.A.. There are thirty-six directors of departments who are all boys and seventeen adults comprising an advisory board. It was decided to hold the hobby show in the Y.M.C.A. building during the Easter vacation so as in no wise to interfere with school work.

A department for music and another for mechanical models was added to the exhibit list and with the experience gained by the show of last year the old departments were strengthened. Bronze medals will be given the champion in each department and the grand champion of the show will receive as a souvenir a silver cup with his achievement recorded thereon.

It is anticipated that the competition for violin players in the music section will attract many boys. Three classes of players divided according to age will have different test pieces judged by a committee of judges. In addition to the violin there will be a competition for boy mouth organ players and a fire rubbing contest will be an interesting event in the scoutcraft department.

The Hobby Show is a community enterprise. It is promoted for every boy in the city and surrounding districts. The directors feel that they have included classes for everythig that a boy owns, makes or does, and will find a place for any exhibit if one is not already provided. The entry fee will be ten cents for which a boy may enter as many exhibits as he desires and which will cover his exhibitor's pass to the show.

WEDDING BELLS

MILLER—LAPP.

A very pretty wedding took place at twelve o'clock to-day at Murray Street Baptist church, when Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Alma Eloise, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lapp, Bolivar street, and Gordon Campbell Miller, youngest son of Colonel and the late Mrs. J. W. Miller, McDonnel street. The wedding music was played by the bride's brother, Mr. Cecil Lapp and Miss Margaret Wolstenholme sang "Beloved, It Is Morn" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of French blue georgette and Spanish silk lace, with small French hat of the same blue, and grey suede slippers with grey silk hose. Her bouquet was of ophelia roses and lily of the valley.

The only attendant was the flower girl, little Dorothy Lapp, in a dainty frock of pink silk, trimmed with pale blue, with hair bandeau and basket of spring flowers and forget-me-nots, tied with pink ribbon.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the decorations being carried out in pale pink and white, the bride's table centred by the cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left by the afternoon train for a honeymoon trip to New York and Atlantite City, the bride travelling in a kasha cloth dress and coat trimmed wtih beige fox fur, with small hat to match and brown silk hose and brown velvet slippers. On their return they will reside at 543 George street.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a marquise ring set with diamonds and sapphires, to the flower girl a ring and to the soloist a pin.

OBITUARY

JOHN BROWN.

The death took place on Saturday, Feb. 28, 1928, of John, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brown, 441 Rogers street.

JAMES HAYES.

There passed away in Peterborough this morning an aged resident in the person of James Hayes. He was in his seventy-ninth year, and is survived by two sons, John of the Peterborough Lumber Company, and Joseph of Detroit; also one daughter, Mrs. Guerin, of Buffalo. A brother, John Hayes, resides in Otonabee.

Funeral announcement will be made later.

ANIMATED SCENE AT WEEKLY CLINIC

Treatment Advised if Baby is Not in the Best of Health

From three to five o'clock on bies' Clinic presents a very animated scene at the rooms in the Canadian Legion Hall. One by one, the babies are brought to the nurse, to be weighed and a card given to the secretary to be filled out. If the diet is not agreeing or the baby is losing weight, it is handed over to the doctor in charge and the necessary corrections are made, or the mother is advised to take the baby to the family physician. In serious cases, the treatment is followed up at the home by the nurse.

All new babies are thoroughly examined and any defect or malformation is pointed out. At the same time, advice is given to the mother on many minor points. Occasionally, the program is varied by lectures given by the doctors on the staff or talks to the mothers. In some bad cases of mal-nutrition or rickets, cod liver oil is given to those who are unable to purchase it.

The keynote of the Well Babies' Clinic is "prevention," and its results are obtained through early supervision of the child and through education given to the mother. The mortality figures of women and children in childbirth are appalling One of the chief reason is that proper pre-natal care is not given to women, and serious symptoms are often overlooked. This sort of advice and care may be obtained by expectant mothers who come to the Clinic.

TO GET AHEAD.

Adman, salesman, manager here's a word or two for you:
Farmer, middleman, consumer, miner, operator too—
Those who work with brain or muscle, those who buy and those who sell,
If you hope to thrive and prosper, in the world wherein you dwell,
You must learn co-operation, you, you must cease to work alone—
(Why the cave-man stopped that nonsense just the minute he was "shown;"
Join your forces, be united, for the word is truly said—
"You have got to get together, if you want to get ahead."

BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Perhaps you never thought of Tanlac to relieve Kidney Trouble and free you of Backache and Rheumatic Pains. Yet many of the thousands and thousands of bottles of Tanlac sold today are being taken by those who are getting rid of their Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism.

For instance, take Mr. John Atkinson of Chedoke, Ont. He was almost a cripple when he began to take Tanlac. "My kidneys had bothered me for four years and I was seldom free of backache or rheumatic pains in my right arm and shoulder. I was getting worse all the time, despite various treatments, and I thought I would have to give up work.

In about two weeks after I started on Tanlac, I felt better; and after the second bottle, I picked up rapidly. It wasn't long before Tanlac had me in good shape to do a full day's work and feel fine all the time. I had not had a sign of my old trouble since I took Tanlac."

Made of roots, barks and herbs, Tanlac purifies the glood, regulates the vital organs, corrects Stomach Trouble, free you of pain after eating, gas, diziness and headaches. And it costs less than 2c a dose—less than 6c a day. Get a bottle at your druggists—your money back if not satisfied.

Around the City

At 7.47 this morning an alarm from the Canadian General Electric plant on Park street, sent a considerable detachment of the fire brigade on a hurried run. Some workmen in placing a belt on a pulley overloaded an electric motor in the wire compound department, with the result that it began to smoke, threatening to take fire. However the danger had passed ere the firemen arrived, only some tell tale smoke remaining to indicating that there had been a fire threat.

CHRISTOPHER. — At Nicholls Hospital, February 27th, 1928, to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Christopher — a son (Thomas Warren).

IN MEMORIAM.

EMES — In fond and loving memory of my dear uncle, Arthur Emes, who entered into rest at Beaverton, February 28, 1927.
Just one year ago to-day
Since my dear uncle went away
With our Heavenly Father to stay,
Asleep till the dawn.
—Sadly missed as Uncle, Friend and Pal, by his Nephew, Liveman Paton, 947 Water Street, Peterborough.

EMES. — In loving memory of Silas Arthur Emes, who passed away on the 28th day of February, 1927.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We little thought the end so near;
Oft in silence we think of you and shed a tear
For one we loved so dear.
—Sadly missed by Brothers and Sisters. Inserted by his Sister, Mrs. J. Trotter, 947 Water Street, Peterborough.

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Charles White, who died Feb. 28th, 1927.
February brings sad memories
Of a loved one laid to rest,

BOWLING — Exercise with a Smile!

When good friends get together . . . and the pins start flying . . . and the excitement runs at fever pitch—there is always a happy feeling of good fellowship abounding above all that seems to be inseparable from the exercise of bowling. This is the most beneficial sort of exercise—exercise with a smile.

Get some pals together today and topple the pins over for a few rounds. There is no better fun and no better exercise.

Gordon W. Brown Succumbs To Effects Of Shock

WERE UNDER INSTRUCTIONS TO DUMP DEBRIS INTO STOPES

Witnesses Testify Before Commission at Hollinger Disaster Investigation.

SYSTEM CHANGED.

Tell Court Workmen Used To Take Waste Matter To Surface.

TIMMINS, Ont., February 29 (Canadian Press).—Two witnesses, John Reid and Stanley Richards, who appeared before the Royal Commission investigating the Hollinger disaster, swore yesterday afternoon that they had, under instructions, dumped debris from the Thaw house on the 550 foot level into stopes otherwise unused, while a third man, W. Leblanc, admitted he also had performed similar work, but he never had inquired from the fellow-worker immediately in authority over him why this method of disposing of this waste material was being practised. Reid told Peter White, K.C., counsel for the Commission, that his orders had come from Murdoch McLeod, his boss at the time, while Richards declared that Dick Stevens, his predecessor as a transportation boss, and now a shift boss at the mine, had told him to dump the rubbish in Stope 55-A, in which occurred the fatal fire of February 10 last. Richards swore he had carried out these orders "for about a year," and he told Arthur Slaght, K.C., appearing for the company, that in that time back filling had been going on in different stopes on that same level. But not in 55 itself, he informed Mr. Justice Godson, the Commissioner.

Used Waste Pass.

Leblanc ,who operates an electric locomotive on the fifth level, with "Bill the switchman"—he could not identify his colleague further—declared he used to take two cars containing box lids, sawdust, papers and fuse ends, from the Thaw house and dump them in the central waste pass, but Ed. Bender ,at that time head transportation boss, had stopped this practise for reasons unknown to witness. Leblanc told Mr. White he had inquired of the motorman on the other shift—he identified him only as Dick, but Reid gave his number as 2762—why the change was made, and "Dick" had said the stuff was being put in stope 55-A. Witness himself had hauled some of it there, but he never had had time to look in the stope to see what sort of a pile was being made there. Leblanc swore he never had asked the transportation boss why the dumping was going on, and that individual never had told him the reason.

To W. A .Gordon, counsel for the men, Leblanc said he also had dumped debris into stope one on M-2, this on instructions from his partner when the latter had stopped going to 55-A, when a piston was put on the track.

While Leblanc was positive the central waste pass had been boarded up two years ago and, he thought, had not been used since, he was contradicted on this point by Reid. The latter told Mr. White the pass never had been closed. Reid's story was that McLeod, who since has left the company's employment, had told him to clean out the powder cars and that he had put some of the rubbish he found there in the central waste pass and some in stope 55-A. Reid is now a transportation boss himself, and he said that, in his present position, he had nothing to do with the removal of refuse, as he was on day shift all the time, and the cars were not handled in that period. He had never asked what became of the cars now, he declared.

System Changed.

J. Trevethan, powder man, told how, four and a half years ago, he and others had taken the debris to the surface themselves, and there thrown it on a dump. The system had been changed, he informed the Commissioner, when larger cars were substituted for the ones then in use, on the instructions of "the superintendent, I guess,"- the reference being to V. M. Emery, mine superintendent. This witness believed that, after the change, the refuse had been mixed with the dirt, although he had heard ti was being dumped in the mine.

Trevethan and J. R. Watts, another powder man, explained how the powder was handled when sent below, and the latter said the box lids were placed in one car, and the sawdust, and fuse ends in another, these being taken away by the switchmen. Watts said he knew the waste was dumped "somewhere in the mines"; he neevr had inquired or heard what particular place was thus used. To the Commissioner, he said that had he known, it would have caused him "a little worry," while to Mr. Slaght he said there was no particular reason why separate cars were used. Neither was full of refuse daily. Trevethan said papers formerly were used for tamping, but not lately. John Knox, the assistant general manager, was positive he had not known of the practice of dumping the thaw house waste in quantities until after the fire, and he told the Commissioner he never had considered it a safe practice, although he admitted not having made any inquiries in the

Word "Aggression" Is Point of Difference

PARIS, Feb. 29 (Canadian Press). — The word "aggression" as described the kind of war to be outlawed in the proposed pact between France and America remains the principal point of difference between Washington and Paris. Official circles said last night following receipt of a summary of Secretary of State Kellog's new note to this government. With this one exception, the note has created a good impression.

Official opinion, unofficially expressed, is that the negotiations are progressing, however. It is said that Foreign Minister Briand has no insurmountable objection to Secretary Kellogg's insistence that negotiations be conducted simultaneously between the principal powers, although he intends pointing out again the difficulties this suggestion raises.

As to the characterization of the war outlawed as "aggressive" it is remarked that Kellogg will find the other principal powers of the same opinion as France, because all have the same obligations to the League and might be called upon to wage defensive war.

GOOD PRICES PAID AT SALE

Shorthorn Breeders' Association Holds Tenth Annual Auction.

TOP PRICE IS $230.

The tenth annual auction sale of the Peterborough County Shorthorn Breeders' Association was held yesterday at the Montgomery Hotel stables, with buyers present from the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland, and Durham. Twenty-seven cattle in all were offered for sale, twenty-four males and three females.

These sales have proved to be a valuable asset to the farmer for he is able to secure the animal that he requires to improve his herd and also many farmers have secured their first pure-bred shorthorns at one of these sales and to-day their herds are among the leading herds of the county.

The average price obtained yesterday was $111.00 and the total sale amounted to $2,995.00. Bowles Brothers' Royal Boy, a bull of 17 months old, brought the top price when sold to John Earle of Ida for $230.

Many of the stock offered could have stood more feeding, but those that brought the high prices were well finished and showed that much time had been spent in preparing them for the sale.

The success of the annual sale has been largely built on the reputation of what the animals have accomplished in the hands of those who purchased them. The committee in charge of the sale was composed of Walter Bowles, president, B. Matchett secretary and Frank Savigny. Two of the animals purchased were for the Lakehurst Agricultural Society.

Prince Henry, bred by F. Sheppard and sold to H. Cardwell, Fraserville, for $125.

Knight of Butterfy, bred by M. H. Pimmett, Indian River, and sold to W. J. Charlton, R.R. 4, Peterborough, for $100.

Royal Boy, bred by Bowles Brothers, R.R. 5, Peterborough, and sold to John Earle, Ida, for $230.

Duke of Gloster, bred by Bowles Brothers and sold to Lakehurst Agricultural Society for $200.

Bayview Bill, bred by F. Scollard, Ennismore, and sold to J. Fowler, Peterborough, for $100.

Duke 2nd, bred by Bruce Savigny and sold to V. K. Hunter, Cavan, for $95.

Nonpareil Eclipse, bred by J. A. Knox, Norwood and sold to J. Mullen for $145.

Los Angeles Sets Out On Homeward Journey

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 29. (Canadian Press.) — Bucking a stiff head wind over the Caribbean Sea, the dirigible Los Angeles was headed homeward last night. Shoving off from her temporary mooring mast of France Field, Panama, at 10:15 o'clock yesterday morning after a 12 hour rest from her non-stop flight from Lakehurst, N.J., she buffeted the winds that increased her speed southward.

Although her flight down to the isthmus required but forty hours, Lieut-Commander C. E. Rosendahl, informed the Navy Department yesterday that it would require about 30 hours for the Los Angeles to reach Cuacanayabo Bay, where the naval aircraft tender Patoka is anchored.

DINNER GIVEN F. HUNGERFORD LEAVING CITY

Representative Business Men Gather To Wish Associate God-speed.

ADDRESS PRESENTED.

J. J. Turner Presides at Interesting Function—Compliments For City.

Frederick C. Hungerford, former manager of the F. W. Woolworth store in Peterborough, was the guest of honor at a dinner in the Downyflake last night, given by about twenty-five of his business friends on the eve of his departure to New York.

There was nothing formal in the gathering, and having in the preceding paragraph carried out the law that every newspaper story must start with a finality, this account will depart, too, from the formal. Industries are generally stronger on statistics than on imagination, but last night's dinner was evidence that the leading men, at least, in a score of Peterborough industries can forget business and figures long enough to think of such altruistic things as leave-takings and the giving of good wishes to a business associate.

John J. Turner, looking as contented and safe as a bank president, presided. It was he, indeed, who arranged the affair, though the program took care of itself, with John Crane as director of music and everyone else a director of the felicitations showered upon the guest of the evening. Those who led the expression of pleasure in meeting Mr. Hungerford, and regret in losing him, were Messrs. Kingan, Gillespie, Comstock, Hopwood, Crane and Roy. This list, however, does not include those who "wise-cracked" at the expense of the chairman, the musician, the guest of honor and Mr. Hicks-Lyne.

The famous historian, Bishop Stubbs of Oxford, who married his cook, used to advise his students to avoid generalities and idealizations. It is good advice for the incipient historian. The Bishop's books are dull reading, but they are eminently sound. And if it is not too late to adopt a safety policy, this account will follow the Bishop's advice.

When several tributes (including some to his good judgment in selecting a life partner) had been paid to Mr. Hungerford, he replied in characteristic manner, telling his admiration for Peterborough and his opinions on several matters of immediate civic interest. After residing in Montreal, Kitchener, and Galt, he said, he had decided that Peterborough is far and away ahead of any. The unequalled summer beauties of the district set it apart and make a wonderful setting for a city that has outstanding industrial, merchandising and recreational facilities. "The stores in Peterborough outclass anything I have seen in any city its size or much bigger," he said. "They are more up-to-date, bigger, and better in every way.

"You have been blessed up to the present time with a large number of factories," he continued, mentioning the outstanding plants in the city, "but in my opinion you are not going far enough. You need smaller industries to take up the men temporarily out of employment, so that they will want to remain here. I believe that industrial Peterborough can grow a great deal faster than it has been growing."

In this connection, Mr. Hungerford praised the wonderful work done by the Chamber of Commerce, but remarked that its activity has been hindered by lack of publicity. "People don't understand what the Chamber of Commerce is doing," he said, "and consequently it is difficult to gain their co-operation. If they knew the fact they would be willing to contribute, knowing that their money is working for Peterborough.

"The city needs a building and loan association, too; a real, honest-to-goodness loan association where the working man will not have to put up a half or a quarter the cost

Four-Year-Old Hilda Pearson Has Her First Birthday Party

Down at her home, 315 Maitland Avenue, little Miss Hilda Jean, only daughter of High Constable S. R. Pearson and Mrs. Pearson, is today celebrating the anniversary of her birthday for the first time. And well she may, for, unlike her playfellows, this fair-haired, blue-eyed lass has waited four long years for the opportunity—having one's birthday on February 29th, certainly has its disadvantages.

This afternoon, a number of little friends are helping her observe the occasion with a birthday party which is proving quite the best fun they have had for some time. Mother has thought of many games to be played and has prepared a dainty lunch the same as grown-up folks enjoy. Surely, they will remember this party, while the little guest of honor may, at its conclusion, think regretfully that four more long years must pass before another such day comes round. Then, Miss Pearson, not "little" Miss Pearson, will be eight years old, going to school and enjoying many pleasures that now seem so far away.

Hilda Jean was born in Nicholls Hospital, and for the first couple of years of her life resided on Water Street. Now, in the neighborhood where she lives, she has many little friends, and friends among the older folks, too. Someone, in considering the advantages or disadvantages of having the 29th for a birthday has remarked that "when Miss Pearson makes her debut in society in 1944, she will have passed only five anniversaries, in spite of her twenty years of age, and when at thirty years she enter parliament she will have had only seven birthday cakes on the actual anniversary of her birthday.

28,000 PERSONS CELEBRATING FIRST BIRTHDAY IN FOUR YEARS

England and Wales Have That Many People Born of Feb. 29.

BIRTH RATE HIGH TO-DAY.

New York Paper Figures Amounts Lost and Gained Through Extra Day.

LONDON, February 29 (Canadian Press). — More than 28,000 citizens of England and Wales to-day celebrated their first birthday in four years, it was disclosed at the British Records Office.

Everyone seems to have profited by leap year except spinsters and convicts. Despite Great Britain's two million surplus women, Government statistics show so few availed themselves of the traditional provilege of proposing in leap year, that the marriage rate for the first two months of 1928 is far lower than in an ordinary year.

The extra day added to the calendar by Pope Gregory in 1582 only meant another day of imprisonment for British convicts who are doing long streiches.

STORK BUSY IN LONDON.

LONDON, February 29 (Canadian Press). — The stork broke all records at Queen Charlotte's (London's largest) Maternity Hospital, delivering ten leap year babies before noon today. Interest in leap year babies is so great that the Daily News and the Westminster Gazette have offered a National Savings Certificate of one pound sterling to babies born of registered readers.

Best Wood Ashes in the World Produced Here; Shipped By George Stevens To Chicago Market

At the dinner to Frederick C. Hungerford last night, George A. Gillespie told a story that indicated the far-flung area to which Peterborough distributes not only the products of its big factories but other useful, if humble, articles.

A Peterborough man in Chicago mentioned the place of his residence, and his companion remarked, "You have a man there named Stevens?" "Yes," replied the Peterborough man, "We have several families of that name." "This Stevens," said the Chicago man, "ships us the best wood ashes we get; the best we can get in the world. We use them for curing tobacco."

And the producing of the best wood ashes in the world is something for George Stevens, 364 Mark Street, and for Peterborough, to boast about.

Daring Aviatrix Has Narrow Escape

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 29. (Canadian Press.)—Jeanne Durand, 18 year old stunt aviatrix, miraculously escaped serious injury and perhaps death here yesterday afternoon when her attempt to set a new world's parachute jump went awry and her pilot was forced to land with Miss Durand hanging from the plane.

Leaping into space at an altitude of 15,000 feet, her parachute became entangled in the plane. She was unable to disengage herself but managed to swing up and hold on to the under carriage. After the plane had landed, it was found that she had fainted. She was rushed to a hospital, where she quickly recovered, her only injuries being slight bruises about one arm. She left the hospital after an examination.

W. G. FERGUSON AGED CITIZEN PASSES AWAY

Had Been Associated With Business Life of City For 62 Years.

WAS 81 YEARS OLD.

Native of Scotland and Keen Curler—Retired Only Two Years Ago.

After a lingering illness which confined him to his bed since last October, William Graham Ferguson, one of the oldest and most respected residents of the city, passed away at nine o'clock this morning, in his eighty-first year, at his home at 254 Stewart street.

The late Mr. Ferguson was identified with the active life of the city for over sixty years, and his presence will be missed when devotees of the "roarin' game" meet for annual bonspiels, for he was a great lover of the curling stones. For over half a century, he rarely missed a gathering of the knights of the broom, and was an honorary member of the local Curling Club. He was also a member of the Ketchecum Hunt Club.

Coming to Canada about 1866, Mr. Ferguson, who had learned the grocery business in his native land,was a member of the staff of Nicholls & Hall, grocers, up to the time that he embarked, in 1875, with the late Peter Connal, in a grocery business of his own.

In 1901, he became one of the original directors of the Otonabee Power Company, and managed its affairs from 1906 to 1911, when the Peterborough Light and Power Company took over the concern. He spent about two years with Kingan Hardware Company and in 1913 became manager here for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, resigning from active business life only two years ago, when he was close to eighty years of age.

He was a member of the Board of Education, and acted as its chairman for many years, and was also a member of the William Hall Foor Trust.

His wife, who was a sister of the late Adam Hall and the late Robert Hall, Collector of Customs, predeceased him two years ago. Survivors are two sons and one daughter, Thomas Ferguson of Philadelphia, William Graham Ferguson, Jr., of Vancouver, and Mrs. John Jeffrey, of Milwaukee. Another son died about twenty years ago.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock on Friday afternoon from his late residence to the Little Lake Cemetery.

STIRLING PASTOR'S CALL IS ACCEPTED

Kingston Presbytery Passes It —Accepts Three Resignations.

KINGSTON, Feb. 29.— (Canadian Press.) — The resignations of three ministers, Rev .A. Gogget, of Harrowsmith, Rev. M. Lee, of Wolfe Island, and Rev. E .E. Burgess, of Zion church, Kingston, were received at a meeting of the Kingston Presbytery of the United Church on Tuesday. The call from Princess Street Church, Kingston, to the Rev. C. W. Barret, of Stirling, was accepted. The allocation for maintenance and extension funds was placed at $46,500. There are 5,867 families in the Presbytery, consisting of 19,477 people.

Listening in with his fingers on a special set he made for himself, a Rochester, N. Y., man can distinguish the various instruments, although he has not been able to speak or hear since he was six years

ATTENDANTS GIVE UP HOPE OF REVIVING SPARK OF LIFE

Mount Vesuvius Is Again Active

The historic volcano once more has entered the active eruptive stage and masses of lava are being launched from the central crater at brief intervals, interspersed with streamers of acidous gaseous clouds. In the villages around the mountain, light rumblings are heard, sometimes strong enough to make windows rattle.

Some of the fragments launched from the crater have reached the rim of the great cone which was precipitated during the famous eruption of 1906, and guides last night were keeping a stringent guard to keep unwary spectators away from the danger zone.

Professor Malladra, director of the Vesuvian Observatory, is busy studying every movement in the volcano. He said last night that the present activity merely marks a recrudescence of the volcano's movements without danger for the hamlets that cluster on the hillsides.

75 SIGNED UP IN 24 HOURS

Chamber of Commerce Campaign is Progressing Splendidly.

70 PER CENT NEW.

Returns received from the team workers in the Chamber of Commerce campaign up to noon on Wednesday indicate 75 new memberships for the 24 hours. At least 70 per cent. of these had never been supporters of the organization before. In addition those whose memberships expire during the year have given instructions to tell them when that expiration date arrives.

One school teacher, having read Mayor Denne's statement in The Examiner sent in her membership through F. D. Kerr, with a wish that that all of the faculty might do the same.

In concluding his letter of approval, S. R. Parsons, manager of the British American Oil Company, said "Your work is really very important and deserves the fullest consideration from all parties who have business and other interests in Peterborough."

The final luncheon will be held at the Empress Hotel, Thursday, at 12.15 p.m., to allow the captains and committees to make a final check on the cards and clean-up campaign until Friday noon.

H. K. McKeen, who has been here five weeks, will leave on Friday night or Saturday morning for Cape Girardeau Mo., where he begins a campaign similar to the one conducted here. That city is one of those that suffered severely during the Mississippi flood of last year

Address Poultrymen.

James Dutton and Mr. McKeen attended the meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association at the W. O. W. Hall last night. Mr. Dutton gave a comprehensive outline of the work of the Chamber of Commerce and the reasons for the present campaign.

Mr. McKeen discussed the subject "Why the Chamber of Commerce is interested in Chickens." This address was probably one of the most interesting and practical discussions of the town and country problem yet given during the campaign. It dealt with the fundamental economics of the whole problem and each point was driven home by an actual illustration in which it was shown how the problem was met. Mr. McKeen drew most of his illustrations from his own experience

"Feed yourself, live at home, and have a cash crop is a slogan worthy of emulation," said Mr. McKeen."Until you have more eggs or chickens than you can use your purchasing power as a poultryman is nil. The city is builded on the purchasing power of those who are employed in towns and reside in the trading territory.

"That's why the Chamber of Commerce is interested in your poultry show. Industrial Exhibitions and everything else that will increase your earning power, and thus your purchasing ability."

The speaker discussed the social relationships of town and country people, and analyzed the problem of each. The Poultry Association members gave both gentlemen a hearty vote of thanks for their addresses.

Two Tanks of Oxygen Used While Resuscitation Work Carried On.

WILL HOLD INQUEST.

Victim Had Graduated With Honors From Nova Scotia Technical School.

The struggle to revive Gordon Wilson Brown, who suffered an electric shock in the Test Department of the Canadian General Electric Company yesterday afternoon, was abandoned at six o'clock last night. The city pulmotor had been used for half an hour, consuming two tanks of oxygen; physicians had labored until four o'clock to fan into flame the spark of life they thought might still remain; and until six o'clock fifteen fellow students carried on their efforts to resuscitate the young man.

The accident occurred at two o'clock while Brown was testing armature coils, and it is thought he made contact with a bare wire at the same time he threw the switch.

"After he received the shock," one of his comrades said, "we asked him, 'Are you all right?' and he said 'yes.' Then he collapsed. The voltage that caused the fatality was between ten and twenty thousand.

Brown, who was 22 years of age, came here as a student from his home, Falmouth, near Windsor, Hants County, Nova Scotia. He had graduated with honors in electrical engineering from Nova Scotia Technical College last summer. While there he was a lieutenant in the C.O.T.C. While in Peterborough he boarded with Mrs. Thomas Gosselin, 289 Perry Street. He was a great favorite with his fellow-students and with other employees of the plant.

Besides has parents, one brother and one sister, in Nova Scotia, survive. Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young has ordered an inquest.

NO STATEMENT FORTHCOMING ABOUT STORES

Neither Eaton's Nor Simpson's Will Confirm or Deny Rumors.

LIQUIDATOR SILENT.

Says Announcement Must First Be Made To Shareholders—Americans in Field.

TORONTO, Feb. 29 (Special). — Rumors have been current in and around Toronto for weeks linking the names of the T. Eaton Company and the Robert Simpson Company with the Canadian Department-Stores. Both firms are rumored as possible purchasers of the stores, but neither has seen fit to give any definite statement yet, though neither will deny that they are interested.

Superintendent Fee, T. D. Switzer, and one of the directors of Eaton's were queried on the Eaton rumor, but all pleaded ignorant of any deal, though none would say definitely that Eaton's was not taking over the stores. Mr. Switzer pointed out that Eaton's already had stores in Peterborough and Sudbury where there are branches of the Canadian Department-Stores, but beyond that would not say that Eaton's were involved in any deal.

G. T. Clarkson, the liquidator, has consistently refused to say anything either way, pleading that any announcement must first be made to the shareholders. One meeting of the shareholders has been had without any such announcement, but another meeting is said to be pending. The terms of course are the cause of delay in the negotiations. Another rumored cause is the supposed bidding of an American department store syndicate seeking to get into the Canadian field.

Now You Tell One

Man wants but little here below,

Woman wants but little here below,
And want that little short....

tant General Manager, A. M. Carroll, thus to B. G. Robinson, local manager "I suggest you make application at once. The membership fee is small. In this connection the membership is not of much advantage unless you use it, so you should endeavour to attend all meetings, and keep in touch as closely as possible with the organization and members."

PHONE TROUBLES TAKEN UP WITH RAILWAY BOARD

Subscribers of South Monaghan Tell of Difficulties in Connections.

RIVAL LINES NOT JOINED.

Talk Between Neighbors Goes Through Two Boards in Some Cases—Improvement Asked.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 29.—"We are sitting in the capacity of investigators, and have all the powers of a court. Complaints have been received in connection with the Russell Telephone System, and a petition signed by a number of the subscribers was sent our board, asking that we look into the situation. We desire to find out the facts as they exist in South Monaghan Township, that we may be enabled to suggest something that will overcome the difficulties." This statement was made by C. R. McKeown, chairman of the Ontario Railway Board, at the opening of a meeting, attended by well over one hundred men, held in the community hall, Centreville, yesterday.

Associated with Mr. McKeown was Francis Dagger, Supervisor of Telephone Systems, who is a technical expert, and representing the Bell Telephone Company was C. W. Davidson, who took no active part in the meeting, but was just "listening in."

Practically all those whose names were signed to the petition were called upon for evidence by the chairman, and repeatedly Mr. McKeown gave opportunity for any person in the room to make any statements or ask any question he wished. The chairman explained that the associate supervisor, Mr. McDonald, had inspected the South Monaghan lines and turned in a typewritten report, and to this reference was frequently made.

Reeve Wilbur C. Wood was the first whose evidence was taken. He said that for about twenty-five years two telephone systems—the Russell

Is YOUR sleep continually broken into bits?

A good night's sleep is impossible when you're pestered by weak kidneys. Scanty or too frequent passing of water at all hours is misery. Not to mention that awful backache!

If your life is being made unbearable by weak kidneys go to your druggist. Ask him for a bottle of Gallagher's Kidney Remedy—one of the Herbal Medicines famous in Peterborough County for half a century.

Gallagher's Kidney Remedy is wonderfully healing. Prepared from Nature's own healthful Herbs, just as it was originally by James Gallagher himself.

"I have been bothered with a pain in my side for years," writes Mrs. James Hie, Minden, Ont. "Since taking part of two bottles of Kidney Remedy and Blood Purifier, I got permanent relief."

And from Port Balster comes this praise written by Mrs. M. Chernside: "About three months ago I had a pain in my back. I could hardly walk. I have taken six bottles of Gallagher's Kidney Remedy and Blood Purifier and the pain is all gone. I feel better than I have for years."

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown Honor the United Church Choir.

MILLBROOK, February 29. — The choir of the United Church was entertained at a social gathering on Friday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown, Tupper Street, those associated with Mr. and Mrs. Brown as hosts and hostesses being Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Might, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKnight, and Miss Burnham.

The regular weekly practice occupied a short time at the beginning of the evening, and afterward games, contests, and music made the time pass pleasantly and rapidly, supper being served about eleven o'clock.

The choir leader, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, voiced the thanks of the organization for the hospitality extended, Mr. Might and Mr. Brown replying on behalf of the others.

The choir has had a number of pleasant social evenings among its own membership, at the various homes, Councillor and Mrs. G. W. Sayles being the last to entertain in this way. The music provided by the choir is a feature of the worship services of the church that deserves, and has won, the highest praise.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. DeLore Johnston, of St. Catharines, spent the week-end visiting her mother, Mrs. Will Lunn, who has been seriously ill for some weeks.

Marjorie McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell, is ill with an attack of pneumonia. Two of the younger children, Beatrice and Teddy, have the disease in a lighter form.

Mrs. G. W. Sayles spent last week visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Kenyon, Peterborough.

Mrs. Charles Sned, who has been making an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Elson, spent the last two weeks the guest of her husband's relatives in the vicinity of Collingwood. Her little son, John, accompanied his mother, the baby daughter, Mary, remaining with her grandparents while the round of visits was made. Mrs. Sned expects to return to her home in Saskatchewan about the middle of March.

Mrs. R. Bateson, of Campbellford, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Fallis Line, last week.

GRANDFATHERS OF WARSAW HONORED

Ladies of United Church Entertain About Twelve Grandfathers.

WARSAW, Feb. 29.—Grandfathers' evening was held by the Ladies' Aid of the United Church on Thursday evening, with about twelve grandfathers present, as well as quite a number of other men. In the absence of Mrs. Herrington, Mrs. David Taylor occupied the chair, and the regular routine meeting was held, after which an address of welcome was given by Mrs. George Weller, in which she spoke of the tendency of the youth of to-day to forget all about the past, in every way. Ancestors are never thought of, she said; what others have done for the present, is not considered, and even older people are neglected. The care-worn brow was furrowed for others; the trembling hand has smoothed many a path. It was a pleasure and honor to entertain at this event.

A three-story birthday cake, which was donated by Mrs. David Taylor, was presented by little Mines Emily and May Payne.

The oldest and youngest grandfathers were presented, by Mrs. Taylor, with a pair of slippers, John Rose being the oldest and Thomas Cooper the youngest. Mr. Rose replied, thanking the ladies and relating some of his experiences in the early days.

"Grandfather's Clock" was sung by Mrs. Taylor, and "A Sequel to Grandfather's Clock" by Mrs. Stewart Clysdale. Mrs. O. B. McIlvena and Rufus Payne sang "Darling I am growing old." "Should Women Propose?" was recited by Miss Stella Burgess, after which supper was served.

Personals.

The young people at Burn's Bridge held a moccasin dance on the rink recently.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Charles Lunn, who died February 27, 1927.

"While the midnight stars are gleaming
On a lone, and silent grave,
Beneath sleeps our father,
The one we loved but could not save."

FOUR VOTE FOR WILSON'S BEER MOTION

"Beer By the Glass" Snowed Under in Ontario Legislature.

SPIRITED DEBATE.

Two Liberals and One Conservative Were With the Mover.

TORONTO, Feb. 29. — Division bells rang in Queen's Park for the first time this session yesterday afternoon when after a brief but spirited tilt between J. A. Pinard, Liberal of East Ottawa, and Mr. Speaker, the House voted down Frank Wilson's beer by the glass resolution by a vote of 92 to 4.

The resolution had been debated on Monday and the vote deferred until yesterday. Immediately on the opening of the House, however, Mr. Pinard asked permission to make a statement.

Premier Ferguson pointed out that the understanding had been that the vote would be taken without further discussion.

Mr. Speaker upheld this question. "Mr. Speaker," Mr. Pinard protested, "I do not desire to record my vote without first making a statement as to my stand——"

"The honorable member is out of order," Mr. Speaker again intoned.

"I may be in a way," Mr. Pinard rejoined but I submit that the ruling should come from you, Mr. Speaker and not from the prime minister."

"No member of the House should address the chair in that manner," Premier Ferguson protested.

"I don't want to discuss the matter, but I want to state my opinion," Mr. Pinard protested

Out of Order.

"I have already ruled that the honorable member is out of order," Mr. Speaker reiterated, "and I desire to add that my attitude in this House has not been one of being dictated to by any party or any leader."

He thereupon put Mr. Wilson's motion, and, after listening to a chorus of "yeas" and a louder one of "nays," that "in my opinion the 'nays' have it."

Mr. Wilson called for a vote of the House.

"If a sufficient number of members ask it," Premier Ferguson assented.

Messrs. W. G. Weichel, Conservative, North Waterloo, Edmund Proulx, Liberal, Prescott, and T. Legault, Liberal, Sturgeon Falls, all of whom had spoken for Mr. Wilson's resolution yesterday, rose to support the demand for a vote. This was insufficient, however, and a chorus of "Lost" was already arising from the Government benches, when J. G. Lethbridge, Progressive leader, and several of his followers also rose to support the demand for a vote.

"Call in the members," Mr. Speaker assented, according to tradition, and the division bells set up their clangor in the corridors as the three party whips departed from the chamber to search for stray members of their fold who might be within reach.

Messrs. Wilson, Weichel, Proulx and Legault were the only members voting for the resolution, Mr. Pinard, who was expected to support it, having disappeared from the chamber during the preliminaries.

TRAVEL FAVORED IN GOOD DEBATE

MARMORA, Feb. 29. — "Resolved that reading is more beneficial than travel was the subject chosen for debate at the weekly meeting of St. Paul's Senior A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening. The debate was marked with abundance of points on both sides and was mirth provoking.

Honors were accorded the negative side sustained by Hilda Phillips, Ada Archer and W. J. Cottrell.

Grace Crawford was leader of the affirmative side and was supported by Dora Lawrence and Nan Hart.

Many Take Excursion.

A large number patronized the C. N.R. excursion to Tweed on Monday evening. In many cases the novelty of the trip had as much to do with the purchase of the railway ticket as the game in the eastern village.

Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethier and daughter Peggy of Deloro were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones.

Miss E. Reid, teacher at the White school on the Madoc road, spent Sunday with the Misses Lula and Dorothy Gray.

Mr. Eric Mantle left for Beamsville on Monday to take a position with the Bell Telephone Company there.

Mr. William Jones, Jr., is experiencing poor health at present.

MILLBROOK BRIDE - GROOM HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Elson Are Recipients of Miscellaneous Shower.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 29.— Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Rowland were host and hostess for a very delightful social gathering at their home, Cedar Valley, on Friday evening, when more than eighty guests were present.

The event was arranged in honor of Mr. Nelles Rowland, of Toronto, who was spending the week end with his parents, and also in honor of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. George Elson, whose marriage took place at the United church parsonage, on Monday, February 20, the Rev F. H. Howard officiating.

Games, music and dancing made the hours pass happily, a special feature of the evening being a miscellaneous shower which had been prepared by the friends of the bride as a pleasant surprise in connection with the occasion.

Little Miss Leatha Rowland, the youngest daughter of the home, daintily dressed in white, came in first with both arms clasped about a pair of pillows with beautifuly-embroidered linen covers, and following her were the two nephews of the bride and groom, respectively, Orval Rowland and Cameron Elson, carrying a big basket, lined with white, and filled to overflowing with many-shaped parcels which were 'showered' upon the bride toher very genuine surprise.

Opening the parcels and reading the names attached to the gifts, which included china, linens, silver, etc., was the pleasant task of the recipient, Mr. Elson, on behalf of his bride and himself, expressing their thanks in a few well-chosen words.

The service of dainty refreshments followed, and it was well into the morning hours before the last guests had left for home.

DAY OF PRAYER AT LAKEFIELD

HAVELOCK LODGE MEMBERS HONORED

Third Degree Team of I.O.O.F. of Smith's Falls Visits Havelock Lodge.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 29.— The Royal Lodge No. 286, I.O.O.F. was visited last Friday evening by the third degree team of Smith's Falls, numbering about fifty, the visitors enjoying the banquet which was prepared for them.

The three generationsof Holdcrofts were honored, being James Holdcroft in his 85th year, his son, Dr. Joseph Holdcroft, and Dr. Donald Holdcroft, son of Dr. Joseph. A bouquet of roses was presented to James Holdcroft, by Mr. Vance and Mr. Plunkett, accompanied by Mr. Donnelly and Mr. Austin of Tweed Lodge, of which Mr. Holdcroft is a member. A flashlight picture was taken of the three generations.

The Royal Lodge was presented with a set of gavels with silver shields, by the Rideau Lodge of Smith's Falls as a memento of their visit to Havelock. Mr. Hooper replied to the presentation.

Joshua Parcells was presented with a box of cigars for his excellent work as chairman of the refreshment committee.

Robert Martin and Harold Wilson were introduced and given the honors of the lodge. The third degree was exemplified to six candidates for membership in Royal lodge.

Rev. W. R. Archer acted as chairman and the following program was given: Chairman's address; musical selection on the bagpipes; recitation by J. Faulkner; exhibition of sailor's hornpipe and sword dance by F. Platt; solo, A. Malcolm, of Smith's Falls; address, Reeve Curtis; address, Dr. Anderson, ex-mayor of Smith's Falls; comical sketch by five brothers; solo, John Harvey; address, O. Smith; sleight-of-hand work by Mr. Denne, of Peterborough. Music was provided throughout the evening by a three-piece orchestra from Smith's Falls, Ted Hunter, violinist, Wilson Flagg, trumpet and George Bagley, pianist.

Less handicapped nowadays

New ideas on personal hygiene responsible, says doctor

"WE don't have nearly so many illness excuses from girls nowadays," says the doctor in a leading women's college. At times when they are most likely to be upset and thrown off balance, they take special measures."

What doctors advise girls to use on such occasions is Nujol. Taking it every night for several days beforehand helps to keep everything normal even under abnormal conditions. For Nujol contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Try this treatment for the next three months, and see if it doesn't make things easier for you. You'll wonder how you ever did without it. Be sure you get the genuine.

Robins Reported Throughout City

Is this The Examiner robin? Early Monday morning Andrew Crebar of 91 Hunter Street East saw a robin perched high in the limb of a tree on Mark Street. The bird appeared to have wintered well and his joyful notes drew the attention of many passers-by.

Several other robins were reported as being heard singing in the north end on Sunday morning apparently not daunted by the 14 below zero weather.

Dont Risk the Embarrassment of Perspiration Odour

The one to two pints of perspiration which, according to physicians, come through the pores daily, is natural . . . and healthful . . . but perspiration odour is not only unnecessary but extremely "bad form."

This unpleasant odour is seldom recognized by the offender, but everyone else notices it.

Lifebuoy is sure protection

Besides being a superior toilet soap, Lifebuoy, through its creamy, gentle antiseptic lather cleanses and purifies the millions of tiny pores and keeps the skin sweet, offering safety from perspiration odour from bath to bath.

Don't try to cover up perspiration odour. Prevent it with Lifebuoy Soap for face, hands and bath. It costs no more.

THE HOBBY SHOW.

"Classes for everything a boy owns, makes or does" is the ambitious programme of the Board of Directors of the Boys' Hobby Show, which is to be held in the Y. M. C.A. during the Easter vacation.

The announcement that the show is to be held again this year will be received with pleasure by hundreds of Peterborough's boys and with approval by their parents, who rightly believe that a good hobby has a useful place in character building, and, therefore, anything that encourages the development of such hobbies is worthy of support.

The Boys' Hobby Show was held last year as one of the features of Boys' Week, sponsored by the Rotary Club, and was a most successful event with a surprisingly large and meritorious list of entries.

With new departments added and others enlarged and strengthened, there is every reason to anticipate an even greater success this year, and to count upon a larger number of exhibits all along the line than was the case last year.

There is something in it for every youngster, and all boys with a hobby should be represented.

BEER-BY-THE-GLASS.

The beer-by-the-glass proposal met the fate that was prophesied for it when only four votes were cast for Mr. Wilson's motion in the Legislature yesterday.

The member for East Windsor had, of course, no delusions as to the likelihood of his battle succeeding; this introduction of the motion was merely to keep a promise to his constituents, and he is probably satisfied.

The discussion has been useful, however, inasmuch as it has served to demonstrate the fact that, except in some isolated localities, there is no demand for a change in the existing law that would bring back the sale by-the-glass.

It has been useful also in that it has drawn from the Premier the declaration that "until such time as the Government finds itself unable to maintain it or support it and public opinion is no longer behind it, it (the Liquor Control Act) will remain untouched and unaltered."

In that statement of policy Mr. Ferguson has the support of the great body of citizens whose votes made the Liquor Control Act a Provincial measure.

Few of them have seen any reason to change their opinion after watching the law operate, and certainly the number who desire to see further agencies of sale provided in the form of beer parlors is just as small as the meagre support given Mr. Wilson's motion would indicate.

THE BALLOT PROBE.

The decision to have the "wandering ballot" episode investigated by a Royal Commission of two judges will appeal to most people as a most desirable method of dealing with this question.

It removes the probe from the atmosphere of politics and will provide an opportunity to sift the whole question to the bottom, and ascertain whether or not there were irregularities in the conduct of the last Provincial election in Ottawa.

The inability of members of the Elections and Privileges Committee to put the duty of properly investigating this matter before political prestige has been so clearly demonstrated in the last few days that any step that would take the inquiry out of the hands of the politicians would have been welcome.

A Royal Commission will be able to divorce the probe from its political entanglements and to get at the essential facts, which is what the people of Ontario want.

The childish bickering over which side was to yield a point that really did not matter anyway has disgusted most citizens, whose chief interest is in seeing that their franchise is protected and their ballots regarded as sacred.

The judges will be able to do what was apparently an impossibility for the politicians.

FISHING AS AN ATTRACTION.

Another angle of the pickerel controversy is to be obtained from newspaper clippings sent by Perry Alexander, who divides his year looking after tourists at Oak Orchard in the summer and in Florida during the winter months.

It is rather surprising to learn from these—The Miami Daily Herald and Metropolis, in fact, prints a whole page of fishing news every day—that in spite of all the other attractions that Florida offers its winter visitors that fishing is still played up as the major lure.

Miami, Palm Beach and other Florida resorts have, one would think, plenty of appeal in many other respects, but in spite of these assets fishing is still featured as an inducement.

We can learn something from that fact surely.

If such places offering summer weather, sea bathing and all the delights of a tropical climate cannot bring visitors out of the winter-ridden North without fishing as the chief attraction, then we can see where we in Ontario will be left if we make no real effort to conserve the valuable asset represented by our facilities for fishing.

It is high time we were thoroughly awake to the gold mine that we are letting get away from us when we do not exhaust every avenue of protection for what fish we have left.

If we go on for a few more years as we have been going we may find ourselves wondering where all the tourists have drifted.

BRING THE TAX DOWN.

The regret of Col. S. C. Robinson, M.P., that the Government has not seen fit to bring about a cut in the tax on Canadian cigarettes, is generally shared. Certainly it was most disappointing in the Border Cities where dealers, faced with heart-breaking Detroit competition in this line, had hoped for relief. Stores here laid in scanty purchases of cigarettes last week, just enough to carry them along, in the expectation that Mr. Robb would introduce a change for lower prices. But it was not forthcoming and the whole cigarette industry in Canada is just as badly off as ever.

Perhaps the Government may yet reconsider its decision and take action calculated to assist manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, growers of tobacco, and the consuming public. And, in taking such action, of course, the Government would be helping itself, for it is positively losing a tremendous amount of revenue these days that would accrue to it were cigarettes placed on a reasonable price level in this country.—Border Cities Star.

THE WORLD AT HIS FEET.

Colonel Lindbergh is back in St. Louis after one of the most unique journeys in the history of man. In about a dozen southern republics, the Panama Canal zone and several British possessions, he has been received with all the honors usually reserved for visiting monarchs. Less than a year ago he was unknown. Today he is the most famous young man in the world. His value to the United States in terms of publicity, goodwill and inspiration to the youth of the land, cannot be estimated. It is priceless. And this is due as much as anything to the modesty with which he has borne up under the flood of honors. A lesser man would have succumbed long ago. Lindbergh's feat in flying the Atlantic alone will go down as one of the great epics of all time. But it was no finer than the way he has conducted himself ever since. It is not often that one finds such a remarkable combination of ability, courage and good sense. No wonder he has the world at his feet.—Border Cities Star.

OUR OVERHEATED HOUSES.

Visitors to Canada in winter-time are frequently at a loss to understand how the people of this country manage to retain health when they keep their houses and public buildings in an overheated state and shun fresh air as if it were the plague. The latest to make criticism of Canadians in this regard is Florence Austral, an Australian soprano who recently sang in Toronto and who expresses fear lest Canadians become a nation of weak mollycoddles if they do not mend their ways. She says she has frequently encountered hotels in both Canada and the United States in which the windows are not even made to open and she wonders how much longer the people of these two countries will survive such lack of ventilation coupled with a temperature that is reminiscent of an oven.

It is unfortunately true that, generally speaking, the people in this country are not so insistent upon adequate ventilation of their dwelling houses as would ensure the preservation of health. There are houses in this neighborhood which never receive a thorough airing from the time winter sets in until spring arrives, and there are others in which no window is ever opened while cold weather prevails. Similarly, such buildings as churches and schools are often lacking in proper ventilating facilities to the very great detriment of the people making use of them. The common cold with all of its sequels flourishes where such conditions prevail, and the contracting of tuberculosis is frequently attributable to this dread of fresh air.

When Canadians in general come to a realization that the dangers of ill-ventilated, overheated houses are much more pronounced than those which accompany well ventilated and perhaps underheated premises, and act accordingly, a great thing will have been done for the benefit of health and the prevention of disease.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MARITIME UNION.

Mr. Hance J. Logan, for years one of the most respected of Nova Scotia's representation in Parliament, is out with twenty-one reasons for a union of the Maritime Provinces. They are good reasons, and logical; but they won't prevail. They won't prevail, at all events, until the people of Halifax cease looking down upon the inhabitants of St. John as though they were Hottentots, and vice versa. Maritimers are pretty much like Irishmen. When Southern Nationalists and Ulster Orangemen met in the smoking rooms at Westminster they remembered only that they were Irishmen, and pity the poor Saxon that attacked any Celt, regardless of where his forefathers stood at the Boyne. It was only when they got back to Ireland that the Irishmen fought among themselves.

It is the same with the Maritimers. When they come up here to Ottawa, the St. John man begins to think that the chap from Halifax or Amherst is a man and a brother, and certainly a much more civilized and human type than the inhabitants of the Prairies or Ontario, while the Halifax man stops talking about the terrible fogs in the Bay of Fundy and in the harbor of St. John. But when they go back home it is different. Then, somehow, the old rivalry springs up again; Halifax begins sneering at St. John.

Maritime Union was preached by Joe Howe and Sir Charles Tupper more than sixty years ago, and a conference was actually called at Charlottetown to bring it about. Mr. Logan, with all his good intentions, and despite the wisdom of his proposals, is not likely to be more successful than Tupper and Howe. Not unless Maritimers have become changed humans within the past few years.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Beer-by-the-glass is not to be sold in Ontario—except by the blindpiggers.

There is really more excitement arguing over pickerel than there is catching them.

The Chamber of Commerce campaign is making a strong finish, a result upon which Peterborough generally is to be congratulated.

And now let us hope that March will not consider it necessary to prolong the winter.

The complimentary dinner tendered to F. C. Hungerford last night was a tribute to one who has been an excellent citizen, and whose departure from Peterborough will be regretted in many circles.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 29.—All butchers' cattle were lowered about 25 cents a cwt. on Monday afternoon, and sales of 2,503 cattle were made, leaving only around 100 head for yesterday. Receipts yesterday morning were 555 cattle, 224 calves, 500 hogs, and 274 sheep and lambs. The cattle trade was fairly good this morning and prices were steady, with Monday's decline. One load of heavy choice steers sold at $10.50 a cwt. and another load a little lighter brought $10.25 a cwt.

Other odd choice butchers, around 1,100 lbs. each sold at $10 to $10.50 a cwt. Small bunches of good handyweight went at $9 to $9.50 a cwt. and common to medium quality killers were $7.50 to $8.50 a cwt. There were fewer butchers' cows in yesterday, and prices here were steady, with good to choice cows $7.50 to $8.25 a cwt. Three choice baby beeves brought $10.75, and mediums were $8 to $9.50 a cwt. Two loads of Western stocker heifers sold at $6.60 and $7 a cwt. The light run should see the market cleaned up yesterday.

Calves are off a dollar a cwt. from last week, and buyers were wanting tops yesterday at 15 cents a lb., and medium from 12½ to 13½ cents.

The lamb market was firm, and several bunches of ewes and wethers, averaging 90 lbs. each, sold at 15 cents and bucks at 12 cents a lb. Sheep were steady and a light supply.

Packers got Monday's hogs at $8.75 a cwt. selects f.o.b. and are bidding the same price.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord has dealt bountifully with thee.—Ps. 116, 7.

The Extra Day.

O God, in Whose hand is our breath, Thou has given and received our yesterdays, and dost know what our to-morrows hold for us. We thank Thee for to-day. We seek to keep pace with the goings of Thy sun and, therefore, add this day to our year. But we cannot ever keep up with the glory of Thy gifts, since Thou dost do for us exceedingly abundantly above all we are able to ask or think.

We praise Thee that, when we give ourselves to Thee, Thou dost give us "good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over." Thy extra gifts come to us in pleasant surprises in our enlarging selves, in beautiful experiences here that "eye has not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man," in the exhaustless Christ, and in Thy forgiveness.

Fill our hearts with greater likes of love that in the depths of our souls we may increasingly abound in gratitude to Thee for all Thy gifts that are more than can be numbered. Help us to forsake our murmurings, to forget our bitterness in penitence for our sins, and daily to look for the joys that belong to that perennial newness of life into which Thy holy grace has called us. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

A pleasant informal "Get-Together" tea was held last evening in the Sunday School Hall of St. Andrew's Church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The tables, around which the ladies gathered for service of dainty refreshments, were decorated with spring flowers and yellow candles. Arrangements were in charge of the executive, headed by the president, Mrs. F. L. Robinson. During the evening, very inspiring addresses on "Faith, Morality and Love" were given by Mrs. C. H. Edwards and Mrs. J. F. Allan.

The members of the Onward Bible Class of George Street United Church held a very enjoyable banquet in the Sunday School auditorium last evening, with over sixty-five present. The tables were attractively decorated with green-fluted runners, green shamrocks, and kewpies dressed in frilly green costumes and green bandeaux. Mrs. Buck, president of the class, welcomed the guests and members of the class and the teacher, Mrs. J. Stubbs, made a few remarks. Several contests were enjoyed and community singing and the remainder of the evening spent socially. Guests present included Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Heard, and words of appreciation of the excellent work done by the class were voiced by Mr. Todd, Mr. Robertson, and Mr. Heard. The members of the class brought in their talent money, which amounted to $25.00.

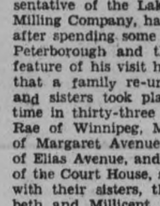
A Man of Rare Attainment

Honored politically and professionally, during his lifetime, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears here, made a success few have equalled. He was the originator of that great herbal tonic, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the sale of which has, each succeeding year, been greatly increased.



When you feel weak, tire easily, become discouraged quickly and sometimes feel like giving up the struggle, just ask your nearest druggist for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or "G.M.D.," in fluid or tablets.

Users everywhere laud its praises.

FALLING TREE INJURES MAN

Vincent Perdue, of King's Wharf, Has Narrow Escape From Death.

BADLY SHAKEN UP.

KING'S WHARF, Feb. 29.—Struck by a falling tree and escaping fatal injuries by almost a miracle, Vincent Perdue, of King's Wharf, will be confined to his home for the next two weeks, having sustained a broken rib, a badly bruised shoulder and a blow on the head.

Mr. Perdue, a married man, was working wtih a gang of men in the woods on his farm about five o'clock last evening when a tree, calculated to fall in a determined direction, fell the opposite way, striking and rendering him unconscious for almost ten minutes.

Dr. Blanchard of Lindsay, wa simmediately called and on arrival rendered all possible assistance. He declared that Mr. Perdue had indeed been fortunate in escaping more serious, if not fatal injuries.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1928.

The forenoon of this day should be an auspicious time for pushing most lines of business, according to astrology which reads the dominant planetary aspects as benefic.

The rule is mos t fortunate for persons with the ambition to be much in the public eye. Politicians should benefit.

The seers prophesy for the national election conditions that set a new precedent in the history of the two great parties.

This should be a profitable day for merchants and manufacturers,for there are indication of increased demand for American wares.

While this is an auspicious rule for carrying on established lines of activity it is not fortunate for new ventures.

It is well not to put too much confidence in one's judgment, under this direction of the stars which makes for unwise optimism.

Again storms at seas are indicated and there is an aspect indicating unusual calamities.

Some sort of bad news may be expected at this time by persons who have been planning on an ambitious scale.

British astrologers find in the lunation of this month a concise warning of war in which the nation will participate and this will affect America.

The elevation of Neptune in the meridian in opposition to Mars is read s exceedingly threatening.

The Balkans are to be the centre of difficulties of far-reaching import, it is foretold.

England will have many government changes and new ministers will gain the confidence of the people.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be lucky in the coming year. It will be luckier to sell tha n to buy.

Children born on this day probably will be enterprising and successful in financial affairs. Prosperity in hotel management, in the maintenance of dairies and in agriculture is indicated.

MISSION BAND MEETS.

George Street Children Entertain Last Year's Officers and Pageant Cast.

The regular meeting of the Fidelis Mission Band of George Street United Church was held in the Sunday school auditorium yesterday afternoon with an attendance of over fifty. The Band entertained the ex-officers of last year and the girls who had graduated into the Mission Circle, also the members of Miss Might's Sunday school class of Grace school, who had put on the pageant at their concert.

The president, Mary Vance, occupied the chair and the Bible lesson was read by Arthur Stinson.

The following heralds from the different mission fields gave very interesting reports: Gordon Gunsolus, Africa; Jack Todd, China; Reg. Yelland, India.

An instrumental solo was given by Olive Rowe and ten boys sang a chorus, "Boys Will Be Boys."

Mrs. J. H. Rowe spoke a few words of appreciation to Miss Might and her class for their assistance at their concert.

Mrs. A. I. Brown expressed her appreciation of the work done by the girls who had graduated into the Mission Circle this year and Mrs. J. E. Todd thanked Mrs. Rowe for her work as leader of the Band for a number of years.

At the conclusion of the program dainty refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Following the new trend of fashion these green satin pajamas have flowing sleeves, a little flare about the ankles and a hip girdle fastened at the front with a jade buckle.

Trousers originated in the north, skirts in the south, and among modern Europeans we have the interesting complex of a cold country type of costume for men with a tropical costume for women. But then, as some scientist has pointed out, it is usually only in the arctics where both men and women wear trousers—and only in the tropics where the skirt plays the double role.

Where They're Worn.

This, of course, is more or less of a generalization. Men in very warm parts of India wear pajamas and women in temperate parts of China wear trousers. But it is perfectly true that trousers had a northern origin and that men have adopted the fashion and clung to it much more than women.

Whatever disadvantages or discomforts the old-time type of skirt might have possessed for women has been set at naught with the very short skirts of recent years. And there doesn't seem to be any reason why women should want to wear trousers from the point of view of convenience.

Poiret Favors Trousers.

Still they might do it simply as a matter of fashion and Paul Poiret, the brilliant and original French dressmaker, has favored some such development of fashion for some time. For street and daytime wear he makes long tunics or coats that all but hide closely fitted trousers that extend just below the knees. And for evening and formal afternoon there are frocks with so-called harem skirts.

Whether or not M. Poiret succeeds in putting over his bifurcated fashions for evening and afternoon wear remains to be seen, but there certainly has been decided advance in the direction of this type of costume for women within recent years. The fashion for pajama type of costume for beach wear came upon us with amazing speed—until now it is quite taken for granted. And for negligee purposes and informal at-home wear the pajama costume is unquestioned.

SHAKESPEARE'S THEATRE.

Prof. Clausen To Address Women's Music Club on Friday.

The members of the Women's Music Club and their friends are looking forward with great interest to the lecture to be given by Professor Clausen, M.A., Ph.D. (Harvard), of Toronto University, on Friday afternoon.

This lecture on "Shakespeare's Theatre" will be illustrated by lantern slides, and will be held in St. John's Parish Hall, at three o'clock on Friday, instead of three-thirty as is usual. This lecture is open to non-members, either ladies or gentlemen, to attend.

In view of the great interest being manifested at the present time in the building of the magnificent new Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, in Stratford on Avon, Warwickshire, for which the plan and design of a woman have been accepted, this lecture should be especially interesting.

LARGE AMOUNT RAISED IN CITY

Contributions To Bible Society This Year Totalled $1,047.

NEARLY A RECORD.

The largest sum but once in the history of the local branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was realized in the canvass held here this month. The canvassers received $901 while the Rev. S. C. Pinnock of headquarters, collected $135 during his visit here for Bible Sunday. A donation of $5 was also sent direct, making the total from this city forwarded to the head office $1047.

The only time when this amount was exceeded was when a friend of the work made a contribution of a $1000 bond, which brought that years donations up to a very high level.

The report of the collectors was delayed as some of the workers were unable to get around during Bible Week and have only recently completed their effort.

Part of the city has not yet been covered but the executive is arranging to have this done and will meet very shortly to consider this.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHEN WE GROW OLD

I used to think, when we grew old,
We'd weep for joys we could not hold,
But now I know the young possess
The joys of living even less.
Youth flits about from flow'r to flow'r
And sips the honey of the hour;
But age has found a store more vast,
The endless sweetness of the past.

I used to think, when we grew gray,
The joys of life would slip away.
Now I am old, and now I learn
That it is then that joys return.
The memories of youth are few,
When friends are near, and loves are new,
But age, with every step it goes,
Meets some old memory it knows.

I used to think, when we grew bent,
The heart would never know content.
But he who follows every bird
The singing kettle never heard.
Many a palace youth designs,
But God is wise and builds us shrines;
And there we come, when we grow old,
And find the joys we could not hold.

PHONE 340 Barrie's 310 GEORGE

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

GEORGE STREET UNITED CHURCH.

The Sunday services at George Street United Church were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Todd.

At the morning service his subject was "Boldness," and he took his text from Acts 4th chapter and 13th verse: "Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John."

"Boldness here means fearlessness, the fearlessness of Peter and John. I have been thinking what a terrible thing fear is in a man's or woman's life," said Mr. Todd. "Fear is a tyrant. Just sit down and think how it dominates our lives—what people will say.

"Some men are afraid of their employers; some employers afraid of their men.

"Some people are afraid of themselves. The apostles were afraid of themselves at the time Jesus told them, that one of them should betray Him. Fear is not a mythical thing, it enters into the very woof and warp of things and saps the very best of life.

"Peter and John might have been thrown in prison, and might have lost their lives because of their fearlessness, but the last of the verse tells us that they were bold, because they had been with Jesus.

"Jesus with his wisdom knew when to be bold and when to be fearful. Are you fearful of the man who can kill your business, body, reputation? As a Church and a people, we need to dread the tearing down of characters Frankly, I want to be fearless in facing the wrongs and injustices of life. I want to be four-square and stand firm against the iniquities, that stalk up and down our life.

"I want to be fearful of hurting little folk or of hurting people coming into the kingdom. You and I have not a proper sense of the worthwhileness of the work of the Church of God. We want more fearless thoughts of the instrumentality of the work of the Church of God and more of the boldness of Jesus and of Peter and John. Help us to play the man and woman and to stand four-square against the things that undermine and drag down."

The Sunday evening service was of a musical character, and consisted of an Anthem—"Praise Ye" (Verdi).

Quartette—"Grant us Thy Peace" (Henrich), by Miss Murray, Mrs. Liddle, Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Lillow.

Contralto solo—"O Loving Father" (Molloy), by Mrs. G. Liddle, with violin obligato by Arnold Spencer.

Anthem — "Lead Kindly Light" (Buck), unaccompanied.

Anthem—"There is a Holy City" (Shelley).

Mr. Todd read for the lesson the 19th chapter of Revelation and the fifth chapter of St. Matthew. His theme was "The Joy of Song."

"Singing is one of those faculties developed in recent years. The verb root (to sing) means to shout, to yell, to howl. The thought underlying all, in ancient times, was that evil spirits were placated, driven away, pacified, by singing. If you cannot sing make a joyful noise unto the Lord.

"In tht New Testament we come across the words joy, happiness, be glad. Our religion inherently is a happy, joyful one. The religion of Jesus was instituted by an angelic chorus. The ministry of song perpetuates itself. Paul and Silas sang in prison. We do well in our churches to emulate those great men who have gone before, and may you my people carry with you a singing heart."

PATRIOTIC LEAGUE FINANCES ARE GOOD

Splendid Report Presented at Annual Meeting—Officers Elected.

The flourishing aspect which can be imparted to a small society by an energetic group of women members who are enthusiastic about the project in hand is evidenced by the annual financial report of the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, tendered at the annual meeting held on Monday. At this meeting, held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Hughes, Engleburn Avenue, the officers of the organization were re-elected for the ensuing year, as follows:

Honorary President, Mrs. John Butcher; President, Mrs. R. H. Parsons; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. W. Taylor; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. G. L. Hay; Secretary, Miss E. Scott; Treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Glover; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. T. N. D. Kelly; Telephone Committee: Mesdames W. Mein, J. Kerr, M. Gillespie; Social Committee: Mesdames D. A. Lawrence and A. S. Couper; Flower Committee: Mesdames R. F. Sedgewick and A. S. Couper.

At this meeting, a resolution of condolence was passed to Judge Huycke and his family in the passing of Mrs. Huycke, one of the former active members of the League.

The financial statement, presented by the secretary, Mrs. T. H. Glover, showed receipts of $1,022.73 for the year, with a balance from the previous year of $74.40 and bonds worth $800. Disbursements during the year, which included the purchase of bonds worth $200, amounted to $1,051.01, leaving a balance on hand at present of $47.12 and bonds worth $1,000 owned by the society.

The receipts included: Fees, $31.00, proceeds from teas and bridge party $75; receipts from "Cinderella," $717.21; grant from city, $150; interest on bank balance and on bonds, $47.52; miscellaneous, $2.

Disbursements included expenses in connection with "Cinderella," $400.30; taxes paid to City, $141.43; water rates $10.70; labour at Park, $181.56; purchase of two bonds, $208.90; tools, $6.10; prizes to the King George Home and School Association, $5; expenses for float on July 1st, $35.92; sundries, $60.10.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, February 29 (Canadian Press). — The demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday was fair and Montreal exporters sold a few loads of wheat.

The trading in cash grain in the domestic market was again of a very limited character owing to the continued absence of any demand from exporters. There was some inquiry from local and country buyers for car lots and prices ruled firm.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a fair demand.

The volume of business done in millfeed continued fairly large, and the undertone was firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, but prices were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was done in fresh and storage eggs and values were steady. The receipts were 1,755 cases.

The market for Quebec potatoes was active and prices were well maintained.

Only a small trade was done in butter, but the undertone was firm. The receipts were 466 packages.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in cheese, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 357 boxes.

There was no change in the condition of the market for imported beans, prices being firmly maintained under a steady demand and small offerings. Sales of broken lots were made at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were quoted at $3.10 per bushel, ex-track.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 29 (Canadian Press). — Pressure to sell developed n the corn market yesterday toward the last, and some big speculative lines were closed out. The forecast of colder weather was construed in various quarters as likely to permit more free country deliveries of corn.

Closing corn quotations were heavy at ½c to 1 cent net decline, with wheat ¼c to ⅞c off, oats ¼c down to ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10 cents.

Evidence of an insufficiency of buying power to absorb offerings of wheat yesterday did a good deal to incite persistent selling from commission houses and to keep prices tending downward the greater part of the time. There was talk of good export business, but the seaboard confirmed only 300,000 bushels, although the Canadian pool was said to have chartered 20 full cargo boats. Advices at hand told of heavy expected arrivals of wheat from Argentina and Australia, and less was heard of likelihood of crop damage to United States winter wheat.

Oats were influenced chiefly by the action of corn. North-west houses were credited with being sellers of oats.

Provisions sympathized with declines in the hog market.

SPRING FASHIONS

NEW DRESSES

SPRING STYLES ADD MORE FEMININE TRIMMINGS TO THEIR AFTERNOON FROCKS

WOMEN, it seems, never do things in halves. Having foresworn mannish lines, they insist that all fashions express the utmost in feminity. And the new Afternoon Frocks of silk crepe, georgette, flat crepe and satin-faced Cantons certainly are within their soft draperies, pleated flounces and fluttering scarf necklines.

Silk Dresses $9.95

We now take pleasure in showing the new Silk Georgette, Silk Crepe and Flat Crepe Dresses in such a beautiful range of colors and styles. Without a doubt, you should see these tomorrow, with their fluttering scarfs and pleated skirts. Sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40.

Jersey Frocks $5.95

Many Woollen Frocks adopt woven patterns, and those that make it a point to buy at least one Jersey Frock will be surprised when they see the new models, for instead of being plain of tone, they are smartly woven in two-tone effects. These Frocks are available in one and two-piece styles. The clever use of trimmings help to identify them with spring 1928.

Leap Year Coming Once In Four, February Then Has One Day More

(By W. E.)

Why has February been given an extra day this year? Why should there be such things as leap years to interrupt our normal course of calculating of dates?

To answer these questions, one has to hark away back close to the period when men first began to compute the passage of time. Men of old were acute and observant enough to note that in the day, the month and the year they had natural divisions of time. As civilization developed the need of further subdivision of these periods became evident, and resort was had to such artificial reckonings as the hour, the minute and the second. Fertile in expedient as the ancient Greeks proved themselves to be, they had yet no sufficient method of sub-dividing time, and could never indicate the occurrence of any daily phenomena within a quarter of an hour. That is one reason why it is difficult to make an adequate comparison between the records of athletes of classical times and those of today. The Greeks, for a long time counted from sunrise and assumed the period between sunrise and sunset to be divided into twelve equal parts. Hence in the long days of summer, the hours were also longer than in the winter. The first step in the right direction was taken when men began to count from mid-day to midnight, because they they were independent of the greater or less amount of daylight, and the length of the period called an hour remained for all practical purposes constant.

At a very early period, it was observed that during one part of the length of time when the sun was visible gradually increased and that after a certain period a lessening of the hours of sunlight set in. The Egyptians investigating this phenomenon discovered that these movements were completed with 365 days. Here was the yearly division, ready to hand. As more accurate methods of measuring were employed by the Greeks it was discovered that 365 days was only an approximate reckoning of the duration of the year. By the time of Julius Caesar, although the exact length of the year had not been discovered, it was known that it fell some minutes short of 365¼ days.

Julius Caesar thought this was sufficiently near for all practical purposes—an opinion in which the Roman warrior has been confirmed by a distinguished modern American astronomer, Professor Newcombe who declares that popular opposition from the Julian to the Gregorian calendar showed that the common sense of the people was more nearly right than the wisdom of the learned. On the other hand it is only fair to say that the Gregorian year is unquestionably nearer that of the true typical year.

By the Julian method the odd hours were fairly well disposed of. Nature's year consisted of days and fractions of a day, while our year must consist of whole days. If we call our year 365 days, then it will be approximately six hours too short; and if we call it 366 days it will be eighteen hours too long. In the former case we should gain from Nature one day every four years! in the latter we should lose three days in four years. In either case, the upshot would be that in the course of time January would be a summer month while June would fall in mid-winter. To avoid this, the practical Roman hit on the expedient of making three short years and one long one. To dispose of the odd day, February 24 was doubled every fourth year and the day so interposed was called bisextile. By this intercalation the calendar and the seasons were kept somewhat in harmony.

In process of time, it was discovered that the year had not been correctly measured and that the Julian Calendar was slightly defective. In 1582, Pope Gregory abolished the Julian Calendar and introduced the Gregorian Calendar. First, he dropped ten days which had been gained from the time when the Julian Calendar was adopted by the Romans until the year 1582. Secondly every year whose number can be divided by 4 without a remainder was to be a leap year and to contain 366 days. Thirdly the last year of every century, although divisible by four was not to be a leap year, unless it were also the last year of a period of four centuries. By this rectification of the calendar, the maximum of error was reduced to about one day in forty centuries.

Further modifications are considered necessary if the date of the year is to correspond with the seasons for all time. According to W. T. Lynn, a well-known scientific authority, "The Gregorian rule amounts in fact to considering the year to contain 365.24250 days, whereas the typical year really consists of 365.24220 days, the difference being 0.00030 day, and the Gregorian year is too long by that amount." Professor Lynn suggests that the present calendar, drops a leap year not quite often enough, and that a better rule would be to lop one off at the end of each successive period of 128 years.

For many years after the alteration of the calendar, Great Britain and the British Empire adhered to the Julian Calendar or "Old Style" as it was known, and it was not until the year 1751 that the British Parliament was convinced of the wisdom and necessity of the charge. Accordingly, a law was passed exacting that eleven days should be omitted after the 2nd of September, 1752, and that the third day of the month should be the 14th, in other words, the Old Style was to give way to the New—the Gregorian Calendar. Thus John Bull went to bed, on the second of the month, slept for eight or nine hours, but nevertheless found it was the fourteenth of the month, when he awoke. This is by far the longest sleep with which the usually wide-awake old gentleman has been credited (or debited), but it may safely be assumed that he will never again indulge in such a long sleep.

A Blessing to People of Advanced Years

"I wonder if you really know what a blessing Gin Pills are to people of advanced years.

"I am 72 years of age, and suffered for a considerable time with kidney and bladder trouble. My rest was broken through having to get up in the night three and four times. Later I suffered with pains in the bladder, and my son, who had used Gin Pills for pains in the back and lumbago, bought me a box. Before I had finished it I was relieved of the pains in my bladder and had to get up less frequently. At my age I can scarcely expect to be permanently free from troubles of this kind, but if Gin Pills will give others the relief they have given me, they will be a blessing indeed."

Prompt and lasting relief has been found in Gin Pills by thousands of people of advanced years who have had kidney or bladder trouble. If even slightly troubled in this way, get a box today at your druggist's—50c. National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada. 126

HAVE DAY OF PRAYER AT CAMPBELLFORD

Ladies of Mission Societies Unite in Service at Baptist Church.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 29.—Under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society, the World's Day of Prayer was held in the Baptist church on Friday. The ladies assembled represented the congregations of all the churches in town and the meeting was non-denominational. Mrs. L. M. Smith, wife of the Rev. L. M. Smith, of the Baptist church, occupied the chair for the session. After the opening hymn, the Scripture reading was taken by Mrs. N. Clarke Wallace, wife of the rector of Christ church. This was followed by the general confession and the Lord's Prayer. The prayer for India was taken by Mrs. L. M. Smith, for India by Mrs. A. C. Connor, for Africa by Mrs. William Ashton. Open the Gate of Prayer For Me, a solo by Mrs. L. M. Smith, was greatly appreciated. Mrs. J. R. Battisby led the prayer for the Moslem world and other fields, for the League of Nations by Miss Benor and for the Jerusalem Missionary Conference by Mrs. Bates. The meeting closed with the prayer of thanksgiving being repeated in unison and the benediction, also in unison.

DR. H. T. SCOTT OUT IN THREE WEEKS

Campbellford Chiropractor Recovering From Injuries—Lost Valuable Equipment.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 29.— The latest report regarding the level crossing accident at Stirling recently reveals the fact that there was no insurance on either the car or instruments belonging to Dr.. H. T. Scott, chiropractor, which were destroyed when the car was struck by the train. The car was a 1925 model Star sedan and the instruments were of electrical nature and would be valued at approximately three hundred dollars. Some of these, Mrs. Scott believes, may be recovered and made usable again.

Some of the expensive equipment which she thought was in the car was found to have been left behind in the office, and thus the loss is not as great as was at first beleieved. Mrs. Scott also stated that her husband would only be confined in the hospital for about three weeks. During his absence, arrangements have been made for other chiropractors to attend to his practice.

HE KNOWS WHAT TO DO FOR BACKACHE

B. C. Mann Tells About Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. John Innes Suffered With Aching Pains in the Small of the Back

New Westminster, B.C., Feb. 28.—(Special)—"I have proven Dodd's Kidney Pills to be all that they are recommended for", writes Mr. J. Innes, a well-known resident of this place. "I have taken them many times. My best trial of Dodd's Kidney Pills was some two or three years ago. My back ached so badly I could hardly sleep at night. I could scarcely move in bed and when I would stand in a bending position for more than a few minutes I could not straighten myself up because the pain in my back was so bad. In the newspaper I read about Dodd's Kidney Pills and got a box to try. After a few days all was O.K. When I get the slightest pain in my back now I take the good old remedy —Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills work with Nature by encouraging and assisting the kidneys to cast out everything impure or diseased.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET.

Miss Herrington and Miss Valetta Give Topics at Warsaw Meeting.

WARSAW, Feb. 29.—Miss Lucille Herrington and Miss Valetta took the topic at the Young People's meeting recently, Miss Herrington reading the story of Robert Morrison, a missionary to China, and Miss Valetta giving a talk on filial duty, as based on the fifth commandment. The Scripture was read by Mr. Currie and Johnson Blakely sang a solo, after which contests were conducted. One was to compose a telegram using the letters in the word "Presbyterian", the other was questions to which the answers were different parts of the body.

PHONE TROUBLES

line, and the Millbrook Rural Telephone Company—had served the township, covering practically the same territory, but with no communication between the one and the other. He thought there should be connections established and stated subscribers did not expect it free of charge. Questioned as to service received on the Russell line, he replied: fairly good, but long-distance communication was far-fetched and inconvenient to get, and neighbors could not be called on rival lines. At present no calls outside the township can be made without extra cost. An improved switchboard at Bailieboro is needed.

Constructive suggestions offered by Harold Beebee, the next to give evidence, included bringing both systems under one management, in which each would hold stock; a central office, "preferably in a town where we do a portion of our business," Peterborough, Port Hope, and Millbrook being mentioned. "At present my call would have to go through two switch-boards, and across three party-lines before conversation could begin with my nearest neighbor."

Service now is from 7 a.m. to 9 p. m., with none on Sundays except doctors' calls. Subscribers are willing to pay more to have a 24 hour service. A disinterested and permanent operator at a central office, the exchange of obsolete telephones now in use for those of standardized design, were suggestions made to eliminate the combination of poor service and poor phones, which were unsatisfactory features now.

Like many other subscribers Mr. Beebee had bought his own telephone and batteries, pays ten dollars a year for service, and had constructed one-half mile of line to connect with the nearest one at the road.

Many Speakers.

Among those who endorsed what Reeve Wood and Mr. Beebee had said, and who specially stressed the unreasonableness and inconvenience of the two switchboards at Bailieboro and Bensfort necessitating the repetition of a message, thus robbing it of all privacy, were Reg. Perrin who emphasized the importance of having a qualified telephone man on the job constantly to locate and remedy trouble; Richard Nurse, A. B. Byers, William J. Atchison, James Hall, W. R. Moncrief, H. C. Wood, W. E. Wood, John S. Perrin and T. T. Perrin.

Thomas Armstrong, the operator at Bensfort, took exception to the statement of Everett Wood that it was at this point they were held up for a 24 hour service, Dr. Russell having personally told the speaker he was willing to supply a full time response to calls; Mr. Armstrong declared emphatically that all calls were put through no matter at what hour they came in. There were some definite instances given of inconvenience suffered through poor service on the Russell line W. E. Wood stating that his daughter had tried from Wednesday to Friday to call her parents from Millbrook last June when suffering from illness, the word being finally brought by a neighbor who had met her in the village. Consequently she had been unable to try her departmental examinations, the the doctor giving a certificate to that effect.

Repairs Needed

Dr. Russell admitted that the expert's report regard leaning and not properly guyed poles at corners and curves, with broken or missing insulators, wires tied around trees, and slack in consequence might be true in some cases, and that the switchboard at Bailieboro is decidedly obsolete. Last November he had purposed replacing this but hearing rumours of the appeal to the Railway Board had waited to find the result of the investigation before making any change.

The line had been put in as economically as possible, each subscriber allowing him $24.00 to buy poles, wire, instrument, etc.; no arrangement had been made for paying Mr. Armstrong to operate the switch at Bensfort, and after two or three years he had asked a salary after paying this, and for batteries, the doctor said he has about $3.50 a year per subscriber. He had raised the charge to ten dollars after the ruling of the Railway Commission came in He had no objection to the amalgamation of the Millbrook and Russell systems, though his patients found it convenient to have the central in his house. He claimed subscribers have been getting a twenty-four-hour service, and believed there would be no difficulties when a new switchboard was installed. He agreed that a trunk line to Millbrook would be a good thing, facilitating long distance calls, and giving direct communication with any person on that line for a small toll—say, five cents from station to station, and ten cents from person to person.

At present the rates are: Port Hope, 15 cents and "talk as long as you like"; 10 cents and 15 cents for Peterborough and Millbrook.

Dr. Russell thought Mr. Wood's trouble lay in his telephone; he had taken up thte matter with the Northern Electric Company, and they had offered to allow ten dollars on the old telephone, the new one to cost $20.00 or $22.00. He replied in the affirmative when asked "if we taken up the matter with the Norbrook Company, are you willing to co-operate?" and also to the question, "Would be willing to make your charges equal to those of the Millbrook line?"

Got Good Service.

Among those who spoke declaring they had good service from the Russell Line were John Gainer, W. Hibbard, W. D. Moncrief, and John Greer.

In summing up, the chairman said the Railway Board would take up the matter with the Millbrook Company, and endeavor to get the best service, and though the subscribers would probably have to pay a little more for it, "we will not allow you to pay more than is absolutely fair and right." It was not reasonable to expect any system to pay running expenses and not get a fair return on its investment, and the ideal way would be to have a telephone system owned and maintained by the system, and not leaving the upkeep of batteries, etc., to the individual subscribers.

Mr. Dagger gave some technical information relative to the telephones now in use on the Russell system. most of these being of 1,000 ohms, and said there would be telephones with the same resistance for every subscriber on party-owned lines.

H. Beebee and Reeve Wood moved the thanks of the meeting to the Railway Board for the fair hearing given, and Mr. McKeown expressed appreciation and reiterated his promise of a fair consideration of the whole question, and a satisfactory solution to be found of the problems involved.

Campbellford Man Walks From Hamilton Aided By Lift In Truck He Comes Quickly

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 29. — Rarely in this modern age of cheap transportation, and at this time of year, does any person consider the old fashioned "shoe leather express" a desirous means of travel. Recently, John Southerland, a citizen of Campbellford who had been employed in the City of Hamilton, decided to revisit his home town. Accordingly he set out one evening from Hamilton and arrived in Toronto the next morning, having completed the entire journey on foot. His next leg of the journey was from Toronto to Oshawa, and thence to Bowmanville. From the latter place, he secured a ride in a motor truck as far as Port Hope and proceeded from there to Peterborough by train. Once more he set out on foot and got as far as Hastings, ten miles from Campbellford. From there he stole a ride on a freight train.

The trip was not made direct, says Mr. Southerland. He made several side trips at various places along the line, even spending a few hours on the American side of the Peace Bridge. Southerland is a man of about five feet in height, is in his fifty-first year, and is a shoemaker by trade. He is of a very quiet disposition, but is endowed with a full measure of determination. This, he claims, is due to the fact that he was born in Glasgow and has had to fend for himself for many years. He is a man who does not use tobacco in any form and gives as the reason for making the trip on foot, that he was in no great hurry and though it less expensive to walk than to journey by rail or motor.

TABLEAUX FEATURE INITIAL PROGRAM

Musical Numbers Also Given at Tea at St. Andrew's, Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 29. — The second of a series of four initial teas was held in the Sunday School rooms of St. Andrew's Church last night. There were two hundred and thirty-four paid admissions and all present enjoyed the program. Frequently these entertainments are along similar lines, but the tea last night offered a program somewhat different from the ordinary. Beginning with a piano solo by Miss Ruby Townsend and ending with a piano duett by Miss Iva McKelvie and Miss Mary MacGregor, every item was well received, and only for the fact that the chairman, Dr. O. C. Watson, announced that encores were not to be given, it is certain that the program would have been twice as long.

The numbers which won special applause were Miss Hay's tableaux and pantomime. The tableaux represented some of the pictures of the old masters. The Age of Innocence (Reynolds) was posed by Rosa Moore, Baby Stewart (Van Dyck) by Jack Phillips, The Song of the Lark (Breton) by Alta Hay, and The Village Blacksmith, representing the poem by Longfellow, by Kenneth Grills. The pantomime represented scenes from long ago, and the song, "Long, Long Ago," sung by Mrs. Milne, added greatly to the success of the number. It was sung back stage while the six people on the stage moved slowly and gracefully as in the olden days people are reputed to have done.

R. J. Allan's reading from Drummond won its usual hearty applause. Mr. Allan apologized for finding it necessary to repeat a number which he had given fairly recently, but explained that he had had no time to prepare another on the short notice given him. In the vocal line, Jerene Barnum's solo won a good round of applause. There was also a mixed quartette and a male trio which assisted with the program. The numbers by the quartette were "Pro Phundo Basso" and "O Who Will O'er the Downs." In the first number as may be seen by its name, the basso has the prominent part, and the major portion of the number is sung unaccompanied. The latter number was sung entirely without accompaniment, and its old English words and melody were received with loud applause. The members of the quartette were Mrs. Ernest Bedford, soprano; Mrs. Chas. Milne, contralto; Ernest Bedford, tenor, and James Dickson, bass. The trio sang two short numbers, "Dame Durden" and "The Little Farm." Both of them were well received. The members of the trio were the Rev. James Grier, Ed. Henson and J. S. Dickson.

After the program was concluded, lunch was served by the ladies whose initials were included in the group.

Illinois State Athletic Commission To Aid Mullen

FOR SETTLING OF McLARNIN-MANDELL BOUT

Will Ask N.B.A. to Use Its Authority in Enforcing Verbal Promise.

HOLD FORFEIT.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 29. — The aid of the Illinois State Athletic Commission was pledged to Promoter Jim Mullen yesterday in his efforts to bring the lightweight championship match between Sammy Mendell and Jimmy McLarnin to Chicago.

If necessary the committee will ask the National Boxing Association to use its authority to enforce the verbal promise given Mullen by McLarnin's manager before the McLarnin-Terris match in New York last week.

The commission at its weekly meeting adopted a resolution pointing out that it held Mandell's signed contract and his $5000 forfeit to go through with the bout; also it feels Illinois is entitled to the match. The governing body of boxing, which invited Promoter Tex Rickard to bring the Tunney-Dempsey fight to Chicago last fall referred to him in the resolution only as a "certain New York individual, now engaged in a controversy with Promoter Mullen."

Mullen went to New York yesterday to see McLarnin and his manager. Pop Foster, and Eddie Kane, Mendell's manager, went along to listen to Richard's offer for the match. Mandall has already signed with Mullen, while McLarnin has signed with Richard

Tom Heeney Ready For Delaney Bout

NEW YORK, Fev. 29. — Tom Heeney, the burly blacksmith from New Zealand, hung up his training gloves yesterday after nine rounds of work, and declared himself "top-hole fit" for his 15 round heavy weight elimination struggle with Jack Delaney in Madison Square Garden on Thursday night.

The sturdy British subject scaled 195 pounds after boxing four rounds, shadow boxing two, punching bag another pair, and skipping the rope for three minutes. The weight indicated that Heeney will have an advantage of at least 20 pounds on the former light heavyweight champion when they touch gloves in a tussle that may decide Gene Tunney's next title challenger.

Delaney scaled 175¾ on Monday.

QUEEN MARY DEFEATED IN FINAL GAME

Prince of Wales Win on Round 9-3 By 3-2 Victory.

FOR SCHOOL HONORS.

Both Teams Put Up Good Exhibition of Fast Hockey.

Prince of Wales won the Public School championship for the second consecutive year by nosing out Queen Mary in a 3—2 tussle at the Brock Street Rink last night. Both teams have been going strong in the league, and the winners carry the honors without losing a game. They won the round 9—3; the first game ending 6—1 in their favor.

The game was fast throughout, with the players being inclined to mix it. Both goalies performed well, especially the Queen Mary guardian, who was not higher than the net, nevertheless the youngster handled the shots like a veteran.

First Period

In the first session, the Prince of Wales' crew seemed to have the best of the play, but their rivals began to strike their stride towards the end of the frame. McCarroll was kept busy handling shots, but he was there every time. McCullough scored the initial counter after a fine show of combination with his teammates. Thirnbeck was the "bad boy" of the session, drawing two penalties, and Gatfield one.

Second Period

After the face-off Thirnbeck made a long shot from the side after working down the boards, after that he was closely checked by French and was unable to get away. Seabrook was chased for heavy body-checking and the Queen Mary aggregation showed a burst of fast combination, bombarding Pearson, but were unable to sink a marker. Bath led the sharp-shooters while the play was in foreign territory. French got away on a lone rush and beat McCarrol on a long shot from the left boards. Mowry was caught tripping and given a rest in the cooler. Jay and Gatfield worked like Trojans on the firing line and the former got the second counter for his team after much checking and passing.

Third Period

In the third frame both teams put up a real battle; individual rushes and close-checking being the feature of the play while the goalies covered themselves with glory, stopping many long-range shots. Thirnbeck checked effectively on the defence line, while Asquith his teammate was well rewarded for his lone rush when he worked the rubber past Pearson in a close-in raid. Bath was told to "take the air" for tripping Jay and a few minutes later Seabrook was given a similar rest for bodying Bath. French proved himself as a puck carrier when he went through the opposing line and beat McCarroll on a close-in shot. Both teams played rough-house tactics and Jay was give a rest for heavy slugging. Queen Mary crew began to work combination attacks and from then until the final gong seemed to display a better brand of fast hockey.

Line-up:

Prince of Wales.—Goal, Pearson; defence, Seabrook and Chambo; centre, French; wings, Jay and Gatfield; subs, Pearson and Stewart.

Queen Mary — Goal, McCarroll; defence, Thirnbeck and Asquith; centre, Mowry; wings, McCullough and Bath; subs, Ruiter and Lundy.

Referee—M. N. Park.

Goal scorers—1st period, McCullough; 2nd period, French and Jay; 3rd period, French and Asquith.

Penalties (8).—1st period, Thirnbeck (2), Gatfield; 2nd period, Seabrook, Mowry; 3rd period, Bath, Seabrook, Jay.

HOCKEY TOURNEY AT DUNSFORD

Six Teams Take Part in Competition Held Last Week.

DUNSFORD, Feb. 29.—The Dunsford tournament was held last week. Six teams were entered in the competition and the three nights of sport received greater support from the people in attendance than ever before.

The six teams in the tournament were Bobcaygeon, Sr., Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Jrs., Omemee, Lindsay and Dunsford.

Good clean hockey was the result of the draws and all the games were well contested. The teams were well matched and no team was badly beaten.

On the last night of the tournament Bobcaygeon ran a special train to Dunsford and their hockey team was supported by 150 enthusiastic followers. Three games were played, Lindsay winning in Lindsay-Dunsford tilt; Seniors in Bobcaygeon Juniors and Seniors; Lindsay in Bobcaygeon Srs and Lindsay tussle.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 29 (Canadian Press). — Tony Canzoneri, featherweight champion, signed articles with Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, yesterday to defend his title in a 15-round match with Andre Routis, French champion, on March 23. Canzoneri holds one 10-round decision over the invader.

H. N. LEAGUE TEAMS PLAY TO TIE SCORE

Sacred Heart and Immaculate Conception Tied 2-2 in First Game.

FOR MIDGET HONORS.

St. Peter's Defeated 1-0 By Sacred Heart in Juvenile Fixture.

Sacred Heart and Immaculate Conception played to a 2-2 tie in the first game of the play-offs for the midget championship at Sacred Heart rink last night. As the ice was very sticky, the game opened with both teams playing sluggish hockey, the East City boys taking the lead by scoring two goals in the opening frame, first by Houlihan and second by Murdock. Houlihan played a good game for the Immaculate Conception crew, while the defence line for the South Enders stood up well against the attack of their opponents.

Mark Collins evened the count for the Sacred Heart boys in the opening play of the second half by a dead shot for centre, Burke having tallied the first marker in the opening frame. During this period a more snappy exhibition of hockey was played, both teams showing a better form of combination work The East City crew had the lead in the bench warming line, taking six penalties, most of them in the second period, while the Sacred Heart had three.

With goals to count and both teams in a deadlock, a lively battle is expected when the sides clash again on Thursday night in the second game of the play-offs from 8 till 9 at the same rink.

Line-up:

Immaculate Conception—Goal, M. Merdock; defence, Houlihan and Leonard ;centre, B. Vinette; wings, Merdock and O'Dette. Subs, Driscoll and McCarthy.

Sacred Heart— Goal, Grady; defence, Lazure and Martin; centre, Courneya; wings, Collins and Burke. Subs, Amotte and Hatton.

Penalties:

ST. PETER'S DEFEATED 1-0.

St. Peter's Juveniles were defeated by Sacred Heart 1-0 in the first game of the play-offs at Canuck club rink last night. Blodgett scored for the victors in the opening frame, after which the game was called owing to the soft condition of the ice.

BIG EATERS GET ACID STOMACH

Bisurated Magnesia Neutralizes Acidity, Keeps Stomach Clean and Digestion Perfect

If you're a hearty eater; if you must have three big meals a day, eat them. But after each meal be sure to neutralize the dangerous acids that your food forms in the stomach, says a noted authority.

When your stomach is overloaded, the food contents soon sour and develop acid that practically paralyzes the stomach's activity long before the work of digestion can be completed. Then the stomach becomes weak and "cranky" and you are a daily sufferer from Indigestion, Gas, Sourness, Bloating and after-eating pains. Your appetite goes—you're sick and whirly—and what used to be the joys of a hearty meal become a menacing nightmare.

To quickly neutralize this dangerous acid; to cleanse and sweeten the stomach; to help the stomach take care of a hearty meal without pain or distress, go to your nearest drug store and get a little pure Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take in a little hot water just after meals. You'll be amazed how quickly this simple treatment works.

Bisurated Magnesia is a powerful but harmless anti-acid and stomach corrective used by thousands of folks every day with the happiest of results.

Stewart Advanced To Second Place

MONTREAL Feb. 29 — Canadian Press. — Nelson Stewart, the Maroon left winger has advanced to even terms with Aurel Joliat of the Canadiens in second place in the scoring lists of the National Hockey League for games up to and including those of last Sunday. Both have 26 points, 10 less than Howie Morenz of the Canadiens, who heads the parade with 36 scoring points. Stewart leads Joliat in actual goals scored having a total of 21 to 20 by Joliat, but the latter has counted six assists to Stewart's five.

In the United States section, Frankie Boucher of the New York Rangers heads George Hay of Detroit with 24 points to Hay's 23. Then Boucher stands fourth in the lists of the league as a whole with Hay fifth

HOLDOUT SEASON DRAWING TO CLOSE

Last of Major League Holdouts Signing Contracts For Season.

NEW YORK, Feb 29 (Canadian Press)—As the Spring training season gets under way, the holdout season is drawing to a close. Nearly every day brings word of a few more players agreeing to terms with the clubs, and several of the remaining holdouts have shown signs of coming around.

Brooklyn is still one of the worst sufferers, with Dazzy Vance and Arnold Statz still reported unsigned. While still standing firm in his demands, Vance is working out daily with the Robins, and club officials say they expect to reach an agreement with him before long. Statz is still asking for an increased salary and a bonus for a .300 batting average, which was a rarity last year in the Robin- lineup.

Waite Hoyt, who has not yet signed with the Yankees, is in Hot Springs getting into condition for the day he and Ed. Barrow can agree. The only other Yankee holdout, Tony Lazzeri, is maintaining complete silence.

The Giants are still without the services of Pitchers Vic Aldridge, recently acquired from Pittsburgh and Jess Doyle, in spite of Manager McGraw's ultimatum.

The Cincinnati Reds are also suffering seriously from the prevalent mania. Carl Mays and Rube Bressler are still unsigned. Pete Donohue not only has refused the salary cut passed out all around, but has intimated that he could find more pleasing surroundings somewhere outside of Cincinnati.

Cleveland has reduced its holdouts materially with the appearance of Luke Sewell, who intimated that Brother Joe would soon be on hand to adjust any salary difficulties.

The St. Louis Cardinals and Washington have reduced the number of their holdouts to one each, Pitchers Flint Rhem and Sam Jones, respectively. The signing of Sammy Hale allows the Athletics to equal the proud boast of the White Sox and Pirates, that all of the names on their rosters likewise appear on contracts.

BELLEVILLE TIES MADOC IN SERIES

MADOC, Feb. 29.—The return game of the semi-finals in the Interscholastic series was played on Monday evening, Belleville winning 4-3. The game was not played in Madoc as arranged but in Stirling, and a special train was run from Madoc to Stirling for the large crowd who were anxious to witness the game.

An excellent game of first-class hockey was played, the teams being pretty evenly matched. The scores for the three periods being 1-1, 1-1, 2-1, total score being 4-3 for the Belleville boys. This makes necessary a final play-off, each team having one game and six goals in their favor.

Soccer Reaches Big-Time Parks Across the Line

Less than twenty years ago soccer was played on the sandlots of New York and now it is played in the big league baseball parks. Twenty years ago there was no national governing body of the sport and no foreign country thought of sending a team to the United States, but last year teams from five countries visited the United States and three of them made extensive tours.

It was a splendid year for soccer, but most gratifying to its followers was the substantial growth as is seen in the fact that the New York Nationals of the American League use the polo grounds as their home pitch, the Brooklyn wanderers play most of their games at Ebberts field, Newark always uses David's Stadium, the International league's plant in that city and Boston will sign a contract soon for one of the baseball fields there. It means that soccer has become a big league sport

CHURCH TEAMS TIED 4 TO 4 IN EXHIBITION TILT

George Street and St. James Play To Even Score at Brock.

SNAPPY HOCKEY.

North End Boys Stage Last Minute Rally To Even Count.

George Street and St. James' Midgets clashed in a snappy exhibition game resulting in a 4-4 tie at the Brock Street Rink last night. At first it looked like a walk-away for the north-end boys, but the rival crew staged a last moment rally led by Ken Meredith to tie the count. Fowler got the initial marker when he beat Grosse after a close-in raid. Routley came within an ace of scoring when he went down alone, but shot wild with only the goalie to beat. Wright made the score 2—0 after the George Street boys had held most of the play in foreign territory.

Routley tallied a few minutes after the face-off in the second frame. McDonald and Meredith began to show a little combination work on the attacking division. McDonald's shot was carelessly handled by Jones and the puck shot into the net off his stick. Failure to back-check by the south-end boys let Payne get through to shoot point blank at Grosse for a counter. Jamieson came back in a few minutes to put the puck past Jones when the latter dropped McDonald's hot shot. Wright was chased for tripping. Meredith tied the score after a grand display of stick-handling. A little later he came close to getting another tally, but Jones cleared safely.

Line-up:

St. James.—Goal, Grosse; defence, Richardson and Sloane; centre, Jamieson; wings, Spence and McDonald. Subs, Meredith and Simmons.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

ABOUT CHANDOS AUDIT.

To the Editor, Peterborough Examiner, Peterborough, Ont.

Sir,—My attention has been called to an item in the Apsley news of The Examiner of a few days ago relative to an independent audit of the books of Chandos Township, and saying that I was to be offered the task on the understanding that I would receive a commission on any sum recovered, but no remuneration for my services if the accounts were found correct.

Just what motion was put on record I have just now no means of knowing, but as far as any arrangement made with me is concerned, the item is entirely incorrect.

A deputation, consisting of the Reeve and the Councillors, came to my home on January 9th, and informed me the Council had decided to have the audit, and they were authorized to request me to do the work . Nothing whatever was said by them or me as to my commission.

They asked me what it would cost, and I told them I had no idea, as I did not know how much work I might have to do nor how long it would take. Finally, in order to relieve their evident anxiety, I said: If you get nothing it will cost you nothing. They answered that that was good enough, and left.

If the work should take a week and they should chance to recover $50.00, I expect a week's salary; if it takes three days and they get $2,000.00, I expect three day's salary; and there is no other arrangement or understanding between us. My offer of free service to them was simply an act of charity towards a township that certainly needs somebody's help.

I am sure that if you had before you, as I now have, an auditor's report of Chandos Township, you would no more think of asking them for money than you would of robbing the poor fellow whom I saw sitting on the sidewalk in Peterborough selling pencils.

Working on a commission basis would sometimes be very profitable to me. It is not very long since I recovered some $600.00 in about six minutes' actual working time for this township, which had been lost to the township.

Referring to the deputation, I asked them if the material necessary for an audit back to 1920 would be available, and they assured me they did not use the same material for bonfires that we sometimes used.

However, there seems to be something amiss in Chandos, for I recall that a year or two ago a scheme was started to have a Provincial audit. That scheme was said to have fallen through, but I happened to be thoroughly acquainted at the time with the motive which prompted it. I can safely assure you that the bottomless pit would furnish its only chance to fail.

I shall be grateful if you will publish this letter.

Yours sincerely,

JOSEPH W. OGDEN.

SOUTH-END JUNIORS WIN OPENING GAME

Return Match of Free Rink Finals To Be Played To-morrow.

Lindy Juniors won the first of the finals in the Free Rink League, 5-2, last night. The South-End boys had too much speed and played their positions too well for the Donegal Juniors. Their stick handling and combination were good and the defence was steady, always playing their positions. No openings were left for the Donegal lads to get through.

Creighton and Lesurf shared in the scoring honors.

A very large crowd attended the game and complimented both teams on their clean play and sportsmanship. The Donegal boys feel that they can do better on Thursday night when they meet at the North End rink. The teams were:

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

SYD CHAPLIN COMING IN BRILLIANT COMEDY

The confirmed movie fan, the occasional picture-goer and the individual who is finicky about his screen entertainment will all hail with joy the announcement that Warner Bros.' production of Syd Chaplin in "The Fortune Hunter" is to be seen at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow for a run of three days.

There is much occasion for the joy. To begin with, Syd Chaplin is such an artist that he is welcome in anything in which he elects to be seen and, again, "The Fortune Hunter" needs little or no introduction.

As a play, this comedy was one of the biggest successes known to the legitimate stage. At one time there were no fewer than five companies touring the country in it.

Winchell Smith, its author, and producer, made fortunes out of it and, what is more, the comedy will go down in history as furnishing John Barrymore with his first great stage success.

One of the great charms of "The Fortune Hunter" is its wholesomeness, its touches of human nature and its bristling comedy.

Byran Foy and Robert Dillon, in making the adaptation of Winchell Smith's story, were keen about retaining for the screen all of these things, and the result is that the picture promises to have even greater vogue on the screen than it had on the stage. Helene Costello, sister of the gorgeous Dolores, heads an all-star cast in Syd Chaplin's support.

Charles F. Reisner, who has been associated with all of the comedian's great hits, directed "The Fortune Hunter."

JETTA GOUDAL IN SORE STRAITS IN "HER MAN O' WAR"

When one is half French, half German, and lives within the German lines on soil that was taken from the French in 1871, which side should one take in time of war? This is one of the many emotional problems that confront Jetta Goudal as the heroine in her first starring vehicle, "Her Man o' War," which will be presented at the Regent Theatre Thursday.

The fact that the picture is freely spiced with comedy, some of which is supplied by the star herself, only enhances the powerful drama of the suspenseful scenes, the poignancy of the emotional storms the little heroine goes through.

It is asserted by critics that Jetta Goudal is "different," and one of these points of difference undoubtedly lies in the gallant attitude with which she meets both triumph and disaster. She strikes a different note in pathetic scenes by gripping one's heart through her display of valiant courage. She never whimpers. She meets victory or defeat alike with fearless eyes, and inevitably wins sympathy and admiration without asking for the former.

This trait is capitalized in "Her Man o' War," which was adapted by Jeanie Macpherson and Garret Fort from a story by Fred Jackson.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

(Canadian Press.)

Catcher Bubbles Hargrave has been re-appointed captain of the Cincinnati Reds.

Manager George Moriarity, of the Detroit Tigers, told scribes he had set himself the task of attempting to make Harry Rice, obtained from the Browns, the greatest base runner in the American League.

With only Catcher Johnny Gooch missing, the Pittsburgh Pirates settled down to work to-day at Paso Robes, Calif.

Oliver Sax, third baseman, who stole 61 bases for Scranton last year, is said to be going good enough with the Browns to warrant a season's job.

CONDUCTING MINE PROBE

Two pictures are shown of Mr. Justice Godson, who has opened a probe at Timmins, Ontario, into the cause of the Hollinger Mine fire, which cost the lives of thirty-nine miners: It is expected that the investigation will involve the examination of about a hundred witnesses. No action will be taken by the corner's jury until the government enquiry is ended.

Alberta and Manitoba Tied With Three Straight Victories.

QUEBEC RINKS DOWN.

TORONTO, Feb. 29 (Canadian Press).—As a result of the first part of today's play in the McDonald Trophy curling competition, for the Dominion championship, Alberta and Manitoba are in the lead with three straight wins and no defeats. Alberta's rink, skipped by Joe Hearn, well defeated New Brunswick 12 to 7 today, and Manitoba's rink, under Gordon Hudson, won by 17 to 3 from Quebec Victorias.

Northern Ontario, Ontario (Toronto) Granites, and Toronto Lakeviews are next with two victories and a defeat. Montreal and Quebec City are at the bottom of the standing with three straight losses.

Toronto Lakeviews 14, Montreal 10.
Manitoba Strathconas 17, Quebec Victorias 3.
Saskatchewan (Regina) 12, Ontario Granites 10.
Alberta (Rosetown) 12, New Brunswick (St. John) 7.
Northern Ontario (Sudbury) 15, Nova Scotia (Sydney) 8.

FIRE DAMAGES MINE PLANT AT CALABOGIE

CALABOGIE, Renfrew County, Ont., Feb. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Fire did $100,000 damage to the plant of the Black Donald graphite mine, fourteen miles west of here, during the night. The refining mill and other buildings were destroyed.

LOS ANGELES ON WAY.

WASHINGTON, February 29 (Canadian Press). — The naval dirigible, Los Angeles, en route from the Panama Canal zone to Guacanayabo, Cuba, passed Negril Point, the western end of the Isle of Jamaica at six o'clock this morning, the Navy Department was informed in a radio despatch.

MINES

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 29.—The action of this morning's market can be considered as decidedly bullish and gains recorded yesterday in many of the leading issues were increased or at least held firm.

Amulet was the feature, selling as high as 4.25 on opening prices of 3.75 per share. The reason for this advance seems assuredly that the public in general are beginning to realize it is only a question of time before Amulet takes its place among the large producers of North-west Quebec and that ore reserve at the next Amulet meeting will be stated as at least $15,000,000.

Wright Hargreaves showed continued strength this morning and according to late reports the Wright-Hargreaves meeting held at Buffalo yesterday was a decided success. There was no cut recommended in dividends as the lower grade ore put through the mill during 1927 is considered only of a temporary nature which we have stated previously in our market reports.

Kirkland Lake Gold was in strong demand at 1.90 per share and looks as though higher prices may be recorded in the future.

As a whole the market looks better to-day than it has done for many months and it would not be surprising to see a general upward movement in stocks during the next few weeks.

Now that Amulet has recovered materially and is showing strength we would not be surprised to see greater strength throughout Northwest Quebec issues, particularly in view of the manner in which Amulet has lead previous bull markets. We have consistently recommended the purchase of stocks during the dull market we have been through of late. There appears to be good time for mining stock commitments yet but we would suggest that judicious buying orders are placed as soon as possible.

F. G. Oke and company.

Kirkland and Quebec Stocks Lead In Mines

TORONTO, February 29 (Canadian Press). — Kirkland Lake and Quebec issues were again in favor on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Wright Hargreaves firmed up to 4.75 at noon for a gain of about nine more points, and Kirkland Lake Gold at one time passed the 1.90 mark. The noon close of 1.86 was a net gain of three. Teck Hughes and Lake Shore were also stronger.

The two prominent Quebec issues, Noranda at 18.55 and Amulet at 4.09 were substantially higher, Amulet gaining close to half a dollar and Noranda being up 70. Dome eased to 11.25 and Hollinger and McIntyre were slightly lower. Pend O'Reille dipped below 17.00 and Hudson Bay softened a little. Sherritt at 7.25 and Sudbury Basin at 22.00 were, however, firmer.

Wheat and Corn Prices Are Stronger

CHICAGO, Feb. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—After a wavering start, wheat and corn developed strength quickly to-day. Bullish crop advices, alike from Europe and from the domestic winter wheat territory, affected wheat, whereas corn rose on reports that sales in other markets were being made at above Chicago parity. Opening 5-8c. off to 3-8c. up, wheat later showed all around gains. Corn started unchanged to 3-8c. down and subsequently scored a sharp rally. Oats were strong.

Opening prices were:

Wheat, March 133, May 134 1-8. Corn, March 94⅛, May 97 7-8. Oats, March 55¼, May 56 5-8.

New York Stocks Turn Upward Again

NEW YORK, February 29 (Canadian Press). — Stock prices turned upward to-day after an early period of irregularity. The buying movement, which started in the oil group, soon spread to the steel, motor, merchandising, public utility, and specialty issues. Bear traders continued nevertheless to ferret out weak spots, forcing a sharp decline in Continental Baking A, on fears for safety of the dividend, and in some of the Southern Railroad shares.

Wall Street took a bullish view of the reported decision of the Federal Reserve authorities to oppose legislation to restrict brokers' loans. Weekly steel trade reviews reported some irregularity in that industry, but an estimated gain of 7.5 per cent. in pig-iron production in February as against an increase of 6.4 per cent. in the preceding month, the gain being accounted for by increased operations of United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries.

Nickel Continues On Upward Trend

TORONTO, Feb. 29. Canadian Press. — International Nickel continued its recovery on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, closing at noon at 81⅛ for a gain of a point and quarter. The whole market showed firmness, with the trading light. Brompton improved 1⅝ at 60¼ while the canners issues were fractionaly firmer, along with Alberta Pacific Grain, building products and international petroleum, all of which strengthened a little. British American oil firmed an eighth at 35. Page Hersey at 91 and Goodyear at 155 were a point better. Easier issues still fairly common in the list, included Dominion Stores, Seagrams, McColl, and Canadian Industrial alcohol.

ZINOVIEFF LETTER TO BE DISCUSSED

LONDON, February 29 (Canadian Press).—The famous "Zinovieff letter" which played so prominent a part in the campaign which led to the overthrow of the Labor Government in Great Britain several years ago today cropped up again in the House of Commons.

The Zinovieff letter was mentioned in the recent report on the activities of certain Civil Service employees, growing out of their speculation in the French franc. J. D. Gregory, assistant Under Secretary of State in the Foreign Office, was ordered dismissed from the service for his part in the franc speculation, but was exonerated of ulterior motives in making public the Zinovieff letter in 1924.

To-day, Ramsay Macdonald, former Labor Premier, asked Premier Baldwin to afford time for discussion of the report in consequence of the mention made in it of the Zinovieff letter. The Premier promised to allocate half a day during the present session to take up the question.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that Mannix, Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist all had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in an apartment adjoining the "Canary's"; that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing that Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswoode jumped into a cab. Later a street cleaner finds Margaret Odell's jewels wrapped in a newspaper. The paper has punctures in it, suggesting that it came off a club reading rack.

CHAPTER XXXIX

When Swacker appeared, he asked that the club's steward be got immediately on the telephone. After a short delay, the connection was made. At the end of five minutes' conversation Markham hung up the receiver and gave Heath a baffled look.

"The club takes two Heralds. Both of yesterday's copies are there, on the rack."

"Didn't Cleaver once tell us he read nothing but The Herald—that and some racing-sheet at night?" Vance put the question offhandedly.

"I believe he did." Markham considered the suggestion. "Still, both the club Heralds are accounted for." He turned to Heath. "When you were checking up on Mannix, did you find out what clubs he belonged to?"

"Sure." The sergeant took out his note-book and riffled the pages for a minute or two. "He's a member of the Furriers' and the Cosmopolis."

Markham pushed the telephone toward him.

"See what you can find out."

Heath was fifteen minutes at the task.

"A blank," he announced finally. "The Furriers' don't use holders, and the Cosmopolis don't keep any back numbers."

"What about Mr. Skeel's clubs, Sergeant?" asked Vance, smiling.

"Oh, I know the finding of that jewelry gums up my theory about Skeel," said Heath, with surly ill-nature. "But what's the good of rubbing it in? Still, if you think I'm going to give the bird a clean bill of health just because the Odell swag was found in a trash-can, you're mighty mistaken. Don't forget we're watching the Dude pretty close. He may have got leery, and tipped off some pal he'd cached the jewels with."

"I rather fancy the experienced Skeel would have turned his booty over to a professional receiver. But even had he passed it on to a friend, would this friend have been likely to throw it away because Skeel was worried?"

"Maybe not. But there's some explanation for those jewels being found, and when we get hold of it, it won't eliminate Skeel."

"No; the explanation won't eliminate Skeel," said Vance; "but—my word!—how it'll change his standing."

Heath contemplated him with shrewdly appraising eyes. Something in Vance's tone had apparently piqued his curiosity and set him to wondering. Vance had too often been right in his diagnoses of persons and things for the sergeant to ignore his opinions wholly.

But before he could answer, Swacker stepped alertly into the room, his eyes animated.

"Tony Skeel's on the wire, Chief, and wants to speak to you."

"Here, Sergeant," he said quickly. "Take that extension phone on the table and listen in."

He nodded curtly to Swacker, who disappeared to make the connection. Then he took up the receiver of his own telephone and spoke to Skeel.

For a minute or so he listened. Then, after a brief argument, he concurred with some suggestion that had evidently been made; and the conversation ended.

"Skeel craves an audience, I gather," said Vance. "I've rather been expecting it, y' know."

"Yes. He's coming here to morrow at ten."

"And he hinted that he knew who slew the Canary—eh, what?"

"That's just what he did say. He promised to tell me the whole story tomorrow morning."

"He's the lad in a position to do it," murmured Vance.

"But, Mr. Markham," said Heath, who still sat with his hand on the telephone, gazing at the instrument with dazed incredulity, "I don't see why you don't have him brought here today."

"As you heard, Sergeant, Skeel insisted on tomorrow, and threatened to say nothing if I forced the issue. It's just as well not to antagonize him. We might spoil a good chance of getting some light on this case if I ordered him brought here and used pressure. And tomorrow suits me. It'll be quiet around here then. Moreover, your man's watching Skeel, and he won't get away."

"I guess you're right, sir. The Dude's touchy, and he can give a swell imitation of an oyster when he feels like it." The sergeant spoke with feeling.

"I'll have Swacker here tomorrow to take down his statement," Markham went on; "and you'd better put one of your men on the elevator,—the regular operator is off Sundays. Also, plant a man in the hall outside, and put another one in Swacker's office."

Vance stretched himself luxuriously and rose.

"Most considerate of the gentleman to call up at this time, don't y' know. I had a longing to see the Monets at Durand-Ruel's this afternoon, and I was afraid I wasn't going to be able to drag myself away from this fascinatin' case. Now that the apocalypse has been definitely scheduled for tomorrow, I'll indulge my taste for Impressionism. . . . A demain, Markham. By-bye, Sergeant."

(Sunday, September 16; 10 a.m.)

A fine drizzle was falling the next morning when we rose; and a chill—the first forerunner of winter—was in the air. We had breakfast in the library at half past eight, and at nine o'clock Vance's car—which had been ordered the night before—called for us.

We rode down Fifth Avenue, now almost deserted in its thick blanket of yellow fog, and called for Markham at his apartment in West 12th Street. He was waiting for us in front of the house, and stepped quickly into the car with scarcely a word of greeting. From his anxious, preoccupied look I knew that he was depending a good deal on what Skeel had to tell him.

We had turned into West Broadway beneath the Elevated tracks before any of us spoke. Then Markham voiced a doubt which was plainly an articulation of his troubled ruminations.

"I'm wondering if, after all, this fellow Skeel can have any important information to give us. His phone call was very strange. Yet he spoke confidently enough regarding his knowledge. No dramatics, no request for immunity—just a plain, assured statement that he knew who murdered the Odell girl, and had decided to come clean."

"It's certain he himself didn't strangle the lady," pronounced Vance. "My theory, as you know, is that he was hiding in the clothes-press when the shady business was being enacted; and all along I've clung lovingly to the idea that he was au secret to the entire proceedings.

"The keyhole of that closet door is on a direct line with the end of the davenport where the lady was strangled; and if a rival was operating at the time of his concealment, it's not unreasonable to assume that he peered forth—eh, what? I questioned him on this point, you remember; and he didn't like it a bit."

"But, in that case——"

"Oh, I know. There are all kinds of erudite objections to my wild dream.—Why didn't he give the alarm? Why didn't he tell us about it before? Why this? and why that? . . I make no claim to omniscience, y' know; I don't even pretend to have a logical explanation. My theory is only sketched in, as it were. But I'm convinced, nevertheless, that the modish Tony knows who killed his bona roba and looted her apartment."

"But of the three persons who possibly could have got into the Odell apartment that night—namely Mannix, Cleaver, and Lindquist—Skeel evidently knows only one—Mannix."

"Yes—to be sure. And Mannix, it would seem, is the only one of the trio who knows Skeel. . . An interestin' point."

Heath met us at the Franklin Street entrance to the criminal courts building. He, too, was anxious and subdued, and he shook hands with us in a detached manner devoid of his usual heartiness.

"I've got Snitkin running the elevator," he said, after the briefest of salutations. "Burke's in the hall up-stairs, and Emery is with him, waiting to be let into Swacker's office."

We entered the deserted and almost silent building and rode up to the fourth floor. Markham unlocked his office door and we passed in.

"Guilfoyle, the man who's tailing Skeel," Heath explained, when we were seated, "is to report by phone to the homicide bureau as soon as the Dude leaves his rooms."

It was now twenty minutes to ten. Five minutes later Swacker arrived. Taking his stenographic notebook, he stationed himself just inside of the swinging door of Markham's private sanctum, where he could hear all that was said without being seen. Markham lit a cigar, and Heath followed suit.

Vance was already smoking placidly. He was the calmest person in the room, and lay back languorously in one of the great leather chairs as though immune to all cares and vicissitudes. But I could tell by the over-deliberate way he flicked his ashes into the receiver that he, too, was uneasy.

Five or six minutes passed in complete silence. Then the sergeant gave a grunt of annoyance.

"No, sir," he said, as if completing some unspoken thought, "I can't get a slant on this business. The finding of that jewelry, now, all nicely wrapped up . . . and then the Dude offering to squeal. . . There's no sense to it."

"It's tryin', I know, Sergeant; but it's not altogether senseless." Vance was gazing lazily at the ceiling. "The chap who confiscated those baubles didn't have any use for them. He didn't want them, in fact—they worried him abominably."

The point was too complex for Heath. The previous day's developments had shaken the foundation of all his arguments; and he lapsed again into brooding silence.

At ten o'clock he rose impatiently and, going to the hall door, looked out. Returning, he compared his watch with the office clock and began pacing restlessly. Markham was attempting to sort some papers on his desk, but presently he pushed them aside with an impatient gesture.

"He ought to be coming along now," he remarked, with an effort at cheerfulness.

FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Mary, Queen of Scots (III) — By Nicholas Afonsky

A young Italian, David Rizzio, became secretary to Mary, Queen of Scots. He was a favorite of the Queen, who found him reminiscent of the warmer court of France, where she had spent her girlhood. He was a musician, and the Queen was first attracted to him because of his music.

Mary is one of the great enigmas of history, and her biographers differ in blaming her for this affair. Gossip was quick to carry tales to Darnley of the friendship between his wife and Rizzio. One night while she sat at supper with Rizzio, Darnley and his men rushed into the room.

One of the men, Lord Ruthven, taunted the Queen with her friendship for Rizzio. She rose to order him from the room, and the frightened secretary, leaving the table, sought to shield himself behind the Queen's wide skirts. Then one of the men seized Rizzio's own dagger and thrust at him.

They dragged the trembling man into the next room and, before the angry Queen's eyes, stabbed him to death. "Traitor," she cried to her gloating husband, "is this the recompense thou givest to her who covered thee with benefits?" And then the Queen fell in a dead faint.

STEAMER VISITS LONELY ISLAND

Empress of France Collects Mail For Year During Cruise.

PRESENTS DELIVERED.

MONTREAL, Feb. 29.—One hundred and forty-nine lone Britishers, self-appointed to a marooned existence on the isolated Island of Tristan Da Cunha, are celebrating the visit of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, which hove to on Sunday off this deserted colony and outpost of the British Empire while en route from Buenos Aires to Cape Town. About a hundred of the islanders, many of whom had never been aboard a steamship, were received aboard the Empress of France.

Three and a half tons of gifts were sent by Her Majesty Queen Mary and twenty-eight large chests of presents were donated by the Robert Louis Stevenson Chapter, I.O.D.E., Montreal, on behalf of a large number of Canadian donors. The Empress made an eight-hour stay and took off a year's accumulation of mail from the island.

The vessel is conducting the C.P.R.'s first cruise to South America and Africa, having left New York January 24. The longest sea part of the trip was the run from Buenos Aires to Cape Town, which takes 16 days, and was broken last Sunday by the visit to the island.

INTERIM TRUSTEE HAS DEFINITE PLAN

G. T. Clarkson Refuses To Say What Is To Be Done With Stores.

TORONTO, Feb. 29.—G. T. Clarkson, Interim Trustee for the Canadian Department Stores, Limited, is working on a "very definite plan" for dealing with the affairs of the company which have been under his contorl since last fall. What this plan is was not disclosed last night.

It is said that things with the Canadian Department Stores Limited are moving along pretty much as they were early in January. Mr. Clarkson has taken care of the bond interest of $81,250, the chief item which threatened to embarrass the company and put an end to efforts at re-organization by putting the company into complete liquidation. Mr. Clarkson has been authorized to carry on until April 15 or longer in the best interests of the company and its creditors and by that date, or even sooner, is expected to come forward with his plan to deal with the company's affairs, re-organize or liquidate. Inspectors representing the creditors are co-operating with Mr. Clarkson in handling the company's affairs.

G. H. Rennie, General Manager of the Canadian Departmetnt Stores for the year that it was in operation, has tendered his resignation.

Some 22 stores were brought into the original merger, and of these all but one are in the Province of Ontario. All the stores were established for a period averaging more than 44 years. Those behind the merger maintained that with the stores under the amalgamation greater profits could be shown from centralized buying and consolidated operation.

DINNER GIVEN F. HUNGERFORD

Dinner given—Home front ... . of the house he desires to build. He hasn't the money. A city of homeowners is a city of stickers, and that is what Peterborough wants—men who will be glad to call this their home, and will not want to leave it."

After a report of his visit to the Trent Waterway Development Association exhibition at the New York Motor Boat Show, in which he lamented the poor position given the local display, Mr. Hungerford returned to matters nearer home, paying a tribute to the girls employed in the Woolworth store here. "I had the best class of girls in the store here of any store we have in Canada," he declared, "barring none, and in fact I'll put them up against any they have anywhere."

Disclaiming many of the good qualties imputed to him, Mr. Hungerford retired, to be succeeded by other speakers who paraphrased Hamlet:

"I would not hear your enemy say so,
Nor shall you do mine ear that violence,
To make it truster of your own report
Against yourself."

In the meantime, an address in unique form had been circulated and signed and was presented on behalf of the gathering by Mr. Turner. It read:

"Know all men by these presents, that

Frederick C. Hungerford

has by his action (the criteria of true freindship) endeared himself to the business men of Peterborough; has passed all the usual tests of friendship, and has to these virtues added other graces of faithfulness, gentleness and wisdom.

In witness whereof, he is hereby granted this as an acknowledgment of the esteem in which he is held and as a symbol of Life Membership in our hearts.

Witness: The Signatures of Representative Business Men of Peterborough, Ontario, affixed at a Complimentary Dinner on the occasion of his removal from the City, this 26th day of February, 1928."

Those who were present at the dinner, and signed the address, were: John J. Turner, president J. J. Turner & Sons, Ltd.; George A. Gilleeple, president Peterborough Milk Products, Ltd.; R. T. Hicks-Lyne, Manager, Dominion Bank; Robert G. Kingan; Charles S. Cummer, manager, Bank of Montreal; John Comstock; Wilbert T. Regan; R. Heideman; W. Hopwood, P. P. Westbye, president William Hamilton Co., Ltd.; John Crane. Dr. H. M. Yelland, Fred L. Roy, Matthew T. Breckenridge, A. Brown, C. D. Cook, advertising manager, De Laval Co.; Joseph H. French; Charles Lacheur, Vernon Foster, Webber F. Turner, secretary-treasurer, J. J. Turner & Sons., Ltd.; J. A. Robinson, W. Garrow, and John R. Heron.

TRINITY CLUB MEETS.

Skating and Snowshoeing Party, Followed By Supper, Much Enjoyed.

The Trinity Young People met last night in Reid Street Hall where groups were arranged for a skating and snow-shoeing party.

Some took in the theatre, while others enjoyed skating and snowshoeing. At ten o'lock the groups again assembled at the hall and expressed their happy feelings by singing old comic songs. After singing a number of favorite songs the club participated in a hearty meal of pork and beans. Thanks were tendered G. Nicholls and the good cook who supplied the club with the meal. At eleven o'clock the crowd departed to their homes.

Get some pals together today and topple the pins over for a few rounds. There is no better fun and no better exercise.

GRAFTON & CO.

Having Three Day Let-Em-Go Sale, Starting on Thursday.

For the last three days of this week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Grafton & Co. are putting on a three-day Let-Em-Go Sale, that for extraordinary values will eclipse any sale of men's and boys' wear that has been put before their customers in recent years. Although the prices quoted seem ridiculously low, Grafton & Co. can assure the public that the goods are from their regular stock and special lines received from their own factory and warehouse; no so-called sale goods included.

Some of the features are: Men's overcoats as low as $5; men's sightly looking work trousers at $1; men's suit at $10.00; men's overalls and smocks $1; boys' knickers 65c.; big boys' suits $3; boys' suits, with two pair trousers, at $6; kiddies' suits at $1.25.

In the furnishing section extraordinary values in sweaters, pullovers, windbreakers and coats will be featured; values up to $5 at $1.95, and others up to $4 for $1. Combinations in wool fleece are offered at $1 a suit. Fine-colored dress shirts of $1.50 value are on sale for two for $1.50. Men's work shirts, $1 quality, two for $1.

These are only a few of the many surprisingly good values that will be offered during the netx three days. See the Grafton announcement in to-day's paper for further particulars. Store open at 8.30 a.m. Grafton & Co., Limited.

HOPE FADES FOR MEN.

U. S. Navy Department Has 41 Planes Scouring Chesapeake Bay.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29 (Canadian Press).—What was described by navy officials as the greatest aerial search ever made for missing men was pushed with renewed vigor today, as forty-one aircraft scoured the Chesapeake Bay district for Commander T. Ellyson and his two companions. Virtually no clue as to what happened to them has been uncovered, and although the search was being pursued relentlessly, the Navy Department was slowly giving up hope that they would ever be found.

NO REQUEST MADE FOR INVESTIGATION

Ontario Government Officials Have Not Heard From Guelph Hospital Board.

TORONTO, Feb. 29. — Canadian Press. — The Provincial Secretary's Department of the Ontario Government has not yet received any request for an investigation of the trouble at Guelph general hospital, arising out of the walk out of the nurses in protest against working conditions, and the later dismissal of two of the nurses.

The Guelph Hospital Board yesterday decided to ask for an investigation by the Ontario Hospitals' Inspector.

Miss M. A. Munn, who is inspector of the Nurses Training Schools in Ontario, said to-day she had nothing more to say in connection with the matter. "I cannot say anything until the matter is referred to me"

The help will be expected the latter part of March and Mr. Gillespie is desirous of having all applications made so that the immigrant may be sent from the ship to the farmer.

AMBASSADOR NAMED.

Sir Horace Rumbold's Appointment To Germany Approved By King.

LONDON, February 29 (Canadian Press). — The King to-day approved the appointment of Sir Horace Rumbold as British Ambassador to Germany. Sir Horace succeeds Sir Ronald Lindsay, who was recalled from Berlin to take the post of Sir William Tyrrell, permanent Under-Secretary of State in the British Foreign Office until his selection ten days ago as British Ambassador to France, vice Lord Crewe, retired.

The Ill Effects

that arise from impingement of spinal nerves can hardly be overestimated. Pressure upon delicate nerve fibres as they emit from the spinal column can limit the transmission of energy to the tissues supplied by those impinged nerves. This weakens the tissues and leaves them succeptible to disease.

THE RELIEF AND CORRECTION

of nerve impingement can be accomplished by Chiropractic spinal manipulation. The nerves are then capable of supplying the weakened tissues with normal energy, which enables them to function properly. Your degree of health and immunity to disease is directly dependent upon your nervous system.

example, the newspaper says, the man who pays yearly rental of $1,200 for his apartment is ordinarily spending $3.29 a day for a year of 365 days. Then along comes leap year and the tenant is $3.29 to the good. The Landlord's loss and the tenant's gain in New York City alone, The World estimates, is four million dollars today.

On the other hand, the man who gets paid for a year of 365 days gives his services free to-day. For the man on a yearly salary of $3,600 this would be $10.00. The annual payroll of the United States, not including military personnel, amounts to $798,000,000, says The World, meaning a loss to Federal employees of more than two million dollars.

The amount saved by banks on savings deposits is $931,000, which will be lost to fifteen million depositors.

I.W.W. TOOK UP COMPLAINTS OF MINE WORKERS

But Deputation Was Ordered Off Property, Witness Testifies.

HAD RESOLUTION.

Called Attention To Stuff Rotting in Stopes, He Declares at Probe.

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—How a deputation from the Industrial Workers of the World, visiting the Hollinger mine in March, 1925, to protest against conditions in the workings of the mine, was ordered off the property was related by David McKenzie, member of the I.W.W. organization committee, to the Royal Commission investigating the Hollinger disaster to-day.

McKenzie said the deputation had a resolution dealing with what he termed "stuff rotting in the stopes" such as toilet refuse and old timber. They intended to interview A. F. Brigham, general manager, and John Knox, assistant manager, but a man named Huckabone, whom he understood to be paymaster, had ordered the deputation off the property immediately.

"Huckabone," said McKenzie, "the minute he saw I.W.W. on the resolution, jumped in the air." He had them put out.

McKenzie said that in March, 1925, so many members of the organization had come into the hall complaining of headaches and gas on the 550 foot and 675 foot levels, some of them being compelled to quit their jobs, that the subject was thoroughly discussed at three meetings.

GIRL ARRESTED.

Held in Connection With Death of Baby Found on Track.

TORONTO, Feb. 29 (Canadian Press).—The Provincial Police today arrested Bertha McCutcheon, nineteen, of Rockwood, Ontario, in connection with the death of a baby found near the Canadian National Railway tracks at Brampton, near here, recently. Yesterday, Robert Donaldson was arrested in the same connection. The autopsy showed the cause of the infant's death was a fracture of the skull. Medical testimony was that the child was about a day old and had been brought into the world apparently without medical attention.

OBITUARY

FRANCIS SCOTT.

After an illness of seven weeks' duration, Francis Scott, aged seventy-four years, passed away Tuesday evening, February 28, at the residence of his son, 305 Mark street, Peterborough.

The late Mr. Scott was born in England and came out to Canada some sixty years ago. Moving to Peterborough from New Liskeard last May, he became a regular attendant at St. Luke's church. He was a blacksmith by trade.

Surviving are two sons, Ernest, of Peterborough, and Worthy, of Three Rivers.

The funeral will take place on Thursday, March 1, from St. Luke's Anglican church, the Rev. G. J. Bousfield conducting the service at 2.00 p.m. Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

REV. JOHN A. JEWELL.

TORONTO, February 29. — In the death yesterday of Rev. John A. Jewell, in his eighty-eighth year, at his residence, 177 Davenport Road, there passed a preacher well known in the former Methodist Church. The late Rev. Mr. Jewell served various charges in the Bay of Quinte Conference, having been active in the ministry for 45 years. Part of his education was received at Victoria College, while it was located in Cobourg. He graduated from the University of Toronto in 1869, and was recognized as the third oldest living graduate of the University. He was born at Orono, Durham County.

The late Rev. Mr. Jewell came to Toronto 16 years ago at the time of his superannuation. His wife predeceased him eight years ago. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. T. Cruikshanks of Peterborough, Mrs. F. G. Trull of Toronto, and Mrs. C. S. Tanner of Lakefield, Ont., and one son, Dr. R. M. Jewell of Scarboro.

BIRTH.

GIRL RISKS DEATH TO ENTER STATES

Makes Way Across Niagara River on Girders of Bridge.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 29 (Canadian Press).—How she flirted with death to enter this country illegally from Canada was told immigration officials today by Anna Putriunate, pretty seventeen-year-old dressmaker of Montreal. Garbed in a pair of men's trousers, a cap and a sweater, the girl claims she was lowered by a rope over the Gorge bank on the Canadian side to the lower abutments of the Michigan Central railroad bridge and then, accompanied by an alien runner, made her way across the gorge on the narrow steel ledge which forms part of the under section of the bridge. The bridge over which the girl made the perilous crossing is more than 250 feet above the swirling waters of the Whirlpool Rapids.

Miss Putriunate and four other women who crossed the lower river in a rowboat are now detained at police headquarters, held as material witnesses against five men charged with being alien smugglers, who brought them into this country illegally and to whom they paid $250.

DIED.

FERGUSON. — At 354 Stewart St., Peterborough, on Wednesday, Feb. 29 William G. Ferguson, in his 81st year.
Funeral on Friday, at 2 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM.

MILLS.—In loving memory of George who passed away Feb. 29, 1924:
Gone from us but leaving memories
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay;
In our hearts his memory lingers,
Sweet and tender fond and true,
There is not a day, dear George,
That we do not think of you.

CITY TAX RATE SET AT 37 MILLS FOR 1928

BALANCED BUDGET FOR 1928 IS PREDICTED FOR PROVINCE; SURPLUS OF $359,000 IN 1927

Highest Ordinary Revenue in History Reported By Provincial Treasurer.

DEBT REDUCED.

Three Million Paid Off Last Year —Same Amount Allowed For This Year.

TORONTO, March 1 (Canadian Press).—Continuation of the policy of tax reduction, with no new imposts contemplated during the coming year, a balanced budget with a surplus of $359,000 for 1927, and the same condition forecast for 1928, and ordinary revenue during 1927 exceeding that of any year in the history of the province, were features of the budget brought down in the Ontario Legislature by the Hon. J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, to-day.

The Provincial Treasurer estimated the revenue for the fiscal year of 1928 at $55,790,000 and estimated an expenditure for the same period of $55,613,000, leaving a surplus of $117,000. The estimated receipts included seven million dollars from the Liquor Control Board. The ordinary revenue during 1927, Dr. Monteith reported, was $56,306,629, an increase of $5,400,000 over 1926. Interest payments to the treasury by the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway were $1,300,000, he declared, and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission made, during 1927, its first payment off its debt and paid the treasury $7,848,043 in interest.

Debt Under Control.

Ontario's public debt, the Treasurer declared, was now under control and three million dollars was paid off the debt in 1927. A reduction of the same amount was contemplated in 1928. In addition, there was a substantial lowering of interest charges due to refunding at favorable rates. Capital expenditures were at a low level, revenues were buoyant, and there had been strict economy in expenditures, Dr. Monteith reported. The public services were expanding and were efficiently administered and all departments of the Government showed the results of efficiency and economy. The net debt of the province now stood at $157,000,000 and the assets exceeded the liabilities by more than $33,000,000.

"We must remember," he said, "our great potential wealth. As we think of the value of our Crown timber, property assessed by municipalities, undeveloped Crown lands, water powers, and so forth, we can represent them in round figures at over ten billion dollars. Then again, let us not lose sight of our annual income sources. Here will run through our minds farming, manufacturing, mining, forest operations, fish, furs and so forth, represented by figures exceeding two billions of dollars."

Outstanding Year.

"The financial operations of the fiscal year 1927, Dr. Monteith declared, "have been unusually outstanding in their success. Revenues have been buoyant and expenditures consistently controlled, so that it is our privilege to-day to offer a financial statement that will do credit to the present Government as well as be a

BUDGET IN BRIEF

TORONTO, Mar. 1 (Canadian Press).—Features of the Ontario Budget, announced today by the Hon. J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, included the following:

The highest ordinary revenue in the history of the province, $56,000,629, an increase of $5,400,000 over 1926.

A first payment on debt made by the Hydro, which also pays $7,848,043 to the Provincial Treasury in interest.

$1,300,000 paid by the T. and N. O. Railway to the province in interest.

Substantial reductions in interest charges due to refunding loans and replacements at lower rates.

The assets of the Province exceed the liabilities by over $33,000,000.

No changes in taxation.

The first balanced Budget since the war.

$2,488 CREDIT IN FINAL BILL

Utilities Commission Receives Very Favorable Thirteenth Bill.

POWER COST $31.50.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission was given a rather pleasant surprise yesterday at its special meeting when it was announced that the thirteenth electric bill from the Hydro Electric Power Commission would be a credit this year instead of a deficit, as in former years. The bill this year which has been credited to the local commission amounted to $2,488.32 or an average wholesale cost of $31.50 per horse power for the power delivered to this city. During the year the commission had paid an interim cost of $32 per horse power.

Early last year the Ontario Commission raised the rates and announced that the interim cost to this city would be $33 a horse power. The then commission protested and asked for a reduction to $32, which was granted. The thirteenth bill showed that the step then taken was in the interests of the citizens of this city.

In 1926 the average wholesale cost to the city was $26.65 per horse power and the interim rate $22.50, which necessitated the thirteenth bill being a deficit.

The commission decided to reduce the rate of the water users on Lisbon and Moir streets to $8.00 per year net, instead of $10 which they promised to pay when the water mains were installed. The revenue received from these mains more than meets the required payments.

The manager estimated that it would cost $500 to connect the E. L. Ruddy electric signs to the street lighting system.

C. J. Seymour wrote to the commission complaining about his water rate. Mr. Seymour moved into his house on Elias avenue in May, 1926, and since then has been paying the extra water rate for a water power washing machine motor which the former owner had. The commission ordered that Mr. Seymour be given one year's rebate as he was partly responsible.

At the instance of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission when the substation was being built the local body installed a motor generator set for the street railway system and in a contract which is binding until 1934, promised to pay half the wages of the operator. Since the first of the year the Provincial body has refused to make the payments. The secretary was instructed to write the Hydro pointing out that a contract had been made and the machinery installed at their instance.

FIVE PERMITS ARE TAKEN OUT

LOCKWORKS REBUILDING.

Totalling $17,860, five building permits were issued during the month of February for new buildings, alterations, or repairs to old ones in the city of Peterborough. Last February there was issued one permit for $700. The total for the first two months of 1928 was $25,375, and for two months last year $17,535.

Mrs. H. Holbrook was granted permission to make alterations to her store at 99 Rubidge Street, the estimated cost to be $35.00. James B. Brown asked and was granted a permit to tear down a house at 290 Charlotte Street, the contractor being James Brown. McColl Bros., Ltd., are building a storage tank at the corner of Hazlett and Ross Streets, the cost to be $825.

The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company will make repairs on the building recently damaged by fire, the total expenditure to be in the neighborhood of $14,000. Of concrete foundation, the building will be of brick, three storeys high with felt and gravel roofing, and will be 131 feet in length and 34 feet in width. T. E. Ephgrave of 310 London Street is the contractor.

The Peterborough Brewing Company will also make expenditure of $3,000 to take out one floor of their building, and put in new concrete flooring as well as other general repairs. R. Paquette is the contractor.

Live Six Days On Arctic Shore

SEWARD, Alaska, March 1. — (Canadian Press).—After living for six days on one sack of flour and fish caught in a nearby stream, nine members of the crew of the halibut schooner Alaska wrecked on Kodiak island, February 19, walked fifteen miles to an Indian village, where the schooner Olive took them to Kodiak. The rescued men arrived in Seward yesterday, en route to Seattle.

France and Spain Reach Agreement

PARIS, March 1 (A.P.—France and Spain have finally reached an agreement on the Tangier statute It is probable that the Spanish ambassador, Senor Quinones de Leon, and M. Briand, the French Foreign Minister, who concluded a definite agreement yesterday, will sign it before M. Briand's departure for Geneva. It will then be submitted to the Italian and British governments for their ratification. Conversations between the representatives of the four powers will take place at Paris, and not, as it had been reported in English papers, at Malaga.

M. Briand will submit the terms of the agreement to the Cabinet Saturday.

PICKEREL SOLD FULL OF SPAWN

Harwood Resident Says Two Tons Daily Being Taken From Rice Lake.

FEARS DEPLETION.

Two tons a day is the average catch of pickerel at Rice Lake as estimated by Amos Shearer and quoted by Enoch Merriam of Harwood to The Examiner yesterday.

"Here is one way to imagine the tremendous depletion of the stock of fish in Rice Lake this winter", said Mr. Merriam. "I was in Cobourg on Tuesday, and a banker there told me that about a week ago he had bought an eight-pound pickerel in one of the local stores. On opening it he found one pound and a half of spawn. That is a positive fact. Now then, I believe from all accounts that nine out of every ten of the pickerel caught this winter are female fish. Put those two statements together, and you can get some idea of the loss of Rice Lake pickerel as a result of winter fishing."

"Looking up and down the lake from Harwood you can see every day probably twenty-five or more men fishing. They are in groups of two, three or perhaps five or more. And it is not like the old days when a couple of Indians would start out with a handsleigh and trudge out to look for fish, perhaps only for their own personal use. Some of them have cars now, and they drive out on to the ice and fish from the automobile."

Pickerel Satisfy Tourists.

Mr. Merriam remarked that he had $20,000 invested at Harwood, part of that sum in accommodation for tourists, as he is anxious that the supply of fish not only be maintained, but increased. He declared emphatically that most of the tourists are content to catch pickerel.

"I know as well as any one at Rice Lake that there used to be a class of summer visitors who came to the lake for the lunge and bass. They wanted the game fifish for the excitement and satisfaction of playing them before landing them. And they used to get plenty of those fish up and down the lake; but today there are many tourists who are satisfied with the pickerel because it is just a fish. I have heard them say many a time, "Land, land him" when we would get one on the hook, showing that their chief interest was simply the catching of the fish."

"The way to look at it is this, "if you kill the hens you won't have eggs." If you catch the fish by the ton in winter, you can't expect to have them next summer and the summer after that. I am strongly in favor of prohibiting winter fishing at Rice Lake, and I also want to see the opening of the season moved back to June 15th."

Tourists More Numerous.

Mr. Merriam said that the tourists business at Rice Lake had greatly increased during the last five years. For three years Harwood has been exceptionally busy during the summer months. Many cottages have been built, and as many as thirty-nine camping parties with tents have been counted on one day. Mr. Merriam has forty boats in his enlarged livery and with his store and cottages is more interested than ever in the tourist attractions of Rice Lake.

"Unless something is done", he said, "it won't be long until we'll have no tourists coming to the lake."

Earl Drope of Harwood, who was with Mr. Merriam, expressed the conviction that the stock of bass in Rice Lake has been reduced to the present comparatively small numbers as a result of winter fishing. Pickerel, he said, would disappear in the same way. At present they are being caught in four feet of water in many places.

Enoch Merriam is well known in Peterboro, and his opinions will command the respect of all his friends. He knows the habits of the Rice Lake fish, and appreciates the value of an abundant supply of the game fish that invite tourists from long distances to this locality. He told The Examiner that the feeling in Cobourg is very keen against winter fishing on its present extensive business basis. And a stupid basis is his view of it.

ROYAL COURT TO DEAL WITH TWO QUESTIONS

Probe Cause of Fire and Endeavor To Fix Responsibility at Present Session.

HOLLINGER DISASTER.

Defer Until Later Consideration of Question of Precautionary Measures.

TIMMINS, Ont., March 1 (Canadian Press). — It may be considered advisable to defer, until a later date, a more thorough consideration of the question of precautionary measures, one of the three objects of the inquiry. The Commissioner has made no official pronouncement in this respect, but he expressed yesterday an informal opinion that this course may be adopted to expedite the proceedings. If such a course should be taken the investigation for the present will deal chiefly with the cause of the fire and endeavor to fix the responsibility, leaving until a more convenient season the other matter. Mr. Justice Godson said the subject of safety for the future opened up a wide subject, and it might be necessary to secure the best expert advice available to reach proper conclusions.

Varying opinions expressed by witnesses yesterday on the potential danger of fire created by the dumping of thaw house refuse into stopes. While Guidice told Mr. White he "did not know if it ever would catch fire" and did not think it would, Maclaren said he had expressed to his partner, who was Guidice, that "it would be an awful thing if this ever catches fire," and the other man had agreed with him. Duchuk told the Commissioner he "sometimes thought it was dangerous," but neither he nor Maclaren ever had told "the boss." Duchuk, who held he had not been afraid to stay there, considered it none of his business to consult his superiors while Maclaren "never thought of it" when the boss or safety inspector was around. He did not think he would be discharged for reporting it, he said.

Seen Nothing Wrong.

MacLeod told the Commissioner he never had seen this practice of dumping carried out before, but it never occurred to him there was "anything particularly wrong about it," and he was "not a bit scared." In a big mine he thought they would not have time to do things as in smaller properties where only a few cases of powder were handled daily and the paper and boxes were left on the surface. This witness was "neutral," he said, in the matter, and had no suggestions to offer, and he was told by Mr. Justice Godson this was sometimes a safe position to adopt. MacLeod swore to Mr. Slaght he was not instructed that refuse was dumped only in stopes that were being backfilled, and that he never had talked the practice over with Rutherford, then safety inspector, although this would have been "the better method," but he thought no danger was involved.

Rutherford, according to MacLeod, answering Mr. White had told him once to be careful and not let anybody in there (stope 55-A) that might throw cigarette butts or matches down the workings. John said that sawdust and paper were dumped there, and Duchuk said it was neces-

THE WEATHER

March this year came in moderately cold, with a temperature of 20 above zero. Last year it was 1 below zero, and the last zero day of the winter. February, this year, had 9 zero days. The lowest was 14 below, on the 25th and 26th. The highest temperature was 40 degrees, on the 5th. The snowfall and rainfall combined was 3.92 inches. As most people (myself included) cannot usually say positively from memory what the weather was like on a certain day a week previously I give a few notes regarding conditions in March of last year: On March 1st last year there was 20 inches of snow on the ground, with good sleighing, which continued good until the 7th, and was gone on the 12th. Spring-like conditions prevailed on the 11th. Robins became numerous on the 12th. On the 14th the creeks were in flood. Therefore, judging from the past we should have spring weather in two weeks.—W. General Disorder Follows Imprisonment Of The Caracas University Students

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 1 (A.P.).—Transportation and telephone services were suspended and disorders occurred in the streets when strikes were declared in sympathy with the imprisonment of university students. Energetic action by the authorities has restored order and conditions are now normal.

During the festivities of students' week, certain university students were alleged to have made speeches reflecting on the government. Their arrest followed. Others of the student body insisted that if their comrades were not released, they also should be imprisoned and about 200, who surrended to the authorities, were locked up.

Strikes by employees of public service and commercial companies followed.

Tourists reaching other countries from Venezuela have said that student manifestation was against President Juan Vicenti Gomez, who has been the chief executive in Venezuela since 1908. He was re-elected in 1922 for a term of seven years. Tourists at Willemstad, Curacao, stated that four hundred students had been arrested, some imprisoned in Caracas and others sent to Puerto Cabello.

The Bogota, Colombia, newspaper, Ul Tiempo, yesterday published an alleged appeal from the university federation of Venezuela saying:

"Three hundred university students have been barbarously treated and plunged into the dungeons of Puerto Cabello."

COUNTY TRUSTEES ASSOCIATION IS ORGANIZED AT MEETING

Several Speakers Address Gathering of Peterborough County School Trustees.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Will Bring About Better Understanding Between Teacher and Board.

The chief outcome of a meeting of Peterborough County school trustees held at the Normal school on Wednesday afternoon, was the formation of a County Trustees Association, which will be affiliated with the provincial body. Leading in the discussion of the afternoon, and giving many valuable suggestions was W. M. Morris, secretary and editor of the Canadian School Board Association and Journal, who had come from Toronto to meet the trustees. Other speakers of the afternoon were Mrs. Kate Morris, of the Peterborough School Board ,and a past president of the O.E.A., and A. E. Bryson, secretary of the Ontario Educational Association.

Though the attendance of trustees was disappointingly small, a splendid interest in all subjects of discussion on the part of those present was manifest, and the newly-organized trustees' association is likely to be a success.

Mr. J. A. Wilson, chairman pro tem, introduced Mr. Morris, who, rather than delivering a formal address, conducted the discussion of an organization, its many advantages in bringing about a better understanding and closer co-operation between teacher and trustee board and its relation to the O.E.A.

He it was who introduced Mrs. Kate Morris, mentioning the strange coincidence of their names being the same.

Mrs. Morris.

"I know that you are considering a county trustees' organization and I know that it will be of benefit to everyone. How problems have been or are to be worked out, may be discussed at your organization meetings. I hope you will carry out what you plan to do and I feel sure that Mr. Morris will be of real assistance to you.

Mr. Bryson expressed his pleasure at meeting the trustees, to whom he said: "We of the teaching body carry on the work of education but you supply the funds.

"The O.E.A. was organized many years ago and was then comprised almost entirely of teachers. It met, in the summer holidays, but this was changed so that the meetings are now held during Easter week. I am here to get you to urge upon your teachers the importance of being present at the O.E.A. meeting and to strengthen Mr. Morris in his work of interesting you trustees in the meeting also. Trustees and teachers should be present."

Mr. Bryson thought that a convention of Peterborough county teachers

Leap Year Shows Gain In Marriages

Marriages in this city for the Leap Year months of January and February total twenty-nine in comparison with twenty-four for the same period last year, an increase of five. In January for both years the marriages just broke even, but in February of this year there were sixteen marriages against eleven last year.

Deaths increased this year from eighteen to twenty-eight, and births from twenty-nine to forty-five for the corresponding months.

Jobless Man Finds $52,000 But Is Given No Reward

NEW YORK, February 29 (Canadian Press). — Jobless for several weeks, Alexander Lobowski, forty-year-old painter, found a sack containing $52,000 lying in a gutter in Brooklyn, and returned it to its owners. To-day he has a first-class reputation for honesty, still no job, and no definite prospect of a reward.

OTHER NATIONS NOT INCLUDED IN PEACE NOTE

Paris Press Criticizes Kellogg's Note On Outlawry of War.

SUGGEST CONFERENCE.

Surprised at Failure of U. S. To Obtain Collaboration of Powers.

PARIS, March 1. — Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's note on the outlawry of war has puzzled French officials and called forth criticism from the press. The officials apparently unable to understand why Mr. Kellogg should inform France that the Havana resolution outlawed war without reserve, whereas the text of the resolution as received here merely condemned aggressive war.

Nor does the French mind profess to comprehend the assumption of the American Secretary of State that the proposed pact is to include other great powers. So far as disclosed here they have not even been consulted on the subject. There is surprise at the failure of the United States to obtain the collaboration of Great Britain, Italy, Germany and Japan in a multilateral pact.

In the newspapers numerous editorials point out that France, and other great powers, who are members of the League of Nations, have under the League covenant, renounced war as a political instrument but at the same time they are likely to be obligated under the covenant to take arms against a declared aggressor.

The Journal des Debates remarks that Secretary Kellogg and Mr. Hughes at Havana refused to renounce the right of the United States to intervene, even by force, in the affairs of other American countries in order to defend the rights of citizens of the United States.

"This pretension," says the paper, was based on the Monroe doctrine, but the other countries represented at Havana have not recognized that doctrine."

The paper remarks in conclusion that the best thing France can do before applying to Mr. Kellogg is to consult the other league powers.

City Requires One Mill More Than Last Year.

FULL-TIME HEALTH OFFICER WILL COST NO MORE THAN PRESENT HEALTH WORK, COUNCIL IS TOLD Trafifc Signal Will Be Installed To Obviate Necessity of Having Extra Policemen For Point Duty During the Summer Months—Praise For Police Matron.

Thirty-seven mills was fixed at the tax rate for the city for 1928 at the meeting of the Finance Committee of the City Council last night To reach this rate the Police Commission estimates were cut to $25,000, but allowance is being made for a traffic signal at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets, which had been cut out when such estimates as were ready were tentatively approved last week.

There was some hope, Mayor Denne announced as he opened the discussion, of making the rate thirty-six and a half mills, as the legislation covering the Monaghan sewer connections is to be introduced in the Legislature by W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., very shortly, and the Council intends to ask the Department of education to meet its share of the interest and sinking fund on the Collegiate Institute this year. This, Ald. Stocker pointed out, Sarnia had done, but at the same time he thought the rate ought to be set at thiry-seven mills as there will be contingencies. He was willing to move that this be done if the Police estimates were set at $25,000.

The various amounts in the Police estimates were read out by the chairman. There was little comment except of $1,400 for upkeep of the police cars. Last year, with one car, $341.36 was spent for repairs and $535.98 for gasoline.

An allowance of $100 extra for the police matron was met with general approval, tribute being paid to Miss Wood's work.

"Can you carry on with $25,000?" was Ald. McIntyre's query, addressed to the Mayor as a member of the Police Commission.

"It's up to the Council," was the reply. "It means losing the two extra men."

Signal vs. Policeman

"If we don't have the light at the corner we will have to have extra men," was Chief Newhall's pronouncement on the matter, as reported by Ald. Cotton. "The light would be better than the men," continued the alderman. "We will be better off to put in a light at $500 than hire two extra men at $1,000. Next year we can put in another light. The chief says if he doesn't put a man there now the people howl."

Fear that the signals would hold up the buses was expressed by Ald. Lowe, but Ald. Huffman pointed out that even the street cars obey the lights in Toronto. "And in Buffalo," added another alderman.

"I'll support the signal if you make this $25,000," declared Ald. Stocker.

"Last year we gave them $25,386.50," explained Ald. Phelan. "They spent $25,007.92. This year they are asking $27,715, including $1,100 for two extra men and $600 for insurance. They should get on with $25,000."

"Do you think they can get along with $25,000? asked Ald. Macdonold. "Why not give them $26 000?"

"I move that we give them $25,500 to provide for the increase for the matron," Ald . Huffman announced.

"Make it the same as last year," suggested the Mayor.

"That's your motion, isn't it, Walter?" asked Ald. Huffman.

"No; they can get along with $25,000," was Ald. Stocker's response.

"I'll second that," decided Ald. Huffman.

"Does that include the hundred for the matron " asked Ald. Lowe.

"We can't dictate to them what they do with the money," replied Ald. Phelan, and the motion carried.

"Do I get the five hundred for the light?" was the instant query of Ald. Cotton, whose estimates had been shorn of this amount last week.

When the grants were being considered Ald. Cotton advised the committee that the Knights of Columbus are having a big celebration here on May 24, at which they expect five thousand people, and some of them had mentioned the possibility of obtaining a grant, suggesting $250 as a suitable figure. He had told them to have a delegation wait

Peterborough Babies Get Good Birthdays

While other towns and cities may boast of the number of leap-year babies born Wednesday, Feb. 29th, Peterborough claims the distinction of being more generous. No baby born here must wait four long years to celebrate his first birthday. Reports from both Nicholls and St. Josephs' Hospitals are to the effect that there were no births in either institution yesterday, and until 10.30 this morning, none were registered at the city clerk's office.

KEENE BOY WINS ORATORICAL HONOR

Ralph Archibald Goes To Belleville To Compete in Semi-Finals.

KEENE, March 1.—Ralph Archibald, son of Rev. John A. Archibald, left for Belleville on Saturday accompanied by J. B. Nelson, of Peterborough, Agricultural Representative of Peterborough county to compete in the oratorical contest. Ralph was the winner of oratorical contest which was staged between five counties, at which his subject was "John A. MacDonald" giving him the honor of going to Belleville. The champion at Belleville will be eligible to compete in the finals, which are being held in Toronto at Easter.

Mr. Archibald won the County Championship at Norwood Fair, last October, and again at Belleville he came through with flying colors.

YOUNG PEOPLE DAMAGE HOUSE

Break Into Storage To Get Toboggans For Evening's Fun

ON LAKEFIELD SLIDE.

LAKEFIELD, March 1.—On Tuesday evening a party of young people visited the school grounds and broke open the toboggan store room, breaking the lock and jerking the door off the hinges and proceeded to have an evening's fun on the slide. The Public School Board purchased several toboggans at the beginning of the season and had the slides erected at considerable expense for the benefit of the Public School pupils, with Harry Wannamaker, a member of the Public School staff, as supervisor. The High School pupils were allowed to use the slide in the evenings if they wished, and Mr. Wannamaker lent them the togboggans. Some of the young people in the village used the slide in the evenings also, but until Tuesday night there was no room for complaint. However, the authorities feel that an unfair advantage has been taken of the privilege and regret that some young people have so forgotten themselves as to become law breakers in pursuit of pleasure, which they could have had legitimately by applying to Mr. Wannamaker.

HOPE WANES FOR AVIATORS

Third Searching Party Returns After Fruitless Hunt For Lexington.

LOST OVER CHESAPEAKE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 1. — (Canadian Press).—Hope for the rescue alive of Commander T. G. Ellison, executive officer of the aeroplane carrier Lexington, and his companions, Lieut.-Cmdr. Hugo Schmidt and Lieut. Roger Ransehousen, waned yesterday among navy officials here as the third gigantic aerial searching party returned to its home stations unsuccessful.

The waters of the Chesapeake Bay and the coast of nearby states have been searched for the fliers, who left Hampton Roads, Va., Monday morning at 2 o'clock for Annapolis.

An oil slick on the waters of the bay near Horn Harbor was thought to be a trace of the fliers, but the dragging of the bottom failed to reveal whether the big amphibian plane sank there. Irvine Hudgins, a fisherman, reported at Norfolk, Va., that he heard the motor of an aeroplane about 2.30 o'clock Monday morning, approximately three miles from where the slick was found. The motor of the plane was missing, he reported, but after passing him, the engine picked up and a few minutes later the drone of the machine ceased to be heard.

OLD TIME EVENING PROVIDES MUCH FUN

Mrs. Newman and Mrs. Isaac Win at Norham Masquerade.

NORHAM, Mar. 1.— Mrs. Newman and Mrs. Isaac captured the prize for the best costume at the old time evening given by the Ladies' Aid of Norham. The program which was also of an old time type, was presided over by Rev. D. R. Clare, and consisted of: recitation, "Aunt Jemima's Visit to Chicago," Mrs. Lorne Evans; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Knight; mixed quartette, Mesdames Grant and Campbell and Messrs. Huycke and Curtis; reading, "A New Lease of Life," Mrs. W. Newman; duet, "Reuben and Rachel," Mrs. Grant and Mr. Huycke; men's chorus, "Homeward Bound"; reading, "Si's Oxen," Mrs. Oscar Lavor; rounds, "Row Your Boat," and "A Rabbit on the Rail Pile"; reading, Miss Mildred Curtis; men's chorus, "Bullfrog on the Bank"; solo, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," Mrs. Grant.

A tableau, "From the spinning wheel to the sock," was presented by four ladies with spinning wheels, reel, swifts and knitting needles, illustrating the process from wool to the knitted sock.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program. The he prdgram committee consisted of Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Clare. Refreshment committee being Mrs. Pierson, Mrs. Newman and Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Isaac was the accompanist.

Personals.

Miss Isabel Harriet, of Wilson's Settlement, spent the week end with Miss Edna Evans. Miss Harriet has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Harriet of Warkworth, for a few days.

There was no service held in the church at Norham on Sunday evening owing to the death of the pastor's mother, Mrs. Phoebe Clare, formerly of Tweed.

WOMEN UNITE FOR PRAYER

Many Take Part in World's Day Service at Springville.

SPRINGVILLE, March 1. — The World's Day of Prayer was fittingly observed in the Springville United Church when a large number of ladies met for the purpose of prayer and intercession for Canada and the foreign missions and for the success of the great International Missionary Conference that is to be held in Easter Week at Jerusalem.

The vice-president, Mrs. J. Grandy, presided, while those who took part were: Mrs. George Whitfield and Mrs. A. Hunter, and prayers were offered for the different objects by Mrs. W. Whitfield, Mrs. R. Robertson, Mrs. J. Grandy, Miss A. Brown, Mrs. A. Hunter and Mrs. George Whitfield.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Staples and family were the guests on Sunday of Mrs. Staples' mother, Mrs. Armstrong, of Bailieboro.

Mrs. L. Finnie and baby daughter, Barbara, spent the past ten days with the former's parents, Rev. A. H. and Mrs. McConnachie.

Mrs. V. Whittington and little son, Clark, are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Clark.

Miss M. Southam has returned home from a two months' vacation with friends in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. George Patton, Park Street, were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George Whitfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Armstrong were the guests on Thursday of the former's mother, Mrs. R. Armstrong.

Mrs. T. A. Young has returned home from visiting her daughter, Mrs. M. Archer Smith.

Miss C. McConnachie spent the week-end in Toronto.

The many friends of Mr. F. Wilson and Miss Wilson will be sorry to learn that their brother, Rev. E. Wilson of Belleville has been brought to Nicholls Hospital to undergo an operation.

Mr. Albert Jones spent a cuple of days visiting with friends at Frazerville.

Mrs. H. Keegan of Cavan is spending a few days in Peterborough to be near her brother, Mr. H. Kincaid, who is seriously ill in Nicholls Hospital.

DAY OF PRAYER IS HELD AT STIRLING

Three Local Churches Unite in World Prayer Service.

STIRLING, March 1.—The ladies of the three local churches and Mount Pleasant met in St. Paul's United Church for the observance of the World's Day of Prayer Service. Miss J. Westcott, president of St. Paul's W.M.S., presided, and gave a short history of the starting of the prayer services. Mrs. C. Lansing read the Scripture lesson and Miss Westcott led in the prayers for Canada, which was followed by the representatives of the different churches. Mrs. Hiram Rodgers led the prayers for China, Japan and India, while prayers for the Moslem world, League of Nations and Conference in Jerusalem were led by Mrs. James Montgomery.

Sugar-Beet and Railroad Industries Enter Opposition Against Box Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 1 (Canadian Press).—Touching on the labor situation of the United States from several angles, new opposition was brought by the sugar-beet and railroad industries yesterday before House and Senate committees against the Box Bill to restrict Western Hemisphere immigration

Sugar-beet growers and manufacturers presented to the House committee the argument that Mexican labor, in addition to performing the tasks of the farm, was aiding in curtailing the surplus of agricultural products by enabling the farmers to produce crops which in addition to helping to fill the nation's sugar bowl, did not add to the staples in which a surplus exists.

Before the Senate committee, Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the American Railway Association, and E. E. McInnis, general solicitor of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, contended that by cutting off the Mexican labor supply through passage of the Box Bill, Congress would work a double hardship upon the railroads. In addition to forcing them to pay a higher competitive wage for their labor, they argued, their freight would be cut down by the inability of farmers to produce their normal crops.

While the testimony before the House commission several times was led by Representative Box, Democrat, Texas, to consideration of a report that Industrial Workers of the World were organizing among Mexican laborers, and that the Mexican family lived poorly, it always turned back to consideration of the agricultural and economic phases.

BAILIEBORO YOUNG PEOPLE GIVE PLAY

Number Take Part in "Rustic Romeo" Given By Anglican Guild.

BAILIEBORO, March 1.—"Rustic Romeo" was the title of the play staged by the guild of the Anglican church recently. The acts took place on the front street of the town of Chowderville and much fun was produced by the artists who took their parts exceedingly well. The Chowderville fire brigade choruses also added greatly to the evening's entertainment.

Rev. P. H. Howard acted as chairman, while Mrs. Allen presided at the piano. Those who took part in the play were: Misses Irene Johnston, Hazel Armstrong, Ivy Sutton, G. Golden, E. Johnston, and Lunny. Mrs. Douglas Fisher, Mrs. William Tunny, Mrs. Waterman, Mrs. John Willan, and Mrs. Fred Wood. Messrs Arnold Brown, Howard Fair, Gerald Armstrong, John Willan, Fred Wood, Fred Waterman, William Tunny, A. Jackson and W. Golden.

OMEMEE COUPLE ARE HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pogue Given Presentation Before Departure.

OMEMEE, March 1.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pogue was the scene of a pleasant evening when a number of their friends gathered to bid farewell to them before they move to their new home in Peterborough. They were the recipients of a handsome wicker chair and a stainless steel carving set. Replies were made by both Mr. and Mrs. Pogue, who extended a cordial invitation to all to visit them in their new home.

The address was signed by Roy Windrim and Fred Parker. The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

Personals.

Mrs. A. E. Bryson of Toronto visited her cousin, Mrs. Margaret Stephenson on Saturday.

Mrs. J. Carey and baby and stepdaughter, Miss Phyllis Carey of Smith's Falls visited Mr. and Mrs. R. Carey last week. Miss Phyllis is remaining with her grandparents for a few weeks.

Mrs. S. Mills spent the week-end with her daughter, Mrs. Conley, of Lindsay.

Messrs. Ernest and Bob Corneil of Queen's University spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Corneil. Bob has become famous in wrestling circles. A week or more ago he won the wrestling championship in his class against McGill University and since then has added more laurels by defeating Toronto University.

Mrs. J. K. Parker, who has been visiting in Peterborough, is at present the guest of her son, Mr. Fred Parker.

BANNER YEAR IS REPORTED

Poultry Association Holds Annual Meeting and Election.

F. H. DAWSON PRESIDENT.

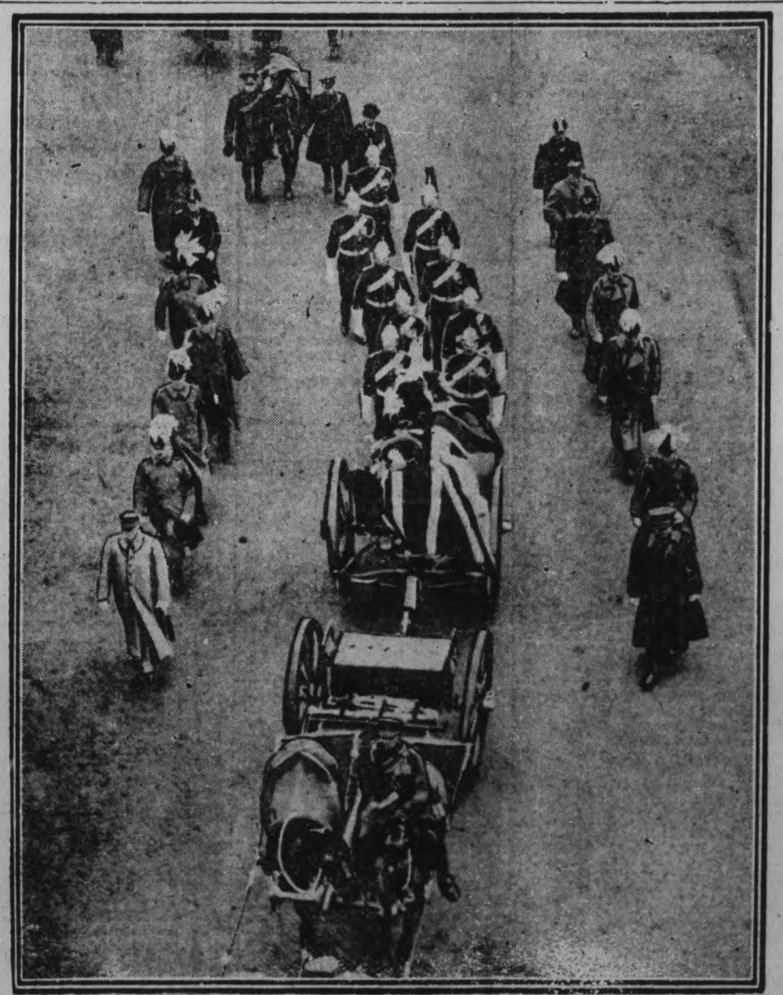
That the period just ended was a banner year in the history of the society, was the opinion arrived at by the members on hearing the reading of the annual report by the auditor, Fred Holmes, at the meeting the Peterborough Poultry Association, held in the W.O.W. Hall on Tuesday evening. All expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the progress of the organization, whose affairs were reported as being in excellent shape.

Election of officers resulted in re-election of those of the preceding year, as follows: President, F. H. Dawson; 1st vice president, S. E. Moncrief; 2nd vice president, R. M. Brown; secretary, W. J. Nesbitt; treasurer, George Paxman; directors: E. H. White, B. Law, A. R. Robson, W. Fisher, R. C. Robson, B. Trotter, C. Sanderson, Ken Throop, H. T. Lush, George Buller, B. F. Robson, Leo Murphy, and O. Hayward.

Thoroughly cleaned and disinfected farrowing pens will greatly aid in reducing the mortality in the spring litters.

Ski line view of Canadian Metropolis

Montreal, Metropolis of the Dominion of Canada, is so fortunate as to possess a great natural playground in the heart of the city so that it is but a few steps from the everyday matter-of-fact world of trade and commerce into sylvan retreats. Mount Royal possesses attractions in every season of the year and for every age. In winter time it affords numerous paths for the ski enthusiasts, providing level ways for the leisurely and swift runs for those who want thrills. Mount Royal has the further distinction of being forbidden to the automobile at all times. From the point where the camera man has found the ski pair resting a wide view of the city and the surrounding district is obtainable. Manufacturing plants vie with the spires and just to the left of the middle distance the fane of Notre Dame contrasts with a vast grain elevator. At the right may be seen the great Victoria Jubilee Bridge connecting the Island of Montreal with the South shore, crossing the St. Lawrence now covered with its winter mantle of ice and snow. (Canadian National Railways photograph).



The funeral procession of Earl Haig, commander of the British forces during the war, stretched over a mile in length through the streets of London, as it left St. Columba's church for Westminster Abbey and later for Waterloo station, where the remains were entrained for interment at Bemersyde. Seven British field marshals and Marshal Foch of France were among the pallbearers, while the gun carriage was followed by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry. Detachments of picked troops from France and Belgium also took part in the procession.

AXE AND HAMMER FOUND BY POLICE

Blood Stains on Weapons Discovered in Shed of Slain Man's Home.

HAMILTON, March 1.—In the course of a further search of the house and outbuildings of the farm of Michael Jonash, Flamboro' Centre, near Waterdown, yesterday afternoon, Chief Clark of Wentworth and Sergt. Cox of the Provincial Police discovered a hammer and hatchet, both bloodstained, they said, and hidden in a box in a woodshed.

The bloodstains on these two tools were freshly made, in the opinion of the officers, and were given over to Dr. W. J. Deadman, City Pathologist, for him to determine if the marks are those of human blood.

Widow Questioned.

Mrs. Jonash, widow of the man alleged to have been murdered, could throw no further light on the tragedy when questioned yesterday afternoon, although it was admitted that her husband could not have received his injuries in a fall as was first claimed he did. Mrs Jonash, the police stated, has two black eyes and a large abrasion on her head.

Further information gathered by the police yesterday afternoon was that Jonash and his wife quarrelled after the others went to bed. Jonash, so police were told, had been unpleasant during the evening because a payment on a mortgage was due and he did not have the money to meet it. His wife later rebuked him for having been so petulant in front of the others, whereat the slain man is said to have felled his wife with several cruel blows from his fists. What followed immediately after that is not known at this time, but it is believed by the police that Jonash went into the yard and either engaged in a further quarrel or was attacked by some one armed with bludgeons of some sort.

Two Men Charged.

Jacob Sczepanek, the hired man, and Joseph Deczuk, who is Jonash's brother-in-law, were charged with murder before Magistrate Vance in the County Police Court yesterday, and remanded for one week.

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1928.

WILLIAM G. FERGUSON.

The old guard is rapidly disappearing, as venerable and respected citizens whose own life story has been the life story of this community one by one cross over to the other shore.

William G. Ferguson is the latest to pass, and with his going Peterborough loses a genial, wholesome personality and a citizen who adopted this city as his home nearly seven decades ago, and throughout his life played his part in the development of the place he loved so well.

Peterborough was but a small town when Mr. Ferguson, a young Scotsman, first came here in 1866, but the newcomer looked upon it and found it good, and never ceased throughout his long life in this community to work for its general interests.

In many ways he left his mark upon the life of Peterborough, as a business man, as an executive of several public utilities, as a member for many years of the Board of Education, as a curler and a patron of clean sport generally, as an enthusiastic admirer of the opportunities for outdoor life at the city's door.

Mr. Ferguson was, in short, one of those very fine types of citizens that Scotland has contributed so generously toward the development of this country, and his passing leaves Peterborough the poorer.

MUNICIPAL TAX ON MOTORS.

Ottawa authorities are to ask the Ontario Legislature to authorized a municipal tax on automobiles.

The idea, as explained by Controller McElroy, who is responsible for its evolution, is to produce revenue that would enable the city streets to be properly maintained.

Not much consideration is likely to be given to the proposal by the Government, and there does not seem to be any sound reason why local motorists should be called upon to pay a city tax for using streets that motorists from outside would use free of charge.

Motorists are sufficiently taxed now with sales tax, license fee, gasoline tax and driver's permit, and a municipal tax would seem to be an imposition.

The latter are largely made necessary by and chiefly of use to automobile owners, and they should pay in proportion, but practically everybody in a municipality benefits in some way or another from improved streets, which, as The Ottawa Journal puts it, "mean faster delivery of all commodities, speed up street cars as well as automobiles, and facilitate doctors in making necessary calls."

Much more reasonable than a municipal tax on automobiles would be the distribution of a portion of the Provincial revenues obtained from the gasoline tax among the municipalities for street maintenance purposes.

THE DUTY OF THE VENDOR.

The Examiner is glad to note in the speech of Attorney-General Price a very emphatic intimation that vendors under the Liquor Control Act who seek to promote sales, rather than to curb them, will find themselves looking for another job.

Long before the stores opened for business the fact was stressed in these columns that the vendor would be the key man of the whole system, and that upon him the success or otherwise of Government control would depend.

As the Act is operated in Peterborough there seems to be little cause for complaint on this score, and a very evident desire to prevent permit-holders from abusing the privilege conferred upon them is to be noticed.

It is probable, too, that here and elsewhere this curbing on the part of vendors will be even more effective when they are able to more closely study their clientele and pick out the doubtful customers.

The whole system hinges upon this being done, and if there are men in charge of Government stores who are failing in this respect their connection with the Liquor Control Board should be severed with little ceremony.

On this point the Attorney-General, dealing with a complaint that in some cases people have secured too much liquor on their permits, said:

"There is no excuse for allowing men who are obviously re-selling to get such large quantities of liquor and beer on their permits. The position of the Government on this matter is that there is no excuse for a vendor not doing his job. 99 per cent. of the vendors have done well, but where there is a vendor who thinks it is his duty to sell and make big sales without controlling he will find himself in some other job."

LET THE LAW ALONE.

(From The Stratford Beacon-Herald.)

Premier Ferguson says that the Government control measure in Ontario is proving to be a "God-send to the Province." Perhaps he had in mind the amount of revenue that the Provincial Treasury was receiving when he made that statement.

The new measure, like any other, depends entirely on the method of enforcement. It appears to be working fairly well, but it would be too much to claim that it had eradicated bootlegging, because there are cases coming up in courts in various centres which show that liquor is being bought in the Government stores and then resold in smaller packages after hours.

It is hard to grasp the mental vigor of those who keep on dealing with the bootleggers. As a usual thing the bootlegger buys the cheapest kind of whiskey he can secure; he takes it away and proceeds to doctor it up so that he can sell it for three or four times what it cost him in the store; as a general thing he dilutes it in such a way and with ingredients which he knows will give to it a mighty kick, and people actually pay over their good money for this rot.

There does not appear to be much chance for the motion sponsored by F. W. Wilson of Windsor for the sale of beer by the glass being adopted as part of the control measure.

The Government has a big experiment on its hands now, and it would be poor policy to allow private members to start tinkering with the system by running in with their pet hobbies about open drinking and increased consumption.

THE HAZARDS OF FLYING.

"If it happens that I am killed, I'm willing to make the sacrifice. I don't consider what I am doing hazardous flying in the sense that I have taken unnecessary risks. At the outset when new methods of transportation are coming into use, there must be pioneers to show the way and some of them are killed. But the ones who do the pioneering are the last ones to think of the hazards."

So spoke Col. Lindbergh when informed of the intention of Secretary of War Davis to request him to stop all "stunt" flying. The Ace of the Atlantic is not afraid. He demonstrated that when he hopped off for Paris alone. He has demonstrated it on all his wonderful flights since, a series that, including the Paris trip, has carried him more than 40,000 miles.

It is quite true that the pioneers must take the risks. Aviation has many such pioneers. The automobile took its toll before it was perfected, and is still taking it. So are the railroads. But people keep right on using them. And they will keep on using airplanes more and more every year, particularly in view of the fact that the game is becoming less and less hazardous. New things are being discovered continually. Each year adds one or more devices to make flying safer. The greatest thing still to be overcome is the natural disinclination of most persons to go into the air. But even that feeling is rapidly passing away and only a few years more will be needed to make flying practically as common as motoring. This is why it is desirable for Windsor and other cities to get their flying fields ready.—Border Cities Star.

STOCK GAMBLING MAY HOLD BACK NORTH.

Fear that the marginal gambling in mining stocks on the Toronto Exchange and the manipulations of the "men behind" may jeopardize the real development of Northern Ontario in a serious way, inspires the Sault Ste. Marie Star to call for some action by the Ontario Government. The public is getting trimmed, as was quite to be expected when the fever got under way and that means a loss of confidence which may set back the North for years. It is realized that only of late has development got an impetus from which great things are expected, and everybody believes surely that the North at last is coming into its own. The Sault Star says:

The commissions charged by the brokers are outrageous. But the big money is in the manipulation of the shares by the financial geniuses who organize onslaughts on the market and depress the stocks at will. The old shell game seems respectable compared to the manipulations the thimble-riggers are allowed to get away with. The old Louisiana lottery was infinitely safer. Why should a hold-up man risk his hide when he can go to Toronto and participate in the "profits" the mining exchange makes it safe for him to grabb off?

A year ago a mining engineer who does not believe that suckers can be protected by law told the Sault Star that the Toronto crowd were the best in the business. He said that the Montreal mining crowd were anxious to get in on the ground floor, but that they were only amateurs compared to the slick artists in Toronto.

When Noah Timmins said some months ago that the public were "crazy" about mining stock prices he started something. The stuff which has developed in Toronto shows that Mr. Timmins had his eye on the ball. The public have been unmercifully trimmed since then, and apparently the end is not yet.

The Toronto Telegram is also running a series of articles on "Who Gets The Margins?" and they constitute an exposure which should open the eyese of some of the shoe string players. In one sentence The Telegram says: "Analyze the sheet yesterday; 47,240 shares of Kirkland Lake, high 1.70, low 1.54, close 1.55." From that it will be seen that it took almost fifty thousand shares to depress the stock ten cents, and the conclusion is reached "someone knows something." The operation may be Greek to the average layman, but it can be seen from the above what happens to margins.

Perhaps the secret is to be found in the general mining figures for last year. The production of Ontario mines was computed at $92,000,000, from which $14,000,0000 in dividends was paid. The brokers are credited with having cleaned up $11,000,000, which is a pretty high figure, considering the amount of business done. There are fifty seats on the Toronto Stock Exchange, and they are worth $75,000 each or $4,000,000. That is invested merely for the privilege of buying and selling.

There have been serious losses to date and they are said to have been more serious than the public has any idea of. The Toronto Telegram reports the case of a bank employee arrested the other day, charged with a $30,000 embezzlement, and it was marginal playing of mining stock which prompted the defalcation, according to brokers in Toronto.

The suspicion is growing that there are interests operating behind the scene which reap the big money from the small players whose number has been legion in recent months. Just what action the government could take is a matter for the experts. In other and bigger stock markets, notably the Grain Exchange in Chicago, it has been left to the Exchange itself to clean out the Augean stables. The general public, however, should be warned against marginal playing. Nine out of ten players do not know what they are up against.—St. Catharines Standard.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 1 (Canadian Press). — There was an improved demand from foreign buyers for grain here yesterday and a moderate amount of business was done in Manitoba grades of wheat.

Owing to the strength that developed in the Winnipeg future market for oats yesterday the local market for spot stocks was stronger and the prices were advanced one cent per bushel.

The volume of business in spring wheat flour for export account was small, but a moderate trade was done with local and country buyers at unchanged prices. A fair amount of business was done in winter wheat flour and the undertone was firm.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the stronger feeling that developed for all lines, and prices were marked up one dollar per ton. This was attributed to the good demand and the small supplies. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were firm.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were firmly maintained, and the demand continued active. The receipts were 767 cases.

A firm feeling prevailed in the market for potatoes, but the volume of business was somewhat of a limited character owing to the small offerings of Quebec grades.

The tone of the market for imported beans was steady under a fair demand. Car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were quoted at $3.10 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities sold at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store.

A fair amount of business was accomplished in straight car lots of butter and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 1,239 packages.

The demand from English buyers for cheese showed some improvement and a little business was transacted. The local trade was fair and the undertone was firm. The receipts were 182 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 1 (Canadian Press). — Higher prices all around for grain took effect yesterday. Both rye and barley jumped to a new top price record for the season.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾c to ⅞c net higher, with corn ⅝c to ¾c up, oats at ¼c to ¾c advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Almost from the outset, wheat values tended upward. In addition to talk which was current that European official farm reserve figures looked for to-day would prove undersized, crop advices both domestic and European tended to stimulate buying. The Government weekly report from Washington commented on further damage in the eastern half of the United States winter wheat belt, and said there was but little snow covering in western portions. Complaints of Hessian fly damage to wheat in Oklahoma were also a source of uneasiness.

Meanwhile, apparent likelihood of a smaller corn crop in Argentina than last year had a decided uplifting influence on yesterday's corn market and indirectly on the wheat market as well.

Advices were at hand that the Argentine corn crop situation had become serious in some sections, one authority asserting that the yield would perhaps be sixty million bushels less than has been expected. Under such circumstances, there was heavy speculative buying at times, but on the other hand, extensive selling for holders was done, and best prices failed to hold.

Oats were active, and were helped upward by the rise of barley to $1.04 per bushel, the highest price yet this season.

Advances in rye were chiefly a result of export sales to Denmark and to Norway.

Provisions were mainly firmer, sympathizing with hog values and with grain.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, March 1 (Canadian Press). — Sterling Exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

THE CATCHACOMA LAKES.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

The whole of our north country, including Haliburton, N. Victoria, North Peterborough and North Hastings, were reviewed at length in the Legislature at Toronto yesterday. The member for North Victoria and the Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. J. L. Finalyson, brought these districts into the limelight and what is more important it was stated by the latter that every effort would be made immediately to make these districts capable of being reached by tourists more readily by means of good roads. In this connection it is interesting to recall the fact that the Minister has pledged himself to open up the Buckhorn road which now practically ends for motors at the Catchacoma lakes, and run it clean through to the Haliburton boundary. This would open a belt line for motors and put the Catchacoma and North Peterborough right on the map for tourists. In fact so impressed has the public become with the tourist possibilities of this immense district that favoured spots are being bought up by speculators. This part of it is not so good and should not be encouraged by the government although the transfer of private properties cannot very well be interfered with. Hundreds of tourists were turned away from the Catchacoma district last year because of lack of accommodation. This district is acknowledged to be the most attractive and beautiful of all the districts not yet filled up and that a rush will follow to the Catchacoma lakes district when this through road is opened up cannot be doubted. It is a simple matter. In fact it is said $2,000.00 will put the bad spots in good condition and allow of tourists leaving Peterborough and going all through the north country which only lacks the seven miles from Catchacoma to the country boundary to put this district right on the map. At present the fifteen miles from Buckhorn to Catchacoma is a good motor road and when the seven miles further on are completed by June, as the Minister promised, it will be great thing for all these northern townships so long neglected.

GOOD TIMES AHEAD.

GOD'S MINUTE

"Let them that love Thy Name be joyful in Thee."—Ps. 5: 11.

Most Gracious Father, we lift up our hearts unto Thee, from Whom alone comes our strength. Help us to trust Thee so wholly that we trust Thee in the dark. Thy mercies are fresh every morning and renewed to us every night. Help us to praise Thee for Thy goodness and to rest in Thy love. Thou knowest what we have need of before we ask Thee. Grant us all that Thou seest we need. Save us from suffering and want, from sickness and misery, from doubt and perplexity, from temptation and sin. Teach us that Thou carest for us, and nothing can harm us or separate us from Thy love. Relieve us from anxiety and fear, that our minds may be at leisure from themselves to sooth and sympathize. Make us useful in the world in which Thou hast placed us, and zealous in service to Thee. Forgive us our sins, in Jesus Christ; give us Thy Spirit to dwell within us, and grant us the joy of conscious communion with Thee. Conform us ever more closely to Thine image as Thou hast revealed it to us in Jesus Christ; lead us in the paths of holiness; and take us at last unto Thyself to dwell forever in Thy presence, the recipients of Thy favor and love. And all we ask, we ask in the Name and for the sake of Thy Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Washed Ashore

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

Slosh—Wosh—Slosh — wosh — Jim came to with a start.

He sat up gripping both sides of the skiff. The dickens! He was adrift and already several feet from shore. The rope must have come untied from the anchor. Yes, there it was, trailing. But it looked as if—by Jove, it had been cut!

Probably by that red-headed kid back there on the beach, jumping up and down and laughing at him. Wait until he got hold of him.

Thoroughly awakened by this time, Jim examined the boat in which he had so casually allowed himself to take a nap. There were no oars and nothing detachable that might serve as oars. He must either jump overboard and swim, thereby doing considerable damage to his clothes, or else resign himself to the situation.

The outer rim of the small cove was fringed with small islands, some of them grassy and tree clad, others rocky and bare, and one with a house on it.

Chances were that he would eventually bump one of those islands, and could either pick up a bit of driftwood and paddle himself to the mainland, signal the occupants of the house for a rescue, or, at the worst, simply wait until someone at the hotel discovered his absence and investigated. In time, no doubt, the red-headed ruffian would have sense enough to own up to what had happened.

Not until the skiff's side actually grated on the shoal did Jim feel altogether certain, however, that he was actually going to strike the bit of land with a house on it.

He heaved a sigh of relief, lifted his eyes, then gasped all but audibly.

Then it flashed upon him that she might possibly be alone upon the island and, if so, the advent of a strange man would most certainly be annoying. She spoke first.

"I have been watching you, wondering if you would make a good landing. You see—my—my husband will be back here any moment with the boat and will be glad to take you back. I take it you accidentally got afloat."

"You've said it!" cried Jim gaily. "A little red-headed devil cut the rope while I was taking a nap. You see, I was—er—waiting for my—er—wife"—there, that would make it better all around. If she had a husband and he had a wife, the thought of them ought to act as sufficient chaperonage.

"That's what it looked like. That is, I don't mean it looked as if you were waiting for a wife, but as if you were adrift. Won't—won't you come up and wait until my—my husband returns? He's out fishing—there, I think you can see his boat out near that buoy?" She indicated a tiny black speck out towards the horizon. "He'll be starting home presently."

So, for two hours that passed all too swiftly, they sat getting acquainted while the sun sank lower and lower. If the girl was good to look upon, no less, in his own masculine way, was Jim. And they discovered a kindred taste in books, marine engines and radio announcers.

"What a pity," thought the girl, "that every nice young man I meet is always married!"

And "What a shame," thought Jim, "that the only girl I ever knew I could love has a husband!" but they did not speak aloud what was in their minds.

So engrossed did they become in unearthing mutual congenialities that the speck near the horizon had grown to a sizable object easily to be made out as a boat with a single occupant, before either became aware of its approach.

The figure it held was a slim one, khaki clad.

"Needs a haircut!" was Jim's unspoken comment as he glimpsed a tawny mop that matched the sunset.

Then he noticed that his pretty companion was folding and unfolding her slender hands nervously.

"Mr.—er—" she began.

"Jim Murdock," supplied Jim promptly.

Concrete facts don't come from concrete heads.

"Well—why didn't you say so to start with?" cried the girl. "My sister, who is staying at the hotel, has told me all about you. And about the book you are writing. But—" and she looked at him accusingly. "She distinctly said you were a bachelor!"

"I am," said Jim meekly. "I invented a wife just to save you embarrassment. Thought you might not mind so much my unceremonious intrusion if you thought—"

He was interrupted by a silvery burst of laughter. "How funny!" cried the girl. "I invented a husband for similar reasons. I realized right afterward that sooner or later you'd find out, but I thought for the moment it would suffice. In reality, that person in the boat is my Aunt Agatha, the most indefatigable fisherman in Sheltered Cove!"

That night the telephone in the home of red-headed Billy Masters rang stridently. His mother answered, then turned in amazement to her son who had been watching his mother nervously.

"I don't understand," she said. "A man from the drug store has just called up and said that a gentleman has left orders that every day for a month you are to be given a chocolate ice cream soda charged to his account!"

George's Birthday

By JANE OSBORN

It was the eve of Griffith Vail's birthday. He probably wouldn't have thought about it if now, on the very day before, he had not received a letter from his mother, who was off on a year's holiday somewhere in France with his father. The letter had reminded him of the fact that he was to have a birthday and a money order had slipped from the letter. It was for a hundred dollars and the letter had explained: "I know you can't possibly need the money, but I am hoping you'll take it and spend it—do something that you really want to without thinking whether it is extravagant or not. Do you remember what fun you and I used to have on your birthdays?"

So, when George sat in his bachelor apartment that evening he fell to thinking of those birthdays long ago. From the time that he was a very little boy his mother had devoted the entire day to him. There had been other brothers and sisters, so in the ordinary course of events he never saw quite as much of his mother as he wished. But when his birthday came his mother somehow disposed of all other duties and from early morning until bedtime she was his. And he could do just what he wanted to do—and no one need know what they had done if it was something that the brothers and sisters might tease him about. Once he had wanted to spend the entire day in her car with her—not to go where she wanted to go or where other people went, but just where he wanted to go. And they had gone down through all the dingiest sections of the city, through narrow crowded streets, along the waterfront and finally out in the woods—not to pick flowers as his mother might have suggested on any other day, but to play Robinson Crusoe. One day they had gone together to the seashore and spent most of the day swimming. Another time they had followed fire engines. Once when he was in his teens he had asked to go to an architects' exhibition—and it was an afternoon spent there that had really started him on his career.

Recalling those other birthdays he decided to spend the next day as he had done with his mother—doing just what he wanted, all day long. He would do just what he wanted—and yet as he thought about it he couldn't think what it should be.

By the time morning came he had somehow managed to get himself in a perfectly irresponsible mood—but he found himself eating just the same sort of breakfast that he usually did in the same little restaurant where he always went. He left the restaurant—and strangely enough his impulse led him in the direction of his office. Yes, that was where he really wanted to go. He wondered why—yet all the time he really knew. He didn't like to let the day pass without seeing Edith Lee. Edith worked there as a draughtsman, and a mighty good one she was—shy, curly-haired, freckle-nosed little Edith, who somehow felt that to work in an architect's office was the consummation of all her ambitions. Or, at least, George thought that was what she thought.

Well, he went to his office, and when he said good morning Edith smiled, and George rather surprised himself by asking her if she had a great deal to do. Perhaps she could get time to go with him to the next county to see the new church in which they had each in their own way had a hand. Edith had a good deal of work before her, but while she hesitated, she decided that she could take the work home and work till midnight to get it done. Then she said she would go.

George and Edith took a taxi to the garage where George kept his car that he used only when he went to the country, and while they sat together George smiled to himself to think that he was really there with Edith. Ordinarily he wouldn't have thought of asking her—because ordinarily he never acted entirely with an idea of his own personal satisfaction. He called on certain girls because for some reason or other he thought it was his duty to do so. And there was no earthly reason why he should be spending time with Edith, except that he wanted to. He didn't even think that she cared about it.

Come Rain or Shine

By DUFORD JENNE

Now look here, youngster, do you know anything about this chap who seems to interest you so much?" Mr. Lane asked, his heavy brows settling.

His daughter smiled. I know I like him. Isn't that enough?" she queried.

A woman's intuition, Ruth, is all right as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. You don't know what he does for a living by your own confession, and I heard you say that you can't get track of him during the daytime."

The point is, father," she said, I like him. I met him at the Art School; I like his ways—and he seems to like mine. He probably has some reason for not telling me where he lives, and for keeping under cover during the day. I'll ask him, some time—although I trust him enough never to ask him."

Well, prove it—bring him here to dinner tomorrow night. And I'll bet you the string of pearls you wanted that he won't."

I'll take you."

Ruth was not so sure of the situation; and when she met him that night at a little hidden restaurant where he seemed to prefer to meet her, he hesitated at her request.

His eyes were troubled and a bit weary. Honestly, Ruth, I don't know. I am!—" He paused.

You aren't afraid of my dad, are you?"

A little light flickered in his gray eyes. No, but it might be embarrassing—" Again he paused.

She put a small hand over his lean, finely modeled hand. Dick, you know I am learning to think heaps of you, and in the way of things you must let father meet you; and besides, I must win that string of pearls." She told him about the wager.

He laughed. Come rain or shine! I'm with you!"

So it came about the next evening that Ruth greeted the tall young man whose eyes were tender upon her as he saw her. She led him into the library where her father rose to meet him.

Her father's glance was searching. I am glad to meet you, Mr. Lamson."

Like fun," Ruth said to herself. But you're going to be."

The two men talked easily together, but Ruth could see that her father was puzzled—the attitude of a man who seems to be trying to place a face in his memory.

Ruth left the men talking and slipped out to check the dinner arrangements. Finding them all right, she called them into the dining-room.

Go in, you young people, I'll be right along," her father said.

As she and Dick seated themselves, she heard her father going to his study, and she wondered what was up. But he returned shortly, and the dinner went along famously.

Then came the shock about fifteen minutes later. Suddenly, three men appeared at the three entrances to the dining-room.

Her father rose, his face grim. Mr. Lamson alias Mr. Van Reider, I believe we have you——"

Father, what do you mean?" Ruth demanded, her heart pounding.

Your friend," he said coldly, had reason to keep out of sight. He is Reider, the embezzler. I thought I recognized his face!"

It isn't true! I know it isn't!" Ruth cried, trembling.

No, it isn't, Ruth," her lover said, a new, odd note of authority in his voice. I am a mere hard-working student in an architect's office—and I'm trying to keep busy at it. As luck will have it, I resemble this confounded Reider. I have been nabbed twice because I do; so I have been keeping out of sight and praying that they would catch the son-of-a-gun, and give me a chance to go out without being picked up. Call either Blaine or Armstrong, the architects, and they will tell you who I am. It's no longer a joke, believe me."

The oldest of the three men had come to the table. He picked up one of Lamson's hands. Pardon me, sir, I know a mistake has been made before, but I am from another precinct. May MayI see your palm."

He looked at it and turned to her father. This is not Mr. Reider. You were evidently mistaken, sir." He beckoned to the other two men, and they went out, trying to hide their smiles.

Dad, you are darned clever," Ruth said, imitating her father's grim tone.

And you are going to pay more than a string of beads for it, too. You are going to give us that house on the avenue when we are married."

Her father lifted his hands. I'm licked—and I'm sorry," he said hastily. I'll make up for it."

It's all right as far as I am concerned, sir," Dick said smiling. You were doing the right thing, and would have had me if I had been Reider."

Her father gave him a look of gratitude, and Ruth noting it and knowing him, knew that the sun had come and the rain had gone.

So it was that, after they had seen the church together and talked about it as one architect to another, he asked Edith to hvae luncheon with him—because at the time it seemed as if nothing else in the world would be so pleasant. Then they went on another drive in the country. He asked her to have dinner with him and to go to the theater, too. Edith said she couldn't. She had work to do that night and besides—"It seems so strange that you really wanted to be with me," said Edith. "I've often thought it would be fun to be with you, but you've barely looked at me."

George, sitting in his car beside Edith, explained about his birthday. Then he drove to the curb and stopped the engine. "Edith," he said abruptly, "I believe I've been in love with you for months. I believe I can never love any one else. Forget the work—I'll help you with it tomorrow. It isn't so pressing. Make the day perfect, come to dinner and go to a show with me and before we part promise you'll marry me." And Edith promised.

New Loves for Old

By H. IRVING KING

Miss Selina Briggs lived on Cape Cod. To be precise, in Sandport. The house she lived in was the real thing in early Colonial architecture—it had a "lean-to." The family was small, consisting only of herself and her orphaned niece, Henrietta. Miss Selina had squandered her savings in giving Etta an education, even sending her through Wellesley.

And now Henrietta was twenty-two, proficient in all accomplishments but conversant with no calling that would bring in money. She laid a thousand plans for becoming a wage-earner, but her aunt "put her foot down" on every one of them. Etta fretted—but what could she do? She would not forsake Selina, even if she could get employment somewhere else—which was extremely doubtful.

"I wonder if I shall ever be married," thought Etta.

That summer there returned to his boyhood home a Mr. Frank P. Ellsworth, a millionaire from New York. Frank P. had not been seen in Sandport for forty years until he had suddenly appeared there, bought the old Bijah Crandal place, and began the erection of a great stone mansion. He had been twenty-five when he had gone away and, by consequence, was sixty-five now. There were plenty of people who remembered him as the tall, thin, scraggy young man, full of ambition and a hard worker, whose parents were among the town's poor and shiftless. But not one of them would have recognized in the large, portly, prosperous-looking, autocratic and reserved plutocrat, the Frank Ellsworth of long ago.

Every man and woman in the place, it seemed, who was old enough to make out a colorful case, greeted Frank P. like a long lost brother and intimated that they had been his earliest friend and benefactor. But the gentleman from New York was not an easy person to "get next to."

"I wonder if he will go and see Miss Selina?" the older people whispered to each other. For between Frank Ellsworth, the poor, struggling and low-born youth, and Selina Briggs, the pretty daughter of one of the proudest of the "old families," there had been, it was rumored at the time, a little love affair—which, of course, came to nothing on account of the vast difference in the social status of the lovers. Some said that was why Frank had suddenly left Sandport.

Be that as it may, the golden, returned wandered did not call upon Miss Selina and Miss Selina appeared to be only languidly interested in his return. By the following summer the new house was completed and was occupied by the millionaire and his family. The only son, Egbert, was only twenty-five, just the age his father had been at the time of his flitting from Sandport. By the time fall was beginning to draw to its end and the summer folks were departing, Egbert and Etta were fully aware that they loved each other—and so was the rest of the community.

It was the second Sunday after he had taken possession of his new house that Frank Ellsworth, coming out of church with his wife and son, ran plump into Miss Selina coming out with Etta, and for the first time for forty years lifted his hat and spoke to his boyhood "flame." Introductions naturally followed—and that's how Egbert and Etta became first acquainted. As for Selina and Frank after that when they met they spoke, of course—generally about the weather—but that is all they saw of each other. Not so Egbert and Etta—they were together with an increasing frequency from their first meeting on.

Miss Selina watched the growing intimacy between her niece and young Ellsworth approvingly. Frank watched it disapprovingly. Mrs. Ellsworth, being a model wife—old style model—was prepared to think just as her husband thought. Egbert saw matters drawing to a crisis, felt the coming storm and talked it over with Etta, who talked it over with her aunt who said: "If you two want to be married why don't you do so. You are both old enough to know your own minds if you are ever going to. But what shall I do when you are gone?"

"Oh, we sha'n't go away, auntie," replied Etta. "Egbert likes Sandport. He wants to fix up the old house and live here."

"All right," said Miss Selina.

Egbert told his father in a most offhand manner what had been decided upon. The old man had made his fortune by his quick decisions. He looked at Egbert, saw that square-set jaw, and knew that in this he could not move him. "Very well," said he. "Family not good enough for me once!" and then grimly, "It will be a bit of revenge for me, anyhow." For a full hour after Egbert had left him Frank sat there musing.

Possibly Selina mused too. But if they mused of what might have been neither Frank nor Selina ever spoke. What was lurking in their minds as they watched the happiness of Egbert and Etta no one ever knew.

Martyred

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

ALL the way from childhood I can hear my brother's agonized, stuttering plea, "M-Mother you can wa-wash me b-but don't get me wet!" Even I, a little girl, was often accused of having washed the smallest possible circle where my wet hand passed in rotary motion, reluctantly, around my nose and mouth, leaving a tell tale black ring of unrespectability! When childhood is busy playing and consumed with the excitement of living, washing is a bothersome and time consuming nuisance and most mothers must "keep everlastingly at it," to see that cleanly habits are formed, for dirty hands and face are not only questionable etiquette, but are truly unwholesome when eating is concerned.

THERE isn't a day
I can slip in from play
And sit down to eat
Without washing my face.
'Cause mother says, "Stan,
Run along now, young man
Don't come in to meals
Looking such a disgrace!"

I should think she'd forget
But she never has yet;
Not even those times
It's her busiest day.
So I wash where it shows
Hoping nobody knows
'Cause it simply gets dirty
Again right away!

MINES

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, March 1.—The market this morning continues its bullish upward movement and can be considered as definitely establishing an upward swing in prices. The market leaders almost without exception showed great strength and sold to much higher prices, the most prominent of these being Amulet, Noranda, Sudbury Basin, Teck-Hughes, Wright-Hargreaves.

Abana was conspicuous in the strength it showed this morning, particularly on account of the break in pool to-day. When it is considered that estimates are made of ore reserves and ore in sight of about $15,000,000. On Abana and also that the market action of Amulet is believed based on anticipation of a report of $15,000,000 of ore in sight, as these properties have a similar capitalization the difference in prices of these issues namely $2.40 and $4.40 seems out of line altogether. We believe the outlook of Amulet justifies present market prices and therefore the conclusion is that Abana is selling far below intrinsic values. At current quotations Abana looks exceptionally good.

There is little news of importance other than that as already given through various reports from this office regarding the mining stocks which are showing such strength. We are of the opinion that it is still a result of intrinsic values being better recognized and the bullish tendency in the market. There is still time to buy at what we believe are now comparatively cheap prices and we suggest that mining stock commitments be made at once.

F. G. Oke and Company.

Report On Reserves Sends All Grains Up

CHICAGO, March 1 (Canadian Press). — A correct anticipation that to-day's unofficial estimates of farm reserves would favor the holders led to early higher prices to-day for all grains. Heavy profit-taking sales, especially in corn, brought about subsequent reactions, but not until rye and oats had established new top quotations for the season. Starting ¼c to ⅜c up, wheat later scored some additional gain. Corn opened unchanged to ¼c higher and afterward showed advances all around, but then dropped sharply.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 134, May 135⅛. Corn, March 95⅛, May 98¾. Oats, March 56¾, May 57⅜.

Strength Of Nickel Feature At Toronto

TORONTO, March 1 (Canadian Press). — International Nickel's continued strength was the only feature of interest in very dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. On a light turnover Nickel continued up to 83¼, for a gain of 1½ points. The oils were firm, with British-American gaining ⅛ at 35¼, and Imperial also fractionally higher at 60. Canadian Malting was a point stronger at 34 and Seagram's, the liquor leader, a point higher at 22½. Elsewhere the list was remarkably quiet and steady.

Mine Market Firm With Amulet Leading

TORONTO, Mar. 1.— (Canadian Press.)—The market was again strong on the standard mining exchange this morning, with Amulet's further gain of thirty points at 4.40, a feature. Sudbury Basin, climbing 1.25 at 24.25 and Noranda's gain of 65 at 19.50 were other strong features.

All Quebec issues were in favor and besides, Amulet and Noranda, Granada Rouyn firmed, selling up one at 23. Teck Hughes led the Kirkland Lakes with a gain of half a dollar at 9.10. Wright Hargreaves firmed to 4.05 and Lakeshore advanced 35 at 22.25 and Bidgood, Barry Hollinger ,Howey, and Hudson Bay were all stronger. The weaker issues included Pen Oreille at 16.50 and Kirkland Lake at 1.75.

Prices Move Upward After Irregular Opening

NEW YORK, March 1 (Canadian Press)—Stock prices turned upward early this afternoon after an early period of irregularity. Short covering played an important part in the buying movement, particularly in such issues as American International, Radio, and International Nickel, all of which recorded substantial gains. Net advances in the general list ran from one to four points, but these were interspersed with a sprinkling of losses almost as large.

Credit conditions were unchanged, with call loans apparently in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4½ per cent. The low yield basis of New York City Corporate Stock Financing was widely interpreted as evidence of underlying ease of money conditions.

The general market presented a rather confused appearance. Bear traders continued to pick out new weak spots while pools brought forward new favorites.

MINERS TELL ABOUT DUMPS

Put Timber and Other Waste in Empty Stopes, They Testify.

BULKHEAD BUILT.

TIMMINS, March 1 (Canadian Press).—The Royal Commission investigating the Hollinger disaster learned today from F. Poulon, a timberman at the mine, that a couple of years ago a bulkhead had been put in the central waste pass, to prevent the dumping of ore or other material there. This was near near the central shaft and the obstruction was about four feet high. Previously, the material had been dumped from the level and there was a little chute 25 feet away that could be used for dumping if desired.

From the talk that went on. Poulon had known of rubbish being dumped in the stopes for two years. He detailed his search on the day of the fire for missing members of his crew and others, after being ordered to warn the men to get to the surface. Eventually he had been forced by smoke to cease his efforts.

David Moffatt, a former mine worker, told of dumping material, including "cull timber," in empty ore stopes, and said he had not known the practice of dumping timber underground was prohibited.

NEW OFFICERS HERE TO-NIGHT

Ensign and Mrs. Green Have Held Many Important Appointments.

COME FROM MONTREAL.

Ensign and Mrs. Ernest Green, who will be welcomed at the Temple, Simcoe street, this evening as the officers of the local corps, can be truly described as a son and daughter of the regiment, as both are the children of officers of the Salvation Army. The Ensign's parents, Adjutant and Mrs. Harry Green, as well as his sister, were lost on the tragic Empress of Ireland wreck in 1914, the Ensign being one of the few survivors of that grim tragedy. He was at that time a member of the Canadian Staff Band. Colonel and Mrs. Jacobs, who are at present engaged in special work for the Salvation Army are the parents of Mrs. Ensign Green.

They come to the corps from Montreal, one of the largest corps in the east of Canada and have also been in charge of several other of the large corps in this territory, notably Earlscourt, Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, and Riverdale, Toronto. The Ensign was selected a few months ago by the Territorial Commander and was for several months in England at a conference held at which officers from all parts of the world were gathered and views exchanged regarding the work of the Salvation Army appertaining to the field section, that being work similar to that carried on by the local corps.

Those of the local corp privileged to know the Ensign and his wife are delighted at his appointment here and extend to them a hearty welcome to the city, assured of the fact that both are servants of God and that their work and ministry will be alone rendered to His glory and that the kingdom of God may be extended in the city.

CURLING CLUB FINALS REACHED

Best, Weber and Marshall Rinks Win the Group Titles.

NOW PLAYING OFF.

Skips R. P. Best, F. C. Weber and John R. Marshall have won their respective groups in the scheduled games of the Peterborough Curling Club.

Mr. Best and his rink, which is composed of D. Fitzgerald, lead, J. Macdonald, second, and Geo. Cairns vice-skip, went through the schedule with only one loss, suffering defeat at the hands of J. H. Sedgwick and his rink.

In Group B, F. C. Weber had ten wins and one loss, being defeated by W. M. Cruthers. J. T. Braund, lead, E. Freeman, second, and R. C. Herald, vice-skip, composed F. C. Weber's rink.

John R. Marshall, with nine wins and three defeats, won Group C. His rink was composed of O. McGill, lead, B. W. Watts, second, and M. Comstock vice-skip.

In the group play-offs, R. P. Best defeated F. C. Weber 26 to 16, and Best beat J. R. Marshall 16 to 14.

The third game between Marshall and Weber is yet to be played.

Five Millions From Sales and Million and Half From Permits.

REPORT TABLED.

QUEBEC, March 1 (Canadian Press). — The Quebec Liquor Commission had a record year last year, the total value of its sales being $22,425,136, and its net operating profit $5,293,913. Added to this latter amount is $1,484,087 revenues from permits and seizures, the total net profit thus reaching the sum of $6,778,000. These figures are taken from the report of the Liquor Commission tabled by the Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, to-day.

C. W. RAMSAY TAKES CHARGE

Will Manage Canadian Department Stores Branch For Time Being.

EXPECTS CHANGE SOON.

C. W. Ramsay of the Canadian Creditman's Association, has been put in charge of the local branch of the Canadian Departmental Stores by G. T. Clarkson, the trustee of the company. Mr. Ramsay will be in charge here until the business is disposed of, or a permanent manager is appointed. He was in this city two years ago looking after the business of the Richard Hall store. He expects that inside of two months the Canadian Departmental Stores will be taken over by a strong organization.

108 NOW LISTED AS OUT OF WORK

Decrease in Number on Roll Reported By Employment Bureau.

Peterborough's unemployment situation is improving, according to the Employment Bureau records. This morning there were only 108 names of applicants yet to be accommodated, whereas only a month or so ago the number was considerably longer. There have been no unusual applications, those seeking employment claiming ability in everything from manual labor to office work.

LEADERS WORK OUT.

Boys Begin Preparations For Annual Y.M.C.A. Circus.

The first regular workout of the Leaders' class at the Y.M.C.A. in preparation for the annual Leaders' Circus, was held in the Gymnasium last evening, some fourteen fellows turning out. Instructor Doug. Loomis put the boys through their paces for almost an hour and judging from the form displayed, the circus this year should be well up to the standard set in previous years.

SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Gerard Filiatrault, of Montreal, Reprieved Because of Mental Trouble.

OTTAWA, March 1 (Canadian Press). — The Government has commuted the sentence of death imposed on Gerard Filiatrault, of Montreal, found guilty of murdering a St. Henri, Montreal, butcher. Filiatrault was to have been hanged to-morrow. Pleas for a reprieve were made on the ground that the condemned man was suffering from mental trouble.

"I feel better in every way" since taking Kruschen Salts

Read this Letter

"I am 58 years old and previous to using Kruschen Salts I used to suffer a good deal from depression. I commenced taking Kruschen a few months ago, and soon found a big improvement all round, becoming more cheerful minded and feeling better in every way. I am now on my second bottle and the cheerfulness and "will-to-do" carry me right through each day. Every winter hitherto I used to suffer from influenza, but this year I have escaped and believe it is due to the continuance of the daily dose of Kruschen Salts."

A. Mathews.

Original letter on file for inspection

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for a Half-a-Cent a Day.

Kruschen is a perfect blend of those six natural salts which are vital to your bodily well-being. The analysis is on the bottle. There are sodium and magnesium to clear away the waste matter that clogs your system and poisons your blood. To feed your tissues, there's the tonic potassium. Every drug store sells Kruschen at 75c, the bottle. A bottle contains 120 doses—enough to last for 4 months.

450 MEMBERS NOW SIGNED UP

MUCH NEW BLOOD.

Four hundred and fifty members signed during the campaign, and 70 per cent of that number representing new blood, were the figures presented at the final luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce Forward Movement in the Empress Hotel to-day at the noon hour. Coupled with this is the fact that memberships paid and pledged represent a total slightly in excess of $7,000, and that the Activities Fund, now $1,200, will be increased by another $1,000, according to President George Gillespie. Many report cards are not yet in, so that in all probability the membership will reach five hundred.

The above information was the sum and substance of reports received during the luncheon, and looking back over the activities of the past few weeks, the fifty-five campaigners present derived real satisfaction therefrom. The campaign closes to-morrow, and Director Harry McKeen will be leaving the city, having said farewell to his friends and helpers, at the luncheon.

The number in attendance at the meeting to-day comprised the captains and members of teams, officers of the Chamber of Commerce, and newly signed members, and on every hand was sounded a truly optimistic note.

Chairman Turner.

J. J .Turner presided during the luncheon in his usual happy manner, and he it was who first sounded the note of victory. In his opening remarks he referred to the work that has been done, to the valuable assistance given by Mr. McKeen to the campaigners, and to the loyalty of the campaigners to Mr. McKeen. Such co-operation in promoting Peterborough's welfare in the future is what is most desired by the officers and executive of the Chamber of Commerce.

Reports Received.

The captains of the various teams submitted their reports during the meeting, showing that while the citizens had not responded too enthusiastically, there had been a more gradual but none the less certain response. To Art Reynolds and his team ,comprising W. H. Dickin, Herb. McCannan, and Harry Boyle, is due special credit for having lined up fifty new members and $40.00 for the Activities Fund. In this regard, Mr. McKeen suggested that a permanent committee be named to go over the list of prospects for membership from time to time.

G. A. Gillespie.

President G. A. Gillespie was one who looked back over the past weeks with satisfaction. He felt that generally speaking the canvassers had been received courteously and had derived from their work an education that could not have been gained in any other way . He referred to the valuable assistance rendered by Mr. McKeen, and expressed the belief that the foundation had been laid for a great future for Peterborough.

Interrupting Mr. McKeen, who had at this juncture begun to make his farewell address, Mr. Gillespie introduced J. Wells Fraser, who, in turn, presented Mr. McKeen with a suitcase, "to make it easier for him to come back to Peterborough next year."

Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser declared that the Chamber of Commerce in any city is not a one-man concern, but thrives only when co-operation is the keynote. This spirit had been promoted by Mr. McKeen, and the money expended in bringing him here was well invested. The speaker regretted seeing the director leave Peterborough, and concluded by wishing him success in his work elsewhere.

Harry R. McKeen.

The director of the Forward Movement, in saying farewell to co-workers, said that he regretted leaving Peterborough because he had come to feel as one of them, but hoped that next year he might spend part of his vacation here. In going to his next field of labor, a town in the Mississippi Valley, he felt that he carried with him the sincere good wishes of his helpers, and concluded by challenging the men of Peterborough to hard work for their home city.

Inspector Downey.

Inspector R. F. Downey, commenting on the possibility of Mr. McKeen's return next summer, suggested that be shown through the surrounding district that he might choose the site for a summer home and become like the birds—a yearly visitor.

51 YEARS OLD CLAIMS HE FEELS LIKE BOY AGAIN

Prominent Business Man Explains His Recovery of Good Health and Seeming Defeat of Age

From a nervous, weakened, "all in" condition, to a feeling of youthful health and activity in three weeks' time. That's the remarkable experience of this well known business man who says, "The new Erbac discovery has certainly been worth a million to me, and I cannot express too much thankfulness for it. At 51, I seemed pretty much "all in" and had felt badly for several years —now, thanks to Erbac,I feel like a boy again!"

The treatment mentioned above has won the highest praise from those who have used it to ward off a feeling of weakness, lack of ambition and vigor, loss of nerve force and signs of approaching age. Put up in tablets, plainly wrapped, and convenient for easy home use—Double Strength Erbac comes in sealed packets containing a 20-day supply.

For the convenience and benefit of men and women in this locality, who have never had a chance to try Double Strength Erbac, Bond's or your local druggist have been furnished with the regular 20-day treatments to supply to all who wish to try it on a no risk basis. Results, in all instances, must be completely satisfactory or purchase price will be refunded to the user.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any coughs or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

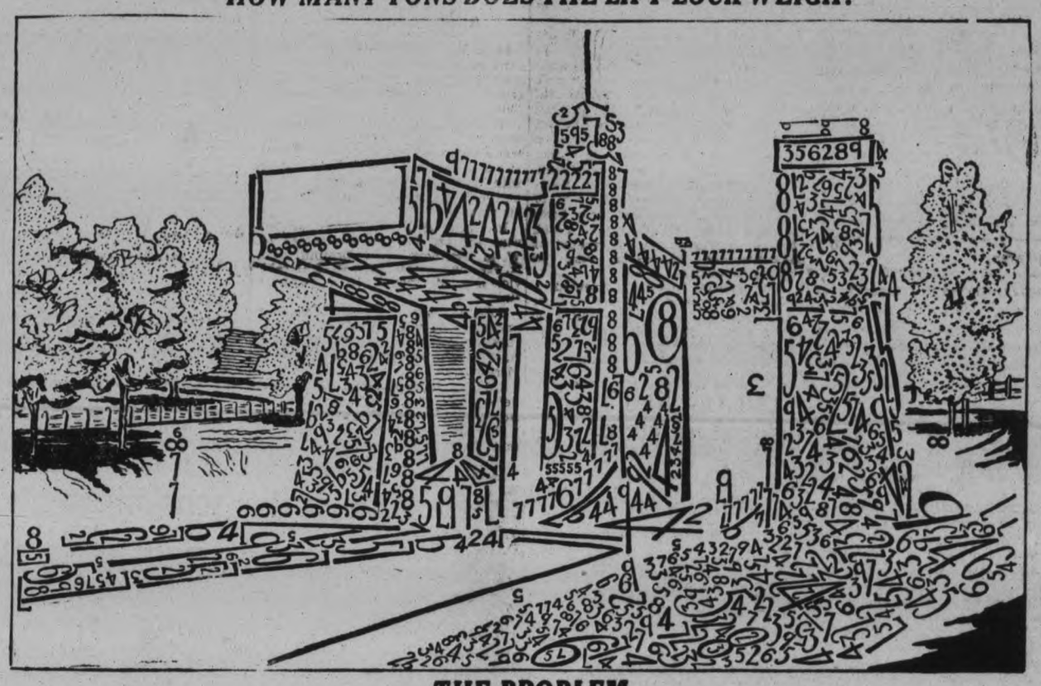
HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.
2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.
3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.
4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.
5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.
6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.
7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.
8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.
9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.
10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.
11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.
12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

SIXTEENTH TO TWENTY-FIFTH PRIZES—$10.00 in cash each.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.
2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.
3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.
4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

WEDDING BELLS

ADAMS—HILL.

OMEMEE, March 1. — A very quiet wedding was solemnized in Toronto on February 22, when Lewis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Adams, of Omemee, was united in marriage to Ina Hill, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed in St. Martin-in-the-Field Anglican Church.

OWENS—SCOTT.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 1. — A very quiet but pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the home of Mr. Frank Clarke when Thelma Mary Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Scott, became the bride of Walter James Owens, son of the late James Owens and Mrs. Owens. The Rev. Ernest Harstone, St. John's United Church, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Violet Scott acted as bridesmaid and Kenneth Scott was groomsman. Immediately following the ceremony a very tasty wedding breakfast was served to the wedding party, which consisted only of the immediate family. The young couple left for a brief honey moon by motor. Upon their return they will reside at Campbellford, where Mr. Owens is engaged on the staff of Davidson's arena.

OBITUARY

JAMES HAYES.

The funeral of the late James Hayes, whose death took place on Tuesday, Feb. 28, will take place on Saturday, March 3, mass being chanted at 8.00 a.m., at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

CHARLES HENRY GRYLLS.

LAKEFIELD, March 1. — The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 of Charles Henry Grylls from his late residence on Regent Street, with Rev. S. A. Kemp, of Regent Street United Church officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, for like most quiet people, Mr. Grylls had a great capacity for friendship, and had a wide circle of friends who held him in high esteem and gathered to pay that last outward tribute of respect.

Among those who gathered at the service were some of those who had known him as a boy, as a young man, and whose comradeship had gone on strengthening with the passing years. There were, too, many young men who were his friends, for Mr. Grylls was always a friend of youth and never seemed to grow old.

Mr. Kemp spoke feelingly from the third verse of the 22nd chapter of the Book of the Revelation of St. John the Divine: "And there shall be no more curse, but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it."

Mr. Kemp spoke of the curse which was brought into the world by the disobedience of our first parents in that beautiful garden prepared by God; there is the curse of sin, of avarice, of envy, and of disease and death—all these are wiped out when we come before the throne of God and the beautiful and bright things alone are left. The book ends as it begins, with the garden and the tree of life in the midst of it, and there is the Heavenly Father, Who is the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. H. Down, H. G. Fitz-Gerald, J. F. Lillecrap, F. H. Richardson, E. R. Tate, and S. E. White.

The funeral left the house shortly after two o'clock and proceeded to Lakefield Cemetery for interment.

M. ACKERMAN WINS TROPHY FOR ORATORY

Delivers Best Oration On Future of Canada at Campbellford School.

SECOND VICTORY.

Cecil Stephen and Kathleen Crosson Third in Senior Competition.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 1.—Senior oratory in the High school last night attracted a large and very appreciative audience. Of the eight original entries, only six appeared on the stage in the contest. One of the speakers was unable to take part on account of a severe cold, and another found that after all the preparations had been made, the subject matter of the speech dwelt more on the past and present of Canada than the future. Since the subject for the oration was 'The Future of Canada,' this would hardly have been appropriate. The six speakers who took part in the contest were Kathleen Crosson, Helen Atkinson, Cecil Stephens, Roy Johnston (Hastings), Marjorie Ackerman and Reta Palliser. The judges awarded the first place to Marjorie Ackerman. Cecil Stephens and Kathleen Crosson were second and third, respectively.

Unfortunately, Helen Atkinson was unable to complete her oration. Just as she got nicely under way and was warming up to her subject, she faltered, looked dazed for a second and fell limp into the arms of Miss Irene Stephens, who presided as chairman. Miss Stephens assisted the unfortunate girl to leave the stage and turned her over to the care of the principal. As those present were unable to rouse her from her stupor, medical aid was summoned and the girl was taken home later in the evening. Miss Atkinson was the second speaker and seemed not in the least nervous, but rather quite confident. Until the time of her unfortunate collapse, she did not hesitate in her remarks, and spoke in a clear, distinct voice.

Miss Irene Stephens, under-graduate of the High school, and vice-president of the Literary Society, was chairman for the meeting. Before announcing the first number, she briefly welcomed those who had come to hear the orations, and reminded them that the junior oratory contest would probably be held on Friday, March 9th. On behalf of the upper school, Miss Stephens thanked Dr. O. C. Watson for the beautiful silver trophy which he had presented to the school for the oratorical competition. Sketching the general basis of the contest and explaining briefly what was yet to follow when the winner from Campbelford had been selected, Miss Stephens said that this was but the second year that the local school had entered the contest. Last year Miss Ackerman had been judged as the the best in the school, but had been less fortunate when she delivered her address in Cobourg. The judges were seated in the audience, she said. They were citizens of Campbellford, and not outside judges had been asked to preside. Mrs. F. C. Bonnycastle, D. J. Lynch, LL.B., and A. J. Jenkins were the judges.

The first number on the program was a piano duet, Charge of the Hussars, by Miss Nellie Haig and Miss Dorothy Henson. There were no encores for any of the numbers, though the applause merited them on practically every occasion. The second number was a vocal solo, Just an Old Fashioned Garden, by Miss Marjorie Farrell.

Kathleen Crosson was the first speaker of the evening. She delivered her address with several hesitations and repetitions. Her manner indicated lack of assurance.

Helen Atkinson, the second speaker, got away to a good start, but had only been speaking about three minutes of her allotted ten when she suddenly became ill.

Miss Mary Fowlds' piano solo, Valse Caprice (Newland), was well received and afforded the audience a little variation between speakers.

Cecil Stephens, the third speaker and winner of the second prize, delivered a powerful address which showed careful preparation and contained statistics to prove his assertions. Convincing as were his facts and figures, his excellent delivery contributed considerably to the success of his oration.

Roy Johnston (Hastings) was the fourth speaker. His manner was somewhat more hesitant and lacked the assurance of the previous speaker. Following Mr. Stephens' oration, there was a noticeable lack of facts and figures in the address given by Mr. Johnston.

The high light of the entertainment numbers of the program was "Katy Did," a vocal solo by Miss Irene Dunk. Her interpretation of the song won the loudest applause of the evening. Even Madam Chairman could not restrain her amusement. The Examiner learns that Miss Dunk will be asked to repeat her number at an entertainment soon to be staged in Campbellford. The gentleman who is responsible for this future program was greatly pleased with the song.

Miss Marjorie Ackerman, winner of the silver cup and the first prize, was the fifth speaker. Since her speech will be delivered in the near future at the next stage of the contest which will be to decide the championship of the district, Miss Ackerman has requested that the nature of the oration be kept out of the press. It would not, however, be amiss to remark that her address showed careful and lengthy preparation, and was delivered in the manner of a master hand of the art.

Miss Reta Palliser, the sixth and last speaker, began her remarks with a word picture of a dreamer sitting on a hill gazing into the valley below, wherein lay the future of Canada. Her remarks were delivered without hesitation till about midway through, when she hesitated a brief moment or two, but did not lose the trend of her remarks.

While the judges were arriving at their decision, Miss Bella Lofchy repeated the dancing number from Tulip Time, which won her such a round of applause when that musical comedy was staged in the High School recently. Miss Irene Stephens also played a piano solo, Polish Dance (Spindler).

A. J. Jenkins was spokesman for the judges and announced that the first award had been given to Miss Ackerman, the second to Cecil Stephens and the third to Miss Kathleen Crosson. In presenting the decision, he said that he had both enjoyed and appreciated the addresses which he had heard, and hoped that the speakers would live to see the future of Canada as prosperous as they had portrayed it in their remarks. He believed that the younger generation would be so fortunate as to see these things, but did not think that the older citizens would live to see many of them. Asking permission to criticize, he said that, in his opinion, much stress had been laid on material things, and very little on the people themselves. He was, he said, proud of the fact that he was a Canadian, and agreed with Pauline Johnston, the Canadian authoress and poetess, in her remarks concerning Canada. The decision of the judges, he concluded, had been unanimous, and he was very pleased to call on Dr. O. C. Watson to present the prizes from the High School Literary Society and the silver cup which he had donated for the contest.

Dr. Watson made the presentations with his customary good-natured manner, and complimented not only the winners of the cup and prizes, but also those who had been runners-up.

The accompaniments for Miss Farrell and Miss Dunk were played by Miss Isabelle Bygott, and for Miss Lofchy by Miss Stephens.

In spite of the condition of the roads and the fact that train connections do not coincide with the hours for evening entertainment in Campbellford, a considerable percentage of the audience was from out of town. All spoke very highly of the talent which had been displayed.

An automatic distress signal broadcaster for ships and airplanes has been invented. It transmits SOS signals, the ship's call letters and the location.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu", Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

THE GROWING GIRL.

Requires a Mother's Constant Care and Watchfulness.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, langour and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptoms of anaemia, mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills will quickly banish all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Send your name and address to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and you will receive free a little booklet, "Building Up the Blood." You will find it very useful. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea

By JEAN MACON

The old - time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

NERVES WRECKED--STOMACH A WORRY

Most people have an extra store of sympathy for anyone suffering with "nerves" because—until Tanlac brought health to thousands of sufferers—it was so very hard to do anything to relieve the trouble. Often, women in particular suffer for years with unstrung nerves.

Take the case of Mrs. Martha Singer, 259 Clarence St., London, Ont. "I could not hold a cup of tea in my hand, I trembled so; and had to have someone assist me to cross the street. Many nights, I heard the chimes of St. Paul Cathedral ring out every hour. My stomach bothered me all the time; and I would have splitting headaches for hours at a time. I tried many medicines and treatments but it was just so much money wasted, until my sister insisted on me trying Tanlac. I felt the very first dose doing me good. After I had taken only four bottles, I felt 30 years younger.

Tanlac is doing this every day, and thousands of men and women proudly give all the credit to this wonderful up-building tonic. Remember, Tanlac costs less than 2c a dose—and your money refunded if you are not perfectly satisfied. Get a bottle at your druggist's today.

BOY IS KILLED BY MOTOR CAR

Dies Few Minutes After Accident On Toronto Street.

SKULL FRACTURED.

TORONTO, Feb 29.— Seven year old Bayne Rainbow, 1369 Davenport Road, was fataly injured last evening, when struck by a motor car driven by Edward Hutton, 137 Boon Avenue, opposite 1437 Dufferin street. The lad suffered a fractured skull and died within a few minutes of arriving at the Hospital for Sick Cihldren. The body was subsequently removed to the morgue, where an inquest will be held by Coroner Clendenan.

Hutton told the police that he was driving north on Dufferin street, when young Rainbow suddenly darted out from behind a parked automobile on the east side of the road. Hoping to avert the mishap Hutton swerved his car sharply to the left. He failed to clear, however, and the boy was struck down by the side of the car. One of the wheels of the auto, the police say, ran over his prostrate body.

He was unconscious when picked up by Hutton and eye-witnesses. Hutton stopped his motor car within ten feet of the place where he struck the boy. A doctor was called, but he could do little for the lad. Accordingly an ambulance was called and he was removed to the hospital. Little hope was held out for hospital recovery from the moment he entered the hospital.

Obituary

CALVIN POWERS.

PONTYPOOL, March 1.—While visiting his father, James Powers, at Manvers Station, Calvin Powers, of Toronto was stricken with septic throat trouble and died on Friday morning, February 24. Mr. Powers who was married and in his 23rd year, was an operator on the railroad. The funeral, which was private, was held from his father's residence on Saturday afternoon. Interment took place in Pontypool cemetery.

LUELLA STAPLEY.

STIRLING, March 1.—The death occurred of Luella stapley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stapley, of Madoc Junction, at the age of twelve years. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, interment being made in Stirling cemetery. The family has suffered greatly during the past few months, having been quarantined for scarlet fever, after which the father and two of the children suffered from pneumonia. Mr. Stapley and another daughter are still confined to their bed in a weakened condition.

MRS. MARGARET CALLAGHAN

DOWNEYVILLE, March 1.—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Callaghan was held from her late residence on the 13th concession of Emily, on Thursday morning to St. Luke's Church, Downeyville, where requiem mass was chanted by Rev. Father Galvin.

Mrs. Callaghan was born in Cork, Ireland, ninety-two years ago, and came to New York when she was seventeen. Three months were required to make the trip, when the captain and about one hundred and fifty people died with fever. Coming later to her present home, sixty-nine years ago she endured all the hardships of pioneer days.

There are two sons and five daughters surviving her, namely: John and Timothy at home, and Mrs. Patrick Hickey, of Detroit, Mrs. Patrick Duffy, Mrs. Dennis Shine, Mary and Catharine, of Downeyville, also a number of grandchildren. Her husband predeceased her twelve years ago. The pall bearers were Messrs Patrick Duffy, Dennis Shine, William O'Brien, Michael, D. Harrington, Simon and John Connell.

MRS. JOHN KENNEDY.

DUNSFORD, March 1.—The death occurred on Monday, February 27, of one of the oldest residents of Dunsford, in the person of Mrs. John Kennedy, who was 89 years of age on the 24th of May last. Mrs. Kennedy was a member of St. John's Anglican Church and only two weeks ago attended the supper given in the church, and was in her usual good spirits. Mrs. Kennedy's husband predeceased her about thirty years ago, also three daughters, Mrs. S. M. Thurston, of Dunsford, Mrs. Hugh McCullum, and Mrs. John Cherry, of Toronto.

She is survived by four sons, W. B. of Dunsford, Alex, of Toronto, Walter, of Saskatchewan, and John, at home, and by a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon to Dunsford cemetery.

JOHN H. DAWKINS.

LAKEFIELD, March 1.—The following notice appeared in the North Bay paper referring to the death of John H. Dawkins, who was well-known and had many friends in this vicinity:

"John J. Dawkins, a resident of North Bay for a number of years, succumbed to an attack of heart trouble on Tuesday afternoon while at his work as government lumber scaler at G. B. Nicholson's lumber camp, in the vicinity of Chapleau. The body was found on the roadside by employees of the camp and it is presumed the deceased was seized with a fatal attack while returning from his daily tour of the camp. The late Mr. Dawkins was born at Warsaw, near Peterborough, and has been a resident of North Bay for the past twelve years. He was a life member of Huntsville Masonic Lodge and also the I.O.O.F.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife, two daughters, Mrs. Walter McClusky and Mrs. C. Marshall of North Bay, and two sons, Jack of North Bay and Ivan of Iroquis Falls. One son, Grey, was killed in France while serving with the C.E.F. There are four sisters and one brother also surviving, the sisters are Mrs. J. Hill of Burleigh Falls, Mrs. G. A. Wilbourne, Mrs. J. E. Galvin and Mrs. J. Millage of Lakefield, and Mr. George Dawkins of Belleville.

He was a Methodist and a member of Trinity United Church. The funeral which was under Masonic auspices was conducted by Rev. J. C. Cochrane, of Trinity United Church, North Bay.

Prince Dances With Two Dressmakers

DARTFORD, Eng., Feb. 29. — Canadian Press. — The Prince of Wales danced with two attractive young dressmakers one a blonde and the other a brunette, last night, at a workingmen's club here. It was "terribly thrilling" to dance with the prince, said Ivy Nesbitt, the blonde. To Ivy Bentley, the brunette, it was "dreadfully embarrassing." Both came through the experience with blushes and smiles, however.

MARSHAL DIAZ PASSES AWAY

Commander of Italian Forces During War Had Been Ill Some Time.

LOVED BY PEOPLE.

ROME, Mar. 1.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Marshal Armando Diaz, who, as Commander of the Italian armies in the Great War, won an incomparable place in the hearts of his countrymen, died yesterday.

His wife and son were at his bedside at the end, and he had received the last Sacrament from a priest attached to Santa Maria del Popola, the "titular church" of Cardinal Mundelein in Rome.

King Victor and Premier Mussolini sent special emissaries to convey their condolences to the family.

The body of the warrior was laid in state, fully uniformed, as when he served as chief defender of his country. A number of field officers who were wounded in the World War mounted a guard of honor around the casket.

Marshal Diaz was obliged to surrender the portfolio of war in the Cabinet of Premier Mussolini because of his health. He lately had seemed to be recovering from the liver disorder from which he had long suffered, but, influenza, which developed into bronchial pneumonia, quickly brought the end. Only on last Sunday it was apparent that the Marshal was seriously ill.

It was recalled that when Marshal Haig of England died recently, Marshal Diaz exclaimed: "Well, he is the first of us to go; who will be the next?"

King Expresses Grief.

The King of Italy to-day stood in reverence at the bier of Marshal Diaz who as head of his armies in the war snatched victory from disaster. King Victor Emanuel appeared at the home of Marshal Diaz to-day accompanied by his aide de camp. He remained for a long while in pensive attitude beside the body which lay in state, and then expressed his own grief and that of the Royal family to Diaz's son, Marcello.

After the visit of the King, Premier Mussolini arrived, unaccompanied. He stood silent for several minutes before the bier. Then he signed the register with one word, "Mussolini."

SECOND FORM GIVES PROGRAM

Takes Charge of Regular Meeting of Literary Society.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 1.—The program at the regular meeting of the High School Literary Society, held in the High School auditorium on Tuesday afternoon, was under the auspices of the Second Form. The president, Cecil Stephens, being unavoidably absent, the chair was occupied by the first vice-president, Miss Irene Stephens. After the usual opening exercises, Miss Katherine Irwin was appointed critic for the meeting and the regular program began. Millar Donald's piano solo was followed by a brief sketch of current events by Bernard Crowson. Ruby Townsend played a very pleasing piano number. The remainder of the program consisted of a reading by Miss Annie Spooner, vocal number by Elsie Bertrand, piano duet by Elsie Connor and Eva McKelvie, reading by Ivy Ray, and a classical dance by Bella Lofchy.

After hearing the critic's report, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Dunsford

DUNSFORD, March 1. — Mrs. Newton Thurston and daughter Isabella spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Elliott.

Mrs. Albert Thurston is spending a few days with friends in Toronto.

Mr. Fred Marshall has returned to Toronto after spending a few weeks with friends here.

Miss Mabel Thurston spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Jack Maires.

Mr. S. Sanderson was a business visitor to Dunsford on Friday.

A large number attended the sale held at Mr. Fred Humphrey recently.

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—While Miss Agnes Macphail may have responded to seven years of experience in the House of Commons by acquiring a greater assurance in parliamentary manner, she has yet sacrificed in no degree that which is essentially feminine. She betrayed this yesterday in the course of her address by the following naive admission: "It is a funny thing but I never wanted to speak for more than 40 minutes until now, when the rules of the House have been revised to forbid it."

Downeyville

DOWNEYVILLE, March 1.—Mr. Charles S. Lucas and Mr. Martin Carroll attended the Good Roads Convention in Toronto last week.

Mrs. Alfred Dewan is the guest of friends in Lindsay.

Mrs. Patrick McAuliffe of Ennismore was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Hickey, for a few days last week.

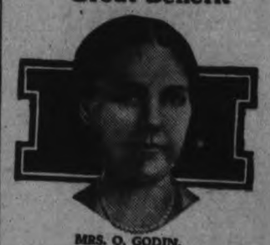
Mr. Patrick Clancy of Oshawa spent the week-end with friends here.

Messrs. Charles and Albert Lucas, Timothy Dorgan and John Lucas were business visitors to Peterborough last week.

Mr. Patrick Herlihey has returned home, after spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murray of Peterborough.

Women Approaching Middle Life

Find "Fruit-a-tives" of Great Benefit



MRS. O. GODIN.

Paquetville, N.B.—"I am giving this testimonial, hoping it will benefit ever woman suffering as I did at the change of life. I was obliged to go to bed, had terrible dizziness and felt extremely weak. 'Fruit-a-tives' were really a Godsend to me. Now I am in perfect health."

—Mrs. Onesine Godin.

This stage of life takes heavy toll of woman's health unless stomach, kidneys and bowels are in first-class condition. "Fruit-a-tives", in a natural, gentle way, keeps the whole system toned up to withstand this trying experience. Made from the intensified juices of ripe, fresh fruit and health-building tonics. 25c and 50c a box at all druggists.

sary for him to shovel the sawdust out of the car into the stope for the same reason. He never had time to look into the stope to see how much rubbish there was, he said. These men all had worked on the 550-foot level for a considerable period, although at different times. Frank Hoscoe, repair man for hose at the machine shop, said waste hose went to somewhere on the 675-foot level, and Johns declared the destination was stope 85 most often. It never reached the 550-foot level, so far as he knew.

Not Antagonistic.

During the cross-examination of Mackenzie by Mr. Slaght, witness was asked whether he was antagonistic to the Hollinger, and when he said no, the lawyer inquired where he had been on Sunday evening. The answer was "at a meeting in the theatre," but before this phase could be pursued further, the Commissioner interrupted with "I'd rather not, Mr. Slaght. Mr. Mackenzie is thoroughly impressed with the convictions of his order, but what they are or what they mean is no part of this inquiry. So far he has been a consistent witness and a fairly fair witness." Mackenzie later disclaimed endorsation of some things said at the meeting. Previously he had been put through a grilling regarding his connection with the I.W.W. for years past, and he declared he had come to Porcupine in June, 1924, at the request of a number of men working in the Hollinger.

Witness told Mr. White that when a committee from his Order went to the mine in March, 1925, with a resolution complaining of "stuff rotting in the stopes," the members had been ordered out of the office by a Mr. Huckabone, said to be paymaster, who had "jumped up in the air" when he saw the letters I.W.W. They had not been permitted to interview Mr. Brigham or Mr. Knox, he said. On January 1st, 1926, he and another man, while talking with Mr. Knox about funeral expenses for a man killed at the property, had brought up the question of fire hazards and had been told by the assistant manager there were none in the mine. Mr. Knox, he said, had declared the only chance of fire in a hard rock mine was where heavy sulphides existed and that he and his son were studying the subject, while he had expressed the view that there would be trouble in Rouyn from this cause.

Safety Measures Discussed

Mackenzie declared that, since the mine management would not listen to the suggestions advanced by the I.W.W., public meetings had been held and that Mr. Knox and his daughter had been present at one of them, at which safety measures and other matters had been discussed. A demand that the workers be empowered to appoint a committee to go through the mine with the inspector was ignored and letters went unanswered, witness said, although "we talked fire around here until we were sick." Witness said, neither Inspector Cole or the Crown Attorney, John Greer, was of any assistance, while the company considered everything from the standpoint of cost "even at the cost of men's lives." To Mr. Slaght, witness maintained men would be fired if they complained about conditions, although he said he never had worked at the Hollinger. A letter addressed to the Deputy Minister of Mines and dealing with conditions in the stopes had not been answered, Mackenzie said. This letter was signed by Ovid Lavallee, secretary of the I.W.W. at the time, and had the seal of the organization, and witness swore he had seen a bundle of mail, in which it was included, dropped in the mail box on the train. He hinted at sabotage in the local post office, and he told Mr. Slaght he knew "the chief mining inspector never visited us."

and trustees would be well worth while. He strongly urged the trustees to have their association meet with the teachers if only for an half day at a time.

Trustees Organize.

After those in attendance had become thoroughly acquainted with the advantages of a county association and had signified their unanimous approval, the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows:

President—J. A. Wilson, Peterborough, R.R. 11.

Vice-President —M. H. Johnston, Peterborough, R.R. 5.

Secretary-Treasurer—R. L. Stewart.

Executive—Wm. Bickell, Peterborough, R.R. 4; F. J. Young, Smith, No. 8 Young's Point); R. Heffernan, Norwood; Norman Edminson, Peterborough, R.R. 1; Hugh Mackey, Douro; Albert Darling, Lakefield, R.R. 2; Wm. McQuige, Havelock, R.R. 2.

The matter of when to hold the first meeting of the Association came up and it was decided that the last Wednesday in March (28th) would be most suitable as it would precede the annual O.E.A. meeting in Toronto.

A program will have been worked out, including discussion of such subjects as may interest trustees or teachers which will be dealt with in addresses by various trustees.

The school sections will each contribute $1.00 to the secretary-treasurer to make this meeting possible. It will be held in Peterborough.

"Its Better!" Says a George Street woman

"My grocer praised Rinso, so I thought I'd try a package and see if it was as good as he said. It's better! Rinso makes such rich, safe suds that when I take the clothes out of the washer they're whiter and newer-looking than ever. Even the most soiled pieces become spotless with only a tiny bit of rubbing. No wonder I have the clothes on the line so early now. Rinso is great for cleaning dishes, floors and sinks, too! No wonder I'm getting all my friends to use it!"

Mrs. ———,
George Street, Peterborough.

Science gives you a whiter wash—and saves you hours of hard work as well

WHEN Science said, "Here, in Rinso, is a way to make clothes white with no boiling and little or no rubbing," women were skeptical. It seemed too good to be true. But once they tried Rinso they joyfully agreed that science was right. Rinso brought them a glad freedom from wash day toiling and and gave them clean, white, fragrantly-fresh clothes such as every woman loves.

Rinso makes rich suds which soak out the dirt and grime. No boiling, just a gentle rub here and there and clothes are whiter than scrubbing can make them. Hours are saved, clothes last longer, work is made lighter.

Science is waiting in every package of Rinso to give you the surest wash day help the world has ever known.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND ESKI'S TUMBLE

"When are you going to take me to Uncle Hare's burrow?" asked Eski, the North Pole rabbit, of Uncle Wiggily as they were hurrying along after having run away from the Bushy Bear, who bruised his knuckles on the ivory ball gazinta, as I told you last night.

"That's so!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, rubbing his pink, twinkling nose with a piece of icicle to cool it. I mean cool his nose, for the icicle was cool enough as it was. "You came from the North Pole to see your Uncle Hare, didn' you?" went on Mr. Longears.

"If you please," answered Eski. "But what with showing you how to make an igloo and then helping you and Scooter get away from the Bear. I've been so busy I almost forgot about my uncle. Though, speaking of uncle," chuckled the Eskimo rabbit, "I like you as well as any I have ever met, Uncle Wiggily."

"That's nice of you," said Mr. Longears. "But if your Uncle Hare, who is a distant cousin of mine, expects you, it would be too bad to disappoint him."

"Oh, I don't know that he expects me," said Erski, pretending to look for a five-cent piece in the snow.

"Then, why did you travel all the way down here from the North Pole if your uncle didn't expect you to visit him?" asked Mr. Longears.

"I sort of thought I'd surprise him like," said Eski.

"No doubt you will if your burst in on him and he doesn't know you are coming," said the daddy of the forty 'leven little boy and girl rabbits, who, with Baby Bunty, made up his family. "And as it is getting late we'd better go there now."

"Go where?" asked Eski.

"To Mr. Hare's burrow. It isn't far from here," said Uncle Wiggily. "I often wondered why he didn't live in a hollow stump bungalow as I do, but your uncle said he liked a house, or burrow, underground much better. So we'll go see if he's home."

Over the fields and through the woods hopped the old rabbit gentleman and the little boy bunny from the North Pole. All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily came to a stop at a place where two pine trees grew up out of the snow-covered earth.

"Well, look at that, would you, now!" exclaimed Mr. Longears.

"What's the matter?" asked Eski hopping up, for he had been left a little in the rear on account of the path being slippery. "Is the Bear here ahead of us, Unkie Wig? If he is I'll bang him on the nose with my ivory ball gazinta," and Eski took it from his pocket.

"Well, look at that, would you now!"

"No, the Bear isn't here, I'm glad to say," went on Mr. Longears. "But read what it says there," and he pointed to a piece of white birch bark fastened on one of the pine trees with a bit of sticky gum. On the bark, which was like a bit of paper, was written the words

CLOSED FOR THE SEASON.

"Well!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, "here's a pretty how dee doo! You uncle has closed his burrow, Eski, and probably has gone to Florida to escape the cold weather we have here. He isn't home."

"If I could get in his burrow I could stay there all alone by myself," said Eski. "Couldn't I do that?" asked the North Pole rabbit. "There must be something left to eat in Uncle Hare's house and I could keep warm there. I don't want to have to go back all the way to the North Pole. Let me go in my uncle's burrow, even if he isn't home."

"But you can't get in, even if he isn't home," said Mr. Longears. "Look, it is all snowed over. You can't even see the front door. Your uncle must have gone to Florida at the start of cold weather. Not a bit of snow shoveling has been done. You can't even see the front door to the burrow house, which is somewhere between these two trees."

Uncle Wiggily pointed. The snow lay in an unbroken sheet over everything. The entrance to the burrow of Mr. Hare could not be seen. Eski took a step forward and, all of a sudden, he tumbled down out of sight. He disappeared as quick as a flash.

"Where are you, Eski? Where are you?" called Uncle Wiggily.

Suddenly, as though from a hole in the ground, and out of a pile of snow through which the Eskimo rabbit had tumbled, came his voice, saying

"I'm all right! Come on down!"

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1928.

Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction, but the aspects are not favorable.

It is a time to conserve the energies and to use the talents wisely, for no risk of any sort should be taken.

Those who seek positions of any sort should delay initiative until a more auspicious planetary rule prevails.

Under this sway well-laid plans are likely to come to naught and disappointments may be expected.

The direction of the stars is especially menacing to the hopes of political aspirants.

The configuration is supposed to further the prospects of the least prominent men and women and to thwart those who already enjoy fame or high place.

This should be a favorable time for taking stock of one's mental wealth and of eliminating faults or wrong tendencies.

Promise of success for daring enterprises in aviation is foreshadowed and the ocean is to become an easily spanned route.

Winds and sudden storms may be expected even in places noted for mild climate, astrologers predict.

Seismic shocks that strike France as well as the mid-Atlantic are prognosticated and Japan again may suffer a disaster.

Persons whose birthdate it is should exercise their best talents in the coming year which should be prosperous.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with fine natures and equable tempers. They should be taught self reliance.

White taffeta and black organdie and lace are combined in this evening frock worn by one of the well-dressed younger sojourners at Palm Beach.

White taffeta with black organdie and black lace are combined in a number of extremely smart bouffant frocks for spring.

Drecoll combines black net and lace with shiny-surfaced pink satin — for a girdle and edge of the skirt drapery.

Lelong uses gray lace with a straight belt of gray satin—severe but very smart.

Louiseboulanger has made many new frocks with gathered skirts of satin and bodices of matching satin.

To Premet is given credit for a smart frock of gray wool romain with a tie at the front and another at the left hip made of black and white plaid silk.

Spring ensembles are made with seven-eighth jackets and skirts of fine tweed with overblouses of satin, usually to match.

For Southern wear plain-colored pique frocks are shown with printed pique jackets.

O'Rossen makes simple little frocks of irregularly dotted woolen to be worn with coats of tweed lined with the fine dotted woolen.

Invisible rays that read screte writing, test food, and detect forgeries, issue from a remarkable new type of lamp developed by a manufacturer in Hanau, Germany, and described in the September "Popular Science Monthly." Made of quartz, instead of glass, to permit the passage of ultra-violet light, the lamp is equipped with a filter which absorbs all the visible rays of the spectrum. When its powerful "black light" falls on any one of a huge class of substances, the substance "tells its story" by giving off a deep purple, green, or brilliant orange light.

Skinny Women Don't Stand a Chance!

Gain pounds of weight with New YEAST and IRON

Pleasant to take—Quick results—or pay nothing

C.I.Y. Co. Ltd.

You don't want to be underweight, nervous and always tired—an object of pity to your friends. Start IRONIZED YEAST now and put pounds of good flesh on those bony arms, hollow cheeks and scraggy limbs. See ugly lines give way to graceful curves. Feel a new vitality and healthy strength you haven't known for years.

How Yeast Builds Weight

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial.

This yeast is treated with iron taken from fresh vegetables—spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is Ironized in this way is it most effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building values of Yeast. By this formula IRONIZED YEAST gives you results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

IRONIZED YEAST brings pounds of weight in astonishingly quick time. Letters say: "10 pounds gained in 3 weeks," "one full treatment added 9 pounds," "11 pounds and better health." The blood is toned up, too, because the iron adds strength and richness to the blood, clearing up the complexion and increasing your vitality. IRONIZED YEAST comes only in pleasant-tasting tablets in a handy bottle. Safe for everybody. Does not upset the stomach nor cause gas or bloating.

First treatment gives results —or no money

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

MISSING THE MORNING

When you breakfast at six and you labor at seven,
Then you know about earth and you learn about heaven.
I have met ev'ry star, and the sun is my neighbor;
One has silvered my path, one has golded my labor.
For what know you of air, if you never have taken
Just a breath of the dawn, when the grasses awaken?
Or what know you of skies, if you never have seen them
With their blues and their reds, and their purples between them?
Now we're staying up late, and we're getting up later,
And we're missing the morn, and a thousand things greater
Than our poor little toys and our cheap little plesaures,
And are cheating the soul of the most of its treasures.
I have walked to my work when the dew was a-glisten,
I have heard a bird sing, and have watched a world listen,
And whatever his wealth, and what titles adorning,
How I pity the man who is missing the morning!

St. Peter's and Tool Room Win First Games

TOOL ROOM WIN FROM MAPLE LEAFS

Green and White Defeated 4-1 in First Game of Play-offs.

CITY LEAGUE SERIES.

Visitors Lead Way By Good Combination Play and Back-Checking.

The red and white sweatered C.G.E. Tool Room aggregation defeated the Maple Leafs by 4-2 score in the first game of final play offs in Senior City League series.

The game was evenly contested at the initial stage but after getting under way the combination and backchecking of the Tool Room gave them the best of the play. They worked in perfect harmony while the green and white jerseyed lads were inclined to bunch. Individual rushes featured play through the game, Foley and Williams being most effective in this way. Calladine, for the losers, played a hard game, but was closely checked on his rushes.

After the first session the Tool Room firing line struck their pace and counted two markers in each period. Epps was the marksman of the night, getting all the goals for the winners. His work on the forward line was outstanding, and he was always on the job. Both sides missed many opportunities to score while the goalies were kept busy enough with many close in shots. Swanger and Rishea were a tower of strength on defence for the winners while Calladine was as effective on the rival team.

Game Opens Fast.

McDougall started the fireworks by getting away on a lone rush after the face off. Foley retaliated with one of his speedy attacks to test Meyette with a fine shot. Jarvis worked along the boards several times but Jones handled all long shots quite easily. Both side resorted to mostly one-man attack style and long shots. The Tool Room aggregation lived up to their reputation as heavy checkers. Foley carried the puck into foreign territory and Swanger came within an ace of scoring when he took the pass near the corner of the net. Eddie Williams got going strong and played a whale of a game right up to the final gong. Rishea, Foley and Epps combined attack was nipped in the bud by Holland intercepting a pass. Foley and E. Williams worked well together on the attacking division while Meyette in the nets turned away some difficult shots. Williams was chased for spilling Calladine. Meyette lost a chance to score when he fumbled a pass in front of the goal, after a fine piece of teamwork by Calladine and Jones.

"Micky" Williams, sub centre for Tool Room boys was a real "jinx" to Calladine, who couldn't move without being blocked or checked. Calladine's sharp-shooting failed to beat Jones, who kept out a close one by bouncing it off his chest. E. Williams' pass to Rishea in front of the net was too hard and players on both sides piled in a scrimmage.

Tool Room Score Two.

Williams and Foley began their attacking right at the face off. Epps got rebound off one of Foley's shots and poked it toward the nets but Meyette laid on the rubber to prevent scoring. Swanger shot wild after stickhandling past defence. Tool Room combination showed up well at times, but close checking wrought havoc. Calladine warmed the bench for tripping Foley when the latter had only the goalie to beat. Starr and Meyette tried several two-man attacks but Jones only added a couple of more grand saves to his string. Foley, Epps and E. Williams combined to bombard Meyette and after much passing and checking in that territory, Epps hooked puck past goalie for the initial counter. Red and white boys had the best of the play for a while with an occasional spurt by one-man attacks of rivals. Foley shot wild but Epps got rebound from boards and again tested Meyette with close-in shot. The green and white goalie turned in a wonderful game. Corkery stickhandled through the defence and gave Epps a perfect pass and the latter registered goal number two. Calladine led repeated attacks on the rival citadel but the heavy checking of the Tool Makers and the good work of Jones stopped them from scoring.

Third Period.

The third session opened with a burst of speed by the Maple Leaf boys but the play was soon switched into Meyette's territory by Williams and Foley. Calladine worked hard on another of his famous rushes but was sandwiched by Swanger and Corkery before he had a chance to shoot. Williams caught a rebound from the boards and passed to Epps who beat Meyette from close in. McDougall, Thirnbeck and Starr retaliated in a combined rush, but got nowhere. A few minutes late Meyette pushed the rubber past Jones after a lively tussle near corner of nets. Rishea was chased for cross-checking and was followed by Swanger for the same offence. Gray led stronger attack while opponents were short-handed but he too was given the air for tripping. Foley and Calladine proved keen rivals but neither one was able to get away on rushes. Williams and Epps worked down together and Epps netted the final goal for the Tool Room.

With a few minutes to go the Maple Leafs battled hard to score but were completely outclassed.

Line ups:

KEENE WINS LAWLESS CUP

Defeat Lakefield By Single Point in Curling Competition.

ON ROUGH ICE.

KEENE, March 1.—Two Lakefield rinks came down Monday afternoon to engage two local rinks for the Lawless Cup. Two local rinks also went to Lakefield to play two rinks there; the total score to count in winning the cup.

Keene won the cup by a single point. In the games at Lakefield the local rinks were down seven shots, while at Keene the locals were up eight shots, which gave them a margin of one on the round.

The rinks had considerable difficulty in getting down, they being stalled in the snow a couple of times and play did not start until 3.30 p.m.

International Player Goes to Chelsea Club

LONDON, Eng., March 1 (Canadian Press Cable).—In an effort to bolster up their team and secure promotion into the First Division of the English Football League, the Chelsea club of the Second Division yesterday acquired D. Irving, the Irish International half-back, and a member of the Cardiff City team. No transfer price was announced, but it is known to be substantial.

The Chelsea team is at present at the head of the Second Division. It started the season with a run of fine victories, but then slipped badly. It has recovered its lead, but is being closely pressed by Leeds United, Manchester City and Preston North-End, clubs that are all eager to win the promotion to senior company that goes each season to the two leading clubs in the Second Division.

GRADS DEFEAT GROVE SCHOOL

Youngsters Defeated 6-3 in Lakefield Hockey League Fixture.

TAKE EARLY LEAD.

LAKEFIELD, March 1—The Grove School and the Grove Grads met in the District League on Tuesday evening, with the result that the Grads won by a score of 6—3. The game was fast all through and clean, not one penalty was given throughout the entire time. The bell was handled by John Sabatino in a highly satisfactory manner. The win for the Grads was due largely to their weight and greater experience, but the School played a remarkably fine game, with better combination and almost as great speed. Of all the teams in the league the Grove School team have the most consistent combination, owing in a large measure to their regular practice under experienced leadership.

The play began sharp on time and there was no time lost throughout the entire hour's play.

Four minutes after the game began Loosemore surprised Smith and scored for the Grads. Five minutes later Hamilton increased the lead by scoring after a rush up the ice with the puck which was one of the spectacular features of the game. Bogg scored for the School three minutes later and the first period closed with the Grads one up.

The second period was the property of the Grads, who scored twice. Loosemore found the nets three minutes after the bell rang, and for the next twelve minutes, although both sides worked their hardest, the doughty defence and the invincible goalies prevented a score, then Hamilton repeated his performance successfully and the Grads had the big end of a 4—1 score to begin the last period.

Six minutes after the drop of the puck opened the third section of the battle, Loosemore scored for the Grads, and one minute later Neilson, on a pass from Bogg, scored, and one minute later Peck got one past Moore, who tightened up again and allowed no more to pass him. Six minutes later Loosemore scored the final goal of the game and when the gong sounded announcing the finish of the game, the score was 6—3 for the Grads.

Hamilton was the strong man of the Grads' team, showing speed, skill and staying power; in short, he is back to his old form. Moore was practically invincible in goal, as he weathered through a veritable bombardment with only three chalked up against him. Loosemore was in good form also, playing his usual fast, clean game.

Smith, the trusty custodian of the school nets, is a good man, but is a little too prone to leave his citadel unguarded, while he sallies forth to the defence line. Hunt played a star game, having speed and skill, and will be heard from in the national game yet. He played perhaps the strongest game for the school, although Bogg and Peck played an exceptionally good game. In short, the school team is one of the best balanced teams in the league and while they are light and young, lacking experience, they are a hard team to beat and the grads, their seniors in every respect, played three strenuous periods and worked hard for their score.

The Grove and the Cement team play on Friday evening.

WILL CLASH IN SEMI-FINALS

Tool Room and Industrial Control Meet To-night for Third Time.

C.G.E. LEAGUE.

The Tool Room and the Industrial Control tied in the semi-finals of the Canadian General Shop League, will clash to-night from 7.30 till 8.30 at the Brock Street Rink, the winners to play the Production Department in the final for the League laurels.

With two spectacular tie matches under their belts, the game promises to be one of the liveliest arguments of the season.

Last Saturday's fixture ended in a 2-2 score with both teams fighting hard until the final gong. In the two games played both crews have proved themselves real battlers, their fine brand of hockey having not been marked by free-for-alls. With the regular line-up, fans can be assured of a real contest in their third battle.

The line-up:

Industrial Control — Goal, Griffin; defence, Shields and Simmons; centre, Kenneally; wings, Graham and Wilson; subs., LaPlane, O'Brien, and Darling.

Tool Room — Goal, Jones; defence, Swanger and Hatton; centre, Clarke; wings, Foley and Epps; subs., M. Williams, C. Williams, Corkery, and Rishea.

ALBIONS LOSE FIRST TUSSLE OF PLAY-OFFS

Defeated By St. Peter's 1-0 in the City League Finals.

MANY PENALTIES.

Victors Have Slight Edge on Play Throughout Most of Game.

Staging a lone rush down the boards in the third period Carroll won a 1-0 victory for St. Peter's over the Albion knitting by sinking the only marker of the game in the first match of Juvenile City League finals played at the Brock street rink last night.

Striking their first stride in the second frame the St. Petes played fast hockey until the final game. The victors showed better combination than their opponents but the back checking of the blue and white held them well in tow. Cripps and Hatton played a good game for the garnet and gold, leading attack after attack against the opposing lines, while Cuthbertson and Dallin starred for the Albions.

Penalties seemed to be the feature of the game, 18 being chalked up against both teams. Meagher and Jones were the leaders in the red and gold side with 3 apiece while Howe for the Albions had a total of 6

Opened Fast.

Play opened fast with Dorrington carrying the puck into foreign territory from the face-off, back-checking of the red sweaters held the attacks of the Albions safe. St. Peter's began to work up better combination play but were held in check in LeBarr's area by the blue and white. Dorrington chased for Jolling Carroll after the latter had got away on a lone rush. Both sides began to play faster hockey featured by heavy back checking. Carroll and Hatton show good combination work but the garnet and gold defence man spoiled his own rush by bodying Dorrington. Albions now take the lead in checking while Dallin slips past Jones and works his way in to get in mix-up with LeBarr at the mouth of the net. Meagher drew the second penalty of the game while the blue and white again take to checking holding most of the play on St. Peter's ground. Jones tried several times to make a get-away but was closely covered on each occasion. Carroll tried a rush down the boards but lost the puck when he was tripped by Johnson. LeBarr kept busy stopping long range shots from the opposing line and Howe was sent to bench for rough house tactics. Carroll made another try for a counter by placing a long shot which was saved by the goalie while Meagher picked up the rebound for a second try, only to be shut out by Merritt who showed neat work in holding down the close-in attacks of St. Petes. Carroll was again sent to the bench for boarding and the period closed with no score.

St. Peters' have Edge.

Jones went away like a flash at the face off but was too closely watched to get far. Play became more evenly contested and Jones is chased to cooler while Hatton's lone rush down the boards was spoiled by Howe who was given a rest cure for body checking Hatton again makes a rush down the ice only to lose a chance to score a marker by shooting wild. St. Peter's now fought hard with most of the play centred around the Albions' net. Cripps' shot goes wild while Johnston and Dallin are sent to the bench. With four men on the ice the blue and white are taxed to the utmost to repel the attacks of St. Peter's, who came within an ace of scoring. Meagher, Jones and Houlihan stage a combination rush only to lose out when Meagher shoots puck above the nets. Carroll takes the puck at the face-off but loses it when he is tripped by Johnson. Hatton stages a rush down the boards but is given little help from his teammates, Lebarr saves a shot by dropping on the rubber which resulted in a general scrimmage in front of the net, but no counter was scored. The blue and white began to play faster hockey and Howe is given a penalty for tripping Hatton when the latter was through the Albion defence. Meagher and Ashmore sent to the bench for staging a private battle of their own just as the bell rang.

Play Defensive Game.

The third period opened with Albion Knitting playing a defensive game having only four on the ice (Howe and Ashmore still in the box). Weir worked hard with the game mostly one man attacks staged by the blue and white, but they are held down by the St. Petes. Garnet and gold began to carry play into the Albion territory; Meagher chased, while both teams stage a see-saw battle up and down the ice.

Carroll's fine stick work earned him the sole goal of the game when he broke through the opposing line to sink a marker for St. Peter's. LeBarr again saved goal by dropping on the ice while Cuthbertson tried to lift the rubber over his body. Howe and Jones given penalties for mixing it after St. Peter's led an attack into Merritt's territory. With only four men on the ice Cripps put up a good battle for St. Petes but his shots were intercepted by Cuthbertson who worked like a veteran. Jones was chased and Howe given an extra penalty for returning too soon.

Albion Knitting were now battling hard to score, and placed many sots at LeBarr, who used hands, feet and chest to stop them. Meagher's point blank shot at the blue and white gage is cleared by Merritt, and Howe is chased for upsetting Hatton. Meagher again workes in for a direct shot but Merritt cleared just as the final gong rang

The line-up:

St. Peter's: Goal, LeBarr; defence, Hatton and Carroll; centre Jones, wings, Meagher and Cripps; subs, Houlihan and DeForge.

Albion Knitting: Goal, Merritt; defence, Dorrington and Howe; centre, Cuthbertson; wings, Johnson and Dallin; subs Weir and Ashmore.

Referee: Bill Jackson.

Penalties: Albion Knitting: Dorrington 1; Johnston 1; Dallin 1; Ashmore 1; Howe 6; St. Peter's: Meagher 3; Jones 3; Carroll 2. Total 18.

JACK DELANEY FAVORED TO WIN

French-Canadian and Heeney To Meet in Elimination Bout To-night.

AT MADISON SQUARE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 1 (Canadian Press).—The age-old axiom of the prize-ring—no good little man can beat a good big one—will come in for another test within the ropes of the Madison Square battleground to-night.

There may be data, too, for the scientists in the meeting of Jack Delaney, picturesque French-Canadian with the crushing right hand, and Tom Heeney, of the rock-ribbed, reinforced concrete chin. No one yet has solved the problem of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object.

In the final analysis, observers see in the fifteen-round semi-final of Tex Rickard's elimination tournament only the question of Heeney's ability to absorb the Bridgeport Rapier's raking shots. They concede Delaney the ability and punching power to dent the hitherto impenetrable armor of Heeney's sturdy body and rugged chin. The odds yesterday were 7 to 5 on Delaney to win.

But no real knockdown ever has been scored on the rugged Heeney. He pushed his chin into the most powerful shots of Paulino Uzcudun, Jimmy Maloney, Johnny Risko and even Jack Sharkey. His short, hairy arms either pounded out victories or held his rivals to a draw except for one unpopular decision he lost to Uzcudun early in his American invasion.

Delaney has been but moderately successful since vacating the light-heavyweight throne to toss his numbing right hand against heavyweights. Jimmy Maloney checked him with a decision defeat in the Garden last winter. Since then, Delaney has sharpened his punching equipment on several lesser heavyweights with much crumpling of chins as a result. He crashed Sully Montgomery from the picture with a single right hand smash a few weeks ago.

Heeney's greatest advantage, aside from unlimited ability to "take it," and still force the going, will be in the weights. Delaney is expected to scale a little more than 176 pounds at the New York State Athletic Commission's offices at 2 p.m. to-day, while Heeney will probably weigh over 195 pounds. The measurements follow:

MILLBROOK RETAINS CUP

Successfully Defend the Carew Trophy For the Third Time.

CURLING NEWS.

MILLBROOK, March 1—The Carew Cup is still held by the local club. It was successfully defended for the third time in succession in a challenge game played on local ice Tuesday, Feb. 28, a rink from Beaverton endeavoring to carry the trophy to the northern town. The score was 20—5, and only 14 ends were played instead of 16.

The ice was rather keen, and apparently the visiting rink found it difficult to make much headway on it. A "drive" game was played by the challengers; the "Municipal Rink," which opposed them, preferring the "draw" variety.

The local four included the Reeve, the Town Clerk, and two of the Councillors, and in personnel differed from either of the other two which have previously won out in the competition for the trophy within recent weeks.

The players were:

Beaverton:	Millbrook:
J. Ross	P. Stinson
H. Doherty	L. C. Russell
J. Birchard	G. W. Sayles
W. Dobson	W. T. Wood
Skip..... 5	Skip.....20

Gravenhurst is next in line in the competition for the Carew Cup, and will probably play here within the next two weeks, ice permitting.

Allen Cup

The inter-rink competition for the Allen Cup is practically completed for this season, the rink skipped by H. Ross Edmunds winning this trophy. This rink has lost but one game in the season.

Waddell Trophy

The Scotch Doubles for the Waddell Trophy began on Monday night, the result so far being:

H. Allen 7; G. W. Sayles 17.

J. E. Allen 10, T. H. Bradley 4.

L. C. Russell 9, H. J. Grassett 8.

W. E. Ball 11, T. H. Collins 10; an extra end was necessary to break the tie in this case.

J. Steele 13, J. Lancashire 9.

At the Symphony in your Home!

So true and lifelike is the music of the new Orthophonic Victrola,---you almost see the famous conductor---the magnificent orchestra!

...The plaintive note of a trumpet swelling ... receding Then the 'cellos. You move towards the edge of your chair Again that wistful trumpet and again the 'cellos, followed by the violins and the brasses, as the melody weaves its pattern of beauty. You relax and enjoy a world-loved overture You are at the Symphony Concert, in your own home! And you arrange the program!

You almost see the sensitive hands of the great conductor—the rhythmic rise and fall of the violin bows, the tilt of gleaming trumpets and trombones! You may listen to several orchestras the same evening, with encores end on end. You may listen to anything in any kind of music.

The principle that applies "Smooth Flow of Sound" to the new Orthophonic Victrola—and brings it to your home, is "Matched Impedance",—Victor-controlled.

To do justice to this realistic music, you may have beautiful cabinets in artistic designs and fine woods. Electrically driven, if you wish, at slight additional cost. All instruments are self stopping. Prices from $1400 down to as low as $115—on convenient payments from all His Master's Voice dealers. Act now and begin to enjoy at once.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

MATCHED AGAINST HEENEY

BY BOB MATHERNE

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—"If Tom Heeney fights me the same open way he fought Jack Sharkey, I am bound to get him before the seventh round.

"If I lose to him, it means that I am a failure as far as heavyweight fighting goes."

Those few words, dear readers, are from Jack Delaney, the French-Canadian who fights Heeney in the first of the new heavyweight eliminations in early March. At Madison Square Garden, of course, and for Tex Rickard.

If he wins, Delaney will be matched with the winner of the Sharkey-Risko bout of March 12. If he loses, perhaps it will mean failure. He will pass out of the picture at least for the moment.

Knowing he stands at the crossroads of his colorful ring career, Delaney is training in Bridgeport, Conn. away from the crowds of New York which he doesn't especially care for, and working for one great effort to continue in the quest of a title fight with Champion Gene Tunney.

His boxing ability and that six-inch right-hand punch are what he expects will whip Heeney. Twice before that right-hand sock has placed him in position for better things, but after each occasion he was overshadowed by mediocre exhibitions and placed in the category of the greatest "in and outer" in the game.

Delaney is much in the same situation he was before he lost to Maloney several months ago. Three warm-up fight, all of which he won by knockouts, have fitted him well for his coming scrap, and he says there will be no stopping him this time.

Perhaps he is a bit optimistic. Perhaps he is too enthusiastic, but he has reasons.

He is regarded by many as the most prominent challenger seeking Tunney's crown today, and many close students of the fight racket think his boxing ability and punching power will carry him through these current eliminations into a match with Tunney.

Delaney's cause, when analyzed, can be punctured with reasons why he should not beat Heeney. The latter's bout with Risko is one reason. Delaney's loss to Risko in Cleveland is another reason. And the fact that he has failed in important bouts with heavyweights before make his severe critics doubtful about his chances this time.

But Delaney is not of that frame of mind.

"I look for this to end in a knock-out for Heeney in either the third, fourth or seventh rounds. Those are lucky ones for me.

"My right hand at the present time is in perfect condition. I am not bothered with illness or injuries as I was in my fight with Jim Maloney, and I know that if Heeney fights me as wide open as he did against Sharkey I am bound to get him before the seventh. I also know that I will be a failure if I don't come through this one."

Delaney, shunning New York gymnasiums, is doing his training for the fight in private at Bridgeport.

"The little place made me and my punch, and I'm not going to desert it now", he says.

Perhaps he is right in his optimistic views. But Tom Heeney will say, if you just trouble to ask him, that he is just as certain to take Delaney in this one as the rapier-of-the-north has been taken before.

TENSE DRAMA, REAL THRILLS, HUMOR IN "HER MAN O' WAR"

A remarkable, "inside view" of the sinister workings of the German intelligence department during the world war forms the basis for tense drama, suspense and thrilling action of "Her Man o' War," Jetta Goudal's first starring vehicle, which will be the big feature picture at the Regent Theatre Thursday, Friday and Satuday.

This material, rather than the battle scenes to which one is accustomed in war pictures, supplies the grim menace that lies behind the comedy and romance with which the picture is packed. It is a pitting of the wits of an American prisoner, who is really a spy, against the cunning, experienced and scientific head operative of the German secret service, Professor Krantz William Boyd is the prisoner, Frank Reicher, the professor.

The fact that the action takes place in a new locale for American war pictures—a quiet sector behind the German lines—takes the plot out of the usual channels and not only enhances the drama and melodrama but gives a quaint and beautiful setting for the romance between the star and Boyd.

Despite grim danger and thrills that keep the spectator's spine tickling and hair ar-rise, the love story and the comedy element of "Her Man o' War" predominate. Jimmie Adams, Christie comedy star, and his partner in hilarity Kay Deslys, supply a great deal of humor, and the triangle of love interest formed by Miss Goudal Boyd, and Grace Darmond, the latter playing a German countess, furnishes still more effective comedy throughout up to a real snappy, happy and satisfactory ending.

Too Many Grants

"It seems to me these things are getting too numerous," said Ald. Hamilton, recalling that the Orangemen are getting $400 for their celebration. "How much are you giving the Chamber of Commerce?"

"Nothing," replied Ald. Phelan.

"A grant there will do more good than these grants for conventions," declared Ald. Hamilton.

"Oshawa gave their Chamber of Commerce $2,500," Ald. Macdonald added.

"If we get the government grant we can make the rate thirty-six and a half," Ald. Phelan announced.

"We shouldn't cut our departments below the limit of efficiency," Ald. Macdonald countered.

"If we have a surplus we will make a better showing next year," was Ald. Cotton's contention. "If we don't get the grant until next year, it will balance against any overdraft."

"The school matter will right itself when the school opens," the Mayor pointed out, and a motion was carried unanimously setting the rate at thirty-seven mills, instructing the Mayor, the Chairman, and the Treasurer to go over the estimates and make minor adjustments to bring the figures out right, and ordering the preparation of a by-law for Monday's meeting of the Council.

Ald. Ackerman reported that, owing to the illness of Ald. Greene, he had no definite report on the matter of employing a full time Medical Officer of Health, but that the cost would be no greater than the amount put in the estimates under various headings for health work. Ald. McIntyre asked if it would be possible to return to the present system if the new method didn't suit, and was told that it would have to be retained. Ald. Stocker adding the comforting assurance:

"When we get this system working you won't want to go back. You'll wish we had adopted it years before."

A request from the Trent Waterways Development Association for a grant of $250 to help meet the cost of an exhibit at the Cleveland Sportsmen's Exhibition was received without action.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"
© 1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Mar. 4th:

Sunday.

Breakfast: Poached egg, 3 or 4 slices of crisp bacon, Melba toast, stewed peaches (dried).

Lunch: Baked potato, spinach, salad of grated carrots on lettuce.

Dinner: Roast chicken or rabbit, asparagus, string beans, salad of lettuce and tomatoes, *cup custard.

Monday.

Lunch: Noodle soup (made with noodles, spinach, parsley and celery), baked egg plant, lettuce.

Dinner: Roast beef, cooked beet tops, turnips, salad of chopped raw cabbage and ground beets, Jello or Jell-well with whipped cream.

Tuesday.

Lunch: Corn bread, cooked turnip tops, mashed pumpkin.

Dinner: Celery soup, broiled lamb chops, cooked squash, molded vegetable salad (string beans, cucumbers and tomatoes), pineapple whip.

Wednesday.

Breakfast: Wholewheat mush with milk or cream (no sugar).

Lunch: Cooked beet tops, cooked oyster plant, cucumbers.

Dinner: Roast pork, baked ground beets, string beans, celery, apple sauce.

Thursday.

Breakfast: Coddled egg, Melba toast, stewed raisins.

Lunch: Baked potato, combination salad (diced cooked beets, string beans and celery).

Friday.

Breakfast: Baked stuffed apple (recipe given Nov. 26th).

Lunch: Steamed rice, baked parsnips, celery.

Dinner: Tomato bouillon, baked sea bass, cooked spinach, cooked cucumber, salad of sliced tomatoes on lettuce. No dessert.

Saturday.

Breakfast: Baked egg, re-toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuit, stewed figs.

Lunch: Cornmeal muffins, cooked string beans, head lettuce with olive oil.

Dinner: Roast veal, Melba toast dressing, mushrooms encasserole, buttered vegetables (carrots, beets and turnips. Jello or Jell-well.

*CUP CUSTARD: Beat three whole eggs, and add a cup and a half of sweet milk, a cup and a half of seedless raisins, and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour into custard cups, being careful to distribute the raisins evenly. Place the cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until custards are slightly brown on top.

You will find that the raisins make the custard sweet enough without adding sugar or honey.

Sufficient for six portions, and may be served with a little whipped cream if desired.

Questions and Answers.

Question: W. G. P. writes: "I am 73 years old, and am bothered with a twitching or jerking in my legs when retiring, sometimes keeping me awake for an hour or more. Will you please let me know the cause, also if there is a remedy?"

Answer: The jerking in your legs is doubtless caused by a poor circulation of blood. I would advise you to take some exercises about an hour before retiring. After the exercises, sit in a tub of warm water, immersing the legs in the water for about two or three minutes. This will help the circulation and should prevent the jerking.

Question: Ruth asks: "What would you think best to do for sciatic rheumatism? The party in question has been in bed close to four years with it He is on a milk diet now."

Answer: What is called "Sciatic Rheumatism" may be due to an inflammation of the sciatic nerve and caused by rheumatic toxins; or, the nerve may be pinched some place between where its branches immerge from the lower spine. An osteopath or chiropractor could quickly correct the trouble if it is caused by pinched nerves, and a diet to cure rheumatism would bring about a cure of the trouble if it is caused by the rheumatic toxemia.

The "Flu" LEFT HER WITH A VERY WEAK HEART.

Mrs. Beulah Demone, Pleasant River, N.S., writes:—"Having suffered with the 'flu' a few years ago, I was left with a very weak heart.

"I was unable to go about, and could not do my housework.

"I would get dizzy spells and would have to go and lie down.

"I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up.

"I tried different kinds of medicine, but they seemed to do me no good.

"A friend recommended MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS I have used five boxes and am much better; do not get those dizzy spells, and can do my own work as well as ever."

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that Mannix, Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in the apartment adjoining the "Canary's"; that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight, and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswoode jumped into a cab. Skeel telephones that he will tell who committed the murder, and Markham, Vance and Heath wait for him in the district attorney's office.

CHAPTER XL.

A few minutes later Heath turned abruptly and went out into the hall. We could hear him calling to Snitkin down the elevator shaft, but when he came back into the office his expression told us that as yet there was no news of Skeel.

"I'll call up the bureau," he decided, "and see what Guilfoyle had to report. At least we'll know then when the Dude left his house."

But when the sergeant had been connected with police headquarters he was informed that Guilfoyle had as yet made no report.

"That's damn funny," he commented, hanging up the receiver.

It was now twenty minutes past ten. Markham was growing restive. The tenacity with which the Canary murder case had resisted all his efforts toward a solution had filled him with discouragement; and he had hoped, almost desperately, that this morning's interview with Skeel would clear up the mystery, or at least supply him with information on which definite action could be taken. Now, with Skeel late for this all-important appointment, the strain was becoming tense.

He pushed back his chair nervously and, going to the window, gazed out into the dark haze of fine rain. When he returned to his desk his face was set.

"I'll give our friend until half past ten," he said grimly. "If he isn't here then, Sergeant, you'd better call up the local station-house and have them send a patrol-wagon for him."

There was another few minutes of silence. Vance lolled in his chair with half-closed eyes, but I noticed that, though he still held his cigaret, he was not smoking. His forehead was puckered by a frown, and he was very quiet. I knew that some unusual problem was occupying him. His lethargy had in it a quality of intentness and concentration.

As I watched him he suddenly sat up straight, his eyes open and alert. He tossed his dead cigaret into the receiver with a jerky movement that attested to some inner excitation.

"Oh, my word!" he exclaimed. "It really can't be, y' know! And yet"—his face darkened—"and yet, by Jove, that's it! . . . What an ass I've been—what an unutterable ass! . . . Oh!"

He sprang to his feet; then stood looking down at the floor like a man dazed, afraid of his own thoughts.

"Markham, I don't like it—I don't like it at all." He spoke almost as if he were frightened. "I tell you, there's something terrible going on—something uncanny. The thought of it makes my flesh creep. . . . I must be getting old and sentimental," he added, with an effort at lightness; but the look in his eyes belied his tone. "Why didn't I see this thing yesterday? . . . But I let it go on. . . ."

We were all staring at him in amazement. I had never seen him affected in this way before, and the fact that he was habitually so cynical and aloof, so adamant to emotion and impervious to outside influences, gave his words and actions an impelling and impressive quality.

After a moment he shook himself slightly, as if to throw off the pall of horror that had descended upon him, and, stepping to Markham's desk, he leaned over, resting on both hands.

"Don't you see?" he asked. "Skeel's not coming. No use to wait—no use of our having come here in the first place. We have to go to him. He's waiting for us. . . Come! Get your hat."

Markham had risen, and Vance took him firmly by the arm.

"You needn't argue," he persisted. "You'll have to go to him sooner or later. You might as well go now, don't y' know.—My word! What a situation!"

He had led Markham, astonished and but mildly protesting, into the middle of the room, and he now beckoned to Heath with his free hand.

"You, too, Sergeant. Sorry you had all this trouble. My fault. I should have foreseen this thing. A devilish shame; but my mind was on Monets all yesterday afternoon. . . You know where Skeel lives?"

Heath nodded mechanically. He had fallen under the spell of Vance's strange and dynamic importunities.

"Then don't wait.—And, Sergeant! You'd better bring Burke or Snitkin along. They won't be needed here—nobody'll be needed here any more today."

Heath looked inquiringly to Markham for counsel; his bewilderment had thrown him into a state of mute indecision. Markham nodded his approval of Vance's suggestions, and, without a word, slipped into his raincoat.

A few minutes later the four of us, accompanied by Snitkin, had entered Vance's car and were lurching up-town. Swacker had been sent home; the office had been locked up; and Burke and Emery had departed for the homicide bureau to await further instructions.

Skeel lived in 35th Street, near the East River, in a dingy, but once pretentious house, which formerly had been the residence of some old family of the better class. It now had an air of dilapidation and decay; there was rubbish in the areaway; and a large sign announcing rooms for rent was posted in one of the ground-floor windows.

As we drew up before it Heath sprang to the street and looked sharply about him. Presently he espied an unkempt man slouching in the doorway of a grocery-store diagonally opposite, and beckoned to him. The man shambled over furtively.

"It's all right, Guilfoyle," the sergeant told him. "We're paying the Dude a social visit. What's the trouble? Why didn't you report?"

Guilfoyle looked surprised.

"I was told to phone in when he left the house, sir. But he ain't left yet. Mallory tailed him home last night round ten o'clock, and I relieved Mallory at nine this morning. The Dude's still inside."

"Of course he's still inside, Sergeant," said Vance, a bit impatiently.

"Where's his room situated, Guilfoyle?" asked Heath.

"Second floor, at the back."

"Right. We're going in.—Stand by."

"Look out for him," admonished Guilfoyle. "He's got a gat."

Heath took the lead up the worn steps which led from the pavement to the little vestibule. Without ringing, he roughly grasped the door-knob and shook it. The door was unlocked, and we stepped into the stuffy lower hallway.

A bedraggled woman of about 40, in a disreputable dressing-gown, and with hair hanging in strings over her shoulders, emerged suddenly from a rear door and came toward us unsteadily, her bleary eyes focused on us with menacing resentment.

"Say!" she burst out, in a rasping voice. "What do youse mean by bustin' in like this on a respectable lady?" And she launched forth upon a stream of profane epithets.

Heath, who was nearest her, placed his large hand over her face, and gave her a gentle but firm shove backward.

"You keep outa this, Cleopatra!" he advised her, and began to ascend the stairs.

The second-floor hallway was dimly lighted by a small flickering gas-jet, and at the rear we could distinguish the outlines of a single door set in the middle of the wall.

"That'll be Mr. Skeel's abode," observed Heath.

He walked up to it and, dropping one hand in his right coat-pocket, turned the knob. But the door was locked. He then knocked violently upon it, and placing his ear to the jamb, listened. Snitkin stood directly behind him, his hand also in his pocket. The rest of us remained a little in the rear.

Heath had knocked a second time when Vance's voice spoke up from the semi-darkness.

"I say, Sergeant, you're wasting time with all that formality."

"I guess you're right," came the answer after a moment of what seemed unbearable silence.

Heath bent down and looked at the lock. Then he took some instrument from his pocket and inserted it into the keyhole.

"You're right," he repeated. "The key's gone."

He stepped back and, balancing on his toes like a sprinter, sent his shoulders crashing against the panel directly over the knob. But the lock held.

"Come on, Snitkin," he ordered.

The two detectives hurled themselves against the door. At the third onslaught there was a splintering of wood and a tearing of the lock's bolt through the moulding. The door swung drunkenly inward.

The room was in almost complete darkness. We all hesitated on the threshold, while Snitkin crossed warily to one of the windows and sent the shade clattering up. The yellow-gray light filtered in, and the objects of the room at once took definable form. A large, old-fashioned bed projected from the wall on the right.

"Look!" cried Snitkin, pointing; and something in his voice sent a shiver over me.

We pressed forward. On the foot of the bed, at the side toward the door, sprawled the crumpled body of Skeel. Like the Canary, he had been strangled. His head hung back over the foot-board, his face a hideous distortion. His arms were outstretched and one leg trailed over the edge of the mattress, resting on the floor.

"Thuggee," murmured Vance. "Lindquist mentioned it. Curious!"

Heath stood staring fixedly at the body, his shoulders hunched. His normal ruddiness of complexion was gone, and he seemed like a man hypnotized.

"Mother o' God!" he breathed, awe-stricken. And, with an involuntary motion, he crossed himself.

Markham was shaken also. He set his jaw rigidly.

"You're right, Vance." His voice was strained and unnatural. "Something sinister and terrible has been going on here. . . There's a fiend loose in this town—a werewolf."

"I wouldn't say that, old man." Vance regarded the murdered Skeel critically. "No, I wouldn't say that. Not a werewolf. Just a desperate human being. A man of extremes, perhaps—but quite rational, and logical—oh, how deuced logical!"

Darnley publicly proclaimed himself innocent of the murder of his wife's Italian secretary, Rizzio. But it is said that Mary never forgave him, though a year later, after the birth of their son, who later became James I of England, they were for a time apparently reconciled.

In the meantime, James Bothwell, a needy and profligate Scotch noble, who had been one of the company that had brought Mary home from France, had attracted the Queen's attention. He was attacked one day by an outlaw and wounded, and the Queen rode twenty miles—and back—to see him.

The exertion of the ride made Mary ill with a dangerous fever—but it proved to Bothwell that the Queen was interested in him. Darnley hated him and was jealous of him. When the baby James was a year old, Darnley became ill, and Mary had him removed from Holyrood castle to Edinburgh.

On the evening of February 9, 1567, Mary visited her husband, but left him about ten o'clock in the evening. In the middle of the night the city was awakened in alarm by a tremendous explosion. The small mansion where the Queen had taken Darnley had been blown to atoms.

BOOST FOR CITY IS ADVICE GIVEN TO COMPANIONS

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing Addresses Queen Alexandra Circle, A.O.F.

AT ANNUAL BANQUET.

Twenty-seventh Anniversary of Founding of Circle is Celebrated.

"Let's all be boosters for this City of Peterborough, for we won't find a better city, no matter where we go, in this country or elsewhere."

This was the parting sentence in a brief speech made by Joseph Wearing at the Empress Hotel last night, when he appeared for a few minutes at the banquet given by the Companions of the Forest to members of their own and sister lodges of the Foresters in the city. Mr. Wearing came in late to offer his apologies for forgetting the engagement, but the business-like chairlady, Mrs. William Stevens, refused to let him depart before he had answered the toast to "Our City," according to the scheduled program. Mr. Wearing, in a short extempore speech, did his best to uphold the good points of his home town, and departed to the sound of much applause.

The ladies of Queen Alexandra Circle, Ancient Order of Foresters entertained as their guests last night at the annual function which marked the twenty-seventh anniversary of their foundation here, members of the men's lodge, Court Stanley, and of the two juvenile groups, the boys' White Lily Lodge and the girl's Sunbeam Circle. About fifty people enjoyed a bountiful repast, served in the Empress' usual excellent style, in the grill room, at tables decorated with red tulips and yellow daffodils. At the conclusion of the dinner, a brief dance was held.

Mrs. William Stevens, Past Chief Companion of the Queen Alexandra Circle, acted as chairlady, fulfilling her duties in a brisk and cheerful style that set the keynote for an evening of informal enjoyment.

Officers of the various lodges who were present were: Chief Companion Mrs. W. Terrace, District Deputy Mrs. K. Hill of Port Hope, Past District Deputy Mrs. E. G. Mitchell of Bowmanville, Chief Ranger W. A. Dowson of Court Stanley, G. Matthews, secretary of the boys' White Lily Lodge, S. Mason, District Chief Ranger, and T. Hendry, Past District Chief Ranger.

During the evening, community singing was enjoyed, with Mrs. R. Bugg at the piano. The program of toasts was opened by brief remarks from Mrs. Stevens, welcoming the guests, and proposing the toast to the King. The toast to "Our High Circle," was voiced by Mrs. W. Terrace and responded to by District Deputy Mrs. K. Hill of Port Hope. The toast to "The Order" was proposed by Mrs. W. Anderson and responded to by Chief Ranger Dowson of Court Stanley, who impressed upon his hearers the importance of advancing the true sayings of Ancient Forestry.

The toast to "Our City," proposed by G. Tremain, was responded to by City Solicitor J. Wearing, who reviewed in brief his first recollections, long before he came here, of learning of Peterborough as a town that was a "live" place where sports were encouraged, and where the people were awake to their opportunities. Since coming to live here, he had never been disappointed and had grown more and more to appreciate the manifold advantages offered by residence in the city.

"We have no better governed city anywhere in the Dominion of Canada," he declared. "I have been City Solicitor here for the past six or seven years and I have yet to discover a civic official who is not concerned mainly with the good of the city rather than with his own personal advantage. And where could you find a more beautiful place to live in?"

The toast to "Our Guests," proposed by Mrs. T. Barnes, was responded to by Mrs. E. G. Mitchell of Bowmanville, for whom was sung "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," and the toast to the Sunbeam Circle, voiced by Miss E. Wiggins, was replied to in very pleasing terms by two small, composed little girls, Alice Shurety and Mary Terrace. Chief Companion Mrs. W. Terrace proposed the toast to the boys' White Lily Lodge, which was responded to by the secretary, G. Matthews, who spoke of the increasing interest being taken in this branch of the Order, and assured the audience that the boys' lodge was not dormant in any way.

District Chief Ranger S. Mason voiced the toast to "Our Circle," referring to the ancient lineage of the Order, which has a written history of 150 years and antedates that time by many generations, in the period when a special Act of Parliament was passed forbidding the meetings of secret societies, an attitude which has since been changed.

This toast was responded to by Mrs. A. Simmons, who spoke of the A.O.F. as the only society in the city to her knowledge, that gave benefits. Members may be sick for ten weeks and receive $3 a week with free doctoring and medicine, while the Hospital Board has charge of an arrangement whereby, on payment of an annual fee of $2, eight weeks' free hospital treatment, with free medical attendance, may be received.

The toast to the Hospital Board was proposed by Miss E. Martin and responded to in a neat, eloquent speech made by T. Hendry, whose concise outline of the workings of this Board was humorous, interesting and well worded. Mr. Hendry spoke of the need of protection as envisaged from earliest times by mankind, from the days of the cave-dwellers and their clubs, to the walls built around cities of an older time, down to modern days, when men unite in protecting themselves against the inroads of sickness and misfortune. It is in these ways that great fraternal institutions such as the Foresters combine to help their fellow men and in this way also help to carry out the commandment of Christ to the rich young ruler:: Love they neighbor as thyself."

Giving an example of this spirit of brotherly love and desire to be of assistance to one's fellows in the little story about the child who was discovered one day carrying a large infaint, and, on being interrogated as to whether he was not a great load for her, answered, in surprise: "Oh, no, sir, he is my brother," Mr. Hendry illustrated the manner in which the fraternal attitude can be exemplified, particularly in the workings of the Hospital Board, which takes in Port Hope and Bowmanville as well as Peterborough, in its endeavors. The members again sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" in acknowledgment of Mr. Hendry's effort.

A pleasing interlude in the evening's program of toasts was the singing of small Alice Shurety, who gave "Dawn of To-morrow" and "Among My Souvenirs" in nice voice, with accompanment by Miss Freda Shurety, also the readings by Miss E. Wiggins, who rendered an interesting recitation that included in it the name of eighteen birds. A recitation entitled "When Pa Begins To Shave" was given by little Mary Terrace. These numbers were all heartily applauded.

The evening concluded with the passing of votes of thanks to the chairlady, Mrs. Stevens, and to the representative of the press, and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," with clasped hands.

NO SHOT MADE ON NETS BUT GOAL SCORED

Junior City League Game Decided By a Freak Counter.

FIRST OF ITS KIND.

Old Timers Cannot Remember Similar Play in Local Game.

The Junior City League battle between the Albions and St. Peter's team last night was one for the book inasmuch as only one goal was registered and it was not the result of a shot. It was in fact a counter of the flukiest variety, inasmuch as the rubber was kicked into the net by an Albion player. Carroll, St. Peter's defence man, had carried the puck up the side and circled in front of the Albion cage. Before he could shoot, however, he was checked and the puck lay four feet out in front when Merritt, the Albion goaler, started out to clear. He had his stick on the rubber when a team mate skating back to get into the play, accidentally kicked the puck and imparted just enough momentum to it to cause it to slide slowly into the open net. There was some argument among the fans as to whether or not the goal should have been counted, but the point is not covered by the rules. Had it been scored as the result of a similar kick from one of the attacking side of course it would not have been a legal counter, but as it is not an offside for the defending side to kick the rubber behind their own blue line and the rules do not deal with a goal scored in this manner, there was nothing to do but pronounce it a legal marker.

And thus the game goes down as the first on record in Peterborough in which the only goal scored was not the result of a shot upon the nets. Old-timers in the crowd could not recall a similar play.

Grafton's Certainly Letting-em-go, Following Yesterday's Announcement—Store Crowded.

Eager crowds flocked to Grafton's all day to share in the bargain harvest announced in their Let-em-go advertisement of yesterday. It's a real letting go event, a clean sweep of present stocks, with a "must go" effort behind it. Headquarters instructions are to clear the decks regardless of manufacturing cost or loss to the store.

Several of the head officials of the company are here to see that the price cuts are made deep enough to absolutely force the sale of the goods, and that the public have appreciated the opportunity was well shown by the continuous stream of buyers that kept a largely augmented staff on the run all day long.

FIFTH PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

On Tuesday evening the meeting of the Fifth Peterborough Troop adopted the new method of procedure with great success. During the meeting strict attention was made to the prearranged program and everything worked on scheduled time.

Before flag break the Beavers set all screens out and arranged the patrol corners. After flag break a scout hymn was sung which was followed by the Lord's prayer. The S. M. then asked for all notices or remarks concerning sports, etc. The patrol leaders then "fell in" two paces behind one another. The whistle was sounded and the rest of the scouts lined up in their patrols. While in this formation the S. M. inspected the troop and it was found that twenty-four were present.

After inspection the patrols broke away to their corners. It was during this period that the scouts were startled by the blood-curdling yells that arose from the Crow corner. Upon inspection it was discovered that P. L. Peters was just teaching his patrol their new patrol yell.

The troop was called upon for instruction in knot tieing and A. S. M. Harry Wilkes showed the boys several new and useful knots. He explained the use of each and just how to tie each one.

Then came the contest for marks in the competition. This was called the "gyp game." It brought into action the needfulness of quietness and swiftness. Crow patrol won this game.

Council fire then followed. During this several yells were taught. The A.S.M. gave the 'Queen's Own Call," "Baden Powell's Call" and the "Skyrocket." After this had been accomplished it was found to be rather late so the troop was called up in horseshoe formation. The scout oath was said by all and a minute of scout silence was observed. The flag was then lowered and 'The King' was sung. The meeting was then brought to a close.

The hockey team of the Fifth Peterborough Troop will play hockey on Thursday night from 7 till 8 at the Sacred Heart rink.

All scouts are asked to be at the meetings ,and for boys who wish to join the scouts please be on hand at seven sharp on Tuesday evenings, so that you may be placed.

ST. JAMES' CHOIR SERVES PANCAKES

Supper and Concert Prove Great Success—Well Attended.

Members of the choir of St. James' United Church were responsible for a very successful pancake social, attended by about one hundred people, held in Wesley Hall last evening. Plenty of pancakes and syrup, the former made from flour donated by the Quaker Oats Company, were enjoyed at tables attractively decorated with rose and white crepe paper and rose candles. At the conclusion of supper, a brief musical program was given, which included a dialogue entitled "Elizabeth's Young Man," enacted by members of the George St. United Church, the Misses Eva Outram, Guelda Roseborough, M. Thornton, and Mr. Alan Stevens, also a piano solo by Miss Aileen Rose and vocal numbers numbers by Roy Pitchford and Earl Waterman. The program was looked after by Messrs. Frank and Alan Stevens and Mrs. Elmer Frost was convenor of the committee in charge of arrangements assisted by Mrs. B. Pitchford, Mrs. J. Monks, Miss Edna Dingman, and Messrs. Gerald Cuffe and Teddy Kingdon. Members of the choir who assisted were dressed in white.

MINE WITNESS AROUSES IRE OF COMMISSIONER

DESCRIBE RESCUE WORK

Seek to Find Out Who Gave Instructions Regarding Disposal of Debris.

TIMMINS, Ont., March 2 (Canadian Press). — Richard Delshunt, who told A. G. Slaght, K.C., counsel for the Hollinger, that he had been three years at Queen's, and who is foreman in the production department, with jurisdiction over levels down to 2,000 feet, was rebuked by both Mr. Justice Godson and by Mr. White. The lawyer was trying to find out from whom, if anybody, the witness got instructions regarding the disposal of the debris, and finally, when Delshunt declared he never had discussed the matter with his superior, J. W. Dougherty, His Lordship broke in with: "Well, who tells you what to do? The motormen? In other words, how did you get wise to your job? Why don't you open up and tell us? If you can't, sit down."

"I got instructions," began the witness.

"They didn't do you much good apparently," came back the Commissioner.

"The old doctrine of 'Laissez fair'," commented Mr. White.

Delshunt repeated he had never discussed the practice with Dougherty, and said the only question the latter had asked dealt with the back-filling process.

"That's a silly question with the records available," said Mr. White.

Witness said he never had given the matter "very serious consideration," an observation which drew from the lawyer the biting query, "Do you know where the Hollinger Mine is?"

"We want to get at the responsibility for this matter," said Mr. White, who asked witness if "you want to give the impression that there was no back-filling going on in stope 55-A, and that not a solitary person in the mine from Mr. Brigham down to the lowest mucker knew anything about it?"

"I don't know," replied Delshunt.

Responsible to Dougherty.

Delshunt gives orders to the transportation bosses and is responsible to Dougherty for efficient transportation work, he told Mr. White. It was necessary to move the debris from the powder thaw on the 550 foot level and he was under the impression that it was taken out by the motor crews and dumped where back-filling was going on at that level. He never remembered having made any inquiry, and considered the rubbish was being dumped in the usual manner. He did "not exactly know" where this was being disposed of, he said. They were given different stopes on different levels in which to dump mine rock and gravel, and he admitted it was his business to keep in touch with this work, of which a record was kept daily, although not of the powder thaw debris.

He would know from the records when no back-filling was going on in the stopes, and he told Mr. Justice Godson the motorman probably got instructions from the transportation bosses.

"Are you going to leave the impression on our minds, probably the correct one, that the dumping of this debris was not under your supervision?" asked the Commissioner. "Could they dump where they liked, so far as you were concerned?"

"Naturally they dumped it in some of the back-filling holes," was the reply.

No orders had been given to him in that respect, he said, and it just went in the way it had been going prior to this time. Had he known of the practice, he thought he would have reported it to Dougherty, Emery or the safety engineer.

"It seems almost incredible to me that you did not make inquiries respecting the disposition of the powder

W.M.S. MEETS AT MILLBROOK

Mrs. Charles McNeil Entertains and Mrs. Allen Presides.

MILLBROOK, March 2. — The Womens Missionary Society of St. Thomas' Church held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles McNeil, with Mrs. Allen occupying the chair. The devotional period had special reference to the Lenten season. The reading from the study book, "Africa and Her People," was taken by Mrs. W. Hilton and Mrs. G. Howson. The bale which is sent each year in April is well under way and will be forwarded to the MacKay Home at The Pas, Manitoba.

The usual hour was enjoyed at the close, the hostess serving light refreshments. The meeting next month will be held at the home of Mrs. H. J. Grassett, and the reader will be Miss Annie Armstrong.

Canadian Given Term On Road Gang

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 2 (Canadian Press).—Earl Waters, of Halifax, N.S., former motion picture operator for the Nova Scotia Board of Censors, yesterday was under sentence of one year with the county road gang, and five year term probation on a charge of driving an automobile without the consent of the owner. He is to be deported to Canada after serving his sentence on the road gang, by stipulation of the court.

A count of grand larceny in connection with the same automobile was placed off the calendar.

C.P.C. INSTALLS BUTTER PLANT

Has Been Necessary To Buy Butter For Customers in Past Years.

MACHINERY UP-TO-DATE.

The Canadian Packers, Limited, are installing a churn and butter making equipment in the local C.P.C. plant, and in a few weeks they expect to be making butter in this city. For many years the Canadian Packing Company's salesmen have been getting orders for large amounts of butter from their customers, and without any creamery of their own they have found it difficult to secure butter of a uniform quality. Last year the local plant spent $70,000 in buying butter for its customers, and since the C.P.C. was merged with the Canadian Packers, Limited, the new company has thought it advisable to make its own butter, and has chosen Peterborough as the logical position for its plant, as it is the centre of a dairying community.

An expert buttermaker, J. Brant, of Harriston, has been engaged and is in the city ready to commence operations. The very latest machinery is being installed in the concrete and steel addition that was built in 1920. A fleet of trucks will be put on the road to collect the cream, and there will also be a large quantity of cream expressed into this city.

The new company does not intend to take away the cream from the local creameries in the district, but it will buy a large amount of that which is being shipped to Toronto at present. An objective has been set for a make of 1,000,000 pounds in the fifth year of operation.

One idea of the Canadian Packers is to buy as much produce from the farmer as possible, especially the cream, and still leave him the milk which goes to the making of first-class bacon hogs.

DRIVE INAUGURATED FOR HAIG MEMORIAL

Prince of Wales Presides at Meeting To Begin Appeal For Funds.

LONDON, Mar. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— The Prince of Wales presided over a big meeting at the Mansion House to-day to inaugurate an appeal for five hundred thousand pounds sterling to provide cottage homes for ex-service men as a memorial to the late Field Marshal Haig.

TELLERS REMANDED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

Toronto Men Face Charges of Theft From Their Employers.

TORONTO, Mar. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— Cecil Laughlin, teller of a Trust Company, charged with theft of $32,000, and Norman Bray, Standard Bank teller, charged with the theft of $25,000, appeared in police court to-day and were remanded for another week by Magistrate Jones at the request of the Crown Attorney.

WIDOW IS HELD IN MURDER CASE

Arrested As Material Witness In Slaying of Her Husband.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 2.—Mrs. Mike Jonash, widow of Mike Jonash, who was murdered outside his farm home at East Flamboro on Tuesday morning, was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Sergt. Cox of the Provincial Police and Chief James Clark of Wentworth. She is being held as a material witness, the developments following a lengthy interview with the woman, in which she is said to have given a statement which throws an entirely different light on the crime. The charge of killing and slaying stands against the two foreigners who were taken into custody some hours after the lifeless body of Jonash was found outside his doorstep.

NEW OFFICERS GIVEN OVATION AT S.A. TEMPLE

Ensign and Mrs. Green Accorded Sincere Welcome by Local Corps.

COME FROM MONTREAL

Several Vocal and Band Selections Comprise Musical Program—Many Addresses.

Coming to Peterborough as successors to Commandant and Mrs. Ham, Ensign E. H. and Mrs. Green, formerly of Montreal number one corps, were accorded a most sincere and delightful welcome at the Salvation Army Temple last evening, when between four and five hundred men, women and children, many of them not members of the army, gathered to meet the new arrivals. Two hours of interesting addresses, most of them of impromptu nature, vocal and band selections comprised a program which concluded with the Ensign and Mrs. Green acknowledging the hospitality extended in pleasant yet earnest manner.

Alderman Cotton.

Introduced by Chairman R. G. Leggott, Alderman Cotton, on behalf of the city, welcomed the new officers to Peterborough, where, he felt certain, they would meet with co-operation on every side.

Previous officers here have found the city willing to help the Salvation Army, which has been recognized for its splendid work. He concluded by wishing Ensign and Mrs. Green all success in this, their new field of labor.

The musical selections of the evening were most enjoyable, consisting of an opening chorus by the whole gathering, a band selection, a number by thirty-five songsters, a selection from the Young People's Band, and from the Young People's Singing Company. In all these, the performers gave evidence of careful training and talent.

Other Speakers.

On behalf of the band, Bandmaster Robinson took occasion to welcome Ensign Green and Mrs. Green and expressed the willingness of the musicians to assist in the work of the Salvation Army in Peterborough. He made reference to the progress made in the band and hoped the new leaders would enjoy their assistance.

Envoy Brooks was spokesman for the young men's section of the corps, extending a hearty welcome to the newcomers. Peterborough corps, he declared to be one of the best and bespoke for Ensign Green the co-operation of all in carrying on the work of the Salvation Army here.

On behalf of the ladies, Mrs. Pammett added her words of welcome, mentioning various phases of the work carried on here. To Mrs. Green, she volunteered the assistance of all the ladies and hoped that her stay here might be a happy one both for herself and for the corps.

Speaking in behalf of the young people, R. C. Braund welcomed the new officers in a happy manner and told of the loyalty and work of the younger members of the Salvation Army. He made mention of the various organizations which they had formed and concluded by wishing the Ensign and his wife happiness in their new home.

Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Green first desired to give her personal testimony, contained in the chorus sung, "Jesus Thou Art Everything to Me," and expressed her personal delight in the work of the Salvation Army. "My desire is greater on coming to Peterborough, to more earnestly do His will. I have come here to help the Salvation Army to the fullest extent of the word," said she. Mrs. Green especially emphasized her desire to work with the young people and concluded by expressing her gratitude for the kindly welcome extended.

Ensign Green.

Ensign Green on rising to speak, was greeted with hearty applause, and immediately thanked the preceding speakers for the splendid hospitality and welcome extended. As a Salvation Army officer coming to the Peterborough corps, he also came to be a member of the community and to give service as a citizen. He made complimentary reference to Commandant Ham and Mrs. Ham and officers who preceded them, and told of letters of welcome received from His Worship Mayor Denne, the officers of the Canadian Legion and various other organizations in the city.

"Peterborough has an enviable record as a fine city," this being the tribute paid by Mr. Loftus, manager of the Canada Bread Company, and president of Kiwanis there, in conversation with me, previous to my departure from Montreal. I have come to further the work of the Salvation Army and invite your co-operation. I want to be one of you and to have you work with me and I feel that the Peterborough corps will maintain its record as a most progressive one.

Ensign and Mrs. Green have three children, Gordon, Margaret and Marion; and are also accompanied by Miss Dorothy Reed.

In England, almost to the beginning of the nineteenth century, cutting off the nose was a legal punishment.

Montreal Leading Port As Shipping Outlet For Grain Destined For Europe

CHICAGO, Ills., March 2 (A.P.).—The importance of Montreal as a shipping outlet for grain destined for Europe was shown by testimony of Carl Geissow, traffic manager of the New Orleans Joint Traffic Bureau at the Interstate Commerce Commission export rate hearing yesterday. He compared Montreal's grain shipping business with that of the Gulf of Mexico and the North Atlantic ports of the United States.

The rate hearing was authorized by Congress to ascertain if relief for the Middle Western farmer lies in a changing of transportation tariffs.

Several traffic experts have declared low water rates on the Great Lakes and through the St. Lawrence River have sapped the grain hauling business of railroads in the United States.

In 1924, Montreal exported 83,000,000 bushels of all grain as compared with 53,500,000 bushels from Mobile, New Orleans and Galveston, according to the New Orleans man's statistics.

A year later the Canadian port sent 86,000,000 bushels to Europe, and the Gulf ports shipped 29,741,000 bushels abroad.

Last year the respective figures were 90,000,000 and 53,150,000. During the same years the North Atlantic ports moved abroad 68,000,000 bushels, 51,890,000 bushels and 35,500,000 bushels.

Geissow suggested a readjustment of four cents in the rates from the Missouri river to Chicago and from Omaha South to New Orleans.

FISH DEPLETION WILL CUT DOWN TOURIST TRADE

Peterborough Business Men Unite in Condemning Winter Fishing For Pickerel.

LUNGE TAKEN, TOO.

Issue Beclouded By Claims That Pickerel Are Not Game Fish, He Says.

That depletion of the fish, both game and otherwise, in the Kawartha Lakes will mean a loss to the whole district in revenue is the consensus of opinion of various Peterborough men interviewed on the subject. They all agreed that even a few pickerel are a welcome catch to most visitors from across the line, and that the allowing of winter fishing is leading to a great dearth of fish.

Mayor Denne.

"What do you think of our fish as an attraction to tourists", The Examiner asked His Worship Mayor Denne.

"I think my sentiments are best expressed in the resolution which we sent to the department after our last regular meeting of the City Council, asking that fishing through the ice be prohibited. I would not like to venture a guess at what part good fishing plays in attracting tourists. Certainly it is an important factor, enhanced by our beautiful scenery, good roads, and summer sunshine.

C. G. Graham.

C. G. (Chris) Graham, proprietor of the Empress Hotel, which caters extensively to the summer tourist traffic, was one local business man who did not hesitate to express his views on the pickerel-lunge-fishing-through-the-ice controversy.

In the course of conversation his interviewer asked: "What would your summer business be without the fishermen?" and his answer was: "My summer business would be cut down by fifty per cent, yes, even more than fifty per cent. Fishermen tourists come through here en route to the lakes both above and below Peterborough and they come in large numbers. The majority of them do not come with the idea of 'hogging' the fish—they are usually satisfied with an occasional strike, but if that strike is not forthcoming, neither are the fishermen, the following year.

"The American likes to catch the pickerel as well as the maskinonge and yet, just this morning, there was a local dealer in here who told me of having had 500 pounds of pickerel delivered to him last night and they came, not from the great lakes, but from Rice Lake.

"Further than that, I was in conversation with a man whom, I think, is a prospective member of the Fish and Game Society and he was telling me that the had seen a twelve and twenty-three pound 'muskie' taken through the ice from Rice Lake last Sunday. Naturally, he did not wish to give the names of those who caught the fish because he would be called a 'squealer' where he works, but it shows you what is going on. Peterborough and district will suffer if the fish are not protected."

Fred L. Roy.

Fred L. Roy is another Peterborough citizen who has taken a lively interest in the preservation of fish in the lakes of this district and in the growing tourist traffic. Naturally, an interview with him would prove interesting, and apparently he knew without being told, that The Examiner representative was seeking his opinion on that subject.

Chiefly, Mr. Roy chose to discuss the attitude of Guide Madden Howard on the issue, and he did it quite freely. He said: "I noticed in your issue of February 27 a headline article from the famed Indian guide, Madden Howard whose attitude seems to me to be an entire evasion of the issue. He attempts to throw out a smoke screen to becloud the whole atmosphere." "Just what do you mean by that", he was asked. He replied: "Well, as you know, this

Rumored Massey May Go to London

OTTAWA, Ont., March 2 (Canadian Press).—The visit to Ottawa of Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister in Washington, has revived rumors that the transfer of Mr. Massey to London as High Commissioner is a probable development of the near future In official circles, however, the rumor is denied.

"No steps in the matter have been taken at all," it was stated.

S. D. HALL ADDED TO PARKS BOARD

Appointed To Succeed His Father On Nicholls Park Commission.

E. H. D. HALL CHAIRMAN.

A meeting of the Nicholls Parks Commission was held yesterday. There were present E. H. D. Hall and John Crane. A resolution was recorded of the loss sustained by the death of Richard Hall, who had been connected with the Commission ever since the parks were given by the late Mrs. Nicholls.

Out of respect to the memory of of Mr. Hall, his son, S. D. Hall, was appointed to take his father's place on the Commission. E. H. D. Hall was elected chairman, and John Crane, secretary-treasurer.

WOLVES NUMEROUS NEAR CATCHACOMA

One Was Seen When It Had Been Chasing a Deer.

CATCHACOMA, March 2.—The wolves have been very numerous around here this winter, having been heard several times close to the Government road, and one was seen by a man drawing logs out of Gull Lake, when it had been chasing down a deer. On account of the rain storm in February, making a hard crust on the snow, it is easy for the wolves to run down the deer and kill them.

At the present time there is a considerable depth of snow, being twenty-four or twenty-five inches deep on the level. There have been several severe snow and wind storms this winter making the roads almost impassable at times but the Catchacoma-Hall's Bridge mail driver has only missed one trip.

Messrs. T. Fulton and William Pearson, of Hall's Bridge, Ontario, spent a few days in the vicinity of Catchacoma recently.

THREE AVIATORS KILLED BY CRASH

R. A. F. Plane Breaks In Two After Dive to Kent Coast.

CHATHAM, Eng., March 2 (Canadian Press).—Three members of the Royal Air Force were killed to-day in the crash of their plane from the height of two thousand feet above the Isle of Grain. The machine was one of a squadron stationed at Eastchurch.

"The machine seemed to be flying all right but suddenly did a spiral dive, came spinning to the ground, and broke in two," said an eye-witness. "I saw an officer and two men in the wreckage and helped to get them out, but they had been killed outright."

On a slippery day in London recently the city ambulances received the record number of 378 calls in 24 hours.

WHOLE NATION MOURNS DEATH MARSHAL DIAZ

Thousands Pay Tribute at Passing of Italy's Greatest Soldier.

TO HAVE STATE FUNERAL

Mussolini Orders That All Houses of Amusements be Closed Out of Respect.

ROME, March 2 (Associated Press).—King and commoner, soldier and citizen, yesterday made a pilgrimage to the modest home outside the Porta del Popolo, where repose the mortal remains of Italy's greatest soldier, Marshal Armando Diaz, victor of Piave and Vittorio Veneto. Not far distant once stood the Porta Flaminia, through which for centuries marched Rome's and Italy's armed men, spreading Roman conquest and civilization throughout the world.

Never has Italy mourned one of her sons more sincerely than she mourns Diaz, whose victory at Vittorio Veneto is recalled as the prelude to the march by the Fascists on Rome. Beginning with the King himself, in the morning, followed by Premier Mussolini, all Rome seemed to throng to the shrine where the Marshal lay in full uniform, embowered in flowers, which were spread over the bier by ladies-in-waiting to the Queen at Her Majesty's orders.

From all over Italy last night, picked men of every regiment in the country are hurrying to the Eternal City with their regimental colors, as well as representatives of the ex-soldiers, with the war-torn standards of the regiments disbanded since 1918. These will be flung to the breeze during the funeral of the leader, who was best known as the "Duke of Victory."

Send Condolences.

With the embalming of the body yesterday afternoon, the throng at the house withdrew, but telegrams and cablegrams continued to arrive from all parts of the world, with messages of condolence to the family.

The diplomatic corps, Cabinet officers, members of the Senate and the Chamber, notables and people of all classes paid their respects during the day, as did the officers of the army, the navy and the Fascist militia.

Premier Mussolini ordered a state funeral, and also that all houses of amusement be closed out of respect, while the Chamber held only a brief session and listened to remarks by Mussolini and Signor Casertano, President of the Chamber.

Mussolini paid high tribute to the Marshal, declaring that "Duty" summed up his life from beginning to end.

"One moment of his military career," said the Premier, "characterized the spirit of Armando Diaz—his voluntary transfer to the infantry, the noble sacrificial corps, which never counts its fallen, never measures the bloodshed."

Reviews Career.

Mussolini reviewed the career of Marshal Diaz and his war record. "But," he continued, "was the war finished in Italy? Not yet. We had to begin again the fight in the streets and squares against the listlessness of the governing classes and the Asiatic illusions of the masses to defend the right and, above all, the spirit of victory.

"A new era begins, Diaz is with us, assuming the war portfolio. Could artisan of victory offer Fascism a more solemn or prompt proof of sympathy and solidarity. Diaz never doubted, and was always the open and loyal defender of the Fascist regime. This the Fascisti knows. The Black Shirts never forget."

Naples, where Diaz was born, sent many messages of mourning, while a retired soldier who has served Diaz for years as his personal servant forwarded a long telegram of condolence.

The body to-day will be taken to the altar of the Fatherland, before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, where it will rest on a gun carriage for 24 hours with a guard of honor composed of general officers.

At ten o'clock Saturday morning, the cortege will form and proceed to the Church of Santa Maria Degli Angeli, the casket being borne on the shoulders of generals of the Italian army, along a route lined with the battle flags of all the regiments. After services in the church, the body will lie in state for three days.

BAILIFF NAMED

J. H. Wright is Appointed in the County of Hastings.

MARMORA, March 2. — J. H. Wright received official notification on Wednesday of his appointment as bailiff of the 10th Division Court, County of Hastings. The new bailiff is a war veteran, having served overseas with the Canadian Forestry Corps.

Diamond Jubilee Cost $186,189

OTTAWA, Ont., March 2 (Canadian Press).—The diamond jubilee celebrations cost the Dominion Government $186,189, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons yesterday. The major items were salaries and wages $28,082; printing and distribution $44,969; medals $41,409; general pageant and celebrations $23,382. More than 2,000,000 medals for school children were struck and 30,000 plaques made. The celebrations in London cost $1,500 and in Paris $1,391.

MISSING FLIERS FOUND IN NORTH

MISSING SINCE FEB. 17.

WINNIPEG, March 2. — Canadian Press. — After practically all hope for their safety had been given up, Flying Officer A. A. Lewis, Winnipeg, and Flight Sergeant Terry, of the Government Northern Air Patrol, were reported safe in a brief radio message received here early to-day.

Lost in the wastes of the Arctic Circle since Feb. 17, Lewis and his companion were reported safe at Port Burwell, Hudson Straits. Twelve days ago, Lewis and Terry, accompanied by one native, left Port Burwell on a patrol and observation trip. At 3.15 p.m., several hours after they had left, Lewis reported from an unknown position that he was landing on the ice. From that time they were lost to their associates at Port Burwell.

Immediately a search was organized Planes were sent from the Burwell base while dog teams also were pressed into service to carry searchers. The missing airmen carried emergency rations and were otherwise well equipped.

The message received here gave no details, merely stating "airmen safe, Port Burwell." It was sent by Flight Lieutenant A. A. Leitch, of Winnipeg.

No Further Reports.

OTTAWA, March 2 (Canadian Press).—Late this morning no further communications had reached the radio branch of the Marine Department regarding the lost airmen who had been reported safe at Port Burwell. It now appears that messages were received, stating that the airmen were safe, at Louisburg, Nova Scotia, as well as Winnipeg. The radio branch hopes to establish communication with the Hudson Straits expedition during the day, when further details will probably come over the air.

From what can be learned unofficially, one of the messages received early this morning said that the missing men "walked in at midnight," and that the plane was "lost in the Atlantic." A promise to report further was the last word from Burwell.

Officials of the Department were highly delighted with the news, which was telephoned from home to home among the air force men here. Much speculation is current as to the actual details of the incident, but it would seem almost certain that the two air force men with an Eskimo reached Burwell entirely by their own efforts. It is presumed here that the men sought rest and sleep as soon as they arrived, and that until they are recovered from several days of exposure, full details will not be available.

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS BANQUET

Group C Entertains at Regular Meeting of the Circle.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN.

The members of Group C of the Mission Circle of George Street United Church, under the leadership of Verna Strong, entertained about sixty members of the Circle at supper last evening. At six o'clock a jolly crowd of girls gathered around the tables which were attractively decorated in mauve and yellow, with yellow candles. After all had enjoyed the good things provided, the meeting was called to order and the following program arranged by Group A, under the leadership of Elma Coon was given.

After the singing of a hymn and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, the Scriptural lesson was read by Olga Bartlett. An interesting paper was given by Margaret Walker and a delightful piano solo by Marion Purdy.

The Heralds reporting were as follows: For China and Honan, Greta McColl and Elma Coon. A number of new names were added to the membership list. The following were appointed to have charge of the mite boxes:

Group A—Phyllis Fragett.
Group B—Irene Bell.
Group C—Mary Squire.
Group D—Margaret Walker.

THINK IN TERMS OF FUTURE IS PARTING ADVICE

Harry R. McKeen Addresses Kiwanis Club—Leaves City To-day.

WORK IS NEEDED.

Citizens Should Put More Than Money Into Chamber of Commerce Program.

Harry R. McKeen, campaign director of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce Forward Movement, bade farewell to his Kiwanis friends at the luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day, when, as the main speaker, he reviewed the campaign just closed, and voiced his appreciation of the many little personal associations so formed. "To think in terms of a greater Peterborough in the future, and to act on this thought in close relation with the Chamber of Commerce," was his parting message, contained in a half-hour address. Mr. McKeen left this afternoon for Chicago, after more than a month's stay in the city, himself satisfied, and his associates enthusiastic as a result of the work done in re-organizing and re-financing the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting to-day was graced with the presence of a number of out-of-town guests, including Vern. Dudge, of the Kingston Kiwanis Club; Herb. Schaus, of Waterloo; W. H. Clawson, of Toronto University, and the soloist of the day, Miss Daisy Murray, of George Street United Church. President Joe John was master of ceremonies.

Following the handing out of Coleman Blewett's booster prizes to Art Blade and Bob Haddow, Miss Murray favored the gathering with two particularly enjoyable vocal numbers, M. B. Chenhall being the accompanist.

Assistance to Camp.

In past years, it has been the custom of Peterborough Kiwanians to give financial assistance to the fresh air camp in Jackson Park, and to-day, they showed their intentions in this regard by unanimously passing the motion of Dr. Ed. Wood and John Allen that the club give assistance to the camp this year to the extent of twelve hundred dollars.

Harry R. McKeen.

President John introduced Mr. McKeen as the speaker of the day, making reference to his splendid work in carrying the Chamber of Commerce campaign to a successful conclusion. This success, he felt, was due in no small part to the campaign director's likeable personality and executive ability.

Mr. McKeen said in part: "This is the most difficult speech that I have made since coming to Peterborough, because I am tired, but not of you; I have had very little time to prepare an address, and having spoken to some sixty-four meetings since coming here, new material is scarce.

"I have had a delightful campaign here, not because of the money we have raised, but because I have never met a more determined small group of men than I have here.

"Truly, Oshawa went over the top, but under different conditions and fewer difficulties, and I would not change places to-day with the man who conducted the campaign in the Motor City. Even though Peterborough may not be to the front in such campaigns, yet, one of these days she will speed up and pass the others.

"Cities are constituted as spiritual things. I would advise a little broadening of the vision of the average man. That does not apply to Kiwanians, as is proven by a glance over the list of those who had refused membership in the Chamber of Commerce. The broader vision—'Finance, Industry and Transportation as a means toward an end'—is what you need and can develop."

Mr. McKeen told the story of a city in the States which had been built and maintained by men who refused to be beaten, though the depletion of an oil supply, which had been the reason for its being built, forced upon them seemingly insurmountable difficulties.

"People, and cities, may as well be ill, as mentally ill, and I would advise you to get your people over this mental sickness There is a future

KNOX LADIES HEAR EXCELLENT PAPER

Receive Notice of Allocation and List of Supplies.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox Church was held on Thursday, March 1, with a good attendance. The Bible reading from Luke 2 was given by Mrs. Denoon and prayer by Mrs. Morrison. A letter giving the list for supply work was read, and Mrs. Watt is the convenor of this committee. A very profitable paper on Christian Stewardship and Finance was given by Mrs. Roy Laing and a letter was read from the secretary of this department giving the allocation for 1928. Mrs. Wood sang a pleasing solo, after which Mrs. Howard Clegg gave a very interesting paper on the Study Book, "New Paths for Old Purposes." The meeting closed with singing and all repeating the Apostles' Creed and the Lord's Prayer.

HAYS TESTIFIES BEFORE SENATE OIL COMMITTEE

Sinclair Gave $260,000 for Use of Republican National Committee.

PART RETURNED

$160.00 Used Towards Paying Off Debt of 1920 Presidential Campaign.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 2. — Will H. Hays, forme. postmaster-general, testified yesterday before the Senate oil committee that Harry F. Sinclair had handed him a total of $260,000 in Liberty bonds for use by the Republican national committee after the oil operator had leased Teapot Dome.

Of this amount $160,000 actually was used to help extinguish the committee deficit resulting from the 1920 presidential campaign, which Hays directed as chairman of the national committee, the remaining $100,000 being returned to the wealthy oil operator.

The transaction occurred in 1923, after the Continental Trading Company of Canada had made its $3,060,000 in profits and gone out of business, but Hays said, and Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, agreed with him, that he knew nothing of the Continental at that time.

When testifying before the same committee in 1924, the former Cabinet officer, and now a major figure in the moving picture industry, placed Sinclair's contribution at $75,000 and on that point was sharply questioned by Senator Walsh and Senator Bration, Democrat, New Mexico. He explained that the $75,000 was all that he was asked about at that time and he did not volunteer information about the other because the plan had been to return all of it to Sinclair.

Personally Solicited Funds.

Reading a prepared statement to which he referred repeatedly later during cross examination, Hays explained that he took a hand in wiping out the 1920 campaign deficit because he felt a personal responsibility in the matter. Although he had retired as chairman of the party organization Hayes said he personally solicited funds from Sinclair among others.

The operator's personal contribution toward the deficit was $75,000, the witness testified, but he advanced $185,000 in Liberty bonds to be used by the committee in making a report to the country that the deficit had been wiped out in advance of the 1924 campaign.

Hays told the investigators that he met Sinclair in New York either in his own or Sinclair's office, and had received from his hands a package containing the $260,000 in bonds. There was no memorandum or other evidence of the transaction.

Explaining the disposition made of the bonds, Hays said he divided them among four men then active in Republican affairs, three of whom now are dead. They were Fred W. Upham, former treasurer of the National committee; former Secretary of War, John W. Weeks; John T. Pratt of New York, and Senator T. Coleman du Pont, of Delaware.

Du Pont received $75,000—the outright gift of Sinclair—and with it liquidated a note of $75,000 with the national committee had with the Empire Trust Company of New York.

Pratt, it was stated, received $50,000 of the other batch of bonds but subsequently Hays said he received from Pratt a contribution to the committee chest of his amount and so was able to return to Sinclair an equal share in securities. In addition, he said he had been able to also refund to Sinclair an additional $50,000, which it had been found was not needed.

BIRTHDAY REMEMBERED

Mrs. M. Hurd, Fallis Line, Has Many Visitors for Occasion.

MILLBROOK, March 2. — Mrs. M. Hurd Fallis Line, was pleasantly remembered on the occasion of her birthday on Tuesday, a number of her friends coming in as a surprise for the occasion.

The guests, who included Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. J. H. George, Mrs. W. Fred Fallis, Mrs. Arthur Fallis, and Mrs. Herb. Ball, enjoyed a social time together during the afternoon, and assisted Miss Lulu Hurd in preparing the birthday tea, when Messrs. J. H. George and W. F. Fallis joined the party.

Mrs. Hurd is in very good health, considering her advanced age, and thoroughly enjoyed the happy gathering, which is always planned in her honor when her birthday comes around. Several gifts, including spring flowers, fruit, dainty handkerchiefs, etc, were evidences of the regard in which Mrs. Hurd is held by her friends.

Her son John Hurd, of Shackleton, Sask., who has been making an extended visit with his mother and sister here, and with other friends in Ontario, left for his home in the West last week.

OMEMEE Y.P.U. SEES SLIDES

Harold Lang Has Charge of Meeting Where Canadian Views Are Shown.

WEEKLY PAPER STARTS

OMEMEE, March 2. — Harold Lang had charge of the Young People's Union regular meeting, and lantern slides on "Our Dominion" were shown. Members were asked for a suitable name for the weekly paper which is being edited by O. R. Stalter, F. McConnell, and T. McCammon, for which a prize will be given. The first edition was read, and proved very interesting. The program consisted of the Scripture reading by Fred Weir, piano solo by Miss Jane Earle, after which the slides took up the remainder of the evening.

Preaches for Call.

Rev. J. K. Curtis had charge of the services in Trinity Church last Sunday, and from all reports a favorable impression was made upon the congregation to whom he was ministering in the expectation that a call might be extended to him.

Rev. E. W. Rowland baptized Cora Mary Ethel, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jones, recently.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET AT MOUNT PLEASANT

E. Best Leads Discussion on Music—Other Local News.

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 2.—The topic of the weekly meeting of the United Church Young People was "Cultivating a taste for Best Music", given by E. Best. The devotional part of the meeting was led by Chester Best, and Rev. J. O. Totten.

Norma Fee Entertains.

Little Miss Norma Fee was hostess on Monday evening when she entertained a number of her young friends to tea, it being the occasion of her eighth birthday. The table was centred with a pretty birthday cake, and after all had done ample justice to the good things provided by Mrs. Fee, the guests retired to the living room where an enjoyable evening was spent in games. The guests included Misses Emma Fee, Dorothy Morden, Annie Graham, Ruby Scott, Aileen Bland, Juan Shield, Grace Best, Cora Visee, Phoebe Langton, Verna Gardiner, Blanche Langton, Lenore Smith and Pearl Handley.

Personals.

FAREWELL TO CAVAN COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis Given Chairs and Table by Friends.

GOING TO EMILY

CAVAN, March 2. — About one hundred and twenty-five friends of Mr. and Mrs. Melville McGinnis gathered in the Community Hall recently and presented them with two willow chairs and a small table. The address was read by Mr. Strong and Messrs. U. Pudsy and N. Braithwaite made the presentation. Mr. McGinnis made a very suitable reply. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, with music supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Strong, after which lunch was served by the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis are moving to Emily, and will soon take up residence there.

Personals.

STEWART RETURNED CHAIRMAN OF BOARD

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Takes No Stand in Re-election of Oil Magnate.

CHICAGO, Ills., March 2 (Canadian Press).—Col. Robert W. Stewart, charged with contempt for refusal to answer questions asked by members of the Teapot Dome Senatorial investigating committee, was re-elected chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana yesterday with the 1,339,920 shares of stock controlled by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., voting neither for nor against him.

Mr. Rockefeller sent a letter to E. G. Seubert, president of the company, directing that the stock be voted for the re-election of all other directors, but as to voting for Col. Stewart, Mr. Rockefeller wrote:

"I am not prepared at this time to vote either for or against Colonel Stewart's re-election as a member of the board."

For the other members of the board, 6,320,275 votes were cast of 9,231,540 shares of stock outstanding.

"It is not my time to talk," was Col. Stewart's only statement, "but I am deeply gratified that no shares were voted against me."

Prior to his re-election by the stockholders to the board of directors, Colonel Stewart read the company's annual report, which revealed net earnings for 1927, $29,401,308 less than for 1926 and a dividend reduction from the $6.03 a share in 1926 to $3.26 a share last year.

Y.P.A. MEETS AT WARKWORTH

WARKWORTH, March 2. — Very interesting papers were given at the meeting of the Y.P.A. of St. Andrew's Church. The president took charge of the devotional part, after which Miss Mowat took the chair. "Does the World Need Christ?" was the first paper, given by Mr. Fowler, followed by "The Royal Road" by Miss Mowat, and "The Life and Work of Mary Slessor," given by Miss Margaret Richards, telling of where the missionary was born, and how in 1876 she was sent by the United Presbyterian Church as a missionary to Calabar, and later to Okoyong. In 1905 she was appointed vice-president of the Native Court, and in 1915 she died after a lifetime of splendid work. A "Mary Slessor Memorial Home" was erected in memory of her.

OYSTER SUPPER WOOLER CHURCH

C. F. Wessels Acts as Chairman At Enjoyable Gathering.

WOOLER, March 2.—A rare treat in the way of an oyster supper was held in the United Church recently. C. F. Wessels acted as chairman and a short program was given consisting of an address by Rev. H. B. Neal; duet by Edith Austin and Douglas Steinburg; reading, "Canadian Born," by Mrs. H. B. Neal; solo, Miss Francess Terrill, "My Blue Heaven." Mrs. J. J. McColl expressed her appreciation to those who had made the evening a success.

STOCK SOLD

OMEMEE, March 2.—John Fee, who resides a mile east of Omemee, disposed of his entire stock and implements on Wednesday. A large crowd attended and satisfactory prices were received. J. Roddy, of Fraserville, was the auctioneer. Cows ranged in price from $75.00 to $83.00, and young cattle about $60.00 each. Four head of fat cattle brought $100 each.

LAKEFIELD BOY WINS AT O.A.C.

Francis H. Dench Takes Grand Championship in O.A.C. 144 Oats.

LAKEFIELD, March 2.—The following refers to Francis H. Dench, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Q. Dench, who is a student at O.A.C., Guelph.

"At a show held by the students of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Francis Dench, of Lakefield, was the big prize winner in the agronomy section with six firsts, two championships and the grand champion for his exhibit of O.A.C. No. 144 oats, which the judge, Professor William Squirrel, pronounced the best sample of that variety he had seen this year. In the live stock judging classes, Mr. Dench took second in the Ayrshire class."

Personals.

Mr. Anderson Isbister, of Toronto, is visiting friends in the village.

Mr. T. H. Adams of Peterborough was in the village on Wednesday on business.

Mr. Weston Kelly of Peterborough was in the village on Tuesday.

MARMORA GIRL ENTERS NURSING

Miss Lena Rogers Given Farewell Party by Church Class.

MARMORA, March 2—The Cheerful Workers, senior girls' class of Marmora United Church, which has several years of efficient service to its record, bade adieu to a faithful member on Tuesday evening in the person of Miss Lena Rogers. This young lady left for Peterborough on Thursday to train as nurse in the Nicholls Hospital and the class, true to its custom, decided through the medium of a splendidly arranged social to mark the departure. A fine variety of indoor games having been carried out, with the Rev. C. J. Beckley proving an ideal M.C., the gathering was called to order for the presentation of an handsome ivory-mounted hand mirror and a very dainty fountain pen to the departing member. Both, the gifts of the class, were presented by Miss Reta Kennedy, president. Miss Rogers made grateful response for the gifts and also for flowers received from the class on the occasion of her illness last year. A delicious lunch was then served. The executive of the class for 1928 is composed of: President, Miss Reta Kennedy; Secretary, Miss Constance Simmons; treasurer, Miss Hazel Williams; teacher, Mrs. C. J. Beckley.

Euchre Party

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Marett entertained a number of friends at a pleasant euchre party at their home on Tuesday evening. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. E. C. Prentice and the gentlemen's by Mr. F. R. Wells. Consolation prizes were won by Mrs. A. H. Connor and Mr. C. A. Bleecker.

Personals

Mrs. F. A. Bapty are away on a trip to Cuba and Jamaica.

Mrs. S. Osborne is in a delicate state of health at present.

Mrs. J. D. Narrie has been visiting relatives in Toronto for the past few weeks.

Mr. J. Jerome has taken a position with the Howey Gold Mine Company at Red Lake as assayer, and leaves Deloro in the near future.

Mrs. William Reid, wife of the head of a Belfast shipping firm, who died recently, claimed to be the most travelled woman in the world. She sailed 1,100,000 miles in "windjammers" with her husband, went around the world seventeen times and crossed the equator 108 times.

MANY END COLDS BY NOVEL METHOD

Relieved Overnight By Using Quick Remedy Endorsed For Home Use By Hospital.

Head colds and chest colds can now be ended quickly—often overnight—by the unique double action of a home remedy now recommended by doctors at the hospital. And druggists here say that vast numbers of Peterborough people, like Mrs. Edna Muse, have found that it quickly drives out a stubborn cold, even in severe cases where every well known remedy used had failed.

Doctors at the hospital were called for advice when Mrs. Muse's cold grew worse, causing fear of pneumonia. They immediately advised Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the quickest, safest and most dependable to end a cold. Almost instantly she felt the comforting, healing warmth—from her nose passages deep down into her chest. In a few hours she was greatly relieved and in another day or so was entirely rid of her cold.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physicians who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

MEN PAST 40 SHOULD READ THIS!

Must Old Age Mean Torture, Annoyance, Embarrassment, Worry, Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Getting-Up-Nights

It is claimed that 7 out of 10 men near or past middle life are subject to Bladder Weakness, which, if neglected, may mean years of suffering and daily annoyance.

First signs of such condition may come in early life, but they are usually more noticeable after 40—pains in back, headaches, nervousness, a feeling of weight in groins, itching, painful urination, too frequent calls and getting-up-nights.

While serious, if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr. Southworth's URATABS, which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments had failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can quickly prove the value of URATABS without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If "URATABS" bring you quick and certain comfort, you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today!

ANOTHER PLAN?

Premier Ferguson's reference to old age pensions in the Legislature the other day was rather mystifying in the intimation it gave that before the next session the Government hopes to have formulated "a sane, sound and efficient method of handling the problem adequately, and giving relief where relief is needed."

Just what the Premier meant by that promise is not quite clear, but it seems to convey the impression that the Government is planning to substitute an old age pension scheme of its own for the Federal plan.

Judgment, of course, cannot be pronounced on this proposition until the scheme has been definitely outlined, but the general feeling will be that the Ferguson plan will have to be an excellent one if it is to offset the advantage to the Province of having the Federal Government pay half the cost of old age pensions, as it would do were Ontario to embrace the Dominion system as passed in the Federal House last year.

To the extent that it indicates that the pressure of public opinion in favor of relief for the needy aged is making an impression upon the Government, the Premier's promise will afford satisfaction, and a fuller explanation of what he has in view will be eagerly awaited.

In the meanwhile it should not be forgotten that Ontario, as the largest contributor to the Federal revenue, is paying a proportionate high share of the 50 per cent. contributed by the Dominion Government to other Provinces participating in the pension scheme.

MAY STUDY FISH QUESTION.

There are indications that the Ontario Legislature will during the present session appoint an interim committee of the Legislature to study between sessions the whole question of Ontario's fish and game resources.

That a live need for such an inquiry exists no one can doubt who has given the matter a thought.

The steady depletion of the Province's game fish has alarmed not only the members of Fish and Game Associations but all other citizens who appreciate what a large part in the attraction of tourists to Ontario has been played by the fish resources of Ontario waters.

Patchwork efforts to deal with the situation have done little to stop this depletion or to bring about an improvement in conditions, and the time seems ripe for a thorough study of the whole question with a view to bringing in recommendations that will be constructive and helpful.

Soon it will be too late.

If a definite policy of conservation is not entered upon and enforced Ontario as a fisherman's resort and hunter's paradise will pass off the map with somewhat dire results from the angle of tourist traffic.

The plan to appoint a committee seems to offer the best chance for the whole question to be ventilated.

NO OFFICIAL "WET" BANQUETS.

Although the Liquor Control Board was given the power to issue special permits authorizing the consumption of beer and wine at banquets, the Board's report shows that no such permits have been issued, and adds: "The Board thought that a longer experience and more time for observation might well be of service before coming to a decision to issue such permits."

It is to be hoped that Mr. Hanna and his associates will continue to go slow in this respect, or better still, that they will forget that they were ever given the right to grant sanction for "wet" banquets.

Once the wedge was inserted by the issuing of the first permit the Board would find itself deluged with applications for similar privileges and might soon be in difficulties dodging complaints that favoritism and discrimination were entering into the consideration of the various requests.

It was a mistake to have ever given the Liquor Control Board such power, but no harm will be done if it continues to "take more time for observation."

Speaking generally, there are enough silly speeches at banquets already without adding to their number by introducing the legal consumption of beer and wine.

THE PROVINCIAL BUDGET.

The outstanding feature of the Provincial Budget brought down by Hon. J. D. Monteith, the Provincial Treasurer, yesterday was, of course, the announcement of the first surplus for many years, although the edge had been taken off because pre-Budget statements had predicted it almost exactly.

The surplus, in spite of the fact that three million dollars was paid off the Provincial debt in 1927, was $359,000, and the Treasurer estimates another balanced Budget for 1928, with a surplus of $117,000, although if this estimate proves to be as conservative as that made by him a year ago the next surplus may be considerably larger than prophesied.

It is evident that Ontario's finances are in a very healthy condition.

The ordinary revenue in 1927 reached a peak hitherto unknown in this Province, Mr. Monteith reporting a total of $56,000,629, which was an increase of $5,400,000 over the figure of the previous year.

There are to be no changes so far as taxation is concerned; no new levies are to be made, nor had the Provincial Treasurer any reduction to announce.

In that respect the Budget was featureless, and its chief interest centres in the evidence it gives of a very prosperous condition of affairs, and a financial situation that will probably tend to increase the pressure for old age pensions.

TO VISIT CANADA.

A special correspondent of The Star in Washington telegraphs the information that President Coolidge may visit Canada in June or July, repaying the formal visit made to Washington by the Canadian governor-general last December. No official invitation has as yet been extended by the Canadian Government, but it is said that Premier King broached the subject when he called on Mr. Coolidge in the American capital some months ago.

If the president comes, it will be setting something of a precedent, although it is recalled that the late President Harding spent a few hours in British Columbia in 1923 on the occasion of his ill-fated Alaskan trip. President Wilson attended the Peace Conference in Europe and Mr. Coolidge went to Havana the other day for the meeting of the Pan-American Union. The proposed Ottawa visit, however, would be on a different footing, simply a formal call in response to a formal invitation.

Canadians will be highly honored if President Coolidge decided to accept our invitation this year. Everyone will hope that he comes. The relations between the dominion and the United States are such that it is advisable and desirable to sustain them and to show the world, by these outward manifestations, how it is possible for two great countries to live side by side in peace and harmony, with the utmost good will, with practically no friction, with co-operative action in the common interest, with a friendliness that laughs at boundary lines and that is amazed at the fact that the other parts of the world cannot work together in the same way.

Mr. Coolidge, you must come over!—Border Cities Star.

COL. PRICE'S ADDRESS.

Certainly no one can accuse the Hon. W. H. Price of failing to give the public complete information concerning the workings of the Liquor Control Act. The Attorney-General's four-hour speech in the Legislature yesterday covered the subject from end to end.

One of the most important features of Col. Price's address was contained in his plea for public sympathy and support in making the Control Act the success that is possible. "I desire," he said, "to appeal to all reasonable citizens within this Province to continue to give this Act a fair show; to continue to co-operate with the Liquor Control Board and with the Attorney-General's Department in the enforcement of the law. I am sure if this is done that the first year of the operation of the Liquor Control Act will show a very distinct improvement, and that the subsequent years will show that the people made no mistake when they adopted the Government's policy on December 1, 1926."

The Ontario Temperance Act failed to produce the results expected of it, for the reason that it did not enjoy public sympathy in sufficient degree. This was amply demonstrated when Mr. Ferguson suggested that it be replaced by a policy of Government control. The new system met with an overwhelmingly favorable reception when submitted to the people by means of a general election. With this mandate, Mr. Ferguson and his colleagues put a new law on the books, and it has been operating for approximately nine months. The Government believes that the results, on the whole, are very encouraging. It admits that the system is not perfect, but contends it should be given a reasonable time before any attempt is made to alter it in a radical way. This is an eminently reasonable proposition.

Not all of us may agree with the Liquor Control Act; some may think that it goes too far and others that it does not go far enough, but every good citizen should stand behind it and give it his most effective backing and co-operation.—Border Cities Star.

POSTMASTERS' SALARIES.

(From The Toronto Mail and Empire.)

The postmaster in a small town or village in Canada occupies an honorable and responsible position. He conducts an office that has an important place in the life of his community. Possibly the postmaster's lot in many of the smaller municipalities of the country is a happy one. It is not so, the Canadian Postmasters' Association has intimated, by reason of the munificent payment that the postmaster receives for his services as an officer of the Government.

The postmasters, other than those in cities, the Association has pointed out, are paid commissions on the amount of the revenue collected in their offices, mainly from sales of postage stamps. Out of their commissions the postmasters have to meet the cost of clerical assistance, and, except in large towns where their offices are housed in Government buildings, also the cost of rent, heat and light. There were 12,439 postoffices in operation in Canada in the year ended March 31, 1926. Of these, 628 were city postoffices and sub-offices. The remaining 11,811 were in towns and villages. In 4,660 of these 11,811 offices, the postmaster received commission at the rate of twenty cents a day or slightly more than $60 a year. In 4,297 offices the postmaster received commissions in excess of 20 cents a day and up to $1 a day. In 1,391 offices the postmasters received more than $1 and up to $2 a day. In other words, 10,348 postmasters in Canada collected commissions of $2 a day or less wherewith to meet the expenses of their offices and to pay for their own services. The Postmasters' Association has noted that the minimum remuneration of persons in charge of town and village offices has increased from $40 a year to only $60 a year since 1868, and that, on the average, the annual remuneration of such persons has increased only 10 per cent. in sixty years. The Association has compared this increase with the increase of more than 50 per cent. in the cost of living since 1913, and also called attention to the fact that postmasters in Canadian towns and villages receive much smaller returns for their services than do postmasters in places of the same size in the United States. The Association has proposed a new scale of commissions for the Canadian officials, with a minimum remuneration of $100 a year.

Postmasters in towns and villages, their spokesmen have contended, are obliged to devote much of their time to the handling of mail, much of it advertising matter, that originates in the cities. In respect of such mail the town and village postmasters collect no commissions. Some postmasters in small centres of population may find their tenure of office helpful to other businesses that they conduct. On the whole, it is obvious that thousands of postmasters collect, for their important services as postmasters, small monetary returns from the Government of the country.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

No doubt the Finance Committee regards Peterborough's tax rate as a perfect 37.

The first report of the Liquor Control Board shows that no wet banquets have been held in Ontario—legally, we mean.

And now the judges will proceed to solve what the politicians seemed unable to—the mystery of the South Ottawa ballots.

So far at least no one has risen up to declare that Mr. Monteith's Budget was a spectacular one.

Miss Agnes MacPhail's views are not always in accord with our own, but we hasten to accord the sole woman member of Parliament a tribute for the colorful wit and satire she manages to get into her speeches.

Some 70 speeches have already been made in the Dominion Budget debate—mostly for the benefit of the constituents of the members who contributed the oratory.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, March 2.—The few cattle offered for sale at the Union stock yards yesterday were quickly disposed of at prices in line with those of last week.

From $15 to $15.50 for top calves was the price paid. Only 11 of these were received yesterday.

With receipts of 316 hogs, these were sold at steady prices of $8.75 f.o.b. for selects of $9.75 off cars.

While nothing official has been done the price differential between "f.o.b." and "weighed off car" hogs has been $1 instead of 90 cents for the past week.

The few lambs received were sold at $15 a hundred. They were of good quality.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 2 (Canadian Press). — There was a marked improvement in the demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent here yesterday, and exporters made sales of over 250,000 bushels for March-April shipment. There was some further demand for ocean grain room for May loading from here, and engagements were made to Rotterdam at fourteen cents per hundred pounds.

The domestic demand for coarse grains was good and the undertone was firm.

The demand for spring wheat grades of flour was quiet, but values were unchanged. The trade in winter wheat flour was of a moderate volume and prices ruled firm.

There was no further change in prices for millfeed, but the undertone to the market was strong at the late advance noted, and the prospects were that they might be marked up again in the near future. This was attributed to the continued urgent demand for domestic requirements and for shipment to the United States.

Owing to the steady upward tendency of prices for oats of late, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats and higher prices are looked for here in the near future. A moderate amount of business was done.

There was an increased demand for fresh eggs and as supplies were more liberal an active business was done at firm prices. A moderate trade was also worked in storage eggs, and the undertone was steady. The receipts were 1,924 cases.

Prices for Quebec potatoes were firmly maintained under a fair demand.

On account of the increased scarcity of imported beans on spot and the small offerings from exporting countries, a decidedly strong feeling developed here and prices scored a sharp advance of forty cents per bushel. Sales of choice, white handpicked in car lots to arrive were made at $3.50 per bushel, ex-track. The market for boiling peas was strong under a good demand at $3.15 to $3.25 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in butter was less active, but the undertone to the market continued strong and prices scored a further advance of ¼c per pound. The demand was fair. An odd car of Ontario No. 1 pasteurized sold at 37⅞c per pound. The receipts were 28 packages.

The local and foreign demand for cheese continued dull, but the values were firm. The receipts were 943 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 2 (Canadian Press). — Price bulges failed to hold in the grain markets yesterday, bullish reports on farm reserves having been largely discounted beforehand. Buying of corn was on a big scale at times. New top price records for the season were established for No. 2 and No. 4 red winter wheat, as well as for oats and rye.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous, ¾c to 1⅛c net lower, with wheat irregular ½c off, oats varying from ½c decline to ½c advance, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents up.

Corn proved to be the market leader in volume yesterday, and price fluctuations for that cereal were at a bewildering, rapid rate. The unofficial domestic reports issued yesterday suggested farm reserves of 1,031,000,000 bushels of corn, against 1,134,000,000 bushels last year. Corn disappearance in this country during the last four months was also estimated yesterday at about 1,825,000,000 bushels compared with 1,690,000,000 bushels for the corresponding time last year.

Special notice was taken meanwhile by many corn traders of a statement in one of yesterday's summaries that with a single exception the present farm reserve stock of corn is the smallest since 1919, and considering feed quality is perhaps the smallest potential corn stock at this date in the last 25 years, barring also one exception. Besides, it was contended that farm reserve figures yesterday coupled with the present visible supply indicated a total of 236,115,000 bushels less than last year. Hay profit-taking sales at the last, however, more than offset for at least the time being the rallying power of the market. Chicago deliveries yesterday on March corn contracts totalled 2,390,000 bushels.

Wheat and oats, alike with corn, met with a renewal of selling near the finish, wiping out most of the day's gains. Rye was the strongest grain on the list, and encountered but little pressure at any time. Export business in wheat yesterday was estimated at as much as 1,000,000 bushels. The condition of domestic winter wheat was unofficially figured yesterday at 75.1, compared with 86 in December and 85 on March 1 last year.

Provisions were firmer, influenced by the action both of hog values and of grain.

GOD'S MINUTE

Our Father, we thank Thee for the day which is before us. Its light awoke us with gladness; and its evening shadows will beckon us to rest. It is an emblem of Thy gift of life to us. For life is made up of joy and sorrow, like the clouds with the sun shining through, and of toils and responsibilities, and hopes like the morning and memories glorifying all like the rays of the sunset. Help us to be grateful and worthy of Thy gift. O Lord, we are thankful above all for this household of ours Through its ministry we better understand Thee. What we are to our little ones Thou art to us; and what our children are to us, we are to Thee. When we think of it, love sweeps over us like the summer, and we know the joy of Thy favor, and feel the security of Thy care. In parenthood Thou does come close to us, and in childhood we draw close to Thee. Bless Thou our children and all our loved ones, and make each one of us worthy of love and confidence human and divine. We are sorry for the harsh word and the unkind act. Even as we are sorry for our own faults, we forgive one another. Do Thou forgive us each one, O Father, for every indifference and sin against Thee. Guard us and keep us to-day. Amen.

RUGGED STURDY CHILDHOOD comes from the right kind of breakfast

SEVENTY per cent of the day's school work is done in the forenoon. Every child should have a breakfast that provides energy, builds tissue and bone, and promotes health and resistance to illness.

Rugged, sturdy childhood—happy, carefree days—will surely follow.

Quick Quaker is the best breakfast for children, because perfectly balanced with the elements of nutrition. It contains 16% protein for tissue building and tissue repair; 65% carbohydrates to supply energy; mineral salts for growing sound bone and strong teeth; plenty of bulk to aid digestion; and the necessary vitamines to assist assimilation.

No other cereal has the nutlike flavour of Quick Quaker. It "grows on" children's appetites. Eagerly they look forward to it. They go to school or play plentifully nourished.

Be sure to ask your grocer for Quick Quaker. You will know it by the picture of the Quaker. Packages contain coupons with which you can secure silverware and other household and personal articles you need. Fastest cooking cereal—cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes according to your taste. Big, family package, and small 10-cent size, both wrapped and sealed.

Get Dainty China

In each package of Quick Quaker, marked "Chinaware", is a piece of fine china, prettily decorated in blue and gold. It's fun to open a package and find a cup, a saucer, a plate or bowl. All lovely things, beautifully designed.

A Thought

MOTHERLY LOVE

Last among the characteristics of a woman is that sweet motherly love with which Nature has gifted her. It is almost independent of cold reason, and wholly removed from all selfish hope of reward. Not because it is lovely, does the mother love her child, but because it is a living part of herself—the child of her heart, a fraction of her own nature. In every uncorrupted nation, this feeling is the same: climate, which changes everything else, changes not this. It is only the corrupting forms of society which have power gradually to make luxurious vice sweeter than the tender cares and toil of maternal love.—Herder.

MINE WITNESSES

house waste," observed Mr. White.

Witness made no answer.

It was being dumped according to schedule, he contended. He had noticed it before he went on to his present job. Mr. White pressed him to say if Dougherty ever gave him any instructions in the matter. Witness first said, "I cannot remember," and then declared he would swear Dougherty had not.

"The witness won't take any responsibility," said the Commissioner. "It is only a waste of time."

Delshunt said the transportation boss followed precedent and he would not agree with Mr. White that his mind had been "vacant" on the subject for five years. He had seen an occasional car, he declared.

Tells of Rescue Work.

Evidence that raises and man ways were available if the men only knew to find them was given by F. Pouiin, timber boss, who agreed with the Commissioner it was largely a matter of luck. Poulin told of the work he had done with the rescue crew after the disaster, and said he had found four bodies at one time and thirteen others later on. He had worked without a mask, wearing only "a bunch of cotton" as a protection, and he told Mr. White that men equipped with "that outfit" (the reference was to the apparatus of the Consumers' Gas Company), could have done good work. He thought it might help in future if such equipment was available, but considered it a matter for the management.

Poulin declared that broken timber was placed in cars and sent up to the surface and that a clean-up crew under Paul Richer has charge of this job which was supposed to be done every night. Leonard Bound, shift boss, under Captain W. Curtis, agrees with this evidence, saying he had followed the practice when he had been a transportation boss under Captain Pond. But David Moffatt, formerly a Hollinger employee and now a homesteader in Mount Joy Township declared "a considerable quantity" of cull timber has been dumped in stope 54 while he was at the mine.

According to Moffatt there would perhaps be twelve cars of timber on a shift two or three days a week for three or four months at a time. The timber ranging in tops from four to ten inches, and of varying length, had been broken from blasting or left over, and he told Mr. White, "no doubt I would have been fired" if he had taken up the matter with the transportation boss. Moffatt did not know dumping of timber was prohibited by the Mining Act and while he had never discussed with anyone the propriety of the practice. "It struck me that kind of filling would not brace the walls of a stope very well." The cars were not always full, he told the court.

This witness said he believed he never had given a thought to the matter of dumping powder house waste, and he told of having dumped this refuse in different stopes, although not in 55A. He has orders from the transportation bosses, he said. Poulin said that about two years ago a bulk-head was put in to prevent ore being dumped in the central waste pass, but there was a little chute 25 feet away that could be used, if desired. He had heard of rubbish being dumped in the mine for a long time, but considered it was every man to his own job, and he had not reported the matter, but when the fire broke out on February 10 "it came to my mind it came from 55 on the 550 east of 12." Captain Young and Captain Johnson had been his superiors. Bound considered the practice "not dangerous," as he thought waste rock was being mixed with the refuse.

Mr. Slaght agreed to enquire at the request of Mr. White regarding a circular letter believed to have been signed by A. F. Brigham, general manager, issued in the summer of 1926, and dealing with the disposal of rubbish on the property. He will also find out if there are any written reports from the safety inspector.

James Canning told briefly of the resolution passed at the I.W.W. meeting in March, 1925, and dealing with conditions in the stopes, these being described as "injurious to health and dangerous for fire." He agreed with Mr. Slaght it dealt chiefly with "toilet boxes and old timbers."

NEW YORK PAPER PRAISES CANADA

Not Boasting For Dominion To Point Out Its Advantages Abroad.

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, March 2—The Watertown N.Y. Times gives Canada a great boost for its zeal in setting forth its advantages as a summer resort. It says the publicity material sent broadcast by the government is interesting, informative and stimulating. The Times adds:

"Every person who goes to Canada is impressed with the country, no matter whether he goes for business or for pleasure. If he is at all observing he asks questions concerning the resources of Canada and he can always find persons who are glad to give him the information.

"Canada offers a great many opportunities for those who are in search of pleasure. If one desires fishing there is no finer on the North American continent. It is the big game hunting ground. There are golf courses. Those who crave the social atmosphere can find it at Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa or Toronto. There is excellent horse-racing. The winter sports are the finest in the world. There is the majestic St. Lawrence, the dark and gloomy Saguenay, the quaint French village, or if one turns to the west he can find the Canadian Rockies which have no peer.

"It is not boasting on the part of Canada in thus calling attention to herself. Scenery is one of her greatest resources. Why should she not advertise it? It is bringing to the Dominion millions of dollars each year and it is introducing Canada to hundreds of thousands who never saw it before. Canada in advertising is simply applying sound business methods."

Obituary

MRS. RICHARD THOMPSON.

BAILIEBORO, March 2.—The funeral of the late Mary O'Heir, beloved wife of Richard Thompson, took place from their family residence on Tuesday at 10.30 a.m.

The late Mrs. Thompson passed away on Sunday morning after having suffered from a severe stroke and only lived a few days after having taken ill.

Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery at 11.15 o'clock. Rev. W. H. Foley conducted the funeral ceremony.

The floral tributes which were very numerous showed the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Thompson was held by the entire community.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Lancaster, W. O'Heir, R. O'Heir, W. Reid, F. Dawson, H. Dean.

She leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband, five sisters, Mrs. William Reid of Oshawa, Mrs. J. Lancaster of South Monaghan, Mrs. Thomas Tanner of South Monaghan, Mrs. A. Dean of South Monaghan, and Mrs. B. Huggins of Cavan; two brothers, Robert of South Monaghan, and William of Garden Hill.

Wooler

WOOLER, March 2.—Mrs. George Vosburg had the misfortune to fall down stairs and is in a critical condition.

Mrs. Eali Terrill is spending the week in Trenton, as the guest of Mrs. Hattie Marsh.

Mrs. David Teal has returned after spending two months with her brother in Oakland, California.

Mrs. Arthur Scott and Mrs. A. G. Austin visited Mrs. William Dawson of Trenton, taking flowers from the "Altruist" Sunday School Class.

Mrs. W. A. Smith has returned home after spending two weeks in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt Haggarty and two little daughters have moved to Trenton, to take up new business. They will be greatly missed in the community and church.

Mr. Roy Putman is busy moving his garage equipment up in the village in the Anderson block and in a few days will move his family and household to a new home.

Mr. S. L. Terril and father motored to Point Anne on Monday.

The Farmers' Club held a banquet in the I.O.O.F. Hall in Trenton on Tuesday evening; the speaker, Mr. Buker, addressed the meeting on "Poultry Day."

A meeting was held in the town hall in the interests of the Seed Growers' Association, recently; Walter Smith of Brighton, district representative, in the chair. A fanning mill demonstration was given by Mr. Pearson of Belleville.

A curious fact in connection with Chang and Eng, the famous Siamese conjoined twins, was that one was very fond of wine and drank it freely while the other was a teetotaler, and this often gave rise to strife.

CITY HOCKEY ENDS TO-NIGHT

Junior and Senior Teams Battle For League Championships.

EVENLY MATCHED.

The second and final games for the city junior and senior hockey championship will be played at the Brock Street Arena to-night.

At 7.15 sharp St. Peter's, twice winners of the junior championship, will meet the Albions. St. Peter's go into the final game with a one-goal lead as a result of the fluky goal on Wednesday night. In the first game both teams battled hard and there was very little difference between them, the final score being 1 goal to 0. With Hatton and Carrol on the defence for St. Peter's and Cuthbertson, Johnston, and Dallin on the forward line for the Albions, a real battle for the Hoberlin Cup may be expected.

The second game will get under way at 8.30 when the C.G.E. Tool Room and the Maple Leafs meet in the senior finals. The Tool Room will enter the favorites, as they have a three-goal lead, but all during the season the Maple Leafs have put up good games and have come from behind at very opportune moments.

In City League senior hockey, a three-goal lead has never been considered very safe, and so as far as the championship goes, both losers have excellent chances of coming out victors on the round.

Have the fans of ePterborough ever been given such an opportunity to see teams clash as they will have to-night?

LINDY JUNIORS WIN RINK TITLE

Defeat Donegal Boys 3-1 in the Second Game of Series.

FAST HOCKEY PLAYED.

Lindy juniors and Donegal boys met last night on the north end rink. Lindys won by 3 to 1, giving them the championship of the league. The game was fast and clean, no penalties being served. Frank LaRond refereed in a highly satisfactory manner.

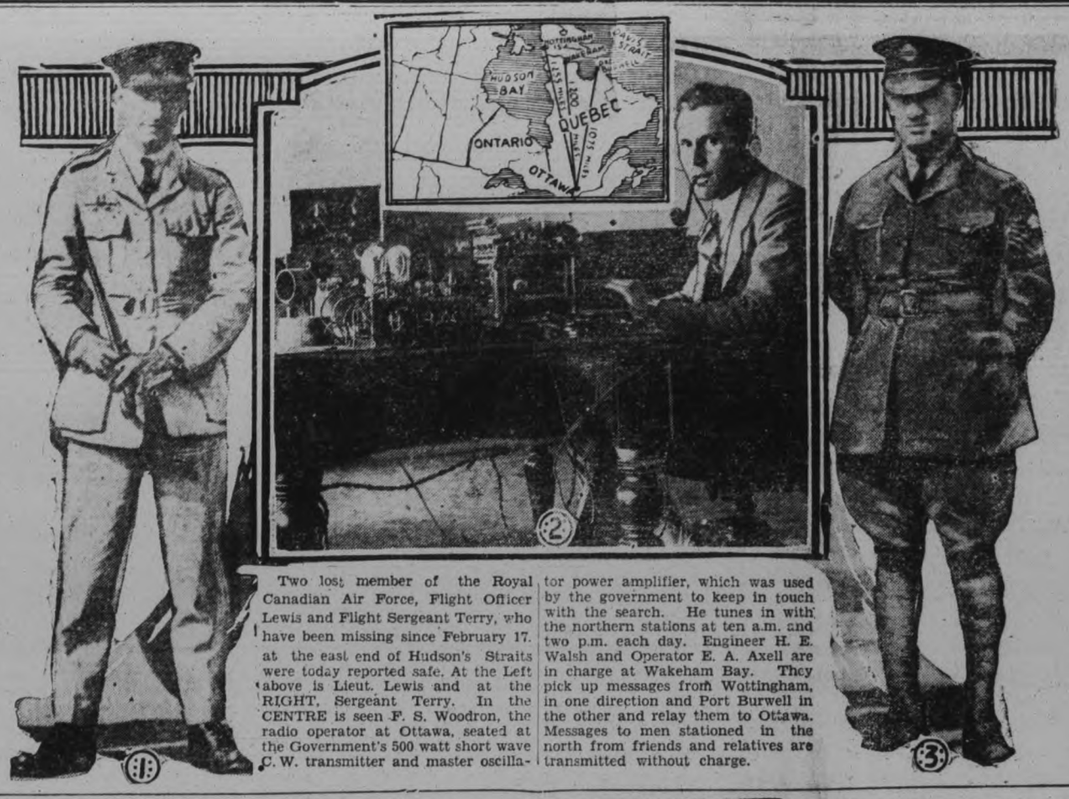
Good combination and back-checking by Red Creighton and Reg Lasurf were highly complimented by the spectators. Gordon Richiardson, captain, handled his team in good style and deserves great praise. Jimmie Price, with Richardson on the defence, could not be beaten. Melrose in goal played well.

Thirnbeck and Woods were the stars for the losing team and Dunkley, the goaltender saved them from a greater defeat, having stopped many shots that seemed to be sure goals.

Those who witnessed the contest were delighted and remarked that a trophy should be put up for the free rink series. The teams lined-up as follows:

Lindys		Donegal
	Goal
L. Melrose		Dunkley
	Defence
G. Richardson		T. Wyer
J. Price		H. Mesley
	Centre
Creighton		McCollinson
	Wings
W. Ridley		Thirnbeck
R. Lasurf		Woods
	Subs
Castle		E. McCarroll
Masters		A. Ruiter

Frank LaRond, referee.



Two lost member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Flight Officer Lewis and Flight Sergeant Terry, who have been missing since February 17, at the east end of Hudson's Straits were today reported safe. At the Left above is Lieut. Lewis and at the RIGHT, Sergeant Terry. In the CENTRE is seen F. S. Woodron, the radio operator at Ottawa, seated at the Government's 500 watt short wave C.W. transmitter and master oscillator power amplifier, which was used by the government to keep in touch with the search. He tunes in with the northern stations at ten a.m. and two p.m. each day. Engineer H. E. Walsh and Operator E. A. Axell are in charge at Wakeham Bay. They pick up messages from Wottingham, in one direction and Port Burwell in the other and relay them to Ottawa. Messages to men stationed in the north from friends and relatives are transmitted without charge.

NEXT YEAR'S GAMES AT PACIFIC COAST

Badminton Championships Will Be Decided in Vancouver in 1929.

TORONTO, March 2. — Canadian Press. — The Canadian Badminton championships for 1929 were allotted the British Columbia Association at a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Badminton Association held here to-day. They will be held in Vancouver some time in March of next year.

MEN'S DOUBLES BEING DECIDED

Finals of All Badminton Title Events Will Be Played To-morrow.

STRONG ENTRIES.

TORONTO, March 2. Canadian Press. — With ladies' and men's singles events, and the ladies' doubles events, brought down to the semi-finals the Canadian Badminton championship tournament resumed at the Toronto Badminton Club to-day.

To-day's program was the clearing of the men's and mixed doubles, which were to be brought down to the semi-finals for to-morrow's close. An imposing entry started in the events to-day, with J. G. Muir and Jack Underhill of Vancouver, the present men's doubles champions placed at the top of the draw.

At the bottom are C. W. Aikman, of Montreal, Canadian singles champion, and C. W. Argue of Montreal. The strong contenders included Wright and Stewart of Ottawa, A. E. Snell and his son of Winnipeg, and Bogert and Laferty of Quebec.

CURLING

Hastings vs Campbellford.

HASTINGS, March 2. — The return visit of the Campbellford curlers took place at the curling rink on Tuesday afternoon and evening, when four games were played. In the games in Campbellford last week Hastings was eight points down and Campbellford gained five more points here, which made their winning total on the road 13. Campbellford now has possesion of the Campbellford cup, which Hastings held in their possession previous to these games. The games were all very keenly contested and many excellent shots were made on both sides. The teams.

THE MARKETS

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, March 2. — Although there was no spectacular action in this morning's mining market, possibly with the exception of Sudbury Basin, which opened as high as $25 per share, prices held remarkably firm under what can be considered a fair amount of profit taking which has been afforded by the recent advances.

Abana was again conspicuous in its market action this morning, particularly on account of the pool having been broken and acting in a manner contrary to general public opinion although we have repeatedly commented in our market reports on the situation of the pool and what the probable results would be.

So far we have been correct in our opinions.

Amulet was in good demand at current quotations and it looks as if the stock may go much higher.

Laval-Quebec was much stronger this morning, apparently in anticipation of information to be given out at the annual meeting, probably some time in March, and also on results of exploration and development on the new acquisition in Serpent-Basin area. Laval looks quite a promising speculation at these prices.

The remainder of the market is firm, particularly the Kirkland Lake stocks, and according to late information the Kirkland Lake producers are in a better position than at any time during the history of their production. Big things are looked forward to during 1928 and with these developments considerable share appreciation. We still recommend the judicious purchase of the meritorious mining stocks immediately.

Mine Market Firmer Lakeshore Makes Gain

TORONTO, March 2. Canadian Press. — The market was generally firm on the Standard mining exchange this morning, though some weakness was shown near the noon close. Sudbury Basin reached a new high of over 25.00 but went back to 24.20 for a net loss of 30c. Noranda at 19.80 was up 20 and Amulet at 4.30 was slightly lower than yesterday, but Towagmac, a third Quebec issue was firmer at 3.30. Lakeshore was the strong point of the Kirkland Lakes, gaining 1.50 at 23.00. Wright-Hargreaves at 4.82 was just a point easier while Teck Hughes at 8.90 was ten points softer. Kirkland Lake Gold, Barry Hollinger, and Howey were firm. Pend O'Reille was a soft spot at 16.50, down 25.

FISH DEPLETION

controversy began some weeks ago when Mr. Howard saw fit to contradict the statement of the officers of the Peterborough County Fish and Game Protective Association 'that pickerel were being taken out of Rice Lake by the ton.' The relative status as a game fish, of the lunge and pickerel was never in question. If our waters are well stocked with lunge and bass, the pickerel becomes a secondary matter—but when our lunge and bass are practically gone, as is generally admitted at the present time, the pickerel becomes a mighty important factor. He may not be a game fish but my contention is that he is a whole lot better sport than the man who is catching him through the ice. Mr. Howard paints him as the blackest kind of criminal and accuses him of destroying the more desirable type of fish but right here, I would like to ask Mr. Howard for an explanation of the depletion of our acknowledged game fish, bass and lunge, in the northern waters—Stoney Lake, Buckhorn, Pigeon, Chemong and others, where a pickerel was never heard of. No sir! It is not the pickerel but the poacher who is to blame for our loss of lunge.

"Mr. Howard makes another statement which is subject to correction, 'that pickerel are being shipped into Peterborough from Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay.' This assertion is best replied to by one of the local fish dealers, who, when questioned as to whether this was a fact or not, said: 'Why should I go to the expense of bringing them from Lake Ontario or Georgian Bay when I can get all I want from Rice Lake.'"

Going on, Mr. Roy came to the subject which concerns him most, saying: "Mr. Howard has referred to a fishing party of which I was a member on June 16, opening day, 1923, in which he infers that the other gentlemen and myself were 'fish hogs'. On this occasion, eight men, four men and four guides, caught sixteen lunge and 'it was a poor day for fishin'.' The legal limit for this party was thirty-two lunge but Mr. Howard forgot to state that on this occasion, we caught twenty-eight pickerel. He also states that 'it can't be done today.' That is exactly the point that I have been trying to get him to admit, for it means that in four years we have lost the greatest inducement that this district has to offer the tourist, and if this 'murder' is allowed to go on at Rice Lake, any longer, we will lose, in two years, what it has taken twenty to build up.

"At the risk of being tiresome, I have given you this, my final expression of opinion in this controversy. The campaign will be continued, however, through the efforts of the Peterborough County Fish and Game Protective Association—a body of sportsmen who have the interests of the whole of this community at heart."

Frank G. Stinson.

Interviewed this morning on the question of what would happen to the tourist trade if the fish in the neighboring lakes were destroyed, Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Trent Waterway Development Association, declined to state that the fish were the greatest attraction to tourists, though he felt that good fishing was an important matter. "It particularly appeals to the prospective tourist when he reads of it in descriptive literature for it excites his imagination," said Mr. Stinson.

"Some people will say that the liquor store in Peterborough is the chief attraction to the tourist. Another group will maintain that our fish are the chief tourist attraction, and a third group will say that the natural attractiveness of our lakeland area is the chief drawing card. As I see it all these things enhance the drawing power of our Kawartha Lakes from the tourists' standpoint. Everyone will be ready to admit that without good roads or railways, we would have very few tourists. All these things, the fish, the natural beauty of the surrounding country, access to alcoholic beverages, good roads, railroads, etc., have their bearing upon the future development of our highly lucrative tourist business.

"Any movement or condition tending toward the removal or annihilation of any of these tourist attractions is a serious problem, and therefore, the ruthless slaughter of fish in the winter time, which is a condition that we all know, prevails, menaces decidedly, the development of our tourist business and all organizations and individuals affected should unite to eliminate this condition."

LONDON-NEW YORK.

LONDON, March 2. — Beginning Sunday, New York to London telephone calls will be reduced from $75 to $45 for three minutes. The service has been a failure owing to the high charges.

MASONS RAISING FUND FOR TEMPLE

Have Obtained More Than Half Sum Needed—Not Building Yet.

During the past few months, the Masonic brethren of this city decided to raise a fund of $40,000 towards the erection of a Masonic Temple, dividing the amount into 1,600 shares of $25.00 each. The work has gone along quietly, and over $23,000 has been subscribed.

Arrangements have been made to complete the canvass and during the next week or ten days, the brethren who have not been solicited will be interviewed.

Those in charge of the fund expect to reach the objective, but nothing will be done in the way of building for five years.

A survey of suitable sites will then be made, tentative plans will be submitted, and a report presented estimating the total cost to erect a suitable building and what the maintenance charges will be.

BALLOT INQUIRY OPENS ON MONDAY

Preliminaries Will Then Be Arranged, Commission Counsel Says.

TORONTO, March 2. Canadian Press. — After a conference to-day with Justices Magee and Hodgins, commissioners appointed to enquire into the Ottawa ballot case, J. R. L. Starr, K.C. commission counsel, stated that the inquiry would open at Osgoode hall here on Monday. The preliminaries only of the investigation will then be arranged.

GRANITES BEAT MANITOBA RINK

Scheduled McDonald Trophy Games End in Tie.

TORONTO, March 2 (Canadian Press).—In the last scheduled games of the Macdonald Tankard Competition for the Canadian curling championship, the leading Manitoba rink from Winnipeg, skipped by Gordon Hudson, was defeated by Ontario Toronto Granites by 9 to 8 on an extra end, tying up the competition and necessitating a play off.

Toronto Lakeviews won from New Brunswick 12 to 11, and are tied with Manitoba, with seven wins and two losses each. Alberta, defeating Montreal 13—9, made it a three-cornered tie for leadership.

In the other two matches, Nova Scotia beat Quebec 11—10, and Northern Ontario defeated Saskatchewan 11—9.

Corn Prices Firmer; Wheat Sags Slightly

CHICAGO, Mar. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— With trade in corn large, prices for that grain averaged higher early to-day, whereas business in wheat lacked volume and the market tended to sag. Argentine crop advices regarding corn were construed as bullish and to-day's receipts here were smaller. Opening unchanged to ¼c. up, corn later showed something of an advance all around. Wheat started unchanged to 3-8c. off and then underwent a general setback. Oats were easy.

Nickel Weaker To-day Rest Of Market Firm

TORONTO, Mar. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—International Nickel suffered a relapse in this morning's dull session of the Toronto stock exchange, slumping 2½ points back to 82. The rest of a quiet list, however, showed firmness, with Christie climbing five at 120, Industrial Alcohol gaining two at 38¾ and Building Products selling up more than a point to 40. Weston, a new issue, climbed nine at 59 from yesterday. Imperial Oil and International Petroleum were steady and British American firmed fractionally to 35 7-8. Hiram Walker, the liquor leader, improved a point at 57½.

Levels not Seen For Many Years

In relation to earning and dividend power, prices seen on the mining exchange for prime, proved mines have not been witnessed since 1922. The market really presents unexampled opportunities to purchase stocks, for yield and for speculative opportunities, because the mines themselves were never on such substantial basis. We urge the immediate consideration of purchases.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL.

Rev. W. S. Edgar chose for his text on Sunday last from Isa. 1-14, "Learn to do well." Mr. Edgar said: "This age in which we live is essentially an age of education. We believe intensely in the education of the rising generation to fit them to fill worthily the station they shall occupy in life. Vast sums of money are spent every year in building and equipping schools, academies and colleges. But our text tells us of an education sphere yet beyond that of the schools and colleges. This education referred to is for all and it is the main end of life to receive it. Moral and spiritual culture does not necessarily follow intellectual power and culture. Scores of men and women of surpassing talent are inferior in conscience character and conduct to thousands of illiterate poor. The intellect may be brilliant while the conscience is weak and the heart rotten, and in ten thousand instances this has been the case. In the order of thought the importance of memory, imagination, and reason rank before and above the discipline of the muscles or civilization is at an end, and we must be at least equally resolved to maintain the pre-eminence of our moral and spiritual faculties as compared with intellectual cleverness. Let us go back to the greatest teacher of all who knew best the importance of putting first things first and who know best what were the first things. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Of the many definitions of man, that have been given he may be justly defined, who acquires knowledge by efforts. Animals know how to do things by instinct. Whatever knowledge, skill, or power man possesses, it is the result of earnest and diligent application. Consider the method of this moral culture. We need a pattern. To learn to do well we must see well doing, and see it in its highest perfection. We must fix our minds on what is lofty and pure, fill and stir and charm it with the images of truth, and nobleness. Amid all the radiant shapes and ideals of Revelation stands Jesus like the angel of the apocalypse clothed with the rainbow. In Him divine truth, goodness, and beauty become concrete find actual embodiment and representation. To learn well we require power. Learning is largely a question of capacity and ability and genius. It is not enough that we listen to wise lessons and see exalted models.

We cannot possess the mysterious power of acquisition or the rarest privileges are vain. If we are inherently weak in intellectual capacity and power, nothing we can do can give it to us. But if we are weak in moral acquisition, this power can be imparted to us, if we are sincere by the power of God.

To learn we need practice. We learn to do well, through doing well. We need not only the theory of moral culture, but also the practice of it. We think we shall effect what we desire through getting at the true theory. We hope to understand and realize the virtues, through thinking about them. In some sort of doing, mysteries become clear and mastery is acquired. In this practicing of the virtues, we shall often lose patience with ourselves, but let us remember that Jesus stands by, watching our struggles. He is full of sympathy, quietly ignoring our failures, whispering peace into our disquieted hearts, inspiring us with hope, strengthening us to do all things well, and thus with the magic persistence of His gentleness, makes us great.

NO DELAY CAUSED BY FIRE IN PLANT

Canadian Salt Company Continues Work On Full Schedule.

WINDSOR, Ont., March 1.—Canadian Press. — Operations at the Canadian Salt Company's plant at Sandwich were resumed on full schedule this morning, following the fire which last night destroyed the rest of the company's old boiler plant. Damage estimated at from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars was caused George Buck, the general manager of the company, stated today that no delay in production would result.

PRINCE WINS RACE.

Defeats Fellow Officers of Welsh Guards in Steeplechase.

TETRY, Eng., Mar. 1.— (Canadian Press.)—The Prince of Wales won the Welsh Guards race at the Beaufort Hunt point to point races here to-day. The Prince, who rode his own horse, De Gomme, competed as colonel in the Welsh Guards, riding against several fellow officers. The course was over 3½ miles of fairly difficult country with one or two stiff hedges and a turf topped stone jumps.

The Prince rode in spite of protests agains this taking risks by participating in steeplechase racing. The course in places was like a quagmire because of the heavy rain of last night.

REPORTING LIKE FLIRTING.

Famous Editor Gives Students Unique Comparison During Lecture.

TORONTO, March 2.—(Canadian Press).—"Reporting is like flirting: if you're good at it, nobody can stop you; if you're not, nobody can teach you", said Napier Moore, Editor of McLean's Magazine, in his lecture recently in the annual course of journalism. Mr. Moore was introduced by Sir Robert Falconer, who touched on his own experiences in newspaperdom.

MRS. R. W. SCOTT I.O.D.E. REGENT

Members Will Make Drive To Get Recruits For Campbellford Chapter.

ATTENDANCE SMALL.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 2.—At a meeting of the Campbellford Chapter of the I.O.D.E., held in the Public Library Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. R. W. Scott was elected Regent for the present year. Mrs. William Ashton is the retiring president. Since there was an unusually small attendance, it was not considered advisable to elect the other officers for the year, and some thought was momentarily entertained of returning the charter and thus ending the prosperous life of the Chapter here. But this consideration was almost promptly dismissed and an intensive drive for members is about to be launched.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is a Dominion-wide order founded in the month of February, 1900, by Mrs. Clarke Murray of Montreal. The Order is sanctioned by a special act of Parliament, and has been in active existence since that date. During the Great War it became more generally known in the smaller centres and was generally considered by those who were non-members as a patriotic affair organized for special duty during the war. While this does constitute part of the objective, it does not by any means include the complete constitution.

During the years toward the close of the Great War, the local Chapter reached the height of its power. Since that time the membership has decreased gradually till it was seriously considered as advisable to return the charter. This measure was defeated at the last meeting and an attempt is to be made to regain the lost interest in the Order. Many of the ladies feel that there is an urgent call for their work along these lines and with a definite objective in view, anticipate a successful future.

FLIERS SAFE RADIO REPORT

Aviators Missing In North Country Have Turned Up.

WINNIPEG, March 2 (Canadian Press.)—After practically all hope for their safety had been given up, Flying Officer A. A. Lewis, Winnipeg, and Flight Sergean Terry, of the Government northern air patrol, were reported safe in a brief radio message received here early today.

LEGION PRESSES PENSION CLAIMS

Campbellford Branch Reports Progress—Smoker Will Be Held.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 2. — At a meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, several matters of importance were discussed. The Pension Committee submitted several letters dealing with pension cases on which they were working, and were able to report satisfactory progress. Owing to the fact that all the returns from the benefit concert had not been turned in, the Entertainment Committee was unable to give a final report on the financial standing of the venture, but reported that arrangements were being made to hold a smoker on Thursday, March 8. The members will be advised by mail, and it is expected that they will be asked to bring along as many returned men as possible who are not yet members of the Legion. This is not to be a membership drive, but merely an opportunity to show non-members how the organization functions.

The Sick and Visiting Committee reported that there were no members on the sick list, and that they had visited Comrade Walter Scott, and believed him to be improving rapidly. Before passing on to other items of business, a substantial sum was voted as a gift to Comrade Scott, with the hope that he will accept the money in the spirit of fellowship in which it was given. Comrade Scott recently underwent a major operation in the Belleville Hospital, and has been unable to follow his occupation for some months. For the same reason, he will be unable to resume his employment for some time yet.

The dance and free draw which the Legion contemplates was also discussed and left in the hands of the executive committee as before. It is expected that the event will take place some time during the next six weeks.

A new employment committee was named last night. The committee was to consist of three and six were nominated. The successful candidates were Comrades Wilkinson, Connor and Ironside.

Before the close of the meeting, two other cases were brought to the attention of the meeting where financial assistance would not come amiss. There followed considerable discussion on certain points of both cases. Finally, though sums of money were voted paid in both cases, there were still some differences of opinion on them.

The power of tree roots is tremendous. Those of a five-year-old oak lifted a block of granite weighing six and one-half tons. In seven years the block had been raised more than two inches.

Obituary

FRANCES ISOBEL MOORE.

Frances Isobel Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moore, of Smith Township, died in Nicholls Hospital on Monday, February 27.

The funeral was held from the family residence on Wednesday, February 29, Rev. W. S. Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial Church, conducting the funeral services. Mr. Edgar spoke briefly from the text, "She is not dead, but sleepeth" (Matt. 9, 24).

Mr. Edgar spoke of her as being a girl who accomplished more during her short life than many who live to the allotted span, a girl with a very bright intellect, being in the Fifth Form at Peterborough Collegiate, and only in her seventeenth year. She was a girl of sweet and beautiful disposition, having made a host of friends, a great many of whom sent flowers during her illness, and at her death. She had a magnificent spirit, and a simple childlike faith. She was a member of the Gilmour Memorial Church.

H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, was present, and paid a very high tribute to her as a very bright scholar and an exemplary pupil. He also, in the name of the teachers and pupils, extended condolences to the bereaved parents and friends.

Mrs. J. A. Young and Mrs. C. Westlake sang a duet, "The Upper Garden."

The funeral was very largely attended. Many people from the community were present to show their respect to one who was loved and appreciated by all who knew her. Many prominent citizens of Peterborough also were present.

There are left to mourn her early demise, her sorrowing parents, one sister Phyllis and two brothers, James and Donald.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. C. Mann, F. Mann, H. Blewett, D. Paul, G. McGregor, R. McMullen.

The Peterboro' Examiner's Figure Puzzle Contest

Send in Your Solution Now—New Subscribers Have Privilege of Solving Puzzle as Well as Person Sending.

Great interest has been taken in the figure puzzle contest now being run by the Peterborough Examiner since the contest began, and the time is now beginning to draw toward the close of the contest. Many contestants have already solved the puzzle and for various reasons are withholding sending in their answer. Some of the reasons for not sending in their answers now, are that these contestants are endeavoring to secure new subscribers or they are afraid that if they put in their answer now, that they cannot send in any more on this particular answer.

We would like to point out that it is more advantageous to send in your solution with the subscription you already have than it is to withhold these until near the close of the contest as this will allow any subscribers whose names you send in to participate in the contest without paying any extra cash. This is one of the features of the contest, also we might state that if you send in your answers now it is quite permissible for you to pay any amount you desire on this same answer until you have the maximum of $15.00, therefore, we would urge all contestants to send in their solution as soon as possible and thus avoid the last minute rush of the contest.

MANY INQUIRIES ABOUT EDUCATION

Speaker To Women's Labor League Stresses Need of Liberal Training.

TORONTO, Ont. March 2.—(Canadian Press).—What is Toronto doing along the line of vocational guidance of its young people? What of the cadet system? May working people enter their children in the nursery school, or is it only for the boys and girls of the privileged classes? Do not many children stay at school too long? Is the Dalton system of education operative in Toronto at all? If so, where and how is it succeeding?

There were only a few of the questions that Dr. A. E. Marty had to answer recently at the conclusion of her impressive address on "Education", delivered before the Women's Labor League. Declaring the world's greatest need to be education of the right sort, Dr. Marty expressed also her belief that those entering industrial, commercial or vocational life should have as liberal an education as those entering professional life, that the mental and moral are equally important in education, and should be equally expressed, and in education as a continuous lifelong process, which should be fostered through the school program.

MOTHER CARELESS IS JURY VERDICT

Child Died Through Lack of Care at Time of Birth.

BRAMPTON, Ont., March 2.—Fifteen minutes after they had retired, the coroner's jury enquiring into the death of a new-born infant found east of the town on February 16, yesterday afternoon returned a verdict to the effect that the child had died through the neglect and carelessness of the mother, Bertha McCutcheon, 19, of Rockwood, who did not secure assistance at the time of its death. The mother and Robert Muir Donaldson, 21, of Brampton, are held on charges of murder and aiding and abetting respectively.

The inquest, which had been adjourned until last night, was on the request of the Crown Attorney, called for the afternoon. R. M. Donaldson and Bertha McCutcheon had been arrested last Tuesday in connection with the case and their voluntary statements were read as evidence in yesterday's inquiry.

HASTINGS BEATS CAMPBELLFORD

Grads Team Goes Down To Defeat 9-5 in Friendly Game.

WINNERS TOO FAST.

HASTINGS, March 2—An exciting game of hockey was played here on Thursday night between the home team and Campbellford Grads, with their speedy "Outlaw" player, Horkins. The visitors were outskated and out-stickhandled by the fast Hastings aggregation to the tune of 9—5.

A blinding snow flurry held up the game during the second period for a short time while the ice was cleaned.

First Period

Play ranged around the Campbellford territory until Ibey broke away and shot, but Gould stopped. Hill and Stevenson combined; Stevenson scored, and through the first period Hastings had the better of the play. Stevenson scored a minute before time and immediately Horkins, on a line rush, scored.

Second Period

Play was slow on account of a considerable amount of snow which had fallen, until the puck could not be seen for snow. Time was called and after waiting for fifteen minutes, play was resumed, with the lost time going on the third period.

Third Period

Ibey scored from a high shot above the lights which Gould had no chance to see, and Stevenson then ran in a goal followed with another by Hill. Blute scored, after which Ingram scored from a long shot.

Horkins and Hill were [illegible] a checking duel with the [illegible] ting his ire up and thr[illegible]e puck with his hand to get a two-minute penalty.

L. Scriver shot from centre and scored. Horkins came back and again drew a rest for shoving Hill to the boards. Play became up and down the ice, with both teams having equal honors in scoring.

The stars for Campbellford were Blute, Horkins and Ibey, while for Hastings, Stevenson, Hill and Waye stood out. Hastings had about three shots to Campbellford's one on goal.

The line-up:

Campbellford.—Goal, Irwin; defence Dewey and Ingram; centre, Horkins; wings, Blute and Ibey; sub. Bland.

Hastings.—Goal, Gould; defence L. Scriver and C. Scriver; centre, L. Hill; wings, S. Stevenson and C. Waye; subs., C. Scriver and L. Lavole.

Scorers.—For Hastings: Stevenson 5, Hill 2, L. Scriver 1, C. Waye 1. For Campbellford: Ibey 2, Ingram 1, Blute 1, Horkins 1.

Penalties—L. Scriver 1, E. Blute 1, Horkins 2, Ibey 1.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES MANY A SLOW UP

But you can protect yourself

No man can do justice to his job—no woman can remain vivacious and happy — with constipation daily undermining health and strength. Aching heads, painful muscles, nervousness, blemished cheeks—these are just little things that constipation brings on. In the end, it causes more than forty dreadful diseases.

Begin now combating constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it. More—to prevent it. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran—100% effective.

Healthful and delicious with milk or cream, or with fruit or honey added. Sprinkle into soups. Recipes on package. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

NORWOOD WINS.

Defeats Havelock 8-4 in Exhibition Hockey Match.

NORWOOD, March 2. — The senior hockey team from Havelock played an exhibition game with the locals on Monday night. The result of the game was 8-4 in favor of the home team.

The line-ups were:

Havelock — Goal, J. Davidson; defence, Plunkett and Laing; forwards, Wright, Jack, and McLaughlin; spare, Cooper.

Norwood — Goal, Charles Copen; defence, Waddell and Darling; forwards, Rathwell, Kelcher, and Fenton; spares, Montgomery, Webb, and Rogers.

WOMEN'S PAGE

PERSONALS

Congratulations are being received by Mrs. S. J. Graham, wife of Dr. S. J. Graham of this city, on her success in winning the $100 cash prize for the sixth week of the Mail and Empire's amateur ad writing contest. This is the first award for each week of the contest and is presented for the first time to a woman entrant. Mrs. Graham's success was gained by an advertisement on the Dominion Stores, and the judges were considerably impressed by the manner in which the ad set forth clearly, compactly and completely the advantages of the stores, and in which it made a forceful and intelligent presentation of an idea. The report goes on to say that Mrs. Graham, who has found the Zain contest very fascinating, shows in the composition of her ad "a sound native intelligence, developed in this case to a high standard by her study at the University and her work as a teacher. A native of Yorkton, Saskatchewan, she graduated from the University of Toronto in 1921, with honors in political science. Prior to her marriage to Dr. Graham, she entered on a career in collegiate institutes. She was Miss Lillian Speers before she married and settled in Peterborough."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)
SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1928.

Good and evil aspects contend today, according to astrology, which reads in the stars certain menacing signs.

Early in the morning brain-workers should benefit and writers should gain facility from the planetary influences.

Irritability and nervousness are likely to be accentuated while this rule prevails and, so it is wise to beware of argument.

Stubbornness and contrariness are supposed to be increased under this direction of the stars and for this reason business partners may have difficulties.

Business should benefit from this sway which makes for progress and development. New millionaires will be added to the list so rapidly growing in this country.

There is a good sign for those who plan big projects and all the aspects presage immense undertakings for 1928.

This is rather a menacing rule for farmers in the sense that nature may exercise destructive power through spring storms.

The aged should take care of the health at this time when the planetary aspects are not favorable to them.

Women should be careful while this configuration continues, for they may be thwarted in the fulfillment of their hearts' desires.

There is a sign that appears to indicate for travelers unfavorable conditions causing delays and even accidents.

This is not a lucky wedding day, since it presages separate ambitions and troubles with in-laws.

Jugo-Salvis and Turkey now come under a direction of the stars that seems to promise rapid development.

Persons whose birthdate it is should devote strict attention to business affairs in the coming year when aid from elderly persons may be expected.

Children born on this day probably will be gifted artistically, but devoid of business sense.

A church in the Swiss village of Einigen is claimed to be the oldest church edifice in Europe. It was erected in 315 A.D. as mother church of twelve other villages in the vicinity.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

IF JUST A WORD

If any little word of mine
Can make the day more fair,
If just a message, just a line,
Can ease the load of care,
If just a thought can bring you cheer
When things are looking blue,
If just a word can do, my dear,
The things we think they do—

If any words that I can say,
However poor they are,
Can push a single cloud away,
Or light a single star,
If anything in any case
Can turn your skies to gold,
And make the world a better place,
The way that we are told—

If any message I can send,
Or thought that I can write,
Can make you feel you have a friend,
One faithful friend tonight,
If any message that you scan
Can make your sky more clear,
The way that people say it can—
Then here it is, my dear!

IN POLICE COURT

A boy, 19 years of age, appeared in the police court this morning, charged with not supporting his wife and child. To the charge the boy pleaded not guilty, and the Crown asked for an adjournment for two weeks. In letting the prisoner go, His Worship told him not to try any skipping out, for he would have him brought back. "You married this girl, and you will have to support her," he said.

Guardian of the Family Health

IN many homes Ovaltine takes a load of worry off Mother's shoulders by preventing the inroad of colds, coughs and severe ills, within the family circle. The concentrated goodness of Ovaltine—ripe barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk, is perfectly balanced nourishment, rich in vitamins. It builds a wall of physical resistance against which disease germs beat in vain.

From Dad down Ovaltine protects them

Dad drinks Ovaltine regularly and feels much better for it. His mind works faster because his body and nerves are superbly nourished.

The children love delicious Ovaltine, at and between meals, thriving on its sheer goodness. Older folk find Ovaltine indispensable. One cup of it gives them more nourishment than 12 cups of beef tea or three eggs. Easily digested and quickly absorbed by the system, it places no tax on their weakened digestions.

Goodbye to sleeplessness

Free of drugs or narcotics, Ovaltine does wonderful work, by resting and feeding overtaxed nerves. Taken at bedtime, it brings natural restful sleep at once. Doctors all over the world recommend Ovaltine extensively. Made in England by A. Wander Limited.

Heeney is Victor Over Delaney Elimination Bout

HEENEY WINS ON DECISION WHICH IS BOOED

Delaney Gets Applause in Battle With New Zealander.

FORCES FIGHTING.

Winner Keeps Boring In, Taking All Canadian Has To Offer Without Retreating.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N.Y., March 2.—Tom Heeney was awarded the decision over Jack Delaney at the end of fifteen rounds here last night before a crowd numbering 18,000 persons and for a gate which totalled $174,444.

Tom got the verdict but Jack the applause. The decision was booed and when Delaney left the ring he was given an ovation.

It started off in savage fashion and for four rounds was an amazing battle. After that Delaney tired from his own efforts to bring the stolid New Zealander down. Tom took everything that Jack had and still was coming for more when it ended. Heeney weighed 193 and Delaney 178½.

In the opinion of many at the ringside, Jack had earned at least a draw. He took the verdict in good part and smiled pleasantly when the crewd cheered to the echo on his leaving the ring.

Heeney, as was expected, didn't take a backward step. He plunged incessantly and whether landing or not, he was always ripping his way into the enemy. This afforded Delaney a splendid opportunity to work his left and right hand uppercuts, but even these well timed and certainly well placed socks didn't deter Tom at all. He took every blow with a snort and even laughed when Jack hit him hardest. This got under Jack's skin. Indeed, it roused his anger at times and he seemed intent on breaking Tom's precious neck with a final blow. The steel chinned kangaroo kept coming like a bowling ball down Pike's Peak. At times Delaney would stand off and sock Tom solid to the button as he reared in. It did little good so far as bringing Tom to the floor was concerned. That wasn't to be and perhaps it discouraged Jack somewhat. He didn't have a mark on him when he left the ring, but there was a cut across the bridge of Tom's nose and this sent him home looking much the more damaged of the pair.

Both Tired

Delaney tired in the middle rounds but by the same token so did Heeney. Old Tawm was so arm-weary at times that he had to shake himself like an old Newfoundland dog to get going again. He didn't want Delaney to note anything that might have been accounted hesitant in his attack—so, tired or not tired, he kept coming. A rough old bird he was at times, too. He resoried to swinging Jack in the clinches and several times he almost flung Delaney through the ropes.

For these energetic but un-Hoyley demonstrations Thomas was razzooed from pit to rafter. Tom would accept the rebuke of the crowd with a low courtesy and would get going immediately. He apologized ten times for rough tactics in close. He was out to muss Jack up as much as possible and at times he overdid it. He wasn't fouling but he was dangerously close to the border line at times. Tom would sit in his corner between rounds and wait for the bell to ring. Then he'd do a Charley Paddock across the ring sometimes before Delaney had struck a stance. Delaney would step nimbly aside and sock Thomas with a left or a right that only stirred up the bees in Tom's dome. Hitting Heeney is to enrage him. He fights hardest under fire. Delaney held a lot. To that might be attributed his failure to register with the officials.

Did Not Use His Right.

Delaney was ever so sparing with his right hand punches. He would not take chances with it, much to the exasperation of his backers.

All his work was accomplished with his left hand. Tom in the dressing-room afterwards, ridiculed Delaney's hitting.

"Why he didn't 'urt me with it once. He hit me flush but I calls them taps, and nothing more whatsoever."

Delaney thought he won as Dr. Walker examined his hands and arms. "They say I held. I tied him up when he pushed and shoved me. That's all he did. I boxed as a man should box. I couldn't use my right on him. He didn't give me half a dozen openings for my right. Why shoot if there is nothing to shoot at? I'm not complaining. I think I won. If the officials think otherwise, then I accept their decision. I needed the fight, that's sure. I'd like to get him again. It wouldn't go the route the next time."

The record for indoor bouts wasn't broken and Delaney and Maloney still hold the high water mark by $10,000 or more.

Steeplechaser Falls During Handicap

LONDON, March 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—One candidate for Grand National honors was removed from contention yesterday when Major J. North's veteran steeplechaser, White Park, fell white running in a 4-mile handicap steeplechase at Manchester. The thoroughbred, who was a nine-year-old gelding by Redmond—Lady Alwyne, a veteran of previous Grand Nationals, had to be destroyed.

White Park's amateur rider, H. Brown, was uninjured.

Montreal To Have Mile Track Race

MONTREAL, Que., March 1 (Canadian Press).—Montreal will have another mile race track and it is expected that this new addition to the turf game locally will be ready for June 1. The track will be located in the town of Lasalle, near Lachine, about fifteen minutes train ride from the heart of the city. Plans have been drawn up for a grand stand to seat 5,000 people, and a permit for building has been issued by the town of Lasalle treasurer. Work will be started on 600 stalls as soon as possible.

MARRIED MEN WIN 5 TO 2

Deloro Rink Sees Battle Royal Between Marvels and Bachelors.

ANOTHER PILGRIMAGE

MARMORA, March 2.—Teams described as the Married Marvels and The Bachelors tried conclusions at hockey on the Deloro rink on Tuesday evening, the former triumphing by a 5—2 score. The first period closed with the score even, McCrodan and Brown obtaining goals for their respective sides. In the second period the Bachelors played with a rearranged team without any benefit accruing. Goals were registered by Quinn and Doyle of the opposing team. The former's goal came from a lucky shot which baffled McCrodan who was in goal for the second and third periods.

In the last period, Brown obtained another goal and Leal raised the score to five. Speagle, who had been playing a hard game throughout for the Bachelors, scored in the closing stages of the encounter. Luck seemed to favor the winners and to be denied the losers, so the teams are hoping to meet again in the near future for another tussle. The teams lined up as follows:

Married—Goal, R. Murray; defence, A. Brown and A. V. Yates; centre, F. Leal; wings, C. R. Quinn and N. Doyle; sub, C. Jones.

Bachelors.—Goal, W. Kerr; defence, A. Phillips and N. Smith; centre, J. McCrodan; wings, P. Archer and G. Speagle; subs, C. Clemens and G. Mantle.

Goal umpires—J. Hemphill and W. Savage.

Referee—H. A. McNally.

Another Pilgrimage

Another goodly contingent of hockey fans boarded the C.N.R. special at Marmora station for Tweed on Wednesday evening, many from Deloro joining the number from Marmora.

O.H.A. Bulletin

The O.H.A. senior finals will be played between University of Toronto and Kitchener, with the first game at Kitchener on Saturday, March 3, and the return game at Toronto Arena Gardens on Tuesday, March 6, total goals scored in the two games to count. Neutral goal umpires and timekeepers will be appointed by the O.H.A.

The junior finals are scheduled for Monday, March 5, and Wednesday, March 7, at the Arena Gardens with Marlboros and Newmarket as the competing teams. The winning team in this series will play the N.O.H.A. junior champions, either Soo Greyhounds or Iroquois Falls at Arena Gardens next week.

The intermediate finals also will be played next week. If Newmarket is one of the finalists the games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday, March 6 and 8, and the winning team will meet South Porcupine, N.O.H.A. champions, in a two-game series.

Guy Smith, of Hamilton, will referee both games of the senior finals between Varsity and Kitchener.

The Varsity at Kitchener senior final to-morrow night will commence at nine o'clock.

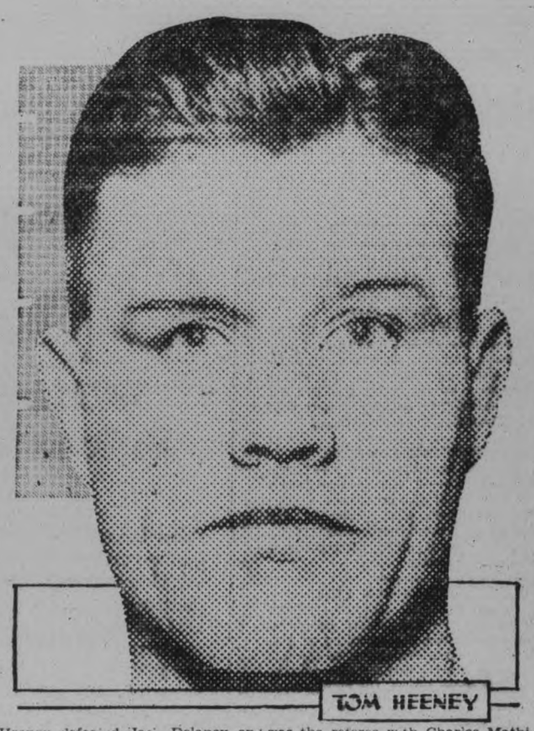
WINS ELIMINATION BOUT



Heeney defeated Jack Delaney on points in a heavyweight elimination bout staged at the Madison Square Garden last night. Jack Denning was the referee with Charles Mathison and Harold Barnes in the judge's seats.

BAILIEBORO WINS 5 TO 2 VICTORY

Defeat Garden Hill Tuxis Boys in Exhibition Tilt.

BAILIEBORO, March 2.—The local hockey team played a game on the Cosmos rink, Millbrook, against the Garden Hill Tuxis Boys.

The game was a fast one throughout, while the local boys finished leading by three goals. At the end of the third period the score stood five to two in favour of Bailieboro. Bruce Dawson acted as referee and D. Hutchison was the only man receiving a penalty. The local boys scored two goals in the first period, two in the second, and one in the third. Garden Hill scored a goal in the first and one during the last period.

The teams lined up:

Earnshaw was star player for the local boys and many times broke through the entire line, but Bannister's excellent goal keeping stopped many fast ones.

TOOL MAKERS WIN 5 TO 2 TILT IN SEMI-FINALS

Defeat Industrial Control in Canadian General Electric Shop League Fixture.

PLAY FAST HOCKEY

Settle Argument for Group Honors After Playing to Two Ties.

After running in two goals in the first two minutes of play, the Industrial Control were defeated by the Tool Room by a 5-2 count in the semi-finals of the C.G.E. shop league. Dividing the honors in two snappy battles the rival crews fought hard to settle the argument. The ice was a little sticky, but nevertheless the game was fast and would compare favourably with any other tilt witnessed here this season.

After the Tool Room struck their pace they made it a real contest, with the Control boys fighting hard. With the advantage of having four strong sub players to fill in the line quite frequently the red and white jerseys were able to keep the pace, while their opponents began to lag in the last stages of the game. The close checking and real team work of the Tool Makers gave them a slight advantage on the play. Foley was the sharp shooter of the night, getting four of the tallies for his team mates. Graham and Wilson caused some excitement in the first two minutes of play when they each beat Jones for a counter. Epps, not to be left off the scoring list, sank a marker in the last minute of the game.

These two crews have put up three of the finest games of the season and although they have mixed it roughly on all occasions, Referee Bill Jackson held the game well in check, handing out sixteen penalties in all, one being of five minutes' duration. This surprise packet was given to Clark after upsetting Keannelly, who played a good game throughout, but was watched so closely on his rushes that the little centre man was unable to get within a range of Jones. Both goalies put up wonderful exhibitions in the nets, Griffin being called upon to "do his stuff" more frequently than the rival net guardian.

The Game.

Wilson uncorked the fireworks when he went down the boards to score the initial marker soon after the face-off. Before the game had gone two minutes Simmons netted the second tally. Tool Room were a little slow getting started and for a short while the Control boys kept Jones on his toes. Epps led the first attack for the red and white sweaters, but Griffin cleared safely. Simmons drew the first penalty for tripping Foley when the latter invaded Griffin's teritory. While opponents were shorthanded, Foley led a combined attack to beat Griffin on a long drive from the boards. Graham tried repeatedly to carry play through opposing defence, but the heavy back-checking by the Tool boys spoiled many rushes and was an outstanding point in their favour throughout the game. Hatton and Epps worked along the boards together to pepper Griffin with shots, but the Controllers' net guardian was on the job every time. Keannelly was roughly checked on his rushes. Epps carried puck down in front of nets and a dispute arose over a scrimage in the goal mouth. Rishea was sent to the bench for hooking Keannelly. Shields was given a similar penalty for boarding M. Williams. Griffin had another close call when Swanger passed the puck in front of the nets after a fine brand of combination. Corkery was given a penalty for bodying Shields when the Controllers carried play into Jones' territory. Foley tied the score on another drive from outside the defence when the Tool Room firing line attacked en block. There was no further scoring in this period, although both goalies were given many anxious moments.

Swanger was penalized for boarding heavily. Keannelly stick-handled through the crew, Jones came out of the nets and it looked like a goal would result out of the scrimmage, but the game was stopped by the referee to attend to Foley who had apparently received a shaking up. Griffin bounced Epps' long range shot off his chest. The advantage of the Tool Room being subbed often without weakening their attacks began to show up toward the last of the period and was clearly seen in later stages of the game.

Play Faster Hockey.

Keannelly checked Foley after the latter had taken a pass from Epps, who beat Graham to it at the face-off. Jones cleared and both Clarke and Keannelly drew penalties for staging a rough house act. Play was much faster than the first period. Graham tested Jones with a low shot to the corner of the net. Foley overskated the puck when in front of the net, with only Griffin to beat. Keannelly was given a rest in the penalty box for boarding Clarke. Foley and Epps came close to scoring on a combination rush, when Griffin came out of the nets to save. The puck slid across in front of the nets, but no one was there to score. Keannelly's rush was spoiled by Clarke, who was given another penalty. Foley scored the third goal on a pass from the wing. The Tool Room set a real fast pace, while their rivals began to show the strain. Wilson and Swanger both were chased for playing rough on the ice. Simmons was given an extra penalty for leaving the box too soon. Keannelly uncorked a snappy rush, worked in to sneak a low shot at Jones, but was dumped again by Clarke as he followed the puck in. Controllers were unable to pentrate the strong defensive tactics of the red and white.

Swanger and Clarke sandwiched Graham when he went down on a lone rush, after taking the puck from Epps at the face-off. Graham and Wilson attack was spoiled by an offside play. Jones lays on puck outside of nets to turn back heavy attack. After much milling in front of Griffin, Foley counted the fourth marker on a pass in a close-in attack. Control boys gave their best in an effort to score. Swanger was penalized for dumping Wilson. Tool had the best of the play, with plenty of thrills and exciting moments. Griffin came out to save when red and white attacked. The players piled over the goalie but he crawled back to the nets in time to save a would-be goal. Wilson and Swanger were both chased. Rishea warmed the bench for upseting Keannelly. The Controllers still put up a game battle and kept Jones busy. In the last minute of play Epps scored another counter after a real combination attack.

Line-up:

IN TRAINING CAMP

TID-BITS FROM MAJOR CAMPS IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., March 2 (A.P.).—Major league baseball's training machine was given added steam in Southern camps yesterday, as virtually completed squads were put through accelerated paces in preparation for exhibition games just a week away.

March 1, the deadline date for players to report, found a number of players listed as holdouts, including Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn; Carl Mays and Pete Donohue of Cincinnati; Tony Lazzeria and Waite Hoyt of the New York Yankees, and Flint Rhem of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Late arrivals, however, continued to report, and some managers reported their rosters "all present."

Longer Programs

Longer and harder practice programs were the order on all fronts, with the presence of Bucky Harris, Washington Senator manager-second baseman, and Tris Speaker, of the Philadelphia Athletics, spurring their teammates to brisk action at Tampa and Fort Myers respectively.

John McGraw and his New York Giants pitched camp at Augusta during the day, and continued their training begun a fortnight ago at Hot Springs. He has refused to discuss reports that he is dickering for the services of Ty Cobb.

CURLERS SUGGEST CANADIAN BODY TO CONTROL THE GAME

Quebec Demands Affiliation With Royal Caledonian Club.

ONTARIO OPPOSED

Curlers From Various Associations Will be Prepared to Vote on Proposal.

TORONTO, March 2. — An informal discussion which may lead to the formation of a Dominion Curling Association, was held at the Granite Club yesterday under the chairmanship of Thomas Rennie, the chairman of the Macdonald Brier Tankard, Trustees representatives from all the provinces held a round table conference. As none of the delegates had instructions from their home associations no definite action was taken, but a resolution of Mr. John T. Haig, K.C., of Winnipeg, was adopted, that all branches send two delegates to Toronto for the next Dominion championship games empowered to vote on behalf of their association as to whether the should join such an association, and whether they would join under certain conditions.

Peter Lyall of Montreal, declared that Quebec would be prepared to relinquish the title "Canadian Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club" but that it would not enter any association which was not affiliated with the "Royal" mother club.

The delegates present were John T. Haig, M.L.A., representing the Manitoba Curling Association; S. H. Stevenson of Sydney N.S., representing the Nova Scotia branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club; Joe Heartwell, representing the Alberta branch of the R.C.C.C.; J. S. Malcolm, St. John, N.B., New Brunswick branch of the R.C.C.C.; F. R. Gibson, Haileybury, representing the Northern Ontario Association; Fred W. Graham, Regina, Saskatchewan Curling Association; Peter Lyall, Montreal, Canadian branch of the Royal Caledonia Curling Club; E. T. Lightbourn, vice-president of the Ontario Curling Association; George Cameron, Winnipeg, Manitoba, and Thomas Rennie, F. Graham of Regina, representing the Saskatchewan Curling Association, endorsed the stand of Manitoba, as expressed by John Haig of Winnipeg. He was not however, prepared to vote for or against, as he had no authority to do so from his branch.

Joe Heartwell, representing Alberta, and Roy Gibson, representing Northern Ontario and S. H. Stevenson of Sydney, N. S., were in favor of a dominion-wide governing body, but E. T. Lightbourne voiced the sentiment of the Ontario Curling Association as being against this move.

MANITOBA RINK LEADS FOR CUP

Wins Sixth Straight Game in McDonald Trophy Competition.

LAKEVIEWS SECOND.

TORONTO, March 1 (Canadian Press). — The Strathcona rink of Winnipeg again showed clever curling to register its sixth straight victory in the McDonald Tankard for the Canadian curling championship, to-day defeating Montreal 14-10. Gordon Hudson's rink is well in the lead. In second place now are Lakeviews, who defeated Quebec 16-10 to make their record five wins and one loss. The results:

Manitoba	14	Montreal	10
Toronto	16	Quebec	10
Saskatchewan	12	New Brunswick	11
Ontario	14	Nova Scotia	7

VARSITY GRADS ARRIVE IN PARIS

Receive Messages of Congratulation for Victory in Olympic Matches.

PLAY EXHIBITION GAMES

PARIS, March 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—Toronto Grads, Olympic hockey champions, have arrived here laden with silver cups given by Berlin in appreciation of the splendid exhibition game the Grads played against their substitutes while visiting in the German city prior to coming to Paris. W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association, who is with the team, stated that the game was one of the best ever seen. The Grads beat their spares, 5 to 4.

Hugh Plaxton, C. Delahey, N. Mueller, L. Hudson, and Roger Plaxton arrived in Paris in advance of the balance of the party, for they chose an aeroplane for their mode of travel.

Mr. Hewitt and P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, said they had received a deluge of telegrams and congratulations in connection with the Grads decisive victories over all opposition in winning the world's amateur hockey championship.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, cabled the following congratulatory message to the Grads: "My colleagues join me in sending hearty congratulations on your splendid victory at St. Moritz. Canada is proud of your achievement."

Sam McBride, Mayor of Toronto, wired congratulations to the Grads on their wonderful achievement and stated that the citizens were delighted. The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association also wired in the same vein.

Tonight the Grads will play the Paris team at the Palais Deglace, and will then journey to London to meet an all-star English team on Sunday. On March 9 the distinguished hockeyists will be presented to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

Mr. Hewitt, commenting on the trip, said that the sight which impressed him most, was that which occurred at Vienna, when everybody at the rink stood up with bowed heads when "God Save the King" was played before the game the Grads played against the Austrian team.

DEPARTMENTAL INDIFFERENCE BLAMED FOR WINTER FISHING

Claude H. Rogers Says One Inspector Can't Enforce the Act.

SANCTUARIES NEEDED.

Setting Aside of Few Small Lakes Would Enable Fish To Spawn Unmolested.

Claude H. Rogers, vice-president of the Peterborough Canoe Company, and a member of the Peterborough County Fish and Game Protective Association in an interview with The Examiner yesterday laid the responsibility for so many fish being taken through the ice with the Department of Game and Fisheries for its apparent indifference towards the enforcing of the present Act. Mr. Rogers claims the Department has turned a deaf ear to the representations made to it by these interested in preserving the fish in this section of the Province. He recommends that fish sanctuaries be established and that from one lone inspector the force be increased so that there can be ample inspection.

"You cannot slaughter fish in the winter and expect to have them in the summer," he declared emphatically. "At the present time fishing through the ice is perfectly legal, and we have no quarrel on that ground with those who are doing the fishing, but that which the Fish and Game Protective Association wants to do is to get the fishing through the ice made illegal and the sale of these fish stopped. If we don't, there will be no fish, and no fish means no fishermen tourists, and when they stop coming it means that we will have fewer summer visitors. No fish also means no work for the guides, and with less guiding there will be a smaller summer hotel business.

"The average fisherman leaves in this district from $1.00 to $10.00 a pound for every pound of fish that he catches. Is it thus better for a few people to take out fish, not always pickerel, and sell them wholesale at 15 cents a pound or leave them in the water until next summer when after they have spawned the tourists will leave from ten to one hundred times as much money in this district.

Fast Disappearing.

"There is no question but that everyone in this district is interested in conserving fish. Even some of these fishermen are vitally interested, but there is a great diversity of opinion in how this should be done. The fact remains that the fish are fast disappearing.

"My own opinion," said Mr. Rogers, "is that the responsibility rests largely with the Department of Game and Fisheries for their apparent indifference towards the enforcing of the present Act. They seem to be more interested in the commercial fishing on the Great Lakes. I believe that the fishing for sport on the inland lakes and rivers brings more money to Ontario many times over than all the commercial fishing on the shores of the Great Lakes in Ontario. If we are going to conserve fish, action must be taken by the Department of Game and Fisheries. Meetings have been held in Peterborough, and representations made to the Department for more protection during the fish spawning season and for more fry to be placed in the waters, but as far as I know there has been little or no results from these representations.

"We have one lone inspector. Captain Carson is working night and day apparently all by himself trying to protect the fish. He has no means of transportation to get to where the ilegal fishing is going on, and how can one man get convictions against illegal fishing when, every time he starts in one direction the news is 'phoned ahead that he is coming? If the Department was sincere in its wish to enforce the Act, it would give Captain Carson some efficient men to help him and double up the force during the spawning season when so many fish are speared in the shallow waters. Another point is that the Department in allowing fishing through the ice for pickerel must know that most commercial fishermen take the fish as they come, be they bass, lunge, or pickerel, and they are taking no steps to stop it.

Sanctuaries Proposed.

"It is a well-known fact that fish multiply fast when left alone, and it is in this fact that we can find a solution for the preservation of our fish. Jack Miner is advocating it all over the country, and many large private preservations in the United States have adopted it, that is, the setting aside of fish sanctuaries in some of the lakes where are natural breeding grounds and strictly prohibiting fishing of any kind in these waters. The fish will multiply fast, and as they get crowded they will spread through the legal fishing grounds."

Mr. Rogers mentioned several splendid sanctuaries in this district, such as the river between Lakefield and Young's Point, a natural spawning ground, a small lake near Oak Orchard, and Little Mud Lake. Fish raised in these sanctuaries would come back every year to spawn in them where they could receive protection.

"I do not think it matters whether a ton or ten tons a day are taken out of the water. The fact remains that there is an enormous slaughter of fish going on at present. As soon as the public realizes it and insists on it being stopped, the sooner we will have a chance to regain our lost position as a fisherman's paradise. There is plenty of fish in these waters, and if properly conserved they will increase, even with a large amount of fishing during the summer season. If the Department could be induced to set aside sanctuaries in the Trent River, Kawartha Lakes, and Balsam Lake, and prohibit fishing in these by having them carefully watched summer and winter, we would see a great improvement in this district in the next few years," concluded Mr. Rogers.

Every Baby Needs Vitamins

Baby often requires special vitamin-nourishment to assure development of sound bones and avoidance of rickets.

Science has rightly given emulsified cod-liver oil, as in Scott's Emulsion, a place of premier importance as a help to perfect baby's nutrition and to furnish its growing organism with a needed abundance of rickets-preventing and growth-promoting vitamins.

Young children who are not absorbing a full abundance of essential vitamins, should receive, as an added food-ration, regular doses of easily-assimilated, pleasantly-flavored, emulsified cod-liver oil in the form of

MAROONS TAKE SECOND PLACE

Climb Past Ottawa By 6 to 3 Victory in Chicago.

LEAFS BEATEN 4-2.

MONTREAL, March 2. — Second place in the standing of the Canadian division of the National Hockey League now belongs to the Montreal Maroons by virtue of their 6 to 3 victody over the Chicago Black Hawks in an intersectional contest here last night. Ottawa Senators, previous occupants of second position, were idle and thus dropped to the third place, one point behind the Maroons.

Chicago—Goal, Gardiner; defence, Wentworth, Hoffinger; centre, Keats, wings, Arbour, McCalmon; subs, Trapp, Dye, McVeigh, Moran, Miller.

Referees— Mickey Ion, Montreal, and R. W. Hewitson.

DETROIT, Mich., March 2.—Flashing a world of combination on the forward line, an asset that had been lacking of late, Jack Adams' Cougars pleased a slim crowd of home fans here last night by taking the measure of the tail end New York Americans 4 goals to 1. By the triumph they keep pace with the Pittsburgh Pirates, with whom they are deadlocked for third place, the last position that will qualify either team for the playoffs.

Detroit's stalwart defence was much too good for the crippled Yanks, who were short of subs, with Joe Simpson and Sammy Rothschild out through serious injuries. The New Yorkers didn't make Holmes work at all until late in the second period, and though they rallied gamely in the third period it was too late.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 2.—"Hib" Milks, sensational Pirate pivot flash, led Pittsburgh to a sparkling 4-2 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League clash at Duquesne Garden here yesterday evening.

Emerging from a scoring slump that had seen him draw blanks throughout eight consecutive games, Milks thrice rang the bell last night, but on his tally spree he was ably abetted by his team mates.

By virtue of their win Pirates remain in a tie with Detroit for third place and a money position in the American division race.

"HER MAN O' WAR."

The rivalry of two women for the love of one man is the most effective combination of the time-worn dramatic "triangle." It is used with a totally new effect as one of the many powerful elements of appeal in "Her Man o' War," Jetta Goudal's initial starring vehicle which will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day.

The "woman-to-woman" struggle in this story is purely one of hilarious comedy, although a tense dramatic sequence and a startling plot twist quite apart from the main conflict of the story result from it. Miss Goudal, as a French-German girl of Alsace Lorraine, falls in love with an American prisoner given her to work her truck farm during the war, and a German countess, portrayed by Grace Darmond, tries to take him away!

William Boyd plays the part of Cupid's target for both women, and high-powered comedy results. Boyd, in reality, is a spy, and a grim, sinister game in which the love affairs at first are only a minor element, is played between the hero and the German intelligence department. Equally tense and thrilling, and at times, pathetic, is the struggle within Miss Goudal, caused by the fact that she loves an enemy and that her mother was French, while her father died wearing the German Iron Cross.

Comedy and love and rapid-fire thrills dominate over the sad parts of "Her Man o 'War," however, and a happy and satisfying ending evolves. Jimmie Adams, Christie comedy star, comically parallels the situation of the hero and heroine when he, also a prisoner and a spy, is assigned to help Kay Deslys on her truck farm.

Robert Edeson, Frank Reeher, Mikhael Vavitch and Junior Coghlan are other members of the cast. Frank Urson directed "Her Man o' War," which was adapted by Jeanie Macpherson and Garrett Fort.

AT THE CAPITOL.

SYD CHAPLIN IN "THE FORTUNE HUNTER."

Anyone who likes a real bit of hilarious fun should see the "necking" party that Syd Chaplin stages with a wax model in one of the final scenes of "The Fortune Hunter."

Films based on plays seem often to have a distinctive touch of their own that is especially marked when a director of the right stamp gets hold of them and injects into the action those little bits of pantomime that only the silent drama can successfully depict. This sort of direction is very evident in "The Fortune Hunter," with Syd Chaplin in the stellar role. This gentleman with the dark face and the extremely white teeth is the type of unconsciously funny comedian who does not need to strive for effects. He gives the impression of being funny without knowing it, which is really the highest type of comic acting. As the fortune-hunting young man goes gunning for a wealthy young lady and then falls hard for the impecunious granddaughter of a rather worthless old druggist, he is a scream, with just enough serious action in his role to make it very entertaining.

Syd is Nat Duncan, the watchful guardian of a cheap dance hall, who has ideas of his own as to the way a dance hall shall be conducted, and impresses them sternly upon his patrons. His friend, Handsome Harry Kellogg, a former penitentiary pal, blows in with the rich butter and egg lady he has married and "sells" Nat on the idea that he too, can make a play for a rich dame and "sit pretty" for the rest of his life. Harry, demanding half of the resultant haul, stakes Nat to a new wardrobe, a notebook full of ideas as to how best to manage women, and, presenting him with "five hundred bucks," send him on his way.

Nat arrives in the little town of Radvale and proceeds, with his flattering manners and his flashing smile, to enchant the feminine portion of the populace. He appears to be on the way to capturing the heart of Josie Lockwood, daughter of the town's wealthy banker, when Fate steps in and directs his attention to the blonde and winsome, but poverty-stricken Betty Graham. Then his adventures begin in earnest. In the role of a drug clerk in old Graham's store, he is immense and events pile up with celerity and despatch. The arrival of Handsome Harry on the scene, bent on forcing Nat to live up to his part of the bargain and wed the rich girl, complicates matters intensely.

It is a bright, swift-moving picture, chock full of little incidental chuckles and a great deal of human interest. The characterizations are splendid and Nat, while appearing to be the victim of various whims of Fate, really handles the whole show and contributes most of the punch to a likeable comedy picture.

Another of the popular "Collegian" episodes and a number of short reels that include an entertaining little "Dog Days" film, complete the programme.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that three other possible suspects had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in the apartment adjoining the "Canary's," that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight, and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him when he came out. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswoode jumped into a cab. Skeel telephones that he will come to the district attorney's office and tell who committed the murder. They wait for him. He does not appear, and when they go to his room they find him dead—strangled, just as Margaret Odell had been.

CHAPTER XLI.

(Sunday p.m., Monday, a.m.; September 16-17)

The investigation into Skeel's death was pushed with great vigor by the authorities. Doctor Doremus, the medical examiner, arrived promptly and declared that the crime had taken place between ten o'clock and midnight.

Immediately Vance insisted that all the men who were known to have been intimately acquainted with the Odell girl—Mannix, Lindquist, Cleaver, and Spotswoode—be interviewed at once and made to explain where they were during these two hours. Markham agreed without hesitation, and gave the order to Heath, who at once put four of his men on the task.

Mallory, the detective who had shadowed Skeel the previous night, was questioned regarding possible visitors; but inasmuch as the house where Skeel lived accommodated over twenty roomers, who were constantly coming and going at all hours, no information could be gained through that channel.

All that Mallory could say definitely was that Skeel had returned home at about ten o'clock, and had not come out again. The landlady, sobered and subdued by the tragedy, repudiated all knowledge of the affair. She explained that she had been "ill" in her room from dinnertime until we had disturbed her recuperation the next morning.

The front door, it seemed, was never locked, since her tenants objected to such an unnecessary inconvenience. The tenants themselves were questioned, but without result they were not of a class likely to give information to the police, even had they possessed any.

The finger-print experts made a careful examination of the room, but failed to find any marks except Skeel's own. A thorough search through the murdered man's effects occupied several hours; but nothing was discovered that gave any hint of the murderer's identity.

A .38 Colt automatic, fully loaded, was found under one of the pillows on the bed; and eleven hundred dollars, in bills of large denomination, was taken from a hollow brass curtain-rod. Also, under a loose board in the hall, the missing steel chisel, with the fissure in the blade, was found.

But these items were of no value in solving the mystery of Skeel's death; and at four o'clock in the afternoon the room was closed with an emergency padlock and put under guard.

Markham and Vance nd I had remained several hours after our discovery of the body. Markham had taken immediate charge of the case, and had conducted the interrogation of the tenants.

Vance had watched the routine activities of the police with unwonted intentness, and had even taken part in the search. He had seemed particularly interested in Skeel's evening clothes, and had examined them garment by garment. Heath had looked at him from time to time, but there had been neither contempt nor amusement in the sergeant's glances.

At half past two Markham departed, after informing Heath that he would be at the Stuyvesant Club during the remainder of the day; and Vance and I went with him. We had a belated luncheon in the empty grill.

"This Skeel episode rather knocks the foundation from under everything," Markham said dispiritedly, as our coffee was served.

"Oh, no—not that," Vance answered. "Rather, let us say that it has added a new column to the edifice of my giddy theory."

"Your theory—yes. It's about all that's left to go on." Markham sighed. "It has certainly received substantiation this morning. . . Remarkable how you called the turn when Skeel failed to show up."

Again Vance contradicted him.

"You over-estimate my little flutter in forensics, Markham dear. You see, I assumed that the lady's strangler knew of Skeel's offer to you. That offer was probably a threat of some kind on Skeel's part; otherwise he wouldn't have set the appointment a day ahead. He no doubt hoped the victim of his threat would become amenable in the meantime.

"And that money hidden in the curtain-rod leads me to think he was blackmailing the Canary's murderer, and had been refused a further donation just before he phoned you yesterday. That would account, too, for his having kept his guilty knowledge to himself all this time."

"You may be right. But now we're worse off than ever, for we haven't even Skeel to guide us."

"At least we've forced our elusive culprit to commit a second crime to cover up his first, don't y' know. And when we have learned what the Canary's various amorists were doing last night between ten and twelve, we may have something suggestive on which to work.—By the bye, when may we expect this thrilling information?"

"It depends upon what luck Heath's men have. Tonight some time, if everything goes well."

It was, in fact, about half past eight when Heath telephoned the reports. But here again Markham seemed to have drawn a blank. A less satisfactory account could scarcely be imagined.

Doctor Lindquist had suffered a "nervous stroke" the preceding afternoon, and had been taken to the Episcopal Hospital. He was still there under the care of two eminent physicians whose word it was impossible to doubt; and it would be a week at least before he would be able to resume his work.

This report was the only definite one of the four, and it completely exonerated the doctor from any participation in the previous night's crime.

By a curious coincidence neither Mannix, nor Cleaver, nor Spotswoode could furnish a satisfactory alibi. All three of them, according to their statements, had remained at home the night before. The weather had been inclement; and though Mannix and Spotswoode admitted to having been out earlier in the evening, they stated that they had returned home before ten o'clock.

Mannix lived in an apartment-hotel, and, as it was Saturday night, the lobby was crowded, so that no one would have been likely to see him come in.

Cleaver lived in a small private apartment-house without a doorman or hall-boys to observe his movements.

Spotswoode was staying at the Stuyvesant Club, and since his rooms were on the third floor, he rarely used the elevator. Moreover, there had been a political reception and dance at the club the previous night, and he might have walked in and out at random a dozen times without being noticed.

"Not what you'd call illuminatin'," said Vance, when Markham had given him this information.

"It eliminates Lindquist, at any rate."

"Quite. And, automatically, it eliminates him as an object of suspicion in the Canary's death also; for these two crimes are part of a whole—integers of the same problem. They complement each other. The latter was conceived in relation to the first—was, in fact, a logical outgrowth of it."

Markham nodded.

"That's reasonable enough. Anyway, I've passed the combative stage. I think I'll drift for a while on the stream of your theory and see what happens."

"What irks me is the disquietin' feeling that positively nothing will happen unless we force the issue. The lad who maneuvered those two obits had real bean in him."

As he spoke Spotswoode entered the room and looked about as if searching for some one. Catching sight of Markham, he came briskly forward, with a look of inquisitive perplexity.

"Forgive me for intruding, sir," he apologized, nodding pleasantly to Vance and me, "but a police officer was here this afternoon inquiring as to my whereabouts last night. It struck me as strange, but I thought little of it until I happened to see the name Tony Skeel in the headlines of a 'special' tonight and read he had been strangled."

"I remember you asked me regarding such a man in connection with Miss Odell, and I wondered if, by any chance, there could be connection between the two murders, and if I was, after all, to be drawn into the affair."

"No, I think not," said Markham. "There seemed a possibility that the two crimes were related; and, as a matter of routine, the police questioned all the close friends of Miss Odell in the hope of turning up something suggestive. You may dismiss the matter from your mind. I trust," he added, "the officer was not unpleasantly importunate."

"Not at all." Spotswoode's look of anxiety disappeared. "He was extremely courteous but a bit mysterious. —Who was this man Skeel?"

"A half-world character and ex-burglar. He had some hold on Miss Odell, and, I believe, extorted money from her."

A cloud of angry disgust passed over Spotswoode's face.

"A creature like that deserves the fate that overtook him."

We chatted on various matters until ten o'clock, when Vance rose and gave Markham a reproachful look.

"I'm going to try to recover some lost sleep. I'm temperamentally unfitted for a policeman's life."

(To be continued.)

INDIANS MARRY IN SPITE OF LAW

Girls On Reserves Live With Mates When Too Young

EDMONTON, Alta., March 2.—(Canadian Press).—Lowering of the marriage age for Indians living on a reserve from 16 to 14 years is proposed in a bill to amend the Solemnization of Marriage act, was recently considered in the legislature. The proposed amendment is now ready for third reading.

According to Hon. George Headley, who sponsored the bill, the marriage age on Indian reserves is too high. As his authority he quoted from a letter from Donald Mackie, registrar of vital statistics, who stated that he had letters from priests and clergymen on the reserves regarding the matter. Indian girls, whether of age or not, select their mates according to Indian customs and live with them, marriage vows or no, when they are unable to wed because of being under age. Mr. Mackie, in his letter, stated that he had mentioned the matter to Archbishop O'Leary and to Bishop Gray and both had approved of the proposed change in the marriage for Indians.

FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Mary, Queen of Scots (V) — By Nicholas Afonsky

At dawn the lifeless body of Darnley, who had been strangled, was found in a garden near the site of the wrecked house. Bothwell was accused of the murder—and many thought the Queen had helped him. But he came to trial with a following of 4,000 men and was promptly acquitted.

Less than three months after her husband's death Mary married Bothwell. In spite of her indiscretions, her Scotch subjects up to this time had remained fairly loyal to her. But now an army of Scotch nobles armed against her. Mary gathered a small army and marched to meet her enemies.

But before they had struck a blow, Mary's army had dwindled to nothing. Just a month after her marriage to Bothwell, she was captured by her rebellious lords and imprisoned on the island of Lochleven. There, in July, she was forced to sign an act of abdication in favor of her baby son.

On the night of May 2, the next year, Mary escaped from her island prison. It was dark and cloudy, and the Queen, taking an affectionate and tearful farewell of her attendants during her imprisonment, set out in a boat over the stormy lake. She landed safely on the mainland.

STORE NOW IN A NEW DRESS

McBride & Franks Re-decorate Premises Before Spring Rush Starts.

BUSINESS EXPANDING.

The furniture and house furnishings store of McBride and Franks is again open for business, after being closed Monday and Tuesday for re-decorating. In their new dress of interior finish these premises present an atmosphere altogether restful and inviting to visitors. The color scheme of the store proper is buff walls relieved by white gallery facings showing a narrow strip in mahogany, the whole arrestingly dominated by the lofty ceiling done in a white from which is reflected a wonderfully soft blue tint. Back grounds and ceilings of the three show windows are paneled in buff with a relief bordering of virgin white. The ensemble effect is fittingly quiet and modestly colorful, lending itself in particular to the advantageous display of the always newest creations in lovely furniture and exquisite rugs and furnishings, for which this enterprising firm enjoys wide repute.

Established in 1923, McBride and Franks have experienced five years of ever-increasing prosperity. Operating on the "From - Factory - to - Home" selling plan, they sell top-grade merchandize on the closest possible margin of profit. This has resulted in a "to have and to hold" list of satisfied patrons, to which, attracted by appealing values, gratifying additions are made from time to time. Effective service is also a factor in their success—a service which includes expert advice as to what furniture or furnishings will best harmonize with the general color scheme of the room or rooms for which new merchandize is needed. These two factors, coupled with judicious buying, and a general business policy of "customers-be-pleased" vigorously applied are proving mutually profitable to both patrons and merchants.

As business pressure has not yet permitted the re-marking of goods from Re-decorating Sale Prices, those exceptional bargain figures will remain good all day to-morrow.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

CITIZENS ABLE TO HELP RAISE CITY'S STATUS

Payment of Taxes Only Helping Meet City's Overhead Expense.

NOT HELPING GROWTH.

Efforts of Chamber of Commerce Will Enhance Value of Property.

When the average owner in Peterborough pays his taxes and his light and water bills, he is prone to conclude, perhaps somewhat sullenly, that he has done his full duty in that particular phase of citizenship.

As a matter of fact, all that he has done is to pay his share of the inescapable overhead expenses of the community. He has not contributed one cent toward any special, deliberate effort to enhance the value of his property by creating a greater demand for it. If he thinks he has done something more than merely meeting the current financial requirements of the municipality, he should revise his thinking, and during the present campaign of the Chamber of Commerce is a most opportune time for recalling his fancied payments toward the general advancement of the city.

The property owners are paying for roads and sidewalks, sewers and schools because they must. In that disbursement they are simply performing one of the chief obligations of ownership in the community's utilities.

Presumbably the property owner hopes for an increase in the value of his property, but he seems to think that some other agencies and enhancing conditions than those which he could assist will have the effect he desires.

If he is candid he will be reluctant about asking himself whether or not the market value of his property has increased since the war.

If it hasn't increased, then what has he done about it, and what is he willing to do now? Has he become a member of the Chamber of Commerce? Does he think that only the merchants and manufacturers of this city are interested in its expansion?

New industries, with their additional opportunities for employment, stimulate the demand for houses and real estate, and thereby augment their market value. And the Chamber of Commerce is one agency that has assisted materially in that direction. One of the local industries that has grown rapidly since it came here a few years ago was attracted to Peterborough through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce. In that respect, other cities perhaps have a better record to present. Accepting that probability as a fact, it is all the more reason why the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce deserves the active support of the general body of property owners. Its broader success cannot otherwise be secured.

Belleville and Oshawa have recently put across very successful campaigns. Neither of these cities, nor any other under the sun, is going to help Peterborough. Of course we all know that, but what are the people of Peterborough going to do about it?

One thing that can be done is to sit back and lament, and dig up alibis, and decide that nothing can be done. Meanwhile other cities are not content with a listless, mournful spirit of resignation. They have convinced themselves that something can be done and shall be done.

The property owner can participate in the work of the Chamber of Commerce by becoming a member, or at least by making some contribution to its treasury. He should regard such a payment as his own investment in the future of Peterborough. any such citizens can afford the membership fee. If the urge of progress is in them, they will join up now. Their interest in the city is the same in kind if not in degree as those of the managers of factories and stores, the business executives and others who have always helped in the maintenance of the Chamber of Commerce.

We shall push on in the race or lag. The choice rests with the citizens themselves. Are we going to decide against ourselves or for ourselves?

For Peterborough or against Peterborough! Sounds somewhat serious, doesn't it? But the challenge is more serious than it sounds. It is not only of today and tomorrow, but of this year and next year.

SALT HERRINGS, 40c DOZEN.

By a regrettable error in Boyle's advertisement in last evening's Examiner, salt herrings were quoted at 10 cents a dozen. That this was a mistake would be obvious to the average housewife, but to avoid any possible confusion, attention is here drawn to the fact that 40c. a dozen is the correct price of salt herrings at this popular cash and carry grocery.

DR. BLAND WOULD LET WOMEN PREACH

Church Cannot Refuse To Ordain Any Called of God, He Says.

TORONTO, Ont., March 2 (Canadian Press). — That the United Church of Canada cannot refuse full ordination to any woman called by God to the ministry is the strongly expressed opinion of Rev. Dr. Salem Bland.

"It is simply following the great Christian principle that in Christ there is neither male nor female. I do not think that there will be any great rush of women into the ministry, but it is the right of the few if they are called of God and the church is satisfied that they are. It is not to be assumed that any woman can bustle forward and say, 'I want to be a preacher.'"

In point of fact, he believed the Baptist Church was sympathetic to according recognition to women in the pulpit. Dr. Bland also pointed out that two women had participated in the recent debate in England in the House of Laity, "the most august law assemblage in the Church of England."

Dr. Bland also quoted the late W. T. Stead's saying that he knew six women who could run the British Empire. The speaker also recalled that Catherine of Sienna had bent the then Pope to her will, that Apollo had sat at the feet of Priscilla. He mentioned such women as Mrs. Booth, Frances Willard, and Maude Royden.

THINK IN TERMS OF FUTURE

in your city provided you get to think in terms of your city's future welfare Confidence is absolutely necessary It is a matter of thinking in terms of the big things that are to be done

"In the past, your Chamber of Commerce has had merely material supporters but if those men would put more into the Chamber of Commerce they would be more concerned with its welfare generally

"I want you to think in terms of a Peterborough for future generations and as people come in in the future, and the city grows, that broader vision will be justified

"Your Chamber of Commerce should be in close touch with the man on the street, the Kiwanis and the Rotary Clubs but it must have finances to do so. It should be working out an industrial program, but it needs the help and co-operation of the leaders of the city, and every citizen as well You've got to put some time and energy into the thing to get anything out," he declared.

Mr. McKeen told of his next field of labor, and mentioned the ties of friendship that bound him to Peterborough "I hope you will think of me as one thinking of Peterborough and its future; as one who thinks as you do where Peterborough is concerned," the speaker declared in conclusion.

The vote of thanks was ably moved by Charles Elliott, who in a a capable manner tendered the appreciation of the club to Miss Murray and to Mr. McKeen.

PACKING PLANT BUYS SUPPLIES FROM DISTRICT

Is of Greater Value Than Amount Paid Employees in Plant.

ADVERTISES CITY.

Products Go All Over World — Local Plant Paid Farmers $2,000,000 in 1927.

The value of an industry to a city and surrounding country is too often estimated in the number of help employed and the size of the payroll. The advertizing value of that industry to the city is seldom taken into account. Its goods spread all over the world give the publicity that it could get in no other way.

Too often, too, no consideration is given the amount of money that an industry leaves in the city and district for its raw material.

The Canadian Packing Company of Peterborough is a splendid example of an industry that spends millions of dollars every year in Peterborough and district.

Last year over $2,000,000 was paid out for hogs to the farmers of this district; $150,000 was spent in the purchasing of eggs, and $70,000 for butter.

The 220 employees received in wages and salary $300,000. The supplies were all purchased in Peterborough and amounted to $50,000. Taxes, power and light account were $20,000. The sum of $265,000 was spent in freight and express. Telephone, telegraph and postage expenses were $8,000, and the total sales amounted to $5,000,000.

HIGHWAY ENGINEER MOVES TO TORONTO

G. G. Greig Promoted— C. A. Rollins Succeeds Him in District.

G. G. Greig, resident provincial highway engineer in Port Hope, who has charge of this district, has been promoted and will go to Toronto as an assistant chief engineer.

C. A. Rollins of Brockville, has taken up the duties in Port Hope and will have under his supervision the building of the Lindsay-Peterborough highway.

W. U. Lumb, who has been assistant resident engineer in Port Hope, has been transferred to Toronto district to take up a similar position. The vacancy caused by Lumb's promotion has been filled by W. Anderson, formerly of Toronto, who is now assistant resident engineer in Port Hope.

MASONS ADVISED TO ASSIST BOYS

Hon. John S. Martin Urges Them To Start Big Brother Movement.

KINGSTON, Ont., March 2. — Canadian Press. — Speaking before over 400 Masons in the local Masonic Hall last night, Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture and Grand Master of the Masonic Order for Ontario advised the Masonic Order to start a Big Brother Movement for the farm boys from Britain being brought to Ontario by the Provincial government. This movement is being carried out in Australia with good results.

The gathering was the largest ever to assemble in the Masonic Hall with the exception of the opening of the temple, and included representatives of over 25 lodges from as far west as Belleville and east to Prescott, while a number came from Smiths' Falls and intermediate points.

Wedding Bells

MONGRAW—HALL.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. William McDonald at Knox Manse on Monday, Feb. 20, at 1.30, when Ellen Loretta Hall, youngest daughter of Mr. George W. Hall, 314 Dalhousie street, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to George Mongraw. The bride looked very pretty in a sand flat crepe gown trimmed with rhinestone, tan shoes and stockings, and small blue and sand hat.

Mrs. C. Yelland, a bride of a few weeks ago, acted as matron of honor and Earl Armstrong supported the groom. The groom presented the bride with a beautiful gold bracelet. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the bride's home, attended by a number of intimate friends.

The happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Detroit, the bride travelling in a Hudson seal coat with small close fitting hat. They will reside at 314 Dalhousie street.

DISCLAIMS RESPONSIBILITY FOR CONDITION OF HOLLINGER MINE

Manager A. B. Brigham Defends Self and Assistants Before Commission.

SURVIVOR TAKES STAND.

Says Superintendent V. H. Emery Looked After Disposal of Waste Matter.

TIMMINS, Ont., Mar. 3.— (Canadian Press.)— Responsibility for the carrying out of safety measures for the prevention of fire and for rescue work is a matter at the Hollinger for V. H. Emery, the mine superintendent, A. F. Brigham, the general manager of the company, yesterday told the royal commission investigating the disaster of three weeks ago. Mr. Brigham was called to the witness stand yesterday morning and examined briefly by Peter White, K. C., counsel for the commission, to whom he stated that Emery would not be required to report to any higher official under our system." While all would be interested in the control of fire he had no recollection of any discussion ever having taken place in the matter which he considered an operation condition and, as such, under the immediate control of the mine superintendent.

"You, Mr. Knox (the assistant manager), and Mr. Williams (the general supt.) do not accept responsibility for the condition of the mine, leave it to Mr. Emery," asked Mr. White.

"I will have to say yes to that, I do say yes to that," was the response. Mr Brigham added that while he had endeavored to urge upon everybody the necessity of taking the safety course, he never had anticipated a serious mine fire. His brief appearance in the witness box came when George Craig, safety inspector, was in course of further examination by Mr. White ,and after Craig had said that he was responsible "to a certain extent" for rescue work, as assistant to Mr. Emery.

Under Instructions.

Questions directed by W. A. Gordon, counsel for the men, during his cross-examination of W. T. Curtis, mine foreman, were, the lawyer explained, to show that either the powder thaw house refuse had been thrown into the stopes unmixed with waste rock, or else it had failed to disseminate and so the theory of dilution falls to the ground. Curtis, who had the responsibility of disposing of this rubbish from 1924 to 1926, claimed his directions were to dump the debris with the waste rock, which he considered a safe method, although agreed later with Mr. Gordon in his contentions.

"There is another point," said Mr. White. "More than once the suggestion has been made in this enquiry that witnesses are showing a little diffidence in giving evidence because of a certain fear of certain consequences, it would be a very bad impression to go out from this hall."

Cleaned Out Stope.

R. Stevens, shift boss who worked for a time at cleaning out a stope on M. 2 after the fire, estimated the

BELGIAN ACCUSED OF AIDING GERMANS

Betrayed Felow Countrymen in Occupied Area During War.

PARIS, Mar. 3 (Canadian Press).— A Belgian described as one of Germany's most valued agents in founding up suspects in the occupied territory during the war, was on trial here to-day. Jules Laperre was accused of supplying information which resulted in the execution of compatriots.

Laperre was alleged to have begun his career as a spy as a "sheep" in a concentration camp, where he would win the confidence of his fellow-prisoners and betray them to the Germans.

Break Silence On Dolly-Davis Marriage

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Following the announcement by Roszika Dolly, one of the Dolly Sisters, in Paris, that she had been married to Mortimer Davis, son of Sir Mortimer Davis, of Montreal, in Brewster, N.Y., in 1927, the Brewster officials who performed the ceremony broke their silence in the matter of the wedding.

The son of the Canadian tobacco magnate and Roszika were married in the town hall at Brewster by Justice of the Peace William E. Smith, on March 31, 1927. The witnesses were "Jenny" Dolly and D .Mallory Stephens, Assemblyman for Putnam county in the New York Legislature.

The officials admitted that they had been asked to keep the wedding a secret.

BRINTON PLANT BEING ENLARGED

Two Storey Addition To Be Built To North of Present Structure.

WILL BE 66 BY 74.

Another Peterborough industry which contemplates extension of its buildings this year is the Brinton Carpet Company, situated on Lock street. Already housed in splendid quarters, this firm has found it necessary to have more space in its finishing department and for this reason, has awarded a contract to T. C. Ephgrave, 310 London street, for the erection of a large addition to the north end of the plant.

The new building will be of brick construction and will be two storeys high occupying an area 66 by 74. The builders will break the ground about April 1, and it is understood a e staff of men will rush the buil..g to completion. It is expected also that further extensions will be made during the next few months to other parts of the plant though details of these have not been worked out.

POLICE MATRON ADDRESSES LADIES

Urges Mothers To Make Confidents of Their Children.

Miss Amy Wood police matron, addressed the regular meeting of St. James' Ladies' Aid, which was held on Thursday afternoon, in Wesley Hall, with Mrs. Wilson,. president, presiding. Miss Wood addressed the ladies in a very serious manner, basing her talk on the 5th chapter of Ephesians, an exhortation to parents and children, and her address centred around the theme of mothers making confidants of their children. No matter how trivial the subject, the mother should be sympathetic. The child that is confiding never goes far astray. Miss Wood deplored the fact that outlying streets were not better policed, and made every woman present feel it her duty to report wrong doing at once—not a week or so after it occurred—in that way helping the police to do their duty "God has given you a great responsibility in giving you children," said Miss Wood, "and unless you do your duty in regard to training the children in the way they should go you certainly will have to answer to your Maker."

Mrs Wilson moved a vote of thanks to Miss Wood for her heart stirring talk and assured her of the sympathy and prayers of St. James' women. The motion was seconded by Mrs. E. Deyell, and everyone joined in hearty applause

Mrs. Elliott, secretary, reported the February meeting, and Mrs. Fry gave the treasurer's report. Mrs Elliott, one of the representatives to the local council, reported the last meeting attended. Miss May Ritchie was present and sang very sweetly, with Miss A. Rose as accompanist. Mrs. Dudgeon also took part in the program, which concluded with an humorous reading by Mrs G. Rowe. A social half hour was spent, refreshments served under the management of a social convenor, Mrs. Plunkett and her committee

NOT IN FAVOR OF CONFERENCE

Washington Unfavorable Towards Holding Conference Before 1931.

UNOFFICIAL COMMENT.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 3 (Canadian Press). — The Washington Government appears unfavorable to any proposal for another conference of the great Powers on naval disarmament before 1931. This impression is gained from unofficial comment on newspaper cables from Europe stating that Britain had tentatively suggested to France a technical preliminary gathering to second the Washington disarmament conference scheduled for 1931.

Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg stated yesterday that Great Britain had not communicated with the United States on the subject, and his only knowledge of the proposal was picked up from newspapers. He pointed out that the first Washington Treaty fixed 1931 as the date for a revision of the Washington Treaty of 1921-1922 with the provision that if national security of any contracting Power in respect of the naval defences were affected by circumstances before 1921, an earlier conference could be called. Mr. Kellogg did not think that any such condition existed at present.

The Secretary would not commit himself as to his Government's attitude should Great Britain ask Washington to parficipate in a preliminary technical conference on naval armament, and Mr. Kellogg refused to discuss the possibility that the United States would initiate a proposal for the general scrapping of submarines. Mr. Kellogg confined himself to the comment that such a proposal would have to receive the unanimous consent of all countries.

He was equally reluctant to discuss the attitude of the United States toward Great Britain's proposal at Geneva last summer for reduction in the size of battleships. His attitude appeared to be that since the first Washington naval conference had agreed that no new battleships could be laid down until 1931, the subject should not have been brought up at Geneva in 1927.

The impression was gained in the corridors of Congress that the United States will avoid any re-opening of the naval disarmament question in the presidential election year.

FARMERS ENDORSE SOVIET PROPOSALS

Resolution Supporting Disarmament Passed at Saskatoon.

SASKATOON, March 3 (Canadian Press).—A resolution supporting the disarmament proposals submitted by the Russian delegates at the recent assembly of the League of Nations was concurred in at the final session of the United Farmers Saskatchewan branch convention here last night. The proposal involves world-wide disarmament within a specified period. Endorsation of the principle of arbitration and conciliation in settling international disputes also was given by the delegates.

VALENTINO'S BILLS CUT DOWN ESTATE

Clothing Bought By Actor in London Alone Amounts To $27,000.

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Bills ranging from $160,000 for 111 acres of land to $77.70 for bow ties were revealed to-day as reasons for the shrinkage of the estate of the late Rudolph Valentino from $677,550 to $287,462. Included in other bills were those of London merchants for clothing, one of these alone amounting to $27,059.77. Approximately two hundred claims have been filed.

BRITISH M.P. DIES SUDDENLY IN CAB

James Kidd, of Linlithgowshire, Passes Away Returning From Meeting.

LONDON, March 3 (Canadian Press Cable).—James Kidd, Conservative M.P. for Linlithgowshire, Scotland, died suddenly while travelling in a taxi-cab after having addressed a meeting at Bathgate. He was a solicitor. He represented Linlithgowshire in the House of Commons from 1918 to 1922 and since 1924.

New Air Mail Service Is Officially Opened Between France And Argentine

PARIS, March 3 (Canadian Press). — An air mail service between Argentina and France was officially opened yesterday with the departure from Toulouse of a Latecoere plane, carrying 350 pounds of mail.

The service will combine the use of aeroplanes and fast steamships, cutting down the several weeks normally required for the delivery of mail to a little more than a week.

A plane carrying mail left Marseilles on Wednesday, but encountered bad weather, and was not expected to reach the African coast until last night or to-day.

TWO AND ONE-HALF DAY SERVICE.

BUENOS AIRES, March 3 (Canadian Press). — Postal service between Argentina and France in 2½ days is the aim of the newly-launched air mail service between South America and Europe.

One of the Latecoere Company's planes, carrying correspondence for France and other European countries, took off for Uruguay and Brazil on Thursday. At Fernando do Noronha, an island off the Northern Brazilian coast, the mail will be transferred to fast ships which will carry it across the South Atlantic to Porto Praya, Cape Verde Islands, where the mail sacks will be put aboard another plane destined for Paris.

Initiating service from Europe, a plane was scheduled to leave Paris yesterday with correspondence for Buenos Aires. The same route will be followed and a weekly service is planned.

The company has stationed relief planes at vantage places along the route to prevent delays in case of accident. Under its contract, the company will forfeit approximately $2,000 for each suspended voyage and $425 for each day's delay of arrival. A series of special stamps has been issued for the new service.

MANY PAY TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF THE LATE MARSHAL DIAZ

Hundreds Pass By the Bier of Italy's Greatest Soldier.

FLORAL OFFERINGS.

King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini To Lead Military Funeral.

ROME, March 3. Canadian Press. —Italy yesterday mourned publicly for Marshal Armando Diaz, her "duke of victory," throughout the afternoon and far into the night, long lines of saddened people passed by the bier and heaped flowers on it, at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier before which the coffin rested.

As the sun sank below Janiculum Hill and cast its last rays upon the high background the columns of the capital, the moon already well above the horizon, seemed to take up the vigil. The paler light softened the glitter from the uniforms of the the guard of honor, composed of officers who had won the highest awards for bravery on the field, and it dimmed to the flashing colors of the standards and the varying hues of the flowers.

The purely military character of the parade which yesterday morning escorted the plain wooden coffin from the Diaz home through streets packed with reverent thousands, was a striking display of the army for its former chief.

From windows, balconies and roofs women of Rome showered blooms on the passing coffin.

At the capitol the coffin was taken from the caisson and placed before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Then the marshal's hat, sword and batton and a pillow bearing his medals were placed on the coffin, and the guard of honor took its station.

Some of those who passed before the bier placed wreaths on it but mostly people dropped single flowers.

Mussolini's Black Shirts did not participate in the procession yesterday, but at the funeral to-day they will take part besides the regular army and navy, and representatives of the allied armies Marshall Petain sent a detachment of 50 chasseurs to represent France.

Will Lead Funeral.

The funeral is set for ten o'clock to-day and the procession is to be led by King Victor Emmanuel, and Premier Mussolini as the chief mourners. Behind them will come the ambassadors and the military attaches of the foreign powers.

The coffin will be borne upon the shoulders of generals of the army and every branch of the military power of Italy will be represented by detachments led by crepe-hung standards. Bells will toll continuously, while the coffin is en route to the Santa Marie degli Angeli and all traffic will be stopped in the streets through which the cortege is to pass. Street cars and busses have been ordered to burn their inside lights but darkened with gauze crepe tied with ribbons in the Italian national colors.

At the church entrance will be massed the war torn battle flags of the army units commanded by Diaz in the struggle with the Austrians. After the service the body will again lie in state for three days. Then it will be interred in the Basilica of Santa Meldaria del Popolo.

Since the Armistice, one million new homes have been built in England.

Eleven Trucks Carry Tiny Bundle of Bonds

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Canadian Press).—Eleven armored trucks were used yesterday to transport fifty-two million dollars in stock certificates, the city's new subway bond issue and only a bundle a man might conveniently have carried, from the municipal building to 55 Wall street. The distance is about half a mile.

Eleven trucks were used because the maximum insurance of one truck load is only five million dollars.

HERE AND THERE

Robbers Get $50,000.

SHANGHAI, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Making their biggest haul in recent years, robbers last night raided a building in the international settlement and made off with about fifty thousand dollars in gold bars. Gunmen armed with automatic pistols held up the staff and forced the manager to open the safe.

Long Chase Ends.

MEXICO CITY, March 3 (Canadian Press).—After trailing him for four months, police to-day had the Catholic priest, Ireneo Leyva, in jail. He was charged with being the director of seditious propaganda against the Government.

Husband Murder Suspect.

IRVINGTON, N.J., March 3 (Canadian Press).—Police to-day were seeking the husband of Mrs. Filipino Ferrenzia, who was found dead with a bullet through her heart on the steps of her home last night, her seven-year-old daughter crying at her side.

Boxers Get $41,844.

NEW YORK, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Tom Heeney, the victor, and Jack Delaney, the loser, received $41,844 apiece for boxing fifteen rounds in the heavyweight elimination semi-finals on Thursday night.

50,000 Locked Out.

LONDON, March 3 (Canadian Press).—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin to-day says fifty thousand Berlin metal workers have been locked out as a sequel to the failure of efforts to settle a toolmakers' strike.

Body Borne to Church.

ROME, Mar. 3 (Canadian Press).— To the drone of the motors of three giant dirigibles slowly patrolling the air above the route from the tomb of the unknown soldier, the body of Marshal Diaz was taken to the Church of Santa Maria Degli Angeli to-day, where Italy paid tribute to the famous General.

Snow Crushes Five.

BATUM, U.S.S.R., March 3 (Canadian Press).—Five persons were killed here when the snow-laden roof of a public bakery crashed during a terrific snowstorm which has been sweeping Trans Caucasa.

Paintings Destroyed.

NEW YORK, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Fire in the Riverside Drive home of Dr. R. J. Forham to-day destroyed paintings and furnishings valued at two hundred thousand dollars.

EGYPT WILL REJECT DRAFT

Expected Long Pending Egyptian Question Will Receive Another Setback.

BREAK ON ONE POINT.

LONDON, March 3.— (Assocaited Press.)— Efforts to settle the long-pending Egyptian question by negotiating a treaty between Great Britain and Egypt have again met a setback. No official statement has been issued, etiher in Cairo or London, but Cairo advices make it practically certain that the Egyptian Cabinet has decided to reject the draft of a treaty recently submitted to them.

The treaty was negotiated partly between Sarwat Pasha and Sir Austen Chamberlain in London last summer. Since then the negotiations have been between Sarwat and Lord Lloyd, British commissioner, at Cairo.

The Egyptian Cabinet met yesterday to draft a statement of the Egyptian point of view, which it is expected will amount virtually to a rejection of the treaty. This note probably will arrive in London today and if it bears out anticipations, the British government intends to publish the whole correspondence so as to show how far it has gone in meeting Egyptian aspirations.

Break Over Suez Canal.

No authoritative version of the proposed treaty has appeared, but it is understood that the break occurred over a provision whereby Great Britain would retain control of the Suez Canal provisionally for ten years. This would mean retention of a British garrison in Egypt and the government there considers the presence of the soldiers would be incompatible with Egyptian independence. It also argued that this condition would constitute recognition by Egypt of the British occupation.

Egypt argues further that this objection to the treaty would not be removed by a proposed provision under which the League of Nations would be invited to arbitrate the whole question should the two governments fail to agree on a permanent arrangement before the end of the decade.

It is believed that other points in the draft treaty presented no great difficulty. Great Britain agreed to recognize Egyptian independence by transforming the British commissioner into an ambasador. They also agreed to recognize Egypt as competent to join the League of Nations. It is understood that the status of the Sudan was satisfactorily arranged and that Egypt agreed not to conclude any foreign treaty without British consent.

Produce in the basket section of the farmers' market was cleared out at an earlier hour than usual this morning the buying having a brisk tendency. Eggs were quoted at 33 and 40c a dozen, butter at 40 and 43c a pound, chickens at from 30 to 35c a pound, and turkeys at 40c a pound.

Ladies of the W.C.T.U. had a good sale of home made cooking this morning, clearing out everything by an early hour. Other sales of cooking included cakes, big, fruit layers, with white icing, at 30 and 50c and homemade bread that sold at 20c a loaf

Yellow apples were selling at 25c a basket.

On the open section wood sold at the usual prices, ranging from $8 and $10 for mixed loads to $10 and $12 for loads of four foot hardwood.

A black and white collie pup, ten weeks old, came to market this morning, looking for a buyer. "Sport" gravely offered his paw to anyone who would shake hands with him and had a price of $5 on his furry little head.

Barred Rock fowl in a large coop were quoted at $1.75 apiece and a solitary Black Minorca, priced at $2, made the best of his close quarters by folding himself up in a tiny box that was hardly big enough to hold him.

Potatoes sold at $1.60 a bag and carrots at $1 a bag. Onions were 40c a peck. Mutton was 23 and 27c a pound; pork 15 and 17c, and hind quarters of beef were 15c a pound.

Brick Plant Burned.

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., March 3 (Canadian Press).—The plant of the Binghampton Brick Company, in this city, was completely destroyed by fire this morning, with a loss of $250,000. The flames originated from a short circuit.

PLANE DESCENDED ON ICE FLOE SIXTY MILES OUT IN ATLANTIC

French Fliers Forced To Land

DETROIT, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Officials of the Ford Airport here last night received a telegram from the French aviators, Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, stating that the fliers made a safe landing in a snowstorm at Sharon, Pa. The men were en route from Mitchel Field, N.Y., to Detroit.

The brief message indicated the world fliers had fought head winds and snowstorms for several hours in their attempt to drive through to the Ford airport here. They plan to resume their flight at 9 o'clock this morning if weather conditions permit. No mention was made of any damage to the plane.

NO PROVISION IN ESTIMATES FOR EXHIBITION

Peterborough Fair Not Likely To Receive Grant From Province.

TOO MANY CLAIMANTS.

Every Fair Would Want Similar Aid, Says Deputy-Minister.

TORONTO, March 3 (Special to The Examiner).—No provision for a grant towards Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is contained in the supplementary estimates of the province for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1928, said W. B. Roadhouse, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, when approached by The Examiner on the subject this forenoon. Declaring that he was unable to make any statement as to the future policy of the Government on this matter, Mr. Roadhouse said that no grants had been made to any of the smaller fairs in the province."

"I know that large deputations have waited on the Prime Minister with requests for grants, but one of the difficulties in the way seems to be that of the great number of claimants. If a grant were made to one of these fairs, even although it might be outstanding as compared with those of nearby communities," declared Mr. Roadhouse, "practically all the others would instantly put forward requests for financial aid.

The Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, was out of the city this morning and could not be seen for a statement of the department's attitude in time for today's issue.

PART OF PLANE IS PICKED UP

Stabilizer and Rudder Identified as Belonging To Missing Craft.

NO FURTHER REPORTS.

NORFOLK, Vir., March 3 (Canadian Press).—The horizontal stabilizer and rudder of an airplane found in Lower Chesapeake Bay was definitely identified to-day by officers from the naval air service as parts of the plane which disappeared early Monday with Commander T. G. Ellison and two other navy pilots. Except for fragmentary and contradictory reports from various sections of the Chesapeake Bay country, the plane and three men had not been heard of and no trace could be found of them.

CONCERT AT REGENT.

Third of Humane Society's Sunday Series To Be Held To-morrow.

In the Regent Theatre to-morrow night the third concert will be given in the interests of the Peterborough Humane Society. These concerts have been well attended, and the programs, under the direction of G. F. Liddle, have been most interesting. To-morrow night Mrs. Willis Hohner and Vern Morphet will be the special soloists. There will also be orchestra selections, a male quartette, and community singing. The concert will start at 8.30.

Aviators Were Eight Days In Reaching Ungava Coast.

ESKIMO HELPED.

Shot Walrus For Food After Emergency Rations Had Been Lost.

OTTAWA, March 3 (Canadian Press). — Eight days adrift on ice floes off the Labrador coast, followed by four days overland travelling, with raw walrus for food, was the account which came over the air to-day of the thrilling escape of the two Canadian airmen and an Eskimo who were listed as missing after their airplane came down on an ice floe on February 17. The epic story of escapes from death in the Far North can contain few records equal to that which was tersely reported to headquarters here by wireless.

After making a forced landing on an Atlantic ice floe sixty miles off the coast, Flying Officer A. A. Lewis, Flight Sergeant N. C. Terry, and the Eskimo "Bobby" travelled eastward for one day through heavy weather. The visibility cleared, and they found themselves heading towards the open sea across the floes.

The clearing sky showed the coast of Ungava behind instead of before them. Using an inflated air raft, they paddled from floe to floe. For seven days they were literally at sea with emergency rations apparently running so low, some having been lost, that they had to depend upon the Eskimo's marksmanship with the emergency kit rifle to get walrus, which was eaten raw. The air raft was lost by the native in the course of the struggle to reach land, and the party were compelled to use small floes and paddles which had been saved.

Eventually the Labrador coast was reached near Kamaktorvik, which on the map appears to be forty or fifty miles from the base over a mountainous country. For the last four days an Eskimo hunter whom they met acted as guide and brought them to Burwell about midnight on Friday night after two weeks of harrowing experience and exposure.

Squadron Leader T. A. Lawrence, who commands the air force detachment, in his brief message received here to-day, states that the return of the party was "most miraculous." The major factor in the survival of the men was the "wonderful effort of the personnel." He also reports that the Eskimo who was with the airmen was of the most valuable assistance. In the traditional manner of the Air Force, the report gives only actual essential facts. Its style is highly suggestive of the combat reports of the Air Force pilots ten years ago when Flying Officer Lewis and Sergeant Terry were both on the Western Front.

The following is the message received at the Department of Marine and Fisheries at noon to-day:

"Airplane 'HG,' Pilot Lewis, landed on an ice floe in the Atlantic. After travelling in an easterly direction for one day, having estimated their location in Ungava, visibility cleared so that land was visible to the westward. Retracing their course they reached land on the Labrador coast in the vicinity of Kamaktorvik, after seven days' travel, where an Eskimo hunter picked them up four days later, and brought them home. During the travel over the ice in the Atlantic, an air raft was used for a time in making the way from floe to floe. The air raft was eventually lost by the native, and small ice pans were used as rafts over the leads, using the paddles of the air raft. Part of the emergency rations were lost, and part of necessity discarded, the personnel resorting to raw walrus foot shot by the native using the emergency kit rifle. When abandoned, the airplane was intact, with the exception of a broken propeller and stiff legs on the skis, caused by running into heavily rafted ice. Their return is most miraculous, but the wonderful effort of the personnel is the major factor. The native in the aircraft was of the most valuable assistance. Estimated position of the landing, sixty miles off the coast.

"Lawrence."

WAR VESSEL DAMAGED.

Queen Elizabeth Collided With Collier in Harbor at Valetta.

VALETTA, Malta, March 3 (Canadian Press).—The collier Corinthic, leaving harbor here, to-day collided with the stern of the British battleship Queen Elizabeth. Both ships were damaged. Admiral Keyes, ashore at the time of the accident, immediately went aboard.

GUARD RAIL SAVES TRAIN FROM WRECK

Cars Leave Rails On Bridge, But Guard Rail Holds Them.

WRECKER INJURED.

TILLSONBURG, March 3. — The crew of a Wabash freight train owe their lives yesterday to a guard rail on the long bridge here. Only the guard prevented the train from dropping 105 feet to the gully beneath.

On the edge of the bridge a car in the centre of their train jumped the track and other cars followed. Thirty lengths of rail were torn up and 180 timbers smashed.

Working with the wrecking train from St. Thomas yesterday afternoon, Clayton Teller, 26, fell from one edge of the bridge, 60 feet to the ground. He received frightful injuries and his condition is reported as extremely critical by doctors at the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital.

SCHOOL CONCERT WELL ATTENDED

Young People Give Program of Great Interest—Candy Sold.

NORWOOD, March 3.—The pupils of the Public School gave a very successful concert in the Town Hall recently, with J. G. Keefer, chairman of the board of education, as chairman. The program consisted of some twenty-five numbers, each of which brought its share of enjoyment to the parents and friends of the children. During the intermission the senior girls sold home-made candy and realized a sum of $15.60. The total proceeds amounted to $125.83, which is to be used toward the purchase of a piano. The teachers and principal of the school, as well as Prof. Edwards, who so ably assisted with the musical part of the program, received great praise for their efforts.

Suffrage In S. A. Receives Set-Back

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 3 (Canadian Press cable via Reuters).—The cause of women's suffrage received another setback in the South African parliament yesterday, when the Women's Enfranchisement Bill, which had been amended so as to limit the franchise to white women, was referred by the House of Assembly to a committee on the motion of Hon. Dr. D. F. Malan, Minister of the Interior, who alleged the bill had been so altered that the members did not realize what it contained.

General Jan C. Smuts, leader of the Opposition, and others, strongly denounced Dr. Malan's motion, and declared it an attempt to kill the bill. Premier J. B. M. Hertzog then intervened and urged that the bill should not be passed until the native labor question was settled, when he would personally introduce it to the House.

Wets And Drys Battle In Washington House

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3 (Canadian Press).—The display on the House floor yesterday of bottles containing grain alcohol and other things precipitated a verbal battle between Wets and Drys.

Representative Sirovich, Democrat, New York, announced that he proposed to use them to illustrate a speech on the practice of poisoning industrial alcohol. Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, an avowed dry, immediately objected. He said that the Constitution expressly provided for maintaining order in the House and that he considered such use of alcohol would constitute disorderly conduct.

Before the Michigan member could conclude, several Vet members were clamoring for recognition and insisting that Sirovitch was within his rights.

Objecting having been overcome, Sirovich urged that nauseating and other ingredients be used in the place of poison for denaturing purposes.

CHURCH WORKERS HOLD BEE ON SHEDS

Repairs Carried Out at Trent River—Another Bee Planned.

TRENT RIVER, March 3 –A faithful few church workers worked at the church sheds until they ran short of material, at the bee held recently, to repair the sheds. Another bee will be held in the near future.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3.—Alfred Clarke was found guilty of a breach of the Liquor Control Act yesterday morning and fined fifteen dollars and costs, $23.80 in all. To the charge, as read by Magistrate Payne, Clarke pleaded not guilty, but the evidence which followed was considered sufficient for the fine imposed. Only two witnesses were called. The penalty was the result of the charge laid against Clarke for being intoxicated on February 29th. As well as being fined, the accused had his permit cancelled for a period of one month.

CANADA'S FUTURE

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3. — At the senior oratorical contest held in the High School auditorium, as a preliminary round in The Star contest, Miss Marjorie Ackerman won the silver trophy and first honors. She will be the one to represent Campbellford High School in the second round which it is believed will be held sometime this month in Port Hope or Cobourg; Cecil Stephens came second in the contest and was considered a close contestant for the first place. His speech, as delivered, is as follows:

"On July 1st of last year, the Dominion of Canada celebrated the 60th anniversary of her birth. At that time the progress and prosperity of the country were brought to the attention of every Canadian citizen. Remembering the past achievements, the people turned their thoughts to the future. Optimism was the keynote of a nation on the eve of a great to-morrow, and every confidence was expressed for Canada's future, the subject with which we deal tonight.

"To form an adequate idea of what Canada may become, it is essential to study her setting and environment. It is a country of vast extent with two great oceans touching her eastern and western boundaries, creating thousands of miles of sea coast, which give easy and safe access inland. On the east, the renowned Atlantic; on the west, the mighty Pacific, and lying along her southern borders is the great republic of the United States, and to the north, the far stretches of the Arctic. A country that can well sustain 200,000,000 people. Her inland water system will be an outstanding factor for her future success. The Gulf and River St. Lawrence drain the largest fresh water area in the world, and this chain of waterways and the many lakes and rivers beautify the land and make it the best watered region in the universe. Canada lies in the temperate zone. Her seasons are marked, her climate varied and suitable for progressive and energetic race of people. These facts alone form the background for a nation.

"Then Canada has great natural resources. Canada, the land of opportunity! Nature has showered her most abundant gifts upon Canada. Minerals of all kinds abound. Leading the world in the production of many of them, she produced in 1926, $225,000,000.00 worth of minerals. Although her progress along this line has been very rapid, of even greater interest and wonder is the remarkably bright outlook for the future. Canada to-day is one of the leading mining countries, but her underground resources have as yet scarcely been touched. And in no country is there a brighter outlook for the mining industry and we may expect it to expand rapidly.

"Canada's forest reserves are very extensive, second largest in the world. The Empire's timber store house, and second among the world's lumber producing countries. The pulp and paper industry is the leading one in Canada, and steadily increasing. With the system adopted by the Government, of conserving the forest, the growth replaces the yearly cutting and the balance is preserved for the use of the future generations so that in no country is there a more assured future for the lumbering industry than here, in the Dominion of Canada.

"The third great natural resource, worthy of note, is her sea fisheries. Twelve thousand five hundred miles of sea fishing coast, having a half interest in the North Atlantic and the North Pacific sea fishing banks. The many lakes and rivers teem with fresh water fish of many varieties. The natural conditions of the country are ideal for the preservation and protection of this product. The rivers flowing to the sea afford splendid spawning ground and the rich feeding grounds of the sea coasts and banks maintain the supply, and the system now being enforced by the Government tends to increase rather than deplete this supply.

"Her fourth and perhaps her greatest natural resource is the large land areas. She is already noted as an agricultural country. Although she produced in 1926, $1,132,000,000 worth of field products, it is found on consideration that only one-fifth of her available land is being cultivated, and with the vast extent still untouched, and as year by year the population increases, and the additional acreage is reclaimed, the yield will grow tremendously until her right to the title of "The Granary of the World" will be literally established.

"Canada's fifth great natural re-

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

PERHAPS I COULD NOT DO BETTER this week than to pass on to my readers some thoughts arising out of a second reading of a letter which my friend, David de Forest Burrell, sent to a member of his congregation. It has to do with what is at times far from being a harmonious subject, namely, congregational singing; and it was addressed to "My Dear Man." It started out with a compliment, one of the most compelling forms of address with which you can approach a human being. We may be like the old Scottish woman who was being treated to a bit of blarney from her North of Ireland husband, as he tried to get her to believe that she was as lovely now in the neighborhood of seventy as she had been at seventeen, when he first set eyes upon her. Looking at him with a knowing look, she said: "I ken fine y're leein', but I like to hear you say it." And even when a compliment is not deserved, and we know that it is not deserved, most of us like to be complimented!

AN ANOMALY.

It does any minister good to see a man sing in church! "Your voice is lost in the volume of song" (Thanks, God, our people SING!), but "actions speak louder than words." I wish they all enjoyed it as you do. The Christian who does not love the hymns of the church is an anomaly. There are no songs like these! And nowhere is the purifying, beautifying, ennobling influence of Christianity more clearly seen than in its effect upon the music of the civilized world and its development of so rich a treasure as we have in our hymnbooks. There are no songs like the songs of Zion. The history of our hymns is the history of the sorrows and joys, the persecutions and conquests, the fears and hopes, of the typical Christian and the whole church. Jesus himself began that history when, as Mark tells, before He led His disciples to Gethsemane, He gathered them about Him and they sang a hymn; and the church has been singing hymns ever since, singing in prisons, in the galleys, in the catacombs, in the torture-chambers, in hermits' cells and vast cathedrals, singing her triumphant way down the centuries.

CONGREGATIONAL SINGING.

To the minister, and to a great many others, the best part of sacred music is the congregational hymn-singing. And, as a rule, it is the most valuable part of it.

Most people like to hear the beautiful voices in the choir loft. Such music, when it is sung and heard in a devout spirit, is a fine element of worship. Milton felt its power as he testified in the following lines:

There let the pealing organ blow
To the full-voiced choir below,
In service high, and anthems clear,
As may with sweetness through mine ear
Dissolve me into ecstacies,
And bring all heaven before mine eyes.

Yet, I agree with my friend when he says that there is no melody the church can raise that compares with the reverent, thoughtful, hearty singing by the whole congregation of one of the great hymns, "The Church's One Foundation" or "Rock of Ages" or "Love Divine" or "Come, Thou Fount." And it may be that he is right when he says: "I doubt if all our other church music put together sounds as sweet in God's ears as this."

A JOYFUL NOISE.

It would not be a bad thing to preach upon the duty of "making a joyful noise unto the Lord." However heartily a congregation may sing, there is much to be gained by directing our singing "unto the Lord," rather than unto other folks' ears! It is a pity some seem to feel that because they lack musical talent they should not take part in the praise of the sanctuary. Any preacher who uses his eyes while he is in the pulpit can see them every Sunday, ashamed or afraid to sing! Ah, but if they would only make a "joyful noise" and make it for God's hearing, it would do them and all of us so much good!

Speaking for myself, I shall preach both to the man who can only make a noise and to the man who can sing. We should all endeavor to do our very best to worship God fitly and nobly through our congregational singing.

WHAT IT WILL MEAN.

To have the right kind of congregational singing will mean that we must have reverence, thoughtfulness, heartiness, self-forgetfulness on the part of all of us. It will mean that we make the hymns we sing a full expression of our faith and hope.

Do we really love Christ? Is our hope in Christ? Then let us sing out and not be afraid of showing our feelings. He who loves our Lord ought to wear his heart on his sleeve in church. When a hymn is announced, sing! A singing church is always a healthy church, and certainly it must be a church with which God is pleased.

A minister, I know, says: "I do not know of one truly successful church today where the singing of the people is not an essential factor in that success."

Paul's advice is worth heeding and acting upon: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly; in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God."

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

—It's all very well to look before you leap if you don't look too long.

—If money making is an art, it is the art to which most people are devoted.

—It is best to avoid a break with a bad egg! But if a break has to be, get it over quickly and clean up the mess.

—Why is it that some folks think that loud talking wins an argument?

—Too many people carry their troubles about with them as excess baggage and, of course, have to pay excess baggage rates.

—A lot of people who brag about the benefits of early rising fail to explain who told them.—A.F

The Crime of the Church

THE newspapers are publishing statements to the effect that half a million members of the evangelical church have dropped out or been put off the roll during the last year.

Now this is most significant. What is the matter with the church? There is wonderful progress throughout the land at present. Social affairs are multiplying. Amusement centres are increasing. Dance halls are more popular than ever before. Civic organizations of all kinds are being added to the list daily. The Atheistic Association is gaining ground rapidly, and "Damned Souls Societies" in universities and colleges flourish.

Clubs of varied purpose and character are claiming a large place in church affairs. The movies have "moved in" for the Sunday night service in many of them. "Petting parties" are quite popular in others. In many pulpits the desk has a Bible, dusted on the outside, but with leaves unturned on the inside.

A new term, "Religious Education," is much in evidence, and the "Christ of the Indian Road" takes the place of the "Christ of the Blood-stained Road."

Were the crucified, risen Son of God, with the marks of the nails in hands and feet and the scars of the thorns upon His brow, to enter some of our Twentieth Century magnificent church edifices, He would not be invited to the platform, for His presence would interfere with the pretty program of the preacher, and we would see the men taking their hats in their hands and the women gathering their beautiful garments about them making their way to the nearest door, entering their luxurious cars and crying, "Home, James!"

—Dr. T. C. Horton.

Where Modernism Falls Down

LIBERALISM has had not one thing that even approximates a revival in arousing spiritual zeal. . . . It requires only a fair intelligence and an open mind to see that a form of faith which has never yet produced a spiritual awakening is not at all Christianity, whatever else it may be. It is easy to pose and proclaim, but if no results are seen, assumed superiority counts for absolutely nothing with sensible people.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

An American Jewish Rabbi Against Naval Plans

Believes U. S. Program is a Step Toward War by "The Navy Gang."

PREACHING before the congregation of the Free Synagogue in New York, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, attacked the big navy program projected by the Coolidge Administration as "a step toward war."

"The American people have been fooled long enough," he said, "the big navy madness or swindle is too much. I do not believe that the President is seeking to deceive us; I believe he is being woefully deceived by the big navy gang."

After asserting that the navies of France, Germany, Italy and Japan had shrunk to proportions which made it clear that the British navy was the only rival of the American navy, Rabbi Wise, went on to say:

"What is more, two of our Admirals are decent or idiotic enough to admit that England is the possible foe that we must prepare for. True it is that President Coolidge administered a crushing rebuke to one of the Admirals in the form of a gentle wrist tap—to the unspoken accompaniment of 'Don't do it again, or how can I get my naval bill through?'

"A huge, swollen navy program at this time, in the midst of incipient and indecisive peace negotiations—this is not defense, but defiance! This is not patriotism, but treason, as treasonable to the America we love as it is treasonable to the hopes of humankind. This is not in accord with our peace professions, nor with our war purposes of 1917 and 1918. The big navy program forswears the true America in the interests of a swollen, offensive, imperialistic America of, by, and for the army and navy."

A Pen Picture

HOW pleasant to disembark after a long voyage and to tread the ground again instead of the unsteady deck of a little craft! That group of men are glad enough to be on shore, and to be once more in their own land; but judging by the dress of the travellers they are not all home-comers, for the group of eight or nine seems made up of several nationalities. There are Europeans among them, and men from the lands on the eastern shore of the Grecian Archipelago; some of them are Orientals, but all appear to be men of one spirit and actuated by a common interest. Have they any friends in this seaport town? Yes, one of the party seems to know the place well. He leads the way to the hospitable house which he knew would be their temporary home. What a welcome awaited them! and what an interchange of news between the travellers and their hosts.

* * *

Some weeks have passed. Friends had met in counsel, plans for the future had been talked over, and much delightful intercourse had been enjoyed. One day a visitor is announced. He has a pre-occupied air as of one who meditates how to break some disagreeable tidings. See, he lays hold of one of the men! What does he mean to do? Will he strip him of his clothing? What a strange performance! What alarming words! The women scream; the men are agitated and make excited gestures; but their entreaties are about as powerful as the waves yonder on the beach. Neither of them can dislodge that which God has fixed.

Consult The Doctor

FOR most men it would be a mark of good sense if they would consult a doctor once or twice a year. This should be done, I believe, whether we feel any pains or not. It would be like building a fence on the edge of the precipice instead of maintaining a hospital at the bottom of it. And it might have the added virtue of postponing a funeral!

The man who owns a good automobile usually appreciates its worth enough to have it overhauled periodically. This prolongs its life and adds to his pleasure in operating it. If he is in business he takes an inventory of his assets and liabilities each fiscal year; and he pays large amounts annually for life and fire insurance. Yet he frequently fails to have an expert go over his greatest business asset—which is himself. He should be wise enough to take an inventory of his health just as he does of his stocks. Such a course may save him from going physically bankrupt.

It is not easy to turn some people away from the habit of having a drug clerk prescribe for their ills, but with a little effort most of us can be educated out of it. Perhaps it is unfortunate that most of the pains and aches that the flesh is heir to speedily pass away with little or no treatment—for therein lies the strength of the quack.

The seemingly trivial complaint from which we were so easily cured on a former occasion may not be so trivial this time, but may be a note of warning which, if taken in time, might have no fatal effect.

By consulting the doctor periodically we gain accurate knowledge concerning the prevention of disease and are saved from the danger of waiting until the disease is well advanced. There are too many under ground who might still have been alive and above ground if they had shown as much sense in the care of their health as they showed in the care of their car.

An Operation No Surgeon Can Perform

Lifting the Face of Criminals May Be Possible, But. . . .

FOR years many of the beauty parlors have advertised that they will improve a lady's looks by a slight surgical operation called lifting the face. Now comes the house surgeon of San Quentin Prison with a proposal to life the face of a criminal when he is released, and by the change effected in his external appearance give the convict a new chance. The record of years of sin and shame, written on the face, is to be rubbed out. That, of course, must be quite a feat, but can the surgeon write into a face a record of years of self-control, pure and holy desire, and unselfish service? It is the prophet Jeremiah who says that the record of sin is written on the tablets of the heart with a pen of iron and the point of a diamond. To rub out the record on the face may be only to disguise a criminal and make future crime easier for him. A more radical operation is necessary. There is only one physician who can perform it. He is doing it every night in hundreds of mission halls, and in thousands of hearts. He lifts the heart instead of the face. He changes the thoughts, the purposes, the hopes and ambitions. That change registers itself in the face. Jerry McAuley, the river-thief, became Jerry McAuley, the helper of fallen men, in whose face the love of Christ shone.

A Garden of God

COMPARING the human soul to a garden, Dr. Henry Lubeck, formerly of Washington, D. C., said: "A garden is beautiful, useful and fragrant to God. I use fragrant as meaning influential. The human soul may influence in a Christian way the lives of others. And if you would remove all obstacles against the inflow of the Holy Spirit down into the garden of the heart, follow these Lenten rules: Abstain from sin, abstain from injustice, abstain from hardness of heart."

An Episcopal Rector Speaks Out On Love

THE Rev. Frank W. Crowder, rector of St. James' Church, New York, says that Christian charity is not merely a pleasant good feeling that may exist between people of congenial tastes. He believes that it is to be exercised also between uncongenial people and those of opposed opinions and conflicting interests. Christian love must not be identified with the affection, even in its highest forms, that may exist between man and woman. This kind of love is intensely individualistic, jealously exclusive of the rest of the world, and in this one point at least it diverges from the crowning grace of Christianity, although it may meet every other requirement.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

ONE day a little boy asked his father this question: "Do you know how long eternity will be?" To which the father said, "Why do you ask such a strange question?" And the boy replied, "Well, you see, it's like this: my Sunday School teacher was telling us today that we would live all through eternity; and I am wondering how long that will be." And this is how his father tried to explain it to him:

"Let us imagine to ourselves a huge mountain, the largest on the face of the earth—a great solid mass of granite rock. And suppose that, once every hundred years, a little bird came flying to the top of the mountain, and rested there, and merely dusted its beak upon the summit. The time it would take before the bird's beak, with its little tap every hundred years, had completely worn away and levelled the whole mountain—is only a MOMENT of eternity."

With a look of wonder upon his face the boy said, "And we have to live through that!"

The Most We Can Do

PLANT the word of God in the human heart, without pomp or parade, and a growth will commence and continue, slow, silent, secret and natural, like the harvests of earth. As Jesus said, the husbandman 'knoweth not how" the harvest comes: he simply acts in harmony with the laws of nature, and in due time the crop is garnered.

"The church is not made by men's hands; she grows by God's grace. After all has been done that humanly may be done, nothing but a little planting and cultivation has been accomplished: the garden of God must do the rest."

No Sense of Humor

SOME people have a terror of being left alone with their thoughts—which proves conclusively that they have no sense of humour. If they had this great gift they would not depend on other people to amuse them—almost anything, even a temporary inconvenience or a stupid mistake would be enough to set them grinning.

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1928.

THE LAW SHOULD BE CHANGED.

The Peterborough City Council, the Peterborough Fish and Game Association and representative citizens have all condemned the wholesale slaughter of pickerel by fishing through the ice, and are urging the Ontario Department of Fish and Game to take steps to put a stop to the present practice.

The Examiner, believing in the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number, believes that these representations should be acted upon by the department.

The argument that the pickerel is not a game fish should not be allowed to hide the real issue.

The situation simply is, that our resources of bass and maskinonge have been so depleted that it is necessary to fall back upon the pickerel as an attraction for tourist fishermen, and there does not seem much doubt of the fact that the majority of anglers, whether local or visitors, are satisfied with the substitute.

That being the case, what is the sense of allowing the supply to be exhausted by this winter traffic, which has assumed large proportions and which threatens to exhaust our resources of pickerel completely?

The law should be changed to make fishing through the ice illegal, and then the department should use every effort to see that the regulation is enforced up to the hilt, otherwise in a few more years there will be no fish to fight about.

FINANCIAL CONDITION STRONG.

A study of the figures given in the Provincial Budget shows that, while the tax reductions referred to by the Provincial Treasurer are not important, the Province is a gainer by the reduction of the Provincial debt and the cutting down of interest charges.

In these respects there is ground for satisfaction over the Budget.

Taking advantage of lower money rates, Mr. Monteith has done some sound financing in refunding large maturing loans.

Thus the average interest rate has been cut from 6.2 per cent. to 4.95 per cent., and on short term financing to 4.4 per cent.

The policy of debt reduction inaugurated a year ago will be approved, and the Budget in dealing with this feature is good reading, showing $3,028,000 as paid off last year, $1,689,500 out of ordinary revenue, and the balance from the Hydro-Electric Commission.

The T. and N. O. Railway, it is announced, is paying its fixed charges and showing a profit, while the Hydro-Electric Commission has commenced retiring its debt.

Altogether the financial position of the Province is sound, and the statistics quoted by the Provincial Treasurer have been received with gratification by the people of the Province.

THE DIAMOND JUBILEE.

The outlay made by the Dominion Government on the Diamond Jubilee celebration of Canada last year was $186,189, according to an official return made to the House of Commons.

It is doubtful whether Canada's Parliament ever made a more useful investment of such a modest sum as this.

The Diamond Jubilee did more to arouse an interest in Canada's history, to create a new pride in Canada as the homeland, and to stir up a healthy national spirit more than any other event of this nature in the country's annals.

Such worthwhile results would have justified the expenditure of a sum ten times as great as that actually used, and that the national leadership and features that were necessary for the successful carrying out of the celebration were provided at such a trifling cost is a matter that should earn commendation for the National Committee.

It is to be expected that Dominion Day from now on will be given its proper prominence as a national holiday of outstanding significance, instead of merely a day off from work as it was regarded before last year's celebration drove home the fact that we Canadians have a history and a country worth rejoicing over at least once a year.

THE TARIFF BOARD.

It is rather a remarkabe situation that, while the Saskatchewan Farmers in convention are denouncing the Tariff Advisory Board on the ground that it does not give agriculture "adequate facilities for the presentation of views and facts relating to the detrimental effect of the protective system upon the farming industry," and that the Government should assume full responsibility for its fiscal policy, The Ottawa Journal attacks the Board for diametrically opposite reasons.

The Journal declares that the Tariff Board merely provides opportunity for debate upon tariff questions, and that after a mass of evidence has been heard in regard to an application for tariff readjustment on any particular commodity, and after representatives of the Consumers' League and the Canadian Council of Agriculture have summed up, the Board merely sends the whole conglomeration of evidence and arguments on to the Government without attempting to make any particular recommendations.

Both views cannot be right.

The impression given when the Tariff Board was organized was that it would freely investigate applications for tariff changes and recommend to the Government in accordance with the evidence.

In other words, that it would be advisory only, and that the responsibility for tariff changes would rest upon the Government.

But now the Saskatchewan Farmers infer, on the one hand, that the Government does not assume full responsibility for its fiscal policy, and The Ottawa Journal, on the other, declares that the Advisory Board doesn't advise.

Hon. Wm. Phillips, United States Minister to Canada, says that nowhere in his wanderings has he met with such a true spirit of friendship as in this country. It is nice to be known as a good neighbor.

THE VISITOR FROM MARS.

(From The Stratford Beacon-Herald.)

It would be interesting to show a man from Mars the Canadian Parliament and try to explain to him just what it was all about. Enter the gallery at the rear of the Chamber and get a seat near the front rail, from which point there is a fairly good view of the House.

"What's going on now?"

"This is the debate on the Budget."

"What's the Budget?"

"Well, it is the policy of the Government of the day in regard to putting on or taking off duties on goods coming from other countries, and the general financial statement of the nation."

"Who is the man on the throne?"

"He's the Speaker."

"Why doesn't he speak?"

"He's not supposed to. He keeps order and makes decisions."

"Why do they debate about the Budget?"

"Because there's going to be a vote taken on it in a few days."

"And do these men vote according to the arguments and evidence presented by these debaters?"

"Not at all."

"How then?"

"Well, the Conservatives will vote against the Budget and the Liberals will vote for it."

"Regardless of all that these men are saying?"

"Exactly so."

"Then all this debating, applause, quoting of figures, and so on will not decide the outcome of the debate?"

"No, it will not."

"You mean that they know before they start just how they are going to vote?"

"That's the position exactly."

"Well, why then do they keep on debating?"

"Really, sir, I don't know. I've often wondered myself."

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY.

Col. David Carnegie, a member of the Executive Committee of the League of Nations Society in Great Britain, urges Canada to accept the optional clause of the Permanent Court of Justice of the League. This provides for the use of arbitration in the case of international disputes. So far, none of the member nations has seen fit to accept it. In Great Britain, Col. Carnegie says, there is a body of public opinion that thinks British prestige would suffer were the nation pledged to settle its international disputes in this manner. Canada, the Colonel feels, is in a privileged position. This is a young country, with no entangling alliances such as the Motherland or any other European power possesses. Our history is one of settling disputes by arbitration. We stand as the great example of a peace-loving nation. If Canada should accept the optional clause, Col. Carnegie believes, the moral effect would be tremendous. "I can hardly believe," he says, "that the other states in the Empire, as well as Britain, would not be affected by such a move. It would stimulate public opinion in Britain. If Canada would accept the optional clause it would lift a great cloud, because, unless the competition in armaments ceases, the world faces war or financial bankruptcy."

No sensible man can doubt the seriousness of the existing situation. As Col. Carnegie says, the fagots are being piled today for another conflagration, and an effort must be made to prevent a match being put to the pile. The mad race goes on. In recent weeks there has been a tense discussion of Anglo-American relations. A fire-eating admiral across the line has been urging the United States to build a huge navy, and he had no hesitation in telling a questioner that such a navy was destined to engage in war with Great Britain. True, Congress has trimmed the fleet building program in drastic fashion, and this is an encouraging sign, but there is no reason to doubt that the big-navy advocates will keep on demanding an armament race with John Bull.

As has been pointed out in these columns before, there isn't a sensible reason in the world why Britain and the American Republic should ever find it necessary to settle their differences by resort to arms. They have no differences that warrant drastic action. There isn't an issue between them, and it is impossible to picture an item that could arise, incapable of being discussed and settled across a peaceful table. Why, then, load these two nations, these two great leaders of civilized thought, with an armament bill out of all reason, and with an armament race that, carried to its logical conclusion, could end in only one way—WAR? If John Jones and William Brown are perfectly good friends, why should John Jones and William Brown mortgage their future, and the future of countless generations of their descendants, to provide equipment for an inevitable battle? That is just what the proposed armament race between Great Britain and the United States would amount to. It would be deliberately providing ground for trouble that does not exist and for which there is no reason for existence.

If Canada, by accepting Col. Carnegie's suggestion for adoption of the optional arbitration clause provided by the Permanent Court of Justice, can help, even a little, in the work of preventing war and furthering the cause of good-will and common-sense in international relations, then Canada should not hesitate a moment to follow the suggestion. This country is interested in peace. It has no entangling alliances and it wants no war. It believes that international differences, as they arise, can be settled in a better way. What a wonderful thing for Canada to be in the forefront of all good movements for world peace. The work of our representatives in the League of Nations has been to this end. We should follow the idea through, at each and every reasonable opportunity offered us.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Prince of Wales won the Welsh Guards cross-country race on Thursday. Let us see whether United States columnists will be able to laugh that off.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, March 3. — Receipts at the Union Stock Yards for the week included 3,787 cattle, 890 calves, 4,194 hogs, and 693 sheep and lambs. With the exception of the cattle which last week totalled 4,532 head, this week's receipts were larger than then.

Though there was practically no change in the prices prevailing at the close of the week's trading the general tone of the market was stronger especially for finished stock.

There was a good clean-up of all stock during the week.

The opening session on Monday was slow with prices slightly lower than the previous Wednesday's values. A general listlessness prevailed in the trading.

On Tuesday and Wednesday with receipts moderate, slightly stronger values prevailed, the previous drop of 25c in cattle being regained.

Heavy, well-finished steers sold from $10.50 to $11.00; good, $10.25; choice light butchers' steers, $9.75 to $10.50; good, $9.00 to $9.50; choice heifers, $9.25 to $9.75, with an odd fancy at $10.00. A noticeable feature of the week was the number of green steers lacking finish.

Fat cows sold from $7.50 to $8.25 for choice, with good $6.50 to $7.25. Medium kinds, $5.50 to $6.00; cutters, $4.00 to $5.00; canners, $3.50. The demand for heavy bulls was slow, but the supply was disposed of finally on Wednesday at from $6.25 to $6.75 a hundred. choice light butcher bulls met with good demand at $6.75 to $7.25, and bologna bulls $5.50 to $6.25.

Due to the Jewish festivals at this time there is each week a good demand for Kosher cows at attractive prices.

Consumers like Kosher meat dressed ten days in advance if possible. The Feast of Purim is March 6. The Feast of the Passover, April 5, and the Last Passover, April 11.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., March 3 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was quieter and only sales of a few loads of wheat were made. A feature of the local market was the further strength that developed in Argentine corn and prices were advanced another two cents per bushel. This was attributed to the scarcity of supplies and the good demand. Sales were made at $1.12 per bushel. A stronger feeling also prevailed in Canadian Western oats and prices were marked up one cent per bushel.

The demand for Spring and Winter grades of flour was again of a limited character, but values were firm.

There was a good demand from Boston for bran in the millfeed market but owing to the limited supplies available no new business was done. The local trade was good and prices were firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was inactive.

A fairly active business was done in all grades of eggs and prices were firmly maintained. The receipts were 671 cases.

Owing to the continued small supply of potatoes coming forward here the tone of the market remained firm with a steady trade passing.

The market for imported beans continued active and firm. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $3.50 per bushel, ex-track.

The trade in butter continued dull but prices were steady. The receipts were 260 packages.

The cheese market was stronger under an improved demand from English importers and prices scored a fraction advance. The receipts were 46 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 3 (Canadian Press). — Speculative buying based largely on unfavorable reports about domestic winter crop conditions did much to bring about a strong finish in the wheat market yesterday. Incidentally rye established a new all-around high-price record for the season. Barley likewise reached a new top level.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ½ to ⅞ cent net higher, corn at a shade to ⅞ cent advance; oats unchanged to ⅛ cent off, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

Upturns in the price of wheat came chiefly in the final hour, and were in decided contrast with an early downward trend that accompanied weakness at Liverpool. Declines abroad, however, were ascribed to a bearish construction placed on private reports concerning farm reserve stocks of wheat in the United States. This factor had relatively little effect here, though, and as the day progressed, it was more and more apparent that the otulook for the new domestic crop was the main influence.

Increasing attention was given to reports pointing to unusually extensive winter killing of wheat east of the Mississippi. Current advances indicated heavy losses in acreage, especially in the red wheat belt. Meanwhile milling demand here for all grades of wheat was good, with red winter selling at the highest premium on the crop. An additional bullish circumstance was the fact that wheat deliveries yesterday on Chicago March contracts amounted to practically nothing.

Corn vales averaged higher yesterday, but increased selling on the part of holders came out on all the rallies. The forecast was for fair and colder weather, auspicious for the crop movement. Re-sellers abroad have advanced their prices two cents a bushel and Argentine corn exports for the week were only 1,429,000 bushels compared with 5,798,000 bushels a year ago. In the oats market, selling from northwestern sources counted as a drag on values.

Provisions were irregular.

GOD'S MINUTE

He will be our guide even unto death.—Ps. 48:14.

Almighty and most merciful Father, we begin the day conscious of our helplessness, and Thy supreme and sovereign power. As Thou didst give us life, so we implore Thee to sustain it and to make us ready and fit for our larger service. For Thy care and protection through the night we praise Thee; the day and the night to Thee are both alike. As Thou hast watched about our beds, so we believe Thou knowest and plannest all our ways. Do Thou prepare us for all that Thou art preparing for us. If perchance we should fail in our fulfilment of Thy plan concerning us, do Thou gently correct us and restore us to Thy love and favor. If disappointments or sorrows should attend us, make us strong to bear our burdens, and enrich us with Thy sustaining grace. Make us ever faithful in each particular duty; loyal to every high claim, responsive to every obligation to Thee, and to those about us. Give us to know the way that leadeth unto life eternal, and fill us with the peace that passeth understanding. May the shadows and the sunshine alike develop adn ennoble our characters. Bind us as a household with the ties of a sacred love, and make us worthy of Thy continuing care and favor. May we live this day as heirs of eternal life, and rise ever more and more unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Him who for our sakes became poor, that we through his poverty might be made rich—Thy Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.

A Thought

DO YOU THINK OF THE FUTURE?

When Lord Nelson, the famous British Admiral, formed a society to plant acorns so that the British Navy would always be well supplied with timber for its warships, he could not foresee the future but he did think of his country's protection.

Have you ever thought of the future of your family? You may also plant "acorns" in the form of "monthly premiums" which will grow into large oaks, worth as many thousands of dollars as you feel will properly shelter your family when in need. Better start planting a few cents today.

You don't "carry" life insurance; you "own" it. The word "carry" signifies a burden; it calls to mind a picture of a man straining and bending under a load which is almost more than he can bear. The picture which life insurance presents is the opposite to this. Life insurance is a possession.

VANCOUVER ISLAND SEEDS WIN FAVOR

Industry is Growing Rapidly—Seeds Supplant California Product

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 3. — Canadian Press. — Writing to an English periodical from this city Mrs. J. A. Greenwood, says:

"Seed growing on Vancouver Island is one of the latest and most important industries of this beautiful island in British Columbia. For years England has been importing something like £1,000,000 worth of seeds from California, and all the time if it had only been known, there were hundreds of acres on Vancouver Island which could produce the most perfect seeds in the world.

"For Vancouver sweet-pea seed the English market pays from three shillings to four shillings per pound more than it pays for California seed. The largest sweet pea seed farm is in Duncan and produces yearly about two ton. From 15 to 20 women each year are employed to pick, clean and pack the seed, and the excellence and high quality of this seed is becoming world-famous.

"Seed growing, like every other worth while occupation, must be learnt by experience and real work. It must not for a minute be imagined that anyone can casually embark on it and trust to 'picking up' necessary information and methods. Many disappointments and failures have resulted from rushing into an acknowledged lucrative undertaking before any of the numerous details and pioneer spade work have been mastered. Why then do so many would be fruit growers, poultry, rabbit and fox farmers, etc., come out full of enthusiasm, expecting to start right away and make a successful and lucrative living at a calling they know next to nothing about. Come out and learn first, and if possible, learn as an apprentice from a competent and thorough gardener or seed grower."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

TRAINING OF THE TWELVE

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 4. The Training of the Twelve. Mark 3:13-15; 6:7-13.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.

Text: Mark 3:13-15; 6:7-13.

And he goeth up into a mountain, and called unto him whom he would; and they came unto him.

And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach.

And to have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils

And he called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two, and gave them power over unclean spirits;

And commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip; no bread, no money in their purse.

But be shod with sandals; and not put on two coats.

And he said unto them, in what place soever ye enter into an house, there abide till ye depart from that place.

And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, shake off the dust under your feet for a testimony against them. Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrha in the day of judgment, than for that city.

And they went out, and preached that men should repent.

And they cast out many devils, and annointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them.

Few great teachers in history have exerted their influence purely as individuals. They have gathered about them disciples, and among these disciples there has developed, through loyalty to a common master, or through the influence of a common teaching, a certain "school" of thought, or action.

Jesus was unique and pre-eminent as a teacher in this, that his life and his teachings far out-shadow anything revealed in his disciples; but on the other hand the greatness of his teaching came to the world through the disciples, and it was through his wise choice of an inner circle of evangelists, whom he drew to him that they might understand the good news that he had brought and go forth proclaiming it, that he established the effectiveness of his ministry and gave it permanency to the world. Apparently no wiser provision for the spread of his gospel could have been made.

Simplicity.

The nature of the commission that Jesus gave to these twelve and the instructions concerning the way in which they should carry out their mission are interesting. Jesus lays profound emphasis upon the primacy of their work and the simplicity of all the arrangements for its accomplishment.

We have had a recent and very conspicuous demonstration of the sort of thing which Jesus evidently had in mind in the proper equipment of the disciples for their difficult work in the way in which Lindbergh went to Paris. He "traveled light," spurning every non-essential and sacrificing everything to the supreme purpose that he had in mind.

Jesus attached that sort of simple practicality to the preaching of the Gospel. He warned the twelve against such habits as might lead to waste of time and over absorption with worldly things.

It is instructive to note that apparently Jesus did not appoint the twelve until he had already a fairly large company of followers. This fact helps to correct an assumption that is not always justified in the reading of the narrative of the call of the respective disciples.

The implication would be, sometimes, that Jesus, as he passed by, called those whom he had not known before, and that they left all and followed him. This, however, was seemingly not the case, as we discover when we put all the references and facts together. For instance, the story of the calling of Andrew and Peter in John 1 casts considerable light upon the story of their call as it appears in the other Gospels.

Knew Their Qualities.

Jesus evidently had observed the men whom he called, and he appointed them to a special plane because of the qualifications that he discerned in them. So far as we can see, he chose them not for superficial abilities or characteristics, but because of some inner worth or of some capacity for loyalty and devotion which as yet was latent in their lives. As a matter of fact the twelve whom he chose at first failed notoriously to understand him.

Called to the highest and most sacrificial of labors, they quarreled among themselves about matters of place and preferment, and he told them on one occasion, "Ye know not of what spirit ye are of." But the twelve, with one exception, ultimately vindicated his faith in them.

New Visions.

Through the power of the Gospel they were brought beyond their smallness of outlook and their vain dreams of power and ambition to see the reality of divine love, and to seek life's fulfillment in loyalty to their Master.

Jesus called them very much as he called men and women today; that is, he gave them something to do. If they had been unwilling to listen or unwilling to attempt the tasks that he assigned, there would have been no effectual call. It was their response as well as Christ's invitation that made the call effective, and our response may make evident Christ's call to us today.

WOMAN CONFESSES TORTURE MURDER

Gets Life Sentence For Giving Evidence Against Co-defendant.

VANCEBURG, Ky., March 2. — A glowering woman of the mountains sat in the little Circuit Court room here yesterday and faced the electric chair. Mrs. Marie Frazier, 32, with her mother, Mrs. Miranda Frazier, of Greenup County, on one side begging her to plead guilty of the murder of a child, and her counsel on the other side advising against such action, suddenly threw all caution for herself to the air and pleaded guilty to murder. She accepted a life term in the penitentiary.

She was allowed to enter the plea on her promise to testify against her co-defendant, Robert Pitts, a 35-year-old mountaineer, whose three-year-old daughter, Mary Magdalena, was the victim of a "torture" murder that is declared to have been as revolting in many details as that laid to William Edward Hickman in the Marian Parker case.

Mistakes Mothers Make In Care Of Little Ones

Many mothers give their children solid foods at too early an age and say proudly that their babies "eat everything that grown up people do." Such a course is almost certain to bring on indigestion and lay the foundation of much ill-health for the little one.

Other mothers administer harsh, nauseating purgatives which in reality irritate and injure the delicate stomach and bowels and at the same time cause the children to dread all medicine.

Absolutely no meat should be given to a child until it reaches the age of 18 months, and then only if approved by the doctor. For medicine, all strong, disagreeable oils and powders should be abandoned and Baby's Own Tablets given instead.

Baby's Own Tablets are especially made for little ones. They are pleasant to take and can be given with absolutely safety to even the newborn babe. They quickly banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

W. H. MEREDITH ALTERS STORE

Front From Present Quarters Being Moved To New Site.

TO OPEN IN APRIL.

A staff of men have begun work on the property formerly occupied by the Peterborough Music Store, George Street, just north of Hunter Street, and before long, behind the board barricade now in place, will be completed a new store front which will lead into a splendidly renovated place of business to be occupied by the firm of W. H. Meredith & Company.

The large plate glass windows are being removed and the entrance changed, and in their places will go the windows and forms which at present are in place at the Meredith store on the north side of the street. In fact, the entire front of the premises now occupied by the above-named firm will be removed to the new quarters.

The interior of the Cunningham store will be entirely re-decorated and the heating system will be changed to be similar to the one in the quarters being vacated while the tailoring department of the Meredith business will be housed on the upper floor.

The new place of business will open about April 1, with a new stock of clothing and men's furnishings, while the Metropolitan Stores, Limited, will take possession of the premises vacated. Mr. Meredith expects to maintain quite as large a staff as at present.

BRITISH ARMY TO BE REDUCED

More Tanks and Other Mechanical Equipment Planned, However.

ESTIMATES LOWER.

LONDON, March 3. — The British Army this year is to be reduced by 13,000 men expenditures are to be cut about $2,500,000, and the mechanical equipment of the army increased and improved, according to the army estimates for the coming year issued here yesterday.

The War Office has decided to replace men and horses with tanks and tractors. The regular army will consist of 153,000 men, as compared with 165,000 in 1927. But in view of experiments made during the last year the number of medium and light tanks will be increased as rapidly as the funds permit.

The decrease in personnel will be accounted for by the employment of fewer troops in China, the withdrawal of coast defence troops from Bermuda and Sierre Leone, reductions in the army on the Rhine, reorganization of troops in Egypt, reduction of Indian troops employed in the Middle East, and economies resulting from reorganization of the army establishment at home

In the last year the Territorial Army has also been reduced. On January 1 there were 132,323 enlisted Territorials, and 6824 officers. This was a drop of 7439 in the enlisted personal and an increase of 64 officers.

The army estimates call for an expenditure of £41,050,000 (about $205,000,000). A good deal of the savings effected by reducing the personnel will be used for merchandizing the army so that the net saving will be only about $2,500,000 over last year.

Besides the increase in tanks, armored cars are to be supplied to certain cavalry units; horses for all the medium artillery will be replaced by tractors, and an increasing number of six wheeled trucks will be used.

Experiments are progressing with a new gun for horse artillery; also a new field howitzer.

Important modifications of the designs of shells have also been achieved.

There will be no army manoeuvres in 1928, but the regulars will carry out divisional training.

Her Boy Suffered with Weak Kidneys

Edmonton Lady is Pleased with Dodd's Kidney Pills

"My boy, who is four years old, had very weak kidneys, which caused involuntary urination every night," says Mrs. D. Peters, 8541-75th Ave., Edmonton, Alta. "We tried many things that people told us about, without success. Someone told us about Dodd's Kidney Pills. I bought a box and used some of them and my boy is now relieved of his trouble. I shall always praise your Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Kidney Trouble is very common among all classes of people—both young and old. A lot of valuable time is usually wasted by using unsuitable treatments. Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen Weak Kidneys.

New Diamond Field Richest In History

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 3 (Canadian Press Cable). —"The richest diamond field ever discovered anywhere," is what Col. Sir David Harris, the member of the South African House for Kimberley, said about the new diamond field that has been disclosed in the debate in the House of Assembly.

The romantic discovery of the fabulously rich alluvial deposits of diamonds at Alexander Bay, at the mouth of the Orange River, came to the knowledge of the members of the House in connection with the debate on an apparently unimportant matter, and it was stated that diamonds were lying on the surface waiting to be picked up.

The coaches of the various teams and referees were present and watched the players with a view to choosing a team to play a game with an out of town team later in the month. Last night's teams were the Senior School Girls and an All Star team representing players from each group in the league. The victory last night went to the All Star team. A large audience enjoyed the game and heartily applauded the many scores. After the game members of all teams in the league with their coaches and referees were served refreshments in the Green Room, Mrs. H. Wightman, a member of the Physicial Committee of the Y.W.C.A., poured coffee and Mrs. R. Denne cut the ices. The tea table was prettily decorated with tulips and daffodils. Mayor Denne then presented the basketball trophies and congratulated the girls on their splendid play. The Y.W.C.A. was certainly a splendid organization and he knew the girls appreciated very much the many facilities offered and the interest taken by Miss Littlefield, physical director, in their sports and physical training. DIET THEORIES AND PRACTICAL FEEDING

Literature dealing with proper feeding has constantly emphasized certain theories, many of whih have been of little value to the physician. No doubt many doctors have given up the use of diet treatment principally because these old theories have not been found to be helpful when applied to the patient.

Thousands of books have been written about diet and food, but so many have been only copies of other books already published with very little additional material gleaned from original research.

To the earnest searcher after truth, theories about any subject are of course interesting; but these theories so often must give way to the result of practical experience!

If the original thinker and observer attempts to publish a book with new ideas, such a book is immediately frowned upon by the so-called authorities whos e sole claim for being called "authorities" lies in the fact that they teach, and often believe, worn-out theories.

The progressive is always the one who in his earnest zeal pushes the car of progress farther up the hill, while the conservative thinker is no doubt of equal help in finally blocking the wheels and holding what has been gained. All the real work of achievement is, however, done by the revolutionary mind of the scientist who is looking mostly for practical truths.

In the realm of food science the most noteworthy contributions have been made by laymen or physicians not recognized by the orthodox medical societies. Here is a short list of authors whose writings have never been officially recognized: Drs. Dewey, Tanner, Hazard, Eales, Tilden, Alsaker and Brook; also Upton Sinclair, Alfred McGann, Bernarr Macfadden, Milo Hastings, Arnold Ehret, Haskell and Carrington. Go to your public library and read all the books you can secure by these earnest scientists. You will find much help from the practical advice which these sincere men have put into books which they have usually been forced to publish, themselves.

Be wise in your selection of those new ideas which you find to be helpful

New truths and new viewpoints of truths will constantly present themselves to you. Do not be surprised if you, yourself, think out a new idea which seems to you to be true!

There is no encyclopedia of diet which contains all there is to know on this subject. Food science is only in its infancy, and it does not yet appear what it shall be.

As sure as effects follow causes, just so surely will we find that the health of the body depends upon the food we eat.

The foundation of all reform will be found to be in the kitchen, and you can assist in this reform if you will start in your study of diet in a practical way.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Edw. F. writes: "Considering that the presence of lactic acid will prevent the growth of putrefactive bacteria, would not the periodical introduction of milk or sour milk into the large intestine (by means of the rectum) prevent auto-intoxication? Of course, such practice is not intended to take the place of the fibre-containing food, nor to prevent or cure constipation. But would it not offer a fertile field for the development of B. acidolphilus which would check the decomposition of the intestinal residue, thereby preventing auto-intoxication?"

Answer: I have found that enemas with the whey from sour milk are sometimes effective in checking bacterial putrefaction in the colon. This treatment, however, is only temporary, and study of scientific dietetics and eat the right kind of food and foods in proper combination.

Question: H.P.C. asks: "Is it all right to eat tomatoes and drink milk at the same meal?"

Answer: Tomatoes or any other acid fruit combine well with milk. Make a meal of the tomatoes and milk, and do not use any other food at the same time.

Question: Confidence asks: "What diet and exercise would you recommend for a patient with pulmonary tuberculosis?"

Answer: I have written a great many articles on the subject of tuberculosis, and will be glad to send you detailed information if you will only send me your name and address. It is impossible to give sufficient information on such a serious subject in the small space in this question and answer column.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, MARCH 4, 1928.

Although there is a strongly dominant benefic aspect today, according to astrology menacing signs are numerous.

It is a planetary government under which many men and many minds goeasily into severe conflicts.

Engineers and builders may discover that there are influences that discourage them when they plan future work, but they should put out of mind whatever is associated with money-making.

This is a day that should be devoted to recreation as well as to religious observances.

There is an aspect supposed to be beneficial to old faiths and established beliefs. Again there will be a revival of interest in religion.

The day is fairly favorable to the clergy who will face many embarrassing problems in the coming year, for politics will infringe upon the church, the seers prophesy.

Extension of effort on the part of the churches and those who manage them is again foretold. The year is to bring about great results from coordinated effort, it is prognosticated.

Women still are subject to unfavorable planetary influences, it is asserted by astrologers. Girls should beware of wooers while this configuration prevails.

Tremendous achievement in the way of solving transportation problems is indicated and young men will win world fame in American projects.

Taxes will not decrease to any extent in the year 1928, if the stars are read aright.

A recession of the wave of pleasure-seeking is foretold and the young will turn to serious endeavor, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of all financial ventures in the coming year. They should be wise in land deals.

Children born on this day probably will be keen of mind and strong of body, but not inclined to make the most of themselves. They should be trained carefully.

MONDAY, MARCH 5, 1928.

Astrologers read this as a n unimportant day in planetary direction and they counsel care in transacting business in which there is any element of risk.

This is a configuration in which a menacing sign seems to threaten ocean travel, for severe storms are indicated.

Much agitation regarding oil and oil interests is still indicated by the positing of the stars.

Foreign lands will drain America's store of oils, if the stars are rightly read, and the Orient will be especially concerned to obtain large supplies.

Serbia is now subject to planetary influences that are of great importance to the world, it is forecast, and seeds of war may be sown within the year, the seers predict.

One of the influences of today's aspects may be toward wavering of impulse and uncertainty of action.

Great forces of change again are at work in the world which is to show reactionary tendencies even, while its inventions and its commerce expands all its interests.

The rule today is beneficial to hotels and favors travel which may be nevertheless unsatisfactory.

Women are to be much in the limelight from this date, astrologers foretell and they are to exercise power for good in politics.

Sensational and unforeseen events will mark the national political campaign, which will develop amazing surprises in candidates and in nominees.

Some sort of a tragedy will grow out of bitter religious and political and antagonisms, the seers predict, and it will greatly affect the minority party.

America is to adopt novel European customs that will affect smart society and cause more or less criticism, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid any sort of secret negotiations in connection with their business, which should be fairly satisfactory in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be fortunate in their associations through life. They should succeed in whatever they undertake.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The details of the ensemble are well thought out in this costume consisting of red and green printed pique frock worn with a red straw hat and a bag to match. The white shoes have a piping of red.

The cotton costume deserves more serious consideration than it usually receives. For summer wear cotton has distinctive merits all its own and it should not be treated as a makeshift or an imitation. Interestingly enough the women who buy only the cheaper sort of frocks rather turn their noses up at cotton. They would rather have cheap silk than good quality cotton any day. And when they do buy cotton frocks they are attracted by the cottons that look as much as possible like silk.

Regny Uses Cotton.

Jane Regny and other well-known dressmakers in Paris are using cotton quite extensively for the frocks designed for warm weather wear. And never were there so many interesting cotton fabrics to choose from.

The important thing in wearing your cotton frock is to give it as much consideration in the choice of accessories as you would any other sort of material. There is a fresh simplicity about cotton materials that demands fresh, simple accompaniments. Straw hats go better with cotton frocks than hats of felt or silk. Some women consider fine lisle stockings more suitable than those of silk.

What to Use.

Among the cotton materials especially favored at the present time are pique, dotted swiss, organdie, voile and batiste. Especially important this season are the various cotton piques which both in plain and printed varieties will be worn extensively for tennis and other sports.

For sports wear many of the new cotton frocks are made in two-piece styles, with little jackets or jumpers. Box pleated skirts are used instead of the finer pleating seen in silk crepe skirts. There is often fine piping for the use of narrow bandings of contrasting color. For youthful frocks smocking is often employed and faggotting, so smart this spring, is used on some of the new cotton frocks.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE COW'S DUMB-BELL.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily was hopping around one day, down in the snow covered meadow, near the frozen duck pond, when, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman heard a rustling sound in the dried weeds.

"Oh, ho!" whispered Mr. Longears to himself, as his long, sharp ears caught the rustling sound in the weeds. "I guess one of the Bad Chaps is creeping up to get me. I came out to look for an adventure, but I don't want to look for any fox or wolf."

So Uncle Wiggily began to walk on his tiptoes to get away from the thicket of weeds when, all of a sudden, a loud voice sadly said:

"Well, there's no use shaking my head off. It won't ring and that's all there is to it. It's a dumb bell surely enough."

"Well, that voice doesn't sound like any of the Bad Chaps," whispered Uncle Wiggily to himself. "It sounds more like a cow. But who is she calling a dumb-bell I'd like to know. That isn't nice."

Mr. Longears peered through the thicket of frozen weeds on the dege of the duck pond and there he saw Mrs. Moo, the cow lady. She was shaking her head from side to side. There was a strap around Mrs. Moo's neck and on the strap was a bell. But no matter how hard she shook her head the bill did not ring as it should.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Moo!" greeted Uncle Wiggily as he stepped out of the bushes. "Did I hear you speak of a dumb-bell just now? Were you calling any one that name?"

"I wasn't exactly calling names," answered Mrs. Moo, beginning to chew her cud. "But I did use the word dumb-bell and it's true."

"Who is it true about?" asked the rabbit gentleman, hoping that Mrs. Moo didn't mean he was a dumb-bell.

"It's true about this bell on my neck," went on the cow lady. "When a bell doesn't ring it's dumb, and that's what has happened to my bell. It won't tinkle at all, and I'm tired shaking my head."

"It won't tinkle at all."

"Perhaps the bell has lost its tongue, or clapper," suggested Uncle Wiggily. "Sometimes boys, just for fun, take the clapper out of the school bell so it cannot ring and call them to study. Then the school bell is dumb, and boys who do not study will be dumb, too, though they can still make lots of noise."

"Well, I'm sure you know a lot about dumb-bells and other bells, too," mooed the cow lady. "And it may be, as you say, that my bell has lost its clapper. But I can't look myself, for it is so close under my neck that I can't see it."

"I'll take a look for you," kindly offered Uncle Wiggily. "I can easily see if your bell has lost its clapper. But may I ask why you wear a bell at all?"

"Well, most cows around here wear bells," answered Mrs. Moo. "It is all the style. Then, too, I wear one so when I go out of the barn yard, which I don't do so often in winter as I do in summer, my husband and children will hear me coming back and the children will begin setting the table for tea."

"Oh, I see!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It's a good idea to wear a bell. Maybe I'll get one myself. But it's queer yours doesn't ring. Just shake your head again."

Mrs. Moo shook her head up and down and sideways but no ding-dong sound came from the bell. Then Uncle Wiggily stooped down and looked up to where the clapper ought to be. There it was in place inside the bell but the rabbit gentleman also saw something else. The inside of the bell was filled with a solid chunk of ice. No wonder it was a dumb bell!

"What's the matter?" asked Mrs. Moo.

"Why," said Mr. Longears, "when you stooped a little while ago to get a drink of water, you must have dipped the bell in also. And the water in the bell froze into ice so it holds the clapper fast and it can't ring. As soon as the ice is melted the bell will no longer be dumb. It will tinkle as loudly as before."

"Then I am going to hurry home and thaw out my silent bell," mooed the cow lady. "Thank you, Uncle Wiggily. I was afraid, for a time, when I could not hear my bell ringing, that I was getting deaf. But, it's all right now. Thank you half a dozen times."

"Pray do not mention it," said the bunny. "It was quite an adventure for me." Then he hopped to his bungalow. Mrs. Moo soon thawed out the bell which rang ding dong again and everybody was happy. And if the fountain pen will give the toothpick a glass of water instead of a mouthful of ink, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the cold icicle.

RICH, RED BLOOD A REAL NERVE TONIC

The Source of All Nervousness is Weak, Watery Blood.

Many people, both men and women, find themselves run down through overwork, or anxieties. Such sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and depressed. Their nerves seem to be worn out and they suffer from headaches and other nerve pains. All this comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills enrich the blood, which tones the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. Miss Irene Denne, R.R. No. 1, Washago, Ont., tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her as follows:—"I suffered for a long time with my nerves and a generally run-down condition. I grew so weak that I had to lie in bed a part of every day. I could not do any work and was taken medicine all the time, trying one medicine after another. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be thankful that I acted on this advice, as this was the first medicine that gave me any relief, and in a comparatively short time restored me to the blessing of good health. When I think of the marvellous good these pills did me, I can most highly recommend them to all weak, nervous people."

If you are at all run-down, or weak, you should begin at once to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will soon be well and strong. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SOLDIER MUMMIES IMPORTANT FIND

Reveal Type of Men Who Conquered Egypt in 2000 B. C.

KILLED IN ASSAULT.

NEW YORK, March 3 (Canadian Press).—The story of a battle on the River Nile 4,000 years ago, as revealed by the mummified bodies of sixty soldiers found buried in a Royal Theban tomb, is told in a bulletin of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Dr. H. B. Winlock, Associate Curator of Egyptian Art at the Museum, reconstructs the battle from reports of the wounds found on the mummies by the Museum's Egyptian expedition.

From the small head wounds and the downward course of arrows found in the bodies, Dr. Winlock says the man must have died storming a castle, the head wounds having evidently been caused by small missiles thrown from above. They were soldiers of King Menthuhotep, and the unusual honor paid them of burial in a Royal tomb leads to the conclusion they fell in an important engagement.

Other wounds on the bodies, the article says, show that the wounded were despatched with clubs by the victors after their comrades had retreated. Another attack, however, must have been successful, as the bodies were recovered for burial.

The tomb in which the bodies were found was first discovered in 1923; but, because of the disorder showing the previous visits of thieves, it was sealed, and not opened until recently. Meanwhile, the expedition devoted itself to more promising excavations. When the tomb was reopened, marks on the linen of the soldiers showed their period to be that of 2000 B.C., an important find, as excavators had previously failed to discover what manner of men were the invaders, who descended on Egypt from Thebes in 2000 B.C., conquered Memphis, and started the second great period of Egyptian culture.

Dr. Winlock made special mention in his article of the work of Professor Percy E. Newberry, Dr. Douglas E. Derry, and Dr. Alan H. Gardiner in aiding in translation of the discoveries.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHY SHE MARRIED HIM.

We can't see why he married her,
Why she should wed a man like that.
In life so many things occur
For other folks to wonder at.
Why leave the country for the town?
Or in the country settle down?
Why buy a car, or go without?—
Are things the neighbors fret about.

But I know why she married him,
He married her. It is the same
Old reason from a day so dim
We hardly know its year or name
It is the same old hope again
That led all women, moved all men,
The heart's long hunger to possess
That fragile thing called happiness.

And time may prove the man was wrong,
Another woman dreamed in vain,
The city sang a siren's song,
The field was not all fruit and grain
But who are we, that you and I
Should disapprove, or wonder why?
For happiness the whole world delves;
Well, have we found it for ourselves?

HIGHER PRICES FOR BEEF DUE TO LOW STOCK

Too Many Cattle Slaughtered in Recent Years When Keeping Didn't Pay.

PRICES LOW THEN.

Now Herds Are Small and Killing Them Has Been Reduced Below Average.

There is a great deal of controversy across the line regarding the high cost of beef, and in certain manufacturing sections of the east there was talk of a boycott against beef, which eventually caused Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, of the United States to go into the matter, and the following is a statement by Secretary Jardine on the subject.

The statement of Mr. Jardine has significance not only in his own country but in Canada, where similar conditions prevail, and the prospects for lower beef prices do not seem to be as bright as they are for higher prices in the future.

PROSPECT OF HIGHER PRICES Statement by J. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture

Beef prices, which are causing complaints and threats of boycott in some places, seem unduly high only because they are compared with prices of the past few years, which were ruinously low to the cattle grower. This year for the first time since 1920 cattlemen as a whole have received fairly remunerative prices for their cattle. In the other six years cattle prices were so low most of the time that large numbers of producers were forced out of business and cattle numbers have been drastically reduced.

At various times in the past two years when I have addressed gatherings of cattlemen I have called attention of the public to the fact that the present situtaion was almost certain to develop. The deparment also has issued many statements pointing out that cattle slaughter was greatly exceeding production and that sooner or later a sharp reduction in slaughter and higher prices must result.

This was a situation that should have been of vital interest to the consuming public. As long as cattle prices were low and beef cheap, however, consumers were unconcerned as to the hardships of the cattle industry or as to the future of the beef supply. Consequently the situation was allowed to work out through the uncontrolled action of economic forces with the result that the reduction in herds probably went too far and cattle slaughter for the next few years must be reduced below the average of that of the last five years if the cattle business is to be re-established on a basis where the number of animals slaughtered does not exceed the number of young animals raised.

MARITIMES DRAW BRITISH OFFICERS

Men of "New Poor" Class Find Pleasant Homes in Canada.

LONDON, Eng., Mar. 1.— (Canadian Press.)— Overseas," the illustrated magazine which goes to all parts of the Empire,always devotes a good deal of space to Canada. In a recent issue it says "we have always wondered why more of the 'new poor' and others did not settle in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Major Bavin, who is a member of the Central Council of the League and the honorary secretary of the Migration and Overseas Settlement Bureau, has been on a visit to Canada, where he investigated the Maritime Provinces with a view to inspecting their suitability for the settlement of ex-officers ,and extending our organization to that area. He returned from his tour of the Maritime Provinces full of enthusiastic hope for the success of our scheme in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. He was much impressed with the possibilities for the settlement of retired officers in Annapolis Valley. Such men would find there all those amenities of social life, good homes at cheap prices, and excellent opportunites for successful settlement, for which we are looking on behalf of those in whose interests the Migration Bureau is set up. A strong committee was formed in the Southern Annapolis Valley, consisting entirely of retired officers who have gone out to make their way precisely as our present applicants are wishing to do."

debris there as a heap about 25 feet long, 15 feet wide and he had taken off between three and a half and four feet from the top. It was in a damp condition cotnained a number of powder box lids dated 1922, 1923 and possibly 1926 an dthere was waste rock on both sides witness said. Of the same stope, Curtis had told Mr. Gordon he had seen the material and that box lids had come up unbroken from the stope. There had been perhaps 30 or 40 sleigh loads of debris, Curtis told Mr. White. In the stope he had seen the waste rock did not altogether cover the debris and he had stopped dumping, but he had made no report to his superiors. He had trusted sufficient rock would go in to cover the rubibsh, but his trust had been misplaced. Something had happened in the stope to create a dangerous situation when the refuse was not mixed with rock. To Mr. Slaght he said there was a narrow channel across the stope "pretty well all rubbish." He had looked in the records to see where the current waste matter was going from time to time and had directed refuse accordingly.

Brooks said he knew the dangers of carbon monoxide gas and of the equipment required to combat its effects. He told of the efforts made by the rescue crew with the apparatus he had brought from Toronto and declared that, while he could not say the inhalator had saved the lives of the men rescued from the mine "to my inexperienced judgment, some of them seemed in a poor way" only to revive under treatment. He thought the equipment would be of valuable use within its capacities, but said its inefficiency would be determined largely by knowledge of the locality by the wearers. Dr. Hague, Timmins, has considered it "very beneficial," he said, and Dr. Robson ,also of this place, has commented favorably on the inhalator and masks brought.

Craig stated the apparatus of this nature on hand at the mine comprised of a few tanks of oxygen at number eleven shaft and pulmotor. He was not in charge of first aid training, and while there had been some courses given in this connection, nothing had been said about rescue work.

Survivor Takes Stand.

TIMMINS, Ont., March 3 (Canadian Press).—A plain, unvarnished tale of the long wait under ground for the rescue which did not come until the afternoon of the day following the disaster was told to the Royal Commission which is investigating the Hollinger tragedy, when Fred Jackson, one of the survivors, took the stand yesterday afternoon. Jackson, a Lancashire lad, gave a graphic description of his experiences and his story held the court-room breathless while the words fell from his lips in simple phrases. Incidentally, he revealed the fact that he had not felt able to work since, and that George Zolob, to whom he referred as "old George," was still in hospital, although able to go out during the day.

Jackson, with a partner, "Vic," so he told Mr. White, was timbering for the scalers in Stope 58, about 100 feet below the 550-foot level, when the alarm was raised about 9.15 a.m. on February 10. Two other men scaling at the time were the stope in the persons of Zolob and Mike Gardej, and there were two muckers, names not given, below. Of these last, Jackson said he thought, when the smoke first came, they had lighted a fire out of some old powder boxes, and when he found out his error he and the others started for the 675-foot level below. Of his progress he said it was "just the same as that of a drunken man."

On the way out, three of them had come across Gardej, across whom they stumbled, and whom they recognized by the new boots he had exhibited with pride a few days before. He had been overcome already and witness placed him face downwards on timber over a raise, hoping that a faint current of air coming up there would help to revive him. He started to try artificial respiration, but had to desist when the smoke came in too great volume and he was forced, after placing a plank on the side nearer the raise so that Gardej, if he came to, would not fall into the opening, he went below, intending to return.

Down went the five others. They tried opening two valves on the air line, but these did not act as expected, and the air space they had hoped to secure did not materialize. Along the workings until another valve was reached and this was turned with a spike furnished by one of the muckers. By placing a plank at an angle of 45 degrees against the wall the air was turned in the right direction, and the little group huddled nearby for safety. Jackson went back to the stope, found Gardej had turned over on his back away from the dangerous side, but dead. This was an hour and a half later.

Harrowing Experience.

Jackson told them of tearing up his coat to furnish his four companions with improvised masks, which they would hold to the air and then apply to their mouths and noses. He used his hat in this connection. He related also how they started a fire, but had to extinguish it because of the smoke, and of drinking water which dripped out of a chute on to a plank. They had little idea of the passage of time after the early hours of Saturday morning, for while there were three watches among five men, all had stopped.

"Mine," said Jackson, "stopped at three o'clock. It is an English watch and I guess it doesn't like powder, for it froze in my pocket."

Six times, Jackson declared, he tried to get back to the stope and the dead Mike, but without success. Then "Old George," taking the last few grains of carbide for his lamp, started down the workings for the shaft. He seemed to fail, then held on, and the next thing Jackson knew was seeing the lights of the rescue party, summoned by the successful trip of "Old George."

CANADA'S FUTURE

source is her water power. Second of all countries in the generation of electric power per capita, she has only developed fifteen per cent. of her estimated maximum. It has increased 180 per cent. in ten years, and in 1940, if the present growth in installation be continued, the $800,000,000 now invested will be increased to one and one-half billion dollars.

"The progress and destiny of any country depend, to a great extent, upon the character of its inhabitants. Canada's greatest resource is character. She has developed and is developing a national type. The youth of to-day will be the men and women of to-morrow. Will they be fitted to carry on this great task of forming a nation? The system of education in the dominion is very complete. Every boy and girl has the opportunity to study mathematics, the sciences and the classics. The school activities tend to develop resourcefulness and executive ability. The youth movement in Canada to-day is a character-building organization and stands out pre-eminently as engendering into the hearts and minds of every teen age boy and girl, the importance of devoting their lives in service for their country. Because of these advantages, many of which were denied our forefathers, Canada is producing that type of citizen that every country must have, that God-fearing, peace-loving, energetic, resourceful and intelligent type that can well take upon itself the task of building up a growing nation. Canada might well have every confidence in her youth, might well have every confidence in her future because of her youth.

"She is on the dawn of a great future. The twentieth century belongs to Canadians because Canada has all the essentials in climate, resources and character that go to making a mighty county. She is but on the threshold of her greatness. Her destiny is beyond human conception. Taking a peep into the future, a few years hence, this fair dominion with fifty million people, half of her land areas cultivated and the remaining resources being developed in the same proportion, she will be the driving force of the British Empire. As one statesmen put it, 'The Greater Britain.'" This is the opportunity that challenges every Canadian citizen, to do his or her part in the great achievement of forming a country that will exercise a powerful influence to secure good will and peace among the nations of the world."

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3.—Miss Wheadon, Miss Stafford, and Miss McGirr, teachers on the staffs of the High and Public Schools, are spending the week-end at their homes in Toronto and Watertown, Ont.

Word has been received that the district oratorical contest will be held in the Cobourg Opera House on Friday ,March 9. Campbellford High School will be represented by Miss Marjorie Ackerman, winner of the local contest held on Wednesday of this week in the High School auditorium. Miss Ackerman was the representative last year, and those who heard her oration then are of the opinion that this year's address is equal to and better than the former one.

Now that the youngsters have had their annual sleigh drive, the older generation is going to take its turn. The choir of St. John's United Church has set aside Wednesday night for this purpose, and the Bemersyde Chapter of the I.O.D.E. is eagerly waiting for Thursday to come so the members of that organization may enjoy an old-time cutter ride.

A few of the real dyed-in-the-wool hockey fans motored to Stirling to see the game between that town and Tweed last night. Campbellford seemed to be well up in the running for a high place till Tweed spoiled their chances by beating them in Tweed last Monday. But Campbellford has beaten Stirling and also been beaten by that village. On both occasions it was a solitary goal that decided the victory, and a hard-won one at that. Stirling bested Tweed in Tweed last Wednesday to the tune of 3-1. These are only a few of the incidents leading up to last night's game, but they are sufficient to indicate a game worth watching.

LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, March 3.— Mrs. Kundle of Manville, Saskatchewan, was the guest of Mrs. McConkey over the week-end.

Rev. W. J. Creighton was in Bobcaygeon on Wednesday.

Mr. Harry Atwood of Toronto is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Atwood of "Ashelworth."

Mrs. May has returned to the village after a visit with friends in New York and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winrow of Toronto were week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ridpath.

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very badly with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

Albions and Maple Leafs Lose Out in Finals

KNITTERS LOSE FINAL TUSSLE OF PLAY-OFFS

St. Peter's Defeat Albions By 2-1 Score To Win Hobberlin Cup.

MANY PENALTIES.

Losers Unable To Overcome One Goal Lead Obtained By S.P.S. in First Period.

Defeating the Albion Knitting crew 2-1 in the second game of the junior city league finals, St. Peter's won the Hobberlin cup for their third consecutive year by a 3-1 count on the round. Failure to back check by the purple and white in the initial period gave the St. Petes an early lead and a chance to set a fast pace which they maintained throughout the remainder of the game.

Both teams were evenly matched, for although the Albions were heavier in weight, the garnet and gold had the edge on their opponents for speed and stick work LeBarr, goalie for the victors covered himself with glory stopping shot after shot in holding up his end of the battle. St. Peter's played a good form of combination through most of the play, with the purple and white showing up well in the final period. Carroll and Hatton on the defence line for the garnet and gold were outstanding in their work in repelling the repeated attacks of the opposing forward lines while Dallin and Weir showed up well for the losers, leading in many rushes and carrying the puck well into the danger area for the red sweaters.

Rough in Spots.

Both teams were inclined to mix it at times with most of the penalties being registered in the initial period, Referee Bill Jackson handing out 16 bench warming terms in all, Howe and Meagher getting a major penalty apiece for staging a scrap on their ownsome. The former was the leader of the rough house gang for the Albions with three terms chalked up against him while Meagher had four credited to his account.

The Game.

Play opened fast at mid-ice with C. Dorrington taking the first shot at LeBarr; Hatton led the play into the purple and white territory by letting drive a hot shot at the opposing net from the blue line which Merret cleared. A three man attack staged by the Albions was broken up by Weir's poor pass while the game launches into a fast pace neither team showing any advantage over the other. C. Dorrington drew the first penalty of the game for tripping Carroll while the latter was speeding down the boards on one of his individual rushes Jones worked his way through the opposing lines for a double shot at the purple and white draperies but no goal resulted. Cripps and Carroll came within an ace of scoring but Merret was on the job and clears in fine style. Hatton scored the first marker of the game 17 minutes after the play began on a lone rush down the sides, giving a real exhibition of stick handling and going right through the defence line to beat Merret on a point blank shot.

Albions Take Up Attack.

Albion boys take up the attack, forcing the play into LeBarr's territory who was forced to drop on the ice to barely clear a shot from Ashmore. Carroll got away on a lone rush but went too far down the boards while Meagher was chased for slashing. Johnson was the next one given a term in the cooler when he cross checked Hatton in front of the nets. W. Dorrington was the next one penalized for trippping Carroll after the latter works in close to Merret to be followed closely by Howe and Ashmore, leaving only four men on the ice at the close of the initial period.

Play Fast Hockey.

With two players off the ice at the beginning of the second period the Albions are forced to lag back in their own territory while Meagher is chased for piling Howe. Carroll leads another attack but the combination is wrecked by Weir who intercepts a pass in front of the purple and white cage. Hatton tests Merret with one of his bullet-like drives and Cripps was chased for boarding Dorrington. Cripps and Jones carry the puck into rival territory and Carroll and Dallin are given a rest as penalty for a private bumping contest.

Dorrington leads a purple and white attack but fail to get past the garnet and gold defence line; Meagher and Howe given major penalty for scrapping along the side walls. Dallin comes close to scoring when the puck bounces off LeBarr's stick. Cuthbertson gives the high school goalie a real thrill in a close-in attack but the game is stopped by an off-side play. Dallin leads another atttack on LeBarr to pass the puck in front of the net twice but no one there to give it the final touch for a counter. Hatton shoots from the outside defence but Merret saves nicely. Dallin carries another attack into the red sweater area but is given no support on his rushes. Johnson scores for the Albion's by rolling puck over LeBarr's stick after the purple and white stage a real comeback in a three-man attack. The period closes with the S.P.S. striving desperately to break the tie.

Dallin and Cuthbertson's attack from the face-off is broken up by Carroll while the purple and white firing line begin to show better combination with the play becoming the fastest of the whole game. The Albion wing man again makes an unsuccessful but vigorous onslaught against LeBarr's post and Ashmore, taking a pass from him shoots point blank at the high school goalie, who clears in grand style. The west end crew take the edge of the play forcing the red sweater gang back in their own territory while Johnson draws a penalty for piling Carroll. The right defence man for the garnet and gold scored the winning run of the tussle by stick handling through the entire team to draw Merret out of his nets for another marker Purple and white retaliate strongly to tear down into the high school end. LeBarr bounces Dallin's shot of his chest and flops on the ice to stop the rebound. LeBarr again clears safely after Dorrington's attack.

Strong Attacks.

Play now becomes more evenly contested with strong attacks by both crews. Howe missed puck on his own defence line and Cripps shot wild with only Merret to beat. Meagher is given final penalty of game for tripping. With only two minutes to go the purple and white try a four man attack with play at the last moment in the red and gold territory. The line-up:

St. Peter's: Goal, LeBarr; defence, Hatton and Carroll; centre, Jones; wings, Meagher and Cripps; subs, DeForge, Houlihan and J. Carroll.

Albion Knitting, Goal, Merret; defence, C. Dorrington and Howe; centre, Cuthbertson; wings, Dallin and Weir; subs, W. Dorrington and Ashmore.

Referee, Bill Jackson.

MONTREAL TEAMS CLASH TO-NIGHT

Expected Both Clubs Will Stage Lively Battle in Effort to Break Deadlock.

MONTREAL, Que., March 3.—(Canadian Press.) — The National Hockey League race and all matters pertaining to the relative standing of Canadiens and Montreal Maroons in the campaign will go by the boards when the two local pro teams meet here to-night. They have played four home games so far this season with honors even, each having won a game by a single goal margin. Their first clash was a 1-1 tie and their last meeting was a scoreless deadlock.

Even on games to date, even on goals scored, both teams will be in quest of the lead as they battle before a capacity crowd to break the present deadlock in the intra-city series and capture the coveted win and an edge in the race-within-a-race for the Kendall Memorial Trophy, which goes to the winner of the six-game series between the two teams each season.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I been following this fight over catching pickerel through the ice, and all I can say is that you can't expect to ship them fish out by the box all winter and still have enough left to make it worth while wetting a line in the good old summer time. They say a pickerel ain't a game fish. To my mind a game fish is a guy what will pay them guides $7 or $8 bucks a day and expect to get some fish outa the expenditure, and most of them is quite satisfied to be able to get pickerel. They won't even get them soon if somebody don't get busy and stop this wholesale business, and it looks to me like that somebody should oughta be the fish and game department. You can play both ends against the middle for a while, Mac, but a few more winters like this and even a pickerel is going to be a rare bird down Rice Lake way.

This jr. hockey serious what finished Mon., Mister Sporting Editor, give the fans some interesting hockey, and provided some suspicious birds what won't even believe that Capt. Hinkler flew to Australia with a chance to say the serious wasn't on the up and up. Bozos like them would believe their mothers was holding out on them when the grub is being dished out. It was a tough battle that post-season argument, even if Mister Lebarr's youngsters did win the last tussle by a city block. They lasted better than the other fellows, and it win for them. And, by the way, Mac, the serious kinda went to show that the O.h.a. home and home game plan of deciding championships ain't always to be relied on. If this serious had been just 2 games, according to the O.h.a. plan, the Saints woulda won by 2 goals, but the Petes came on the next 2 and outplayed them 7 goals, so where does that leave you?

And right here I wanta tell the world that if Peterborough wants to get back on the hockey map they gotta give better support to jr. hockey. Both the 2 local teams finish well in the hole, and when they stage a serious that was full of good hockey they played most of the games to empty seats. And yet local fans turned out and packed the rink for games between 2 teams from the sticks, either of which would have their hands full trying to beat the juniors. The town what gives young stuff a chance is the town that gets somewhere in hockey. If you don't believe that, Mac, take a slant at Kitchener and Newmarket. The Dutchmen, up to this week anyway, had teams in the running in all 3 serious, and Newmarket had 2 outfits right up there, and in both cases players developed in the jr. ranks carried the burden in the intermediate serious. You can't expect to develop kids, however, if the management is left holding the bag every season because they can't count on enough support to even pay the mileage of a visiting team.

Well, Mac, the poor slaves of ball players is down there in the sunny south, forced to eat at $10 a day hotels and all that kinda of thing, while we up here is enjoying the slush and the cold winds. They have a tough life them birds, and speaking of tough lines, it looks like some American League pitchers ain't going to have nothing else but, for I see Mister Babe Ruth has ordered 48 bats, and they ain't no doubt that what Mister Ruth picks from that collection is going to look mean to the pitcher what tries to sneak his fast 1 past the Emperor of Swat.

And now I'll leave you.

Sportfully yours,

JOHNSON AND DAUSS GREAT HURLERS

Veteran Pitchers Will Be Missing From Majors This Summer.

BY BILLY EVANS.

The season of 1927 marked the end of the major league trail for two great pitchers. Their big league career is ended, but their memory lingers on.

Back in 1907 Walter Johnson made his debut as a member of the Washington team of the American League. He was a success from the very start. Last year was his twentieth in the majors. This year he is to manage and pitch for the Newark team of the International League.

The other great pitcher I have in mind hasn't had the spotlight played on him continuously as did Johnson, but for 15 years he had been almost as useful to the Detroit Tigers as was Johnson to Washington. His name—George Dauss.

Manager George Moriarty of the Detroit Tigers will tell you that had Dauss been available for regular work last season, his club would have won at least 15 more games. Dauss in top form would have probably saved that many as pinch pitcher.

As a matter of fact the season of 1926 really marked the end of George Dauss as a big league pitching star. Illness early put him out of the running, but it was hoped that he would be able to go the route before the close of the season. Unfortunately he failed to regain his health and was unable to pitch a single game for the Tigers.

I understand that he continues in poor health and that no hope is held out for a recovery that will enable him to resume his baseball career. Since he has served more than 10 years in the majors, he will be given his unconditional release as called for by the rules of baseball.

In the passing of George Dauss from baseball, baseball loses a pitcher who, while not the equal of Johnson in natural ability, was one of the game's greatest. There was never a finer character, a man of better ideals, connected with baseball than George Dauss.

George Dauss began his professional career back in 1909. This season would have been his twentieth. He joined Detroit in 1912 and had spent 16 years, his entire major league career, with that club. His greatest year was in 1915, when he won 23 games while losing 13. In 1918, just five years later, he had his second best year, with 20 victories against just half as many defeats. His good luck appeared to be five years apart, as he had his third best year in 1923, 21 wins and 13 defeats. In twelve of the years spent in the big show he had an average of .500 or better.

A pitcher who has spent 15 years with so great a team as the Detroit Tigers, featuring the irrepressible Ty Cobb, naturally has run the gamut of emotions. One day early last spring, while sitting on the Detroit bench discussing the old days with Dauss, I asked him what he regarded as the biggest thrill of his career.

"One week before the close of the 1915 season I beat Boston 6 to 1, and that game stands out above all other games I ever pitched.

"When we arrived in Boston for this series of four games we were trailing by one full game. Boston was in first place. We had a chance for the pennant and felt that we would win the flag if we could take the series.

"I pitched the opening game of the series. George Foster started against me. I have never been in a game where the feeling was so bitter and the rivalry so intense. I pitched as I never pitched before, and every inning brought some new incident of thrilling nature. Detroit knocked out Foster in the fifth or sixth inning and Mays finished. But even with the long lead we had I kept bearing down. I took no chance.

"After the game the police escorted Ty Cobb from the field. We all ducked for cover. By winning we tied Boston for the league lead and the fans were on us when the ninth inning ended.

"The following day Boston beat Bill James and in the third game Harry Coveleskie and Ernie Shore hooked up in a pitching duel that Boston won.

"I was sent back in the fourth game and had Boston beaten 2 to 1 until the last inning, when Boston scored two runs and beat us, 3 to 2. This game should have been the most exciting, on the face of the score, but it wasn't, for Boston started the game leading us by two full games and we could not tie them for the lead, no matter what happened. The excitement had subsided, Boston had the series and the pennant."

BUILD NEW GARDENS.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(Canadian Press.)—The New York Sun said yesterday that a sports centre, similar to Madison Square Garden, will be erected in Chicago through an agreement between Tex Rickard and George Getz, of Chicago, who was associated with the New York promoter in handling the Tunney-Dempsey battle last September.

DUNDEE CLEARED.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(Canadian Press.)— Informed that Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, had been cleared in Los Angeles of charges of false advertising brought against him, Jess McMahon, matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, yesterday began negotiations to match Dundee with Ace Hudkins, the "Nebraska Wildcat," in a title match here on March 23.

The project for the installation of greyhound racing track in the Crystal Palace, London, has been abandoned because of public opposition.

TOOL ROOM WINS SENIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeat Maple Leafs By 2-0 Count For City League Honors.

6 TO 1 ON ROUND.

Both Teams Play Good Exhibition of Clean, Fast Hockey.

The Tool Room tucked the senior city championship safely under their belt when they defeated the Maple Leafs by a 2-0 score. The winners went into last night's battle with a three-goal lead, and so won the round by a 6-1 count. The losers put up a real battle, and showed better form than in their Wednesday night's fixture. It was an exhibition of clean fast hockey, and after battling scoreless for two sessions, it looked like ending in a tie.

Joe Meyette, the green and white net guardian, was the star of the game. His performance between the posts was outstanding, and both goals were scored when he hadn't a fighting chance to save.

The Tool boys adopted the same style as characteristic of their former games. Three-man attacks and heavy back-checking played an important part in their play. The green and white jerseys were a little slow to start, but once they hit their stride, they showed a better form of combination which strengthened their attack considerably.

On the whole there was little to choose between the rival crews in the first stage of the game. Having an advantage of frequent subbing without weakening their attacks, the Tool Room were able to keep the fast stride while their opponents showed signs of strain in the last stages of the game.

First Period.

Swanger tried one of his speedy attacks after receiving a pass from Epps at the face-off. Calladine carried the puck away to invade foreign territory. In attacking the Leafs showed flashes of combination work which was absent in the last battle. Foley forced his way through, but is roughly handled behind the nets in a mix-up. Both teams hit a fast pace, but the checking of the green and white boys was not so effective. Gray and McDougal were frequently dangerous in their two-man attacks. Meyette lay across the goal-mouth while the puck was fumbled in front of the net by players of both sides. Gray's pass to Holland carried the play out of the danger zone. Foley stickhandles up to the defence and then suddenly nose dives towards the boards. Corkery, unable to get away, being closely watched by King on the right wing. Swanger drew the first penalty of the game. E. Williams played a good game, and Meyette was kept busy bouncing his shots off his chest. McDougal and Holland's attack was of short duration. E. Williams' shot was turned aside by J. Meyette's skate. Foley grabbed the rebound, but Meyette threw himself on the ice just in time to save. The period ended without any scoring by either side.

Individual Rushes.

Foley wrecked the Holland-Gray-McDougal attack but loses puck to Calladine in an attempt to break through the defence. The Tool boys came back with a snappy attack, and Foley was robbed of a counter by Meyette's neat save. The play was featured by individual rushes, while the green and white boys began to check with more effect. Both goalies were called upon to do their stuff, Meyette getting most of the bombardment. Epps' shot was turned aside by Meyette after a scrimmage near goal. Gray was chased for bodychecking. McDougal's dazzling stick work carried him through the line, but play was spoiled when he attempted to pass to Jarvis. Calladine was given a penalty for rough riding. The Leafs tried hard to hold the play in Jones' territory, and Gray took a pot-shot which was saved well. Swanger and Epps both tested their marksmanship but the green and white net guardian was there every time. Rishea dashed down but Meyette was able to handle all shots by a series of twists and drives on short notice. McDougal intercepted a pass and sneaked a low shot at Jones. Foley was closely watched by King, and the latter worked in close for a shot at Jones. The second session ended still scoreless, and the play a series of attacks and counter-attacks.

The Tool Room broke away at the face-off with a real burst of speed, but Calladine soon broke up the team work. Holland rushed through, and followed in close after losing the rubber. Foley, Epps and Williams gave a classy exhibition of team-work when they broke through the opponents' defence. Foley beat Meyette by driving the puck into the corner of the net when the goalie had no chance to save. The green and white aggregation battled desperately to tie the score. Gray bounced a shot at Jones. The pace became faster than ever. Holland tripped Foley when the latter plays down the side of the boards. Foley came close to sinking another tally when he went through with only Meyette to beat, but the puck was too far ahead of him as he circled in front of the nets. The Tool Makers' back - checking became stronger than ever, and the green and white attacks failed to get past Swanger and Rishea. Williams and Corkery formed a fast two-man attack but were again turned back by Meyette. Hatton's low drive was handled well by Meyette. King was piled up by Hatton when the former had only Jones ahead of him. Hatton was given a penalty. Holland's fine shot missed the goal by inches, after displaying fine stick work. E. Williams ran away on one of his wild rushes, and after going down alone, he drew Meyette out from the nets and scored the second marker. Gray missed an open net when Jones had come out to save. With five minutes to go, the Leafs staged some real snappy attacks, showing that they still had plenty of fighting spirit left. Attack after attack was tried, but the last minute still found them scoreless, but nevertheless they battled right to the final gong.

The line-up:

Maple Leafs—Goal, J. Meyette; defence, Calladine and C. Meyette; centre, McDougal; wings, Gray and Holland; subs., Jarvis and King.

Tool Room—Goal, Jones; defence, Swanger and Rishea; centre, Epps; wings, Foley and E. Williams; subs., G. Williams, M. Williams, Corkery, and Hatton.

Penalties—First period, Swanger. Second period, Gray and Calladine. Third period, Hatton.

Score By Periods.

First period—No score.
Second period—No score.
Third period—Foley and Williams.

Straight to the Heart!

—that's where "Beau Sabreur" strikes with its flaming romance.

A tingling thrust to the spine with its thrills.

A jab to the funny bone with its swift comedy.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

NEW STORY OF SAHARA FULL OF HIGH COMEDY

One of the big points of "Beau Sabreur," the sequel to the now-famous "Beau Geste," is the fact that the comedy element has not been lost, something rare in production of this magnitude. Comedy plays a vital part in the Paramount picture and it is injected in several sequences.

"Beau Sabreur" is a melodrama of the Foreign Legion from the pen of P. C. Wren, author of "Beau Geste." It has been made into a spectacular production by Paramount and will be shown at the Capitol Theatre on Monday. With a cast of noted screen stars, this attraction promises to exceed the success of its companion.

Believing that many productions are ruined for audiences because of the lack of the lighter elements, the producers of "Beau Sabreur" have done everything possible to retain that and at the same time not hurt the tense, dramatic qualities of the story.

Love for one's country, rivalling a man's love for a girl, forms the main theme of this Paramount picture, and about this love there has been brought into play some thrilling adventures on the great Sahara, battles between a handful of French soldiers and desert wolves—and just that necessary touch to bring an occasional grin.

While the main work falls upon Gary Cooper, playing the title role, the comedy end has been turned over to a pair of able actors—Noah Beery and Roscoe Karns. During the early scenes of the story, Beery is a hated desert terror, a fearless tribesman, and Karns is his grand vizier, until it is learned that they are former soldiers, deserters from the service. This gives not only a unique, but a perfect bit of comedy to the tale of "Beau Sabreur." John Waters directed.

AT THE REGENT.

A GIGOLO'E ROMANCE WITH A CABARET GIRL.

Romance — in the hearts of a Broadway gigolo and a cabaret cigarette girl. That is the subject matter of Warner Bros.' production of "Matinee Ladies," starring May McAvoy which comes to the Regent Theatre on Monday.

Back of this romance is a picture of rich and fashionable wives who have lost interest in their fat and bald husbands and who yearn for amorous adventures with younger men during the long afternoons. This demand has been satisfied in New York where these matinee ladies are probably to be found in greatest abundance at the afternoon cabarets where impecunious young men who dance divinely are easy to meet.

Bob, played by Malcolm McGregor, is one of these easy-to-meet young men. The money he earns as a dancing man saves his college career when it seems that nothing can. Thus he meets the cabaret cigarette girl (May McAvoy). They fall in love, but each suspects the other. Can she love a dancing man? Is a cigarette girl in such a place worth his love? These were the questions which they ask themselves, but in the sweep of events such questions are soon overwhelmed by more vital considerations. Hedda Hopper, Richard Tucker, Margaret Seddon, Cissy Fitzgerald, and Jean Lefferty are seen in the supporting cast. Byron Haskins directed.

Arthur F. H. Newton, who recently broke the record for the 100-mile-run from Brighton to London has passed his forty-fifth birthday.

EARLY OPENING NOT EXPECTED

Lake Ship Owners Impatient To Begin Navigation in Spring.

SHIPS HELD IN ICE.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 3 (Canadian Press).—Prospects of an early opening of navigation are none too bright, according to marine men who are impatient for spring shipping activity. The opinion, however, prevails that the river will be opened for shipping as soon as possible, in spite of a reported agreement not to open before May 1, in order to release the ice-bound and grain-laden steamers, one of which, the Eades, is at anchor in the West Neebish Rock cut.

Answering Winnipeg despatches, George Marr, secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association, said that the association knew nothing of an agreement not to open navigation on the Great Lakes before May 1.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows

TORONTO, March 3.— Reviewing the market for the past week it is gratifying to observe a remarkable change for the better in the trend of prices and which seems to have established a definite upward swing from the low points recorded a few weeks ago. There has been orderly profit-taking apparent after the rapid rise in many of the market leaders, but to-day these stocks regained most of their reactions and are in firm demand and indicating higher prices, particularly is this apparent in Amulet, Abana, Noranda, Sudbury Basin, Teck Hughes, Lake Shore and Wright Hargreaves.

Other cheaper issues have also taken on a much firmer tone, moving in sympathy with general market conditions, the most noticeable being those of Aconda, Malartic, Laval, Newbec ,Macassa and Potter Doal. The news that is anticipated from underground exploration and development in progress at Potter Doal and Malartic in the comparatively near future will likely have a very favorable effect on market prices.

On the Aconda and Laval properties extensive diamond drilling is in progress. Aconda in Kamiskotia and Laval in the Serpent Basin area. Favorable reports are being received from both of these companies and it is expected that other important discoveries will be made as work progresses. Also the promising outlook of Towagmac should not be overlooked, especially at the present market quotations.

We have consistently advised the purchase of mining stocks in the column when the market was in the doldrums and those who have taken our advice have in many cases very appreciable profits showing in their accounts. It appears the bull market is just begining and a conclusion can be drawn that prices are still at their comparatively low spots so that we still suggest that those interested in our flourishing and prosperous Canadian mining industry buy at once the more active and promising shares offered at prevailing prices.

Prices Remain Steady, Building Products Strong

TORONTO, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Building Products developed into a dominant leader on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, though fluctuating within a narrow range. The close of 42¼ was a point higher. International Nickel, the next most active, eased a half at 82¼. Prices generally held steady, with changes mostly small. Canadian Oil firmed to 57½, while British American at 35 3-8 and International Petroleum at 37 1-8 were slightly easier. Walker's was the firm spot of the entire list, with a gain of 1½ at 58¾, while Service Stations improved 5-8 at 39.

Big Demand on Gen. Motors Activity Revives in U.S. Steel

NEW YORK, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Heavy buying of General Motors Common, which advanced more than three points to 142, a new high record for the present issue and a revival of activity and strength, in United States Steel Common which advanced two points to 140 1-8, featured to-day's brief but active stock market. Price movements in the general list were decidedly irregular.

There was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Week-end business reviews continued to report improvement in the general situation, with volume in most lines below that of the corresponding period last year. Reduction in call money rates yesterday from 4½ to 4¼ per cent. was accepted as indications of no immediate strain in credit situation.

The demand for General Motors was inspired by the predictions of record-breaking first quarter motor car earnings and reports of profitable operations by several of numerous subsidiaries. Wall Street also is counting on considerable extra cash dividend at the May meeting. Steel Common, which was rather sluggish yesterday and during the early part of to-day's session, suddenly sprang into activity in the last hour of trading.

Wheat and Rye Touch New High Price Record

CHICAGO, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Wheat and rye today both touched new high price records for the season. The attention of wheat traders was directed largely to bullish aspects of the wheat crop outlook in the central west and in the southwest as well. Opening unchanged to ⅝ cent higher, wheat later showed an all around advance. Corn and oats were relatively steady, corn starting unchanged to ⅝ to ½c up and then undergoing a slight dip.

Wheat, March 134⅞, May 134⅝; Corn, March 94½, May 96¼; Oats, March 56⅞, May 57⅝.

Mine Market Firm; New Stocks Leading

TORONTO, Mar. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—A sharp advance in Sudbury Basin and Pend O'Reille were recorded in active dealings on the standard mining exchange this morning and the rest of the market showed firmness. Sudbury basin closed two dollars a share higher at 27, while Pend firmed 1.55 at 18.25. Noranda and Hudson Bay as well as Teck Hughes were unchanged. Lake Shore eased 15 at 23.75 but Kirkland Lake Gold firmed a like amount at 190 and Kirkland Hunton was fractionally better at 17. Dome Mines recorded a gain of forty cents at 11.50 with Amulet another firm feature.

DE LAVAL BOWLING PRIZES PRESENTED

Bowlers Hold Banquet To Mark End of Season's Contests.

The De Laval Bowling Club held a very enjoyable banquet at the Paragon Hall last evening, with about 75 present. The hall and tables were decorated in blue and white, and the tables adorned with white Spring flowers. Coleman Brothers catered in a very satisfactory manner. J. A. Robinson acted as chairman and community singing was led by Bert Cutmore, with N. Nixon at the piano. F. Mowry's orchestra provided excellent music.

The toast to the winning team was proposed by W. Sangster and responded to by N. Webb. The prizes for the bowling contest were presented by Mr. Robinson. The Foundry team won first prize and the Machine Shop second. The consolation prize went to the Tinners. Joe Cooper had the high single; Jack Murray high three, and Jack Ashmore high average.

Individual prizes for high single were awarded on each team.

The following program was enjoyed by all:

C. Cole gave two vocal solos and a ventriloquist act.

Julien Girard sang in French.

Bert Cutmore and Ernie Abraham gave a dialogue which created much amusement.

Mr. Cutmore was convenor of the program committee.

"CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

CHARACTERS

PHILO VANCE.
JOHN F.-X. MARKHAM, District Attorney of New York County.
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY").
CHARLES CLEAVER, a man-about town.
KENNETH SPOTSWOODE, a manufacturer.
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer.
DR. AMBROISE LINDQUIST, a fashionable neurologist.
TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar.
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator.
HARRY SPIVELY, telephone operator.
ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Margaret Odell is found strangled in her apartment. Skeel's finger prints are found on the scene, but Vance believes Skeel had been hiding in a clothes closet while the girl was murdered. Mannix, Dr. Lindquist and Cleaver all lie about their whereabouts the night of the murder. Spotswoode, who had been calling on the girl, had rushed back to her door at the sound of her scream but had been reassured that everything was all right. Skeel telephones that he will tell who committed the murder. He fails to appear, and the next day he is found strangled, evidently by the same person who had killed the "Canary."

CHAPTER XLII.

Nine o'clock the next morning found Vance at the district attorney's office. He had brought several newspapers with him, and was reading, with much amusement, the first complete accounts of Skeel's murder. Monday was generally a busy day for Markham, and he had arrived at the office before half past eight in an effort to clean up some pressing routine matters before proceeding with his investigation of the Odell case.

Heath, I knew, was to come for a conference at ten o'clock. In the meantime there was nothing for Vance to do but read the newspapers; and I occupied myself in like manner.

Punctually at ten Heath arrived, and from his manner it was plain that something had happened to cheer him immeasurably. He was almost jaunty, and his formal self-satisfied saluation to Vance was like that of a conqueror to a vanquished adversary. He shook hands with Markham with more than his customary punctuality.

"Our troubles are over, sir," he said, and paused to light his cigar. "I've arrested Jessup."

It was Vance who broke the dramatic silence following this astounding announcement.

"In the name of Heaven—what for?"

Heath turned deliberately, in no wise abashed by the other's tone.

"For the murder of Margaret Odell and Tony Skeel."

"Oh, my aunt! Oh, my precious aunt!" Vance sat up and stared at him in amazement. "Sweet angels of Heaven, come down and solace me!"

Heath's complacency was unshaken.

"You won't need no angels, or aunts either, when you hear what I've found out about this fellow. I've got him tied up in a sack, ready to hand to the jury."

The first wave of Markham's astonishment had subsided.

"Let's have the story, Sergeant."

Heath settled himself in a chair. He took a few moments to arrange his thoughts.

"It's like this, sir. Yesterday afternoon I got to thinking. Here was Skeel murdered, same like Odell, after he'd promised to squeal; and it certainly looked as though the same guy had strangled both of 'em. Therefore, I concluded that there musta been two guys in the apartment Monday night—the Dude and the murderer—just like Mr. Vance has been saying all along.

"Then I figured that they knew each other pretty well, because not only did the other fellow know where the Dude lived, but he musta been wise to the fact that the Dude was going to squeal yesterday.

"It looked to me, sir, like they pulled the Odell job together—which is why the Dude didn't squeal in the first place. But after the other fellow lost his nerve and threw the jewelry away, Skeel thought he'd play safe by turning state's evidence, so he phoned you."

The sergeant smoked a moment.

"I never put much stock in Mannix, Cleaver and the doc. They weren't the kind to do a job like that, and they certainly weren't the kind that would be mixed up with a jailbird like Skeel.

"So I stood all three of 'em to one side, and began looking round for a bad egg—somebody who'd have been likely to be Skeel's accomplice. But first I tried to figure out what you might call the physical obstacles in the case—that is, the snags we were up against in our reconstruction of the crime."

Again he paused.

"Now, the thing that's been bothering us most is that side door. How did it get unbolted after six o'clock? Who bolted it again after the crime? Skeel musta come in by it before eleven, because he was in the apartment when Spotswoode and Odell returned from the theater; and he probably went out by it after Cleaver had come to the apartment at about midnight.

"But that wasn't explaining how it got bolted again on the inside. Well, sir, I studied over this for a long time yesterday, and then I went up to the house and took another look at the door. Young Spively was running the switchboard, and I asked him where Jessup was, for I wanted to ask him some questions. And Spively told me he'd quit his job the day before—Saturday afternoon!"

Heath waited to let this fact sink in.

"I was on my way downtown before the idea came to me. Then it hit me sudden-like; and the whole case broke wide open.—Mr. Markham, nobody but Jessup coulda opened that side door and locked it again—nobody. Figure it out for yourself, sir—though Iguess you've pretty well done it already. Skeel couldn't've done it. And there wasn't nobody else to do it."

Markham had become interested, and leaned forward.

"After this idea had hit me," Heath continued, "I decided to take a chance; so I got outa the Subway at the Penn Station, and phoned Spively for Jessup's address.

"Then I got my first good news Jessup lived on Second avenue, right around the corner from Skeel! I picked up a coupla men from the local station, and went to his house. We found him packing up his things, getting ready to go to Detroit. We locked him up, and I took his finger-prints and sent 'em to Dubois. I thought I might get a line on him that way, because crooks don't generally begin with a job as big as the Canary prowl."

Heath permitted himself a grin of satisfaction.

"Well, sir, Dubois, nailed him up! His name ain't Jessup at all. The William part is all right, but his real moniker is Benton. He was convicted of assault and battery in Oakland in 1909, and served a year in San Quentin when Skeel was a prisoner there. He was also grabbed as a lookout in a bank robbery in Brooklyn in 1914, but didn't come to trial—that's how we happen to have his finger-prints at headquarters.

"When we put him on the grill last night, he said he changed his name after the Brooklyn racket, and enlisted in the army. That's all we could get outa him; but we didn't need any more.—Now, here are the facts Jessup has served time for assault and battery. He was mixed up in a bank robbery. Skeel was a fellow prisoner of his. He's got no alibi for Saturday night when Skeel was killed, and he lives round the corner. He quit his job suddenly Saturday afternoon.

"He's husky and strong and could easily have done the business. He was planning his getaway when we nabbed him. And—he's the only person who could've unbolted and rebolted that side door Monday night. . Is that a case, or ain't it, Mr. Markham?

Markham sat several minutes in thought.

"It's a good case as far as it goes," he said slowly. "But what was his motive in strangling the girl?"

"That's easy. Mr. Vance here suggested it the first day. You remember he asked Jessup about his feelings for Odell; and Jessup turned red and got nervous."

"Oh, Lord!" exclaimed Vance. 'Am I to be made responsible for any part of this priceless lunacy? . . . True, I pried into the chap's emotions toward the lady; but that was before anything had come to light. I was bein' careful—tryin' to test each possibility as it arose."

"Well, that was a lucky question of yours, just the same."

Heath turned back to Markham. "As I see it Jessup was stuck on Odell, and she told him to trot along and sell his papers. He got all worked up over it, sitting there night after night, seeing these other guys calling on her.

"Then Skeel comes along, and, recognizing him, suggests burglarizing Odell's apartment. Skeel can't do the job without help, for he has to pass the phone operator coming and going; and as he's been there before, he'd be recognized.

"Jessup sees a chance of getting even with Odell and putting the blame on some one else; so the two of 'em cook up the job for Monday night. When Odell goes out Jessup unlocks the side door, and the Dude lets himself into the apartment with his own key. Then Odell and Spotswoode arrive unexpectedly.

"Skeel hides in the closet, and after Spotswoode has gone, he accidentally makes a noise, and Odell screams. He steps out, and when she sees who he is, she tells Spotswoode it's a mistake.

"Jessup now knows Skeel has been discovered and decides to make use of the fact. Soon after Spotswoode has gone, he enters the apartment with a pass-key. Skeel, thinking it's somebody else, hides again in the closet; and then Jessup grabs the girl and strangles her, intending to let Skeel get the credit for it. But Skeel comes out of hiding and they talk it over. Finally they come to an agreement, and proceed with their original plan to loot the place.

"Jessup tries to open the jewelcase with the poker, and Skeel finishes the job with his chisel. They then go out. Skeel leaves by the side door, and Jessup rebolts it. The next day Skeel hands the swag to Jessup to keep till things blow over; and Jessup gets scared and throws it away. Then they have a row. Skeel decides to tell everything, so he can get out from under; and Jessup, suspecting he's going to do it, goes round to his house Saturday night and strangles him like he did Odell."

Heath made a gesture of finality and sank back in his chair.

"Clever—deuced clever," murmured Vance. "Sergeant, I apologize for my little outburst a moment ago. Your logic is irreproachable. You've reconstructed the crime beautifully. You've solved the case. . . It's wonderful—simply wonderful. But it's wrong."

"It's right enough to send Mr. Jessup to the chair."

"That's the terrible thing about logic," said Vance. "It so often leads one irresistibly to a false conclusion."

He stood up and walked across the room and back, his hands in his coat-pockets. When he came abreast of Heath's he halted.

"I say, Sergeant; if somebody else could have unlocked that side door, and then rebolted it again after the crime, you'd be willing to admit that it would weaken your case against Jessup—eh, what?"

Heath was in a generous mood.

"Sure. Show me some one else who coulda done that, and I'll admit that maybe I'm wrong."

"Skeel could have done it, Sergeant. And he did do it—without any one knowing it."

FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Mary, Queen of Scots (VI) — By Nicholas Afonsky

A few of Mary's faithful old friends formed an army about her, and on May 13 she met her enemies. She was defeated, and taken prisoner. In spite of the protests of her friends, she escaped to England a few days later and threw herself on the mercy of her cousin, Queen Elizabeth.

When Elizabeth found that her troublesome cousin Mary had come to her for protection she was delighted—and made her cousin a prisoner for life. For the next nineteen years she was under the surveillance of the English Queen. Then, accused of a conspiracy, she was beheaded in 1587.

As she threw off her wrap and stepped before the executioner, onlookers saw that the beautiful Queen was clothed in scarlet. When she bade farewell to her faithful steward, Melville, she said to him, "Today, good Melville, thou shalt see Mary Stuart delivered from all her cares."

As for Bothwell—he collected a small navy in the Orkneys, turned pirate, and led the Scotch nobles who tried to capture him a merry chase. But he was taken, and sent under guard to Denmark, and put in prison. His confinement drove him insane, and he died eleven years later.

DIRIGIBLE BATTLES WITH SNOWSTORM

Is Forced To Cruise Over Home Field at Lakehurst All Night.

LAKEHURST, N.J., Mar. 3 (Canadian Press).—After battling strong winds and a blinding snowstorm over her home field all night, the dirigible Los Angeles was walked safely into her hangar at seven a.m. to-day, completing a four thousand mile round trip flight to Panama. Four sailors, who were carried into the air clinging to the hand rails of the giant ship when a snowstorm swept across the field, forcing a sudden ascent after an attempted landing last night, were pulled to safety inside the cabin. Another member of the ground crew who hung on until the dirigible was twenty feet off the ground was slightly injured in his fall.

Was Pleasant Cruise.

The four thousand mile cruise of the navy dirigible Los Angeles to Panama and back was just "another successful training trip" to Lieutenant Commander H. Rosendahl. "The only thrills I got out of the whole trip," he told the Associated Press to-day soon after the big ship was safely in its hangar after riding the storm, "were at the start and finish. Between times it was as pleasant a cruise as anybody could wish."

"She's just the right size for this kind of a trip," the commander of the big dirigible said. "Four thousand miles is about enough for her. When it comes to regular trans-Atlantic service we'll have bigger ships."

REV. J. W. McINTOSH TAKES NEW CHURCH

Former Pastor Here Is Installed in St. Johnsbury, Vermont.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Mar. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—One of the largest and most important gatherings ever held in this city assembled at the South Congregational Church on Thursday evening for the formal installation of the Rev. J. W. McIntosh, formerly of Kingston, Peterborough and Toronto, Ontario, as the ninth pastor to serve this church since its organization in 1832. The installation, one of the most impressive ever held in Vermont, was attended by Governor and Mrs. Meeks and a representative body of other dignitaries and their wives.

The ecclesiastical council, composed of the ministers and delegates from the Congregational churches in Caledonian county met in the afternoon.

At the evening service, the Rev. Dr. T. H. Wallace, of Orleans, read the Scripture and gave the invocation, while the sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Neil McPherson, pastor of the First Congregational church at Springfield, Mass., and a college mate of Mr. McIntosh.

The prayer of installation was given by the Rev. Dr. Stephen G. Barnes of Burlington, pastor of the South church from 1903-1912. The charge to the pastor was delivered by the Rev. E. Leroy of Newport and the right hand of fellowship by the pastor of the North Congregational church. The Rev. Geo. Avery Neeld. President Paul D. Moody, of Middlebury College, who followed Dr. Barnes as pastor of the South church, gave the charge to the people.

Greetings from the other denominations by the Rev. W. M. Richardson, of the Union Baptist church and the benediction of the newly installed pastor closed the service.

At the reception tendered the former Canadian pastor and his wife, prominent religious and civic leaders of the state and city gave brief but enthusiastic addresses of welcome. In reply Dr. McIntosh spoke of his native place, Ontario, of his experiences in that province, of the happiest days of his life spent in Ontario pastorates and of his deep regret in leaving Canada, and especially Ontario. He spoke feelingly of the most unusual, splendid and warm welcome accorded him and outlined his future hopes and plans for St. Johnsbury service.

It was one of the most impressive and enthusiastic gatherings of its kind in the history of this city.

Mr. McIntosh is a native of Glengarry, Ontario, and was educated at Williamstown and Queens' College in Kingston. After completing his Theological course he studied for a season at one of the great German universities in Berlin. He has held pastorates in Peterborough, Mitchell and Kingston in the province of Ontario, and at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. His last pastorate was at Richmond Hill, near Toronto. He came to the south, the largest church in this city, last summer and both he and his wife are notable additions to the religious and social life of the community.

FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB MEETS AT Y.M.C.A.

Advertising Study Class Is To Be Formed For Members of Y.

There was a very happy meeting of the Friday night club at the Y.M.C.A. last night, with a good attendance. The speaker was John R. Heron, of The Examiner who told of the work of the advertising man, and following the address Mr. Roper announced that an advertising study class will be organized, any member of the Y.M.C.A. being eligible to join. Applications for admission should be given to Mr. Roper immediately.

The speaker, after showing graphically the influence of advertising on every man from the cradle to the grave, explained the building up of an advertisement from the germination of the idea in the ad-man's mind to the finished message Regarding the necessity for advertising Mr Heron said: "If he who has goods or services to sell could be sure that everyone knew about his goods or services, and would act on that knowledge, there would be no need of advertising. But the world is a busy place, with thousands of things to learn about, and every person is likely to remain in ignorance of many things it would be to his advantage to know unless his attention is drawn to them. In this age of widespread competition, no merchant can afford not to advertise, because if he does not tell about his product he is reaching only a small part of his potential market."

Jewish children show the best attendance at London elementary schools; but they are behind their Gentile companions on the athletic field.

IN MEMORIAM.

CRUIKSHANKS. — In loving memory of my dear wife, who entered into rest March 3 1927:
When the evening shades have fallen,
And I am all alone,
Into my heart there comes a longing,
If you only could come home,
What would I give to clasp your hand,
Your happy face to see,
To hear your voice and see your smiles,
That meant so much to me.
You always had a cheerful smile,
Your smiles I see them yet,
Your tender love for everyone,
I never shall forget.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still!
But death has left a vacant place
That never can be filled.
—Sadly missed by her sorrowing husband, R. Cruikshank, and sister Agnes.

SHAKESPEARE'S THEATRE

That the theatre of modern times follows more closely the form of the old French playhouse than it does of the original English model was one of the impressions gleaned from the illustrated lecture given at St. John's parish hall yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Peterborough Women's Music Club, by Professor W. H. lausen, M.A., Ph.D., (Harvard), professor of English at University College, Toronto. The lecture was entitled "Shakespeare's Theatre," and was attended by a goodly number of the members of the club. In the absence of the president, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. Gliddon.

The address was illustrated by a number of lantern slides taken from contemporary books illustrating Shakespeare's London and from pictures of the interiors and exteriors of theatres in the great dramatist's time. The first views were curious reproductions of scenes in old London, when the city was a comparatively small place. One interesting slide showed the old bridge, built on piles in massive style, with houses and shops on either side, and the heads of traitors on spikes above the gates.

A panoramic view of old London showed many long-ago spots of interest, and another interesting picture was that of the nave of Old St. Paul's, used in those days, not as a place of worship, but for secular purposes. People who wished to hire servants, lawyers interviewing their clients, and hungry mortals who walked up and down here in search of invitations for dinner with those who desired to show off their new clothing, utilized this nave, which was built separately from the choir, in accordance with the ancient mode.

The evolution of the theatre was shown in pictures of the earliest types of stage; first a platform raised on posts, open on all sides, without scenery or place for the orchestra, then the latter method, which placed the same type of platform within an inn-yard, thus affording means, through its entrances, of collecting fees.

Puritan Prohibition.

The Puritan councillors of the city of London passed a law in 1576, prohibiting acting within the city limits, on account of their own distaste for plays and also for the reason that the crowds might disseminate the plague. But Queen Elizabeth and her courtiers favored the drama and the Puritans could do nothing outside the city limits, so here the old-time bear-baiting and bull-baiting rings were utilized and stages built inside of them.

Later when the practice of having college men write plays became popular, several theatres were built within London. Christopher Marlowe was among the first of these, being in competition with Shakespeare, who lacked a college education. The first theatres, curious-looking old wooden structures, were the Bear Garden, the Globe, the Swan and the Fortune, and an indoor theatre in the old Blackfriars' building. The Globe theatre, built in 1598, was placed on land for which the owner refused to renew the lease when it expired. Burbage, one of the earliest theatrical managers, with assistance, took down the whole theatre and transported it from the northern part of the city to the southern suburbs on the bank side. This old theatre had within it an image of Hercules bearing the globe on his shoulders, which is referred to in "Hamlet." All of Shakespeare's plays were performed at the Globe or at Blackfriars.

Views of the formation of these old theatres were very interesting. They were fashioned with the stage proper projecting a long way out. The spectators could crowd around it, almost beside the actors, or even sit on it, if they were influential enough. There were no curtains at front or sides. An upper rear canopy supported by pillars had a gallery above. This could be curtained off, and a portion of the action, depicting an upstairs scene, could be shown, or spectators might sit there and watch the play from directly above the stage. Above this still was the little hut where properties were kept and the small enclosure for the trumpeter who emerged to announce the commencement of the drama. At the rear of the stage was a curtained portion which was often used in depicting scenes of inner enclosures, like caves or bedrooms. A door opened at either side at the back. In some plays, all portions of the stage, the front, uncurtained section, the rear portion and the upper part, were in use. Rich rear curtains, fine costumes and properties like furniture and trees, were used in the Elizabethan plays.

In 1642, the Puritans closed all playhouses. Many of the cavaliers were exiled with their king to France and when they returned in 1660, they brought with them the idea of the French stage of that period, which approximates closely the modern type. It had a proscenium arch with curtains which shut it off entirely from the audience and made it look like a picture within a frame, thus giving it its name of "picture stage." Wings were used through which entrances and exits were made and a canvas was stretched across at the back.

A scene from Covent Garden Theatre in London, taken in 1760, shows this type of stage in use, somewhat elongtaed. With a considerable space in front and doors at the side. Even in modern times, the old device of using a rear portion which might be curtained off and used as a separate stage for differing scenes, was shown in views depicting "The Outlaw's Christmas."

In Shakespeare's time, the French wanted unity of action, but in England, even in their tragedies, the people demanded that a jester be included, and these clowns sometimes overstepped the mark in their speeches, necessitating reprimands from harassed playwrights. Views were shown of portraits of one of the chief of these Elizabethan comedians, Tarleton, and of Will Kemp, who took the part of Peter in "Romeo and Juliet." The latter once, in a publicity stunt, did a morris dance all the way from Norwich to London, taking a day for the effort and later publishing a pamphlet descriptive of the feat. This had a great sale.

Pictures taken from portraits and engravings of Shakespeare were shown, emphasizing the large, thoughtful eyes, the somewhat sensuous full lips and the aquiline nose of the Bard of Avon, also of Queen Elizabeth, looking like a queen bee with her pointed waist and tiny head, gorgeous in her marvellous ruff and jewelled dress. There were views also of Shakespeare's patrons, the Earl of Southampton and the Earl of Pembroke. To the former the great dramatist dedicated his poems, of which he was quite proud, considering his plays as taking second place, and to the latter the first folio edition of Shakespeare's plays was dedicated, after the playwright's death. A view was also shown of the bust of Shakespeare in Westminster Abbey, which was first done in colors, then whitewashed by some officious personage and later, tinted once more.

At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Gliddon expressed the thanks of the audience to the speaker, and also thanked Rev. Dr. Blagrave and Mr. W. J. Kent for the use of the parish hall.

SEEING OURSELVES AS OTHERS SEE US

Lecture in St. Paul's Church Monday Evening By a Popular Canadian Author.

ADRIAN MACDONALD, M.A.

Splendid Musical Program By Other Assisting Artists.

To wind up a very successful season, the men of St. Paul's are inviting their many friends, both men and women, to a gala night on Monday, to hear what promises to be a splendid lecture on "Seeing Ourselves as Others See Us," by Adrian Macdonald, M.A., English Master at Peterborough Normal School. Mr. Macdonald is the author of several works, the best known of which, perhaps, is entitled "Canadian Portraits." This book is published by the Ryerson Press and has had a very large sale. The men's organization of St. Paul's church considers itself very fortunate in being able to get Mr. Macdonald for this occasion.

Supporting Mr. Macdonald, there will be an excellent musical program, the artists being, Mrs. Hazel McClelland, contralto; Mr. George Chandler, baritone; Mr. Harold Snelgrove, tenor; the Male Voice Choir Quartette, and Mr. Jack Primeau.

There is no charge for admission, this being the men's treat to the congregation and friends.

Your Chief Interests

is your health, for that is the fundamental of your existence. If you could find some way to conserve your health, keep you from being ill and postponing old age, you would certainly display enthusiastic interest. But—would you recognize that WAY TO HEALTH if you came across it?

There is a health science that has restored and preserved health for thousands of persons, enabling them to possess that degree of strength and energy so necessary for the attainment of success. Do you know of any good reason why this science cannot do the same for you? Is it possible that your body is of different construction than the bodies of other human beings?

CHIROPRACTIC IS A SCIENCE DEVOTING SPECIAL ATTENTION TO THE HUMAN SPINE. The spine in its natural formation protects the spinal cord and nerves, but if a segment of the spine becomes displaced through the stress and strain of every-day life some nerve fibres will be constricted. The result is impaired function and finally disease in the tissues supplied by the constricted nerves.

Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments do release pressure from nerves, and the fact that thousands of people are enjoying good health because of having taken Spinal Adjustments, is positive proof that Chiropractic is fulfilling its mission.

IF YOU DESIRE BETTER HEALTH, USE CHIROPRACTIC.

MANY IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ON AGENDA FOR MARCH SESSIONS OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL

Will Investigate Circumstances Surrounding Arrival of Machine Guns at Hungarian-Austrian Frontier.

OPENS TO-DAY.

Rumanian-Hungarian Property Dispute Also an Important Item on Program.

GENEVA, March 5 (Canadian Press).—Circumstances incidental to the arrival of some 2,000 machine guns on the Hungarian-Austrian frontier will be investigated by the Council of the League of Nations, which opens its March sessions today, at the request of the Little Entente.

These Central European Powers have appealed to the League to get at the heart of this incident that has caused much concern to several nations, and Hungary has been virtually accused in some quarters of importing arms in violation of the Treaty of Trianon, which fixes the amount of armaments she may possess.

When a freight train recently reached the frontier town of St. Gothard, Austrian customs officials wrenched open six cars supposed to contain iron implements and came across some nicely packed machine guns. The cars got into the Hungarian side of the frontier and Austria declined to take them back when Hungarian officials said they were not destined for Hungary and that it was all a mistake. According to unverified reports reaching Geneva, the machine guns have disappeared and peaceful agricultural implements now repose in the box cars.

Somewhat of a Mystery

The whole thing is somewhat of a mystery and the Little Entente promptly asked for an investigation when diplomatic exchanges failed to establish everything to the satisfaction of all parties.

The machinery set in motion at Geneva is called the "right of investigation" which the Council, by virtue of the Paris treaties, has at its command for seeing to it that the armaments of the Powers who fought the Allies in the World War are not in excess of the amount stipulated by the treaties.

Some twenty-five questions figure on the agenda of the Council, which will be presided over by Francisco Jose Urrutia, the member for Colombia.

Important among them is the dispute between Rumania and Hungary concerning the property of Hungarian nations sequestered by the Rumanian state by virtue of the Rumanian agrarian law. This property exists in that part of Hungary which was annexed by Rumania as a result of the war, and Hungary has protested that the amount of compensation to the land owners is too small. The Council has been striving to induce the two countries to settle the controversy by direct diplomatic exchange.

The work of financial reconstruction, which the League of Nations is undertaking in Europe, appears on the agenda in the form of requests for stabilization loans for Bulgaria and Portugal. The financial committee of the League has been investigating the financial condition of these two countries and will submit a report to the council. The Bulgarian loan has already received tentative approval.

In the domain of intellectual co-operation, the Council will have to give its decision concerning the offer of funds made by the American Council of Education for a fact-finding study of the various European agencies concerned with personal exchanges of professors and students between different countries and facilities to be accorded them for studies abroad. Also, the Council will have before it the draft statutes of international cinematographic institute which Premier Mussolini, of Italy, has offered to found at Rome, under the auspices of the League, for the educational development of moving pictures. Mussolini's initiative, in this respect, is regarded in League circles as another evidence of the dominant place the cinema is occupying throughout the world.

REVOLVER FOUND.

Weapon User in Murder of Woman Picked Up in Snow.

WINNIPEG, Mar. 5. — (Canadian Press.)— The revolver used by the murderer of Mrs. Lottie Adams, St. Vital, was found in the snow near where the woman's body was discovered last Monday. Alfred Westgate, charged with the murder, is held in the provincial jail awaiting preliminary hearing.

Bail Is Granted To Liquor Exporter

WINDSOR, Ont., March 5 (Canadian Press)—Bail of $25,000 was granted yesterday to William C. Dunford, wealthy Windsor and Kingsville liquor exporter, who was arrested Saturday on charges of conspiracy. Dunford, who will appear before Magistrate D. M. Brodie, Monday morning, is alleged to have conspired with William Dolan, Windsor broker, and Arthur Doody, Detroit, to aid Henry W. Johanson, of uncertain address, to obtain $23,000 of securities and a cheque for $3,150, from the rich man Phipps Bond Company, Detroit, in exchange for worthless Texas oil certificates. Dolan and Doody are held on conspiracy charges, and Johanson, who is said to have posed as a wealthy Essex tobacco farmer, is sought on theft by conversion and conspiracy charges. The cheque, which is said to have been given to Johanson,, was found, police say, in possession of Dunford's wife. Mrs. Dunford told police she cashed the cheque for Johanson.

FINAL RETURNS SHOW BIG GAINS

Chamber of Commerce Membership Has Increased 250 Per Cent.

REVENUE MUCH HIGHER.

Interviewed this morning regarding the final returns in connection with the Peterborough Forward Movement put on last month by the Chamber of Commerce, Secretary Frank G. Stinson reported a 100 per cent increase in the total revenue with many sources yet to be heard from. President Gillespie having stated that there would be in the neighborhood of $1,000 to be added to the Activities fund, the total revenue at the end of this month will probably reach the objective of the campaign, $12,500.

"The membership of the Chamber of Commerce, as compared with last year, shows a 250 per cent increase with a total paid-up membership to date of 450 Peterborough business and professional men," added Mr. Stinson.

In writing to the general manager of the American City Bureau, O. Ray Stone, of Chicago, President Gillespie had the following to say with reference to the forward movement:

"Our objective was not attained, it is true, but through no flaw in the program of your organization or the work of its representative here I cannot lay a finger upon a fault in your campaign direction and services as put on here.

"You will, perhaps, be surprised to know that in the opinion of those most closely in touch with the work of this campaign, it has been a success. In the enlargement of membership, the awakening of public sentiment, and in the creation of those conditions which will in time, make for a greater and more progressive community, this campaign has been outstanding.

"Our relationship with your bureau, we feel, has been most happy and thanks to the untiring energy of your representatives, particularly Harry McKeen, who was with us the longer, we, as a Chamber of Commerce are in much better standing and thereby better equipped to cope with the future than ever before in the history of our city"

"RULES" HOTEL WITH REVOLVER

Gannons Narrows Man Arrested and Fined For Carrying Weapon.

George Freeburn, operator of the bridge at Gannon's Narrows, was fined $20.00, and costs, in Police Court this morning by Magistrate Langley for having in his possession, without a permit, a revolver.

Freeburn told the Court that while going through an old drawer in his home on Saturday morning he picked the revolver up and put it in his pocket. Later in the day he came to Peterborough, and before leaving home he forgot to take the revolver out of his pocket.

Inspector Reid told His Worship of the happenings which led up to the man's arrest. Early on Saturday night a telephone call was received at the Police Station from the American Hotel, asking that a constable be sent there. When the constable arrived, he found Freeburn "the cock of the roost,' 'and in a half-intoxicated condition. The constable seized the revolver, and on examination found that there were no cartridges in the magazine.

His Worship, in passing sentence, ordered that the revolver be seized, and told the prisoner that there being no cartridges in the magazine was the only thing that saved him from receiving a heavier penalty. The costs amounted to $4.00, and in failure to pay the fine, there will be one month's imprisonment in the common jail.

Five Men Killed In Airplane Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 5. —(Canadian Press).—Five men were killed here yesterday in the crash of a privately-owned plane. The dead are:

W. W. Bird, builder and pilot of the plane; Chester K. Kidwell, of Ocean Beach; Ralph Craig, of Coronado; Irvin Thomas, of San Diego, and another who had not been identified late yesterday.

Bird, a San Diego contractor keenly interested in aviation, had taken the party on a pleasure trip from a commercial landing field here and was returning when the plane crashed from a height of about 300 feet not far from the field. Employees at the field said Bird seemed to be having trouble when he took off, but he had flown for some time before the machine fell.

FULL ACCOUNT OF EXPERIENCE WILL BE SENT

Aviators Will Report On Adventures When Feeling Fit.

ROUTINE REPORT SENT.

Milder Weather at Hudson Straits Than in Ontario at Present.

OTTAWA, March 5. — (Canadian Press.)— When Flying Officer Lewis and Sergeant Terry have completely recovered fom the effects of their two weeks' fight for life on the Labrador coast, a full account of their experiences between the time their plane was forced down on the ice floe and the itme they arrived back to their base at Port Burwell, on Hudson Straits, will be sent south by wireless.

The Department of Marine and Fisheries to-day received by wireless only the routine reports which are sent in daily when conditions permit. A few words were added, however, promising details of the airmen's return when they are feeling quite fit. Squadron Leader Lawrence's report on Saturday made no reference to the condition of the men. It is assumed here that if they were suffering seriously from exposure some mention would have been made of the fact. The men are apparently being given several days in which to get back to the routine life of the air force base before being asked to prepare a complete report of their adventure.

Messages received by the Department to-day giving the usual facts regarding temperature, ice conditions and visibility are notable in that it is actually milder on Hudson Straits than it is in most of the cities of Eastern Canada.

THE WEATHER

Sunday was the most stormy day of this winter. Though the temperature was not severe, a blizzard prevailed during most of the day, and at times it was impossible to see fifty feet ahead. Lowest temperature 4; highest 34 degrees. This morning we had it 3 degrees below zero.

Here are a few old weather proverbs or sayings gathered from various sources. If they are of interest, I may give others, of which I have a plentiful supply:

"When March has April weather April will have March weather."

"Snow in March is bad for fruit and grapevine."

"March winds and April showers Bring forth May flowers."

"When it storms during the first Sunday in the month, it will storm every Sunday during that month." That is a bad outlook for the remaining Sundays in March.

"If on St. Joseph's day (March 19) it's bright and clear,
So follows a fertile year."

"If on St. Mary's day (March 25) it's bright and clear,
"Fertile is said to be the year."

"St. Patrick's day the warm side of a stone turns up, and the broad-back goose begins to lay."

Many old weather saws are hoary with age, and while they may not with stand scientific investigations of the 20th century, they have been implicitly believed in by our forefathers.—T. P.

GROVE 'OLD BOYS' OF TORONTO HOLD FIFTH ANNUAL RE-UNION

Seventy Former Pupils of Lakefield School Enjoy Meeting.

OLD DAYS RECALLED.

Senior Members of Party Tell of Experiences at School—Head Master Speaks.

Seventy members of the Toronto branch of the Grove Old Boys' Association, assembled in the great Hall of Hart House, University of Toronto on Saturday evening on the occasion of the fifth annual dinner and union of the former students of Lakefield Preparatory School and heard addresses from the Headmaster, Rev. A. W. MacKenzie; Rev. Canon Hedley, of the Church of the Transfiguration, and H. F. Strickland of Toronto, one of the oldest living scholars of the institution. Major-General S. C. Mewburn, former Minister of Militia, who was to have proposed the toast to the school, found himself unable to attend and sent his apologies and expressions of good wishes to the school and association.

The joy of reunion was somewhat tempered by the tidings brought into the hall at the beginning of the gathering of the great disaster which on Saturday befell Trinity College School of Port Hope, known to all present as a friendly rival in days gone past and as a school which was attended by some of the Grove boys. The following telegram, which was sent from the meeting, expressed the feelings of the members of the Association

Rev. Dr. Orchard,
Trinity College School,
Port Hope.
Lakefield Preparatory School Old Boys' Association having annual dinner hear of your great loss. This sad news has cast a shadow over our meeting. We send our deepest regrets in which Mr. MacKenzie joins.
(Signed) W. R. Nesbitt, President.

Along with the Headmaster, President and speakers, were seated at the head table, Archdeacon J. C. Davidson, rector-emeritus of St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough; Professor Smith, Registrar of University College, Toronto; M. B Osler, Murray Alexander, B. O. Heron, and J. F. W. Smith, secretary of the association.

The chairman, in a brief word of welcome, said the splendid turnout of members was a great tribute to the association. He did not wish to boast, but he was doubtful if any other school could get such a large percentage of members to appear on such an occasion. Announcing the telegram from General Mewburn, Mr. Nesbitt said that Canon Hedley had kindly consented to deputize at very short notice.

Rev. Canon Hedley

Rev. Canon Hedley, who is a brother-in-law of Rev. Mr. MacKenzie, said that he was not an old boy of the school, but he had a long connection with it and in fact knew it before Mr. MacKenzie did. He remembered Lakefield well in the old days when it was divided between the "bloods" and the villagers. The Strickland family was largely represented in Lakefield then; how many there were of them he could not say. Since then he had had a very close connection with the school. For many years he had looked upon it with great affection. He went there always when he wanted a rest cure, while Mr. MacKenzie always went to Toronto for the same purpose. Toronto, considered the speaker, was a poor place to come to for a rest and not to be compared with Lakefield from that point of view.

Function of School.

He remembered hearing on one occasion the following definition of the functions of a university: "To occupy with the least harm possible the most difficult years of a young man's life." If this definition were correct, it differed very much from the function of the school which had to occupy the most wonderful and most susceptible years of a boy's life and place within him the seeds of the best manhood. That was what the Grove was doing. When he saw the type of men who

G. N. GRAHAM BUYS EMPRESS PROPERTY

Hotel is Well Built and Has Been Well Kept Up.

The deal has been completed, it is understood, whereby the hotel property, the Empress Hotel, has been taken over from the Chamberlain estate, by George N. Graham, who has been proprietor of the business at this location for almost fourteen years. Mr. Graham, proprietor of the hotel, is also now proprietor of the property. Before going to the Empress Hotel Mr. Graham was proprietor of the Oriental Hotel on Hunter street, and is one of the best known hotel men in the province.

Costes and Lebrix Arrive At Detroit

DERTOIT, Mich., March 5 (Canadian Press). — Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, French four-continent fliers, landed their biplane, the Nungesser-Coli, at the Ford airport here at 2.50 p.m. yesterday after a non-stop flight from Sharpsville, Pa.

The fliers, delayed at Sharpsville by motor trouble, took off at that point at 11.32 a.m. The flight to Detroit, they said, was uneventful, although they encountered high winds and extremely cold weather

Because of a blizzard that prevailed here throughout the morning and early afternoon, arrival of the French fliers had not been expected, and upon landing, they found only the airport staff on hand. They were made happy, however, by discovery that one of the staff could talk French.

The fliers, en route home by way of San Francisco, will remain here overnight and continue on to Chicago today. They plan to ship their plane across the Pacific and then resume their Flight to Paris.

CARS DERAILED NEAR HOARD'S

Sixteen Grain Cars Leave the Track Early Sunday Morning.

TRAVELLING EAST.

A serious train wreck took place early on Sunday morning, on the C.N.R., when sixteen cars of a grain train, manned by a Lindsay crew, and travelling from that town to Belleville, were derailed at a point west of Hoard's Station. The number of men working to clear the way was augmented by section men and volunteer workers this morning, but no information is at hand regarding the cause of the derailment or the progress made in righting the cars.

SARWAT PASHA RESIGNS OFFICE

Cabinet Agrees Upon Terms Rejecting Proposed Anglo-Egyptian Treaty.

MAY DISSOLVE PARLIAMENT.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 5.—(Associated Press.)—Premier Sarwat Pasha today resigned his office for reasons of health."

The Cabinet council met Saturday night without the premier, and agreed upon terms of a note sent to the British high commissioner, Lord Lloyd, rejecting the proposed Anglo-Egyptian treaty. It is understood the premier handed this note to the high commissioner before resigning.

The Egyptian government's rejection of the proposed treaty and Premier Sarwat's consequent resignation was forecast several days ago in unofficial despatches from Cairo. Yesterday's developments puts Anglo-Egyptian relations back to the position occupied in 1922, when Great Britain granted Egypt conditional independence.

It is not known what the next steps will be, but it is understood that the Wafdists, or Nationalists, who were responsible for the break, are not anxious to undertake the responsibilities of office and therefore it is probable that Parliament will be dissolved.

Sarwat's resignation, it is understood, was due to the fact that he was responsible for the compromise proposal in the Anglo-Egyptian treaty under which British occupation of Egypt should continue another decade with eventual reference of the matter to the League of Nations.

Winnipeg Officer Arrests 110 Gamblers

WINNIPEG, March 5 (Canadian Press).—"Big Bill" Eddy, chief of the city police morality squad, arrested 110 men single handed Sunday afternoon. The men were all taken in on gambling charges following a visit Mr Eddy paid to the Blighty Club, which is located in a downtown building. An emergency call put in by the inspector brought the police patrol and reinforcements, and after ten trips of the "wagon" all were safely housed at the central police headquarters.

Masked Intruder Sought In West-End

In answering the ring of the door bell at 12.05 on Saturday night, Jean Eastwood of 408 Belmont avenue, came face to face with a masked man. Not a word was spoken, and Miss Eastwood, greatly frightened, slammed the door in his face The police were immediately notified but there were no clues for them to follow and although the district was thoroughly policed all Saturday night the man had made good his get-away.

NEW MEASURE BY WHICH MEN WILL BE JUDGED

Rev. David Wren Discusses Standards of Service With Rotary.

KNIGHTS OF OLD.

Address is Based Upon Episode From Scott's "Ivanhoe."

That if the spirit of service that developed among the Canadian people during the years of the Great War could be set at work again now and devoted toward helping humanity, a new standard of citizenship would be reached in this country, was one of the striking passages in a most inspirational address delivered to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day by the Reverend David Wren, pastor of Trinity United Church.

The speaker's subject was, "The Portals of Knighthood," based on an episode in Sir Walter Scott's great novel, "Ivanhoe," and Mr. Wren's eloquent exposition of this most interesting topic was thoroughly appreciated by the Rotarians.

Among the guests to-day was Ensign Green, new head of the local Salvation Army, who was given a hearty welcome when introduced by President A. L. Killaly.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian George A. Gillespie, whose reference to Rotarian members of Rev. Mr. Wren's flock who slept throughout the service, drew a pointed retort from Mr. Wren.

New standards by which men would be measured were stressed by the speaker in his fine address. In the days of old, knights were judged by their deeds of bravery, and each age had its own measuring stick by which men were judged. The standards had changed, Rev. Mr. Wren pointed out, and no longer would nations be measured by the prowess of their armies and navies, nor the possessions they were able to acquire, but by the service they contributed to humanity. This too would be the standard by which statesmen would be measured, and professional and business men would be judged according to the same measure. The great contribution of Dr. Banting was singled out as an example of service without thought of personal profit. The speaker dwelt upon the fact that while this young Canadian doctor might have used his discovery for his own personal profit and advancement, he had hastened to give the world the benefit of his research, so that suffering humanity could be relieved.

Rev. Mr. Wren contended that the standard of service would more and more become important in business and professional life, and in other spheres of human activity. He instanced the stage and the moving picture screen as offering facilities by which the message of the Master might be brought forward. Hollywood might become the instrument by which great thoughts might be promulgated to the general benefit.

The speaker's eloquent message was followed with close attention, and the appreciation of the club was voiced by President Killaly and emphasized by hearty applause.

Rotarian Lee Barns, on behalf of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, extended an invitation, afterwards seconded by President Killaly, to Rotarians to attend Thursday's meeting of the local branch, when a scheme to save Niagara Falls from the erosion that now threatens to destroy their beauty will be discussed.

EGYPT REJECTS BRITISH TREATY

Maintenance of Troops in That Country Chief Stumbling Block.

LONDON, Mar. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—The British foreign office today received a note from the Egyptian government rejecting the proposed Anglo-Egyptian treaty which has been in negotiation for some time. One of the main stumbling blocks was the refusal of Egypt to recognize Great Britain's right to maintain troops in that country.

PORT HOPE PREPARATORY SCHOOL IS DESTROYED WITH $750,000 LOSS ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Whole Town of Port Hope Battles In Vain, Assisted By Firemen From Oshawa and Cobourg—Low Water Pressure Hindrance.

GOVERNORS DECIDE TO REBUILD AT ONCE.

Insurance Carried Sufficient To Cover Loss—Classes Will Reopen in Three Weeks, It Is Announced, Meeting in Downtown Buildings.

PORT HOPE, Ont., March 5.—Spreading from the skating rink, fire Saturday afternoon completely destroyed Trinity College School. The damage, well covered by insurance, is placed at $750,000. It was the worst conflagration Port Hope has experienced since the previous Trinity College building was destroyed 33 years ago

The fire started at 2.30 Saturday afternoon and spread with alarming rapidity. By 6 o'clock at night the skating rink, gymnasium and the college itself was a mass of seething flames.

Whole Town Aids

The school is situated on a hill to the northeast of the town, and when the fire alarm was sounded and it became known that the finest building in Port Hope was in serious danger, every available man in town made his way to lend assistance. The fire brigade were quickly on the scene, but it was found that the water pressure was inadequate. The fire was deep rooted in the frame skating rink, and before any measures to confine it to this building could be taken, the adjoining building—the gymnasium—also caught fire and inside of half an hour was a total wreck.

A strong northwest wind fanned the flames and they spread to the chapel at the northeast of the building, and to the house of the headmaster, Dr. Orchard. The efforts of the firemen were then directed towards saving the headmaster's house, and in this they were successful, but not before furniture and valuables had been removed.

By this time the chapel was a mass of seething flames, which darted to a height of 100 feet, fanned by the breeze. In a very short time the east part of the college school proper also caught fire on the roof and it ate its way at an alarming pace through all the floors of the building.

Boys Battle Flames

Masters, school boys, and Port Hope volunteers, did their utmost to clean the building of its valuable contents. Although quite a large portion of the movable contents were saved, some of the most valued mementos of the school, along with priceless furniture and equipment were demolished.

Situated on one of the highest eminences in town, the blaze was seen for miles around and telegraph communication from Rochester this morning stated that the conflagration was seen in the American city.

The people of Port Hope responded nobly to the distressing conditions which faced the heads of the school, and before six o'clock the boys left here were billeted in the homes in this town. Many boys, however, whose parents resided in Toronto and other close western points, left in the evening on convenient trains, in the clothes they stood in. Later in the evening and early Sunday morning boys from Montreal and eastern points left for their home.

The new Trinity College junior school, which is located on the north end of the campus, was at no time in any danger from the conflagration, as the wind kept the flames confined to the building to the south of the campus. The blaze was one of the most spectacular ever seen in this locality.

The Oshawa brigade sent a pump to help in rescue work, but it arrived too late to be of any material assistance. Cobourg fire brigade also responded to the call, but the efforts of the firemen were futile, as the fire had gained such proportions that it made it utterly impossible to save any portion of the building, except the master's house.

Some 35 years ago a similar disastrous fire occurred when the old school was burned to the ground and with the erection of the now demolished building it was considered to be absolutely fireproof in every detail, the inside walls and floors being of solid concrete construction. The fire starting in the college building in the attic ate its way through floor after floor, and the whole inside structure crashed to the ground. To-day all that remains are the outside walls. At 12 o'clock Saturday night the conflagration reached its highest peak and myriads of burning sparks and embers were scattered broadcast over the countryside, some landing a mile away.

Hospital Saved

The hospital building which is situated south of the main building was saved from the conflagration. It was first erected in 1906 and was

Rumanian Couple Plan Atlantic Hop

HALIFAX, N. S., March 5. —Canadian Press. — "I don't believe that the Atlantic is as big as it looks, and I am unafraid," stated Mrs. Lalo Fernic, pretty 23 year old wife of Lieut. Georges Fernic, Roumanian war ace and international auto racer, who with her husband plans in May to hop off from New Jersey on a two-day non-stop flight to Bucharest, while speaking through an interpreter here yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Fernic arrived in Halifax on the Cunard line steamer Ausonia, having embarked at Cherbourg, and is en route to New York to join her husband.

BLIZZARD DOES MUCH DAMAGE

House Shifted From Foundations—Wires Blown Down.

WIND CAUSES FIRES.

Peterborough and district were visited yesterday by the worst snow storm of the season. The local highways in the country are closed to motor traffic and on the provincial highway the going is very heavy. Starting early in the morning, the wind gradually raised until noon there was a real blizzard. Chimneys were blown down, houses shifted, and telephone poles broken off.

All over Ontario the blizzard appears to have raged and in some districts the trains were many hours late and much more damage was done than in this locality.

W. C. Beemer, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company, reported that yesterday's storm has caused no local interruptions. Foro a while this morning several of the long distance lines were out of commission, but by dinner time the troubles had been rectified A few wires were down between Lindsay and Mount Julian and near Hastings there were several poles broken but a gang of men went out this morning and fixed the damage.

Mr. Beemer said there was greater damage in the district between Kingston and Montreal, but as far as the local office was concerned the long distance calls were going through to Montreal.

House Shifted

The house that is being built at the corner of Waterford and London streets by A. Brotherstone was shifted several feet to the north by the fierce gale yesterday morning. The firemen were summoned and put props to the north side of the house, thus stopping it from further shifting.

Early in the afternoon the firemen received a call to 217 Bethune Street, where a chimney had been blown down, part of it crashing through the roof.

The gable end on the east side of South Central school was torn off by the wind and several feet of brick came crashing to the ground.

Both railway companies reported that the trains were running on schedule time today.

Many Chimney Fires

In contrast with the good records of previous week-ends, the records at the fire hall this morning told the story of no less than four calls on Sunday and one to-day as a result of the high winds.

At 10.47 a.m. Sunday a call was sent in due to overheated pipes at 497 Romaine Street, and at 12.12 p.m. hand chemicals were used to extinguish a chimney fire at 479 Bolivar Street.

A fifth call was sent in at 10.33 this morning, due to overheated pipes at 78 McDonnel street.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL GIVES OPINION ON EFFICENCY OF APPARATUS FOR RESCUE WORK

Major James G. McMillan Testifies Before Commission Investigating Hollinger Disaster.

NEED TRAINED MEN.

Favors Location of Rescue Equipment To Some Central Point.

TIMMINS, Ont., March 5. — The opinion of a government official on the efficiency of apparatus for rescue work in the event of mine fires, was given to the royal commission probing the Hollinger mine disaster, when Major James G. McMillan, the mining inspector in charge of the silver camps and Kirkland Lake testified before Mr. Justice Godson on Saturday afternoon.

Major McMillan, who told the commission he had taken two courses in rescue work while serving with the mining troops overseas favors locating the equipment at some central point rather than attempting to supply the individual mines, and he was emphatic that the apparatus was effective only when the men who were to handle it were trained not only to operate it but to keep it in good condition and ready for use.

Major McMillan, who was called to Porcupine at the time of the disaster because of the absence from the district of his colleague, George Cole, told Peter White, K.C., counsel for the commission that the two-hour type of mask would be required to enable men "to confidently enter such an atmosphere," and progress would necessarily be slow because they would have to grope their way.

"I don't believe all the appliances in the world would have availed in this case," witness told the commissioner.

"Why do you say that?" queried his Lordship.

"On account of the dense smoke," was the answer.

Major McMillan said that the apparatus might be useful "in certain circumstances," but the apparatus would have to be in the hands of men trained to operate and take care of it. "Otherwise it would be a source of danger and possibly If the training were kept to a proper standard it would be a good idea to have men trained in the use of the apparatus, he thought.

"I think the danger from fire in these mines is, and should be, extremely remote," said the witness. "It seems to me you have heard enough evidence here to indicate that the material (powder house debris) was just one big bonfire and should never have been there."

Favors Central Point.

To the Commissioner, witness said it would be better to have the equipment at some central point rather than have it distributed among the mines. He feared that, if the latter scheme were adopted, the training of the men and the care of the apparatus would be neglected. To Mr. White, Major McMillan said the usual procedure in mines was to burn or bury on the surface the rubbish, and when counsel wanted to know if any mine had adopted the incinerator system employed in sawmills, witness said in some mines it is burned under the boiler. He instances the Sylvanite in this connection, and told the lawyer a detonator which might get in the refuse would do no harm.

The inspector related some of his experiences in rescue work following his arrival at the mine shortly before eleven o'clock on the night of the disaster, and following a message sent to him at Cobalt. He had inquired regarding the fan, he said, and was told by Mr. Knox, of the Hollinger staff, it was ready to start, but that the assistant manager had not put it in operation because he was afraid it would change the air currents and cut off men still in the mine. The inspector said he had given orders to have it started, which was done about one o'clock in the morning, and soon after smoke ceased to come up No. 11 shaft. Witness said Mr. Knox had told him the fan was set to propel air, while William Pritchard, master mechanic, declared it was set to exhaust, so that an order

Marmora

MARMORA, March 5. — Mr. Walter Wiggins, of Bancroft, visited town on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Prentice entertained a number of their friends at a party given at their home on Thursday evening.

Rev. A. B. Caldwell was the special preacher at the Lenten service at Bancroft Anglican Church on Friday evening.

Didn't Hit Wife— Warded Her Off

TORONTO, March 3.—(Canadian Press).—The following extract from a police court case where a man was accused of beating his wife has its amusing side. The man declared trouble was first caused by his daughter bringing a wild crowd to the house on Sunday evenings.

"They play the gramaphone with the wildest jazz and then expect me to entertain them with a supper. If I crab about it the mother goes on the tantrums, she's Irish. God bless her, I love her." "Your wife says you struck her?" "No, I just warded her off."

BLIZZARD BLOCKS MAIN HIGHWAYS

Campbellford People Unable To Make Trip From Brighton.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5.— The Sunday blizzard, which seems to have become a regular weekly occurrence in this locality, arrived yesterday morning with unusual vigour. A. Maclean Haig, Toronto, who had motored to his home here for the week end, was obliged to leave at an early hour in order to have the slighest chance of getting to the provincial highway at Brighton and thence to Toronto. A tax driver who set out for Brighton early yesterday morning was forced to abandon the return journey after making a desperate attempt which put his car in the garage for repairs to the differential gears. Having agreed to meet a party of business women at Brighton last night and drive them back to town in order that they might resume their duties as usual Monday morning, a second taxi driver was obliged to call the party by telephone in Toronto and inform them that the Brighton highway was impassable and that they would be forced to return all the way by rail.

The storm lasted all during the day, its fury varying at times, but never entirely abating. So far no damage has been reported by the high wind and the temperature has not been uncomfortably low, but the driving snow has made it almost impossible for citizens to move about town. A clergyman on his way to his church was forced to take shelter in a house during a particularly stormy period.

LEAP YEAR BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Mary Moon, of Madoc, is Remembered by Many Friends.

MADOC, March 5.—One of Madoc's citizens to celebrate a leap year birthday was Mrs. Mary Moon, whose old friends united to give her a surprise party. Guests to the number of about forty assembled, and a most enjoyable evening was spent, during which a beautiful windsor rocker was presented to Mrs. Moon with the compliments and good wishes of those present. Short speeches were made, and all joined in expressing their hearty good wishes for continued health and prosperity, after which a dainty lunch was served.

Personals.

Mrs. Fred E. Thain and children, Helen and Raeburn, of Harold, were visitors for a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker.

Miss Lela Weir of Madoc is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Sutton, in Norwood.

Mrs. George Davy of Sydenham spent a week with friends in Madoc.

Messrs. S. Fox of Madoc, James A. Moore, and Charles Thompson of Queensboro, were in Toronto attending the Good Roads Convention recently.

Mr. William Burkitt of Niagara Falls spent the week-end in town.

Mr. Harry Bailey of Vermont is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bailey.

Mrs. W. W. Rivers attended the Prohibition Union Convention which was held in Hygiea Hall and Cooke's Church, Toronto, on March 1 and 2, being a delegate from the W.C.T.U. of Madoc and Trinity Church.

Madoc hockey fans are rejoicing over the pospect of a new covered rink for the town in the near future. Influential men are at the back of the movement and it is hoped will carry it to completion.

URGE APPROVAL OF NAVAL PLAN

Committee Submits Report on $274,000,000 Warship Building Program.

AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Approval of the new $274,000,000 warship building program was recommended to the House Saturday by its naval committee, which declared that the proposed construction was "designed" to meet the most urgent needs of the navy without unnecessary delay. In its report, the committee said that even upon completion of the proposed 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier that the United States' navy still would be inferior to that of Great Britain.

"The program is intended to so round out our naval forces as to make them reasonably competent to support our policies and safeguard our interests throughout the world," the report said. "Its purpose is to insure that these policies and interests be respected and peace maintained.

"It is in no sense a competitive program, since the essence of competition is the effort to excel or outdistance another. The program when completed will still leave our navy in a secondary position.

"The addition to our naval forces of the fifteen 8-inch gun cruisers and one aircraft carrier will serve to remedy the weakness of our fleet in these respects if their construction be undertaken within the next three years. The committee does not attempt to forecast possible further developments in other countries or at the naval conference to be held in Washington in 1931, and makes no proposals for laying down vessels after that year."

OMEMEE W.M.S. HAS 37 MEMBERS

Report Shows Eleven Life Members and 26 Annual—Others Help Work.

OMEMEE, March 5.—The Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church held its monthly meeting with the president, Mrs. Rowland in the chair and more than thirty ladies present. Miss Lillian Race read the scripture while the devotional leaflet was read by Miss Rutherford, being "Enthusiastic Co-workers with God," after which special prayers were offered by Mrs. S. D. Vaughan and Mrs. J. Bushnell. Mrs. L. A. Mahood gave the topic for the day from the study book entitled "Christian Missions and America's International Attitudes."

The treasurer's report showed eleven life members and twenty-six annual members and several ladies linked with the society for the ensuing year. The resignation of Mrs. J. Widdiss, corresponding secretary of the society for four years, was accepted with regret, and Miss Lilian Race received the appointment. Mrs. C. Ivory, Mrs. R. Poast and Mrs. William Earle were appointed to put together the quilt strips that were brought in. Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Bradburn and Mrs. H. Lamb were appointed to arrange for the program for the thankoffering meeting to be held about Easter.

A communication from the finance committee of the Lindsay Presbytery showed the allocation for the society to be $465 for the year, an increase of fifteen per cent over previous years. It was suggested that the ladies be credited with their givings on the annual financial church report. Mrs. Rowland, as Mission Band superintendent, expressed the thanks of the band to all who had contributed toward the success of the Valentine Tea. Miss Mary Weir sang very sweetly "O Golden Chain of Prayer." Miss Florence Rutherford will have charge of the study book next month. A welcome was extended to the visitors and all enjoyed a social half hour with Mrs. E. Bradburn, Mrs. H. Lamb and Mrs. J. Courtney as hostesses.

Fliers To Remain At Fort Burwell

OTTAWA, Ont. March 5. — Canadian Press. — The Department of Marine and Fisheries announced last night that no further advices had been received over the week end in respect to the escape of the two Canadian airmen. Flying Officer A. G. Lewis and Flight Sergeant N. C. Terry, who are now at Port Burwell, will not return to Ottawa, it is stated, until some time next fall.

The engagement of the two airmen on the Hudson Bay flight expedition was for one year, and they have only been engaged on the work for four or five months. Port Burwell was the base of their flying operations, and they will continue to be located there. The Eskimo "Bobby," who was missing with the flyers, is also at Port Burwell.

Objects To Wife Signing For Sewer

TORONTO, March 3.—(Canadian Press).—A situation containing an element of humor was outlined to Scarboro council when a land owner entered a strong protest against the action of a twonship official in obtaining the signature of his wife to a petition for sewers through his property without first approaching him on the matter. Although his wife signed the petition several weeks ago she did not tell him about it. "I am anxious to sell my lots," he said, "and what do I want with sewers on vacant land?"

CAVAN COUNCIL MEETING HELD

Many Items of Business Cleared Up—Community Hall Board Named.

The regular session of the Cavan Council was held recently with all members present and the Reeve presiding. Communications were read from the Department of Public Highways, enclosing a statement of expenditure on township roads and stating that the return had been forwarded to the Treasury Department recommending payment of the subsidy, $4,804.79. Representatives of the Sawyer-Massey Co. and the Adams Co. waited on the Council in view of a prospective purchase by the township of a grader. The usual grant of $30 was given for the Winter Horse Show. By-laws were passed to appoint a board for the community hall at Cavan and to provide for expenditure on township roads for the year 1928. Messrs. Thorne and Ball were appointed as a committee to secure the necessary cedar for township purposes, and the Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and Councillor McGill to be a committee to arrange the printing contract. The Reeve and Deputy-Reeve were appointed to purchase tile and cement. It was moved that the Council send the annual fee of $5.00 to the Ontario Good Roads Association.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid: D. L. Armstrong, $300; R. Hooton, $10; T. Donaldson, $10; S. B. Beare, $17.35; J. N. McGill, $1.20; Telephone Co., $2.67; London and Lancashire, $3.60; J. N. McGill, $150; Board of Health, $8; J. N. McGill, $4.50; W. Lane, $2; W. Wood, $15; Agricultural Society, $30; Purdy Lumber Co., $15; Mirror Reporter, $30.23; J. A. Vance, $2; F. N. Gardiner, $17.40; M. Ward, $8.88; L. H. Gibson, $23.70; S. L. Squire, $5; J. N. McGill, $37.50; Council pay, $22.

Bailieboro

BAILIEBORO, March 5. — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston, of Peterborough, attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Byers on Monday last.

Ronald Deyell has accepted the position as principal of a Public School staff in Toronto.

Mrs. James McRoberts had the misfortune this week to fall on the cellar steps and break a rib, also suffering a severe shock to her entire body.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Graham, of Lindsay, who have been visiting friends in South Monaghan, returned home on Tuesday.

Jay Lang, of Saskatchewan, who has been visiting friends in this locality for the past two months, left on his return trip to the West on Wednesday.

Aylmer Dawson motored to Toronto on Wednesday, where he intends to spend a week the guest of friends in the city.

Joseph Dawson, in taking out his summer's supply of ice from Rice Lake, found the ice to measure about 29 inches thick.

C.O.F. HOLD DANCE

Bailieboro is Scene of Pleasant Evening Sponsored by Foresters.

BAILIEBORO, March 5.—The Bailieboro Canadian Order of Foresters held a very enjoyable dance in Fletcher's Hall recently. Music was provided by the Stewart Moncrief Orchestra. Lunch was served about eleven thirty by the ladies. The committee in charge was: Gerald Armstrong, Reginald Armstrong, and William Lang.

MADOC W.M.S. HAS MEETING

Mrs. Huffman Leads Discussion on Study of Missionary Endeavour.

DINNER DECIDED

MADOC, March 5.—Mrs. Huffman gave the reading of the study book "New Paths for Old Purposes" at the W.M.S. meeting of Trinity United Church, with Mrs. L. Ashley presiding, telling of the difficulties and stumbling blocks in the way of missionary endeavor both in the old lands and the new. The scripture was read by Mrs. A. Reid, after which various reports were given. The Heralds of the Watch Tower reported for the several fields of missionary labor. It was decided to serve a hot dinner on the afternoon of March 17, in the vacant store on Durham street, for which various committees were appointed. A short reading by Mrs. J. B. Hough concluded the meeting.

Along the River Jordan there is not a single community of any size.

based on the former's information had to be reversed. No rescue work had been attempted during the period up to five o'clock in the morning, witness said, as it was not considered advisable to attempt any without proper apparatus, and he understood all the men who could be reached had been brought up.

No Control Over Men.

Major McMillan told how the first rescuers arrived at five o'clock with George W. Lee, chairman of the T. and N. O., travelling in a special car from Kirkland Lake. The Toronto crew arrived before ten, and at noon the first party was ready to descend into the mine. Quite a number of men went without protection, said the inspector, who declared he could not restrain the men when they heard the 800-foot level was free of gas.

"There was no arguing with them," he said. "It was either a case of knocking them down or of going with them to see that they did not get into trouble. I could not control them, so I went with them to see that the man who walked ahead with the candle would not walk into a pocket of carbon-monoxide gas."

Asked if there was no lack of volunteers, the inspector told Mr. White a volunteer without training was of no service in the circumstances.

Major McMillan is the thirteenth witness to take the stand in the inquiry, which will open its second week to-day. It is thought now the taking of evidence ought to be concluded not later than Wednesday, and it is presumed the inquest will follow immediately. C. G. Williams, general superintendent; V. H. Emery, the mine superintendent; two or three other officials; T. F. Sutherland, and George Cole, mining inspectors, and a number of doctors, all have to give evidence yet.

Visit To Dentist Punishment Enough

TORONTO, March 3.—(Canadian Press).—In traffic court the other day a man's wife appeared, though her husband was charged with encumbering a prohibited area from 11.30 to 1.25 p.m.

"I had an appointment with the dentist", she said, "and there wasn't any parking sign." "It's bad enough to have to go to the dentist without coming here", replied the magistrate as he granted a remand for sentence.

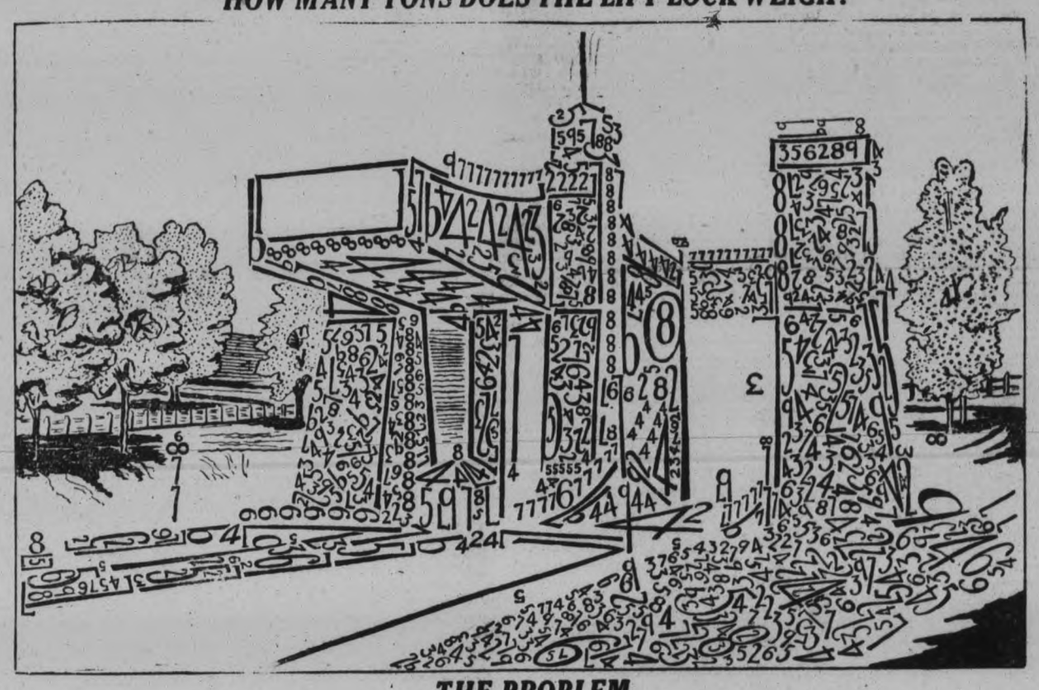
HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.
2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.
3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.
4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.
5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.
6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.
7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.
8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.
9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.
10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.
11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.
12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

SIXTEENTH TO TWENTY-FIFTH PRIZES—$10.00 in cash each.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.
2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.
3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.
4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

AN APPROPRIATE MEMORIAL.

It has been announced that the memorial to Field Marshal Earl Haig is to take the form of homes for ex-service men and their dependents, to be erected in various parts of Great Britain, and a national campaign for a fund of two and a half million dollars for this purpose has been launched.

No recognition of his war services would have pleased the great soldier better than this movement to care for the men who fought under him when the very existence of the Empire was in grave danger.

Earl Haig's activities since the war were confined largely to a most noble endeavor to better the lot of the British war veterans, and of the ex-service men throughout the whole Empire.

To him is largely due the formation of the British Empire Service League, with which the Canadian Legion in this country is associated, and there will be widespread approval in all the branches of that organization that Earl Haig's memory is to be perpetuated in a fashion that fits exactly into his fine work for the men that fought and that would have been heartily endorsed by the late Field Marshal himself.

WORK FOR THE MELTING POT.

If our immigration continues for some years along present lines there is going to be some real Canadianizing efforts needed in this country to assimilate the foreign-born newcomers.

For the first ten months of the fiscal year Canada received 132,620 immigrants, and of these only 46,720 were from Great Britain.

It is true that 21,720 settlers came from the United States in the same period, so that combined with the British-born arrivals some 67,890 of the total are English-speaking, but there remains a very large number of foreigner immigrants to be digested.

And, unfortunately, excellent people as they are, having the same habits, political ideas and outlook on life as Canadians, the newcomers from the United States are never in a hurry to become citizens of Canada in the real sense of the word.

Of those who crossed the border in the past, the proportion applying for naturalization papers will be found to be surprisingly small.

The majority of them never become Canadians—they simply reside in Canada and make their living here.

All in all, the melting pot will have to be busy in the Dominion if foreign-born immigrants continue to head the lists each year.

A CHANCE TO SEE BERLIN.

Saturday's mail brought The Examiner a letter which made it difficult to realize that the Great War is not yet ten years over.

From Berlin came this communication, which included a very splendidly illustrated booklet showing scenes of interest in the German capital and an intimation that the "chief Burgomaster" of Berlin "wants to see you."

And the Burgomaster's invitation says that Berlin has finally got rid of the hindrances of the past decades—it is too much, surely, to expect that he refers to the Kaiser—and is anxious to see every visitor realize the difference.

Although we in Canada are still paying heavily to cover the financial cost of the war, still striving to secure justice and a better deal for the men who fought, still in many cases planning our war memorials, and while broken fragments from France lie in Canadian hospitals still fighting, there is the consolation that is to be obtained from this German invitation to us and our money to visit Berlin.

And undoubtedly if we can't go ourselves they would be quite satisfied to have us send a cheque.

Most Canadian ex-service men probably feel, however, that the best time to have seen the German capital was ten years ago.

THE PROBLEM OF IMMIGRATION.

The Yorkshire Evening Post, one of the most sane and authoritative of English provincial newspapers, offers one or two reflections upon Canada's immigration problem which are worth considering. Thus:

"With the European population at the very peak, Canada naturally gathered her human harvest comparatively easily. Her opportunity to obtain additional population is, however, drawing to a close rapidly, because a new era is now dawning, inasmuch as there are no more extensive, empty spaces within temperate zones. The day of cheap food is very definitely past, and presently the earth will only be made to yield more abundantly through the expensive and laborious process of intensive cultivation. Professor East, of Harvard, after painstaking investigation, tells us that if the same birth-rate should by any chance continue, the world would be on the verge of actual starvation by 1960.

"But economic laws are at work, and we need entertain no qualms. Great Britain now has the lowest birth-rate of any nation, even lower than that of France. Beyond all shadow of doubt, in 15 or 20 years Canada will look overseas in vain for surplus man-power to develop her resources.

"Economists freely predict a stationary or possibly receding future world population. . . . For a few years yet European countries may remain partly over-populated with adults; but Canada's chances to secure more people are dwindling steadily day by day. It requires no great prophetic foresight to conclude that the time limit within which Canada may solve her population problem, in terms of millions of new citizens, is coming to an end."

In other words, what the Yorkshire Post feels is that if Canada does not get immigration in fairly large numbers within the next ten years or so there will not be any surplus population in Europe available. It is something that cannot be dismissed without thought.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA IS FAVORED.

Congressman Clarence McGregor, of Buffalo, is a vigorous opponent of any proposal to place Canada under the American immigration quota regulations. At a committee hearing in Washington this week, Mr. McGregor said: "Do you think it would be good policy to discriminate against Canada, in view of the harmonious and profitable trade relations that exist between this country and the Dominion? Canada's purchases from this country last year amounted to $600,000,000, which is 18 per cent. of our export trade, and the largest business which the United States did with any foreign nation, and even for the first time exceeds the trade with Great Britain? It is something to lose a good friend and that friend also our best customer."

The bill introduced by Congressman Box, of Texas presumably at the instigation of the Immigration Department, would place Canada, Mexico, Haiti, Cuba, Newfoundland, the Panama Canal Zone and the Dominican Republic under the quota law, but it seems to be aimed particularly at Mexico. In any event there seems to be little general support for barring Canadian citizens from the United States. Even the head of the Immigration Restriction League admits that the influx from this country "is of a highly desirable type and we do not believe that a change is warranted."

For Canada's own sake it might be an excellent idea if this country were made subject to the quota law. The result would be to keep at home a large number of desirable young men who are now going to the States. Looking at the matter in a larger way, however, there is no doubt that such action would be resented in this country, and might easily have an injurious effect on the happy relations that exist between the two nations. If this were the case, the United States, we feel sure, would sincerely regret having taken such a step. The peoples of these two countries have, for so many years, been accustomed to moving back and forth across the border in a free and comparatively unrestrained manner, that any interference with this situation might be fraught with most regrettable consequences.—Border Cities Star.

A GREAT JOURNALIST.

Nearing his eightieth year, and just having completed 250,000 words of his memoirs (a task which he performed while editing a literary weekly and writing scores of other articles for the press), T. P. O'Connor has arrived in New York, seeking a cure for rheumatism. "Tay Pay," surely, is the King of journalists. For sixty years he has been writing for newspapers, editing newspapers, founding and selling newspapers; and now, forced to lie in his bed, he still dictates an average of 3,000 words a day to his secretary.

It has been said of O'Connor that in addition to being a great founder of newspapers, he has discovered and tutored more brilliant newspapermen than any man in the world. When he founded The London Star, he gathered about him some of the cleverest writers of that time. . . George Bernard Shaw startled London with his unorthodox musical critiques; A. B. Walkley, later famous with The Times, wrote the dramatic criticism; The Star became a power. There followed The Weekly Sun, with a literary feature, the "Book of the Week," which made it famous. And then came Mainly About People, T. P.'s Weekly—both of them successful and brilliant.

During all this time T. P. was a member of the British House, and never a negligible one. He knew Gladstone intimately; was in the confidence of Parnell; carried on negotiations with Morley; was the colleague of Healy and Sexton and O'Brien. Often he would sit through the stirring obstructionist Home Rule sittings, and then, at three and four in the morning, sit down and write a sketch of the proceedings for his paper and a leader as well. Nor was that all. Not satisfied with sitting in the House all afternoon and evening, and finding time to edit newspapers and write sketches and leaders, O'Connor wrote books as well. He wrote a clever monograph on Disraeli; wrote the life of Parnell; turned out a volume on the Home Rule movement; produced some love stories for good measure.

The readiness of O'Connor's pen has been a marvel even to journalists. It has always been one of his dictums that the newspaperman must risen to emergencies, must answer to an editor's call no matter what happens; and no editor has ever called upon him in vain. He gave an astonishing illustration of this at the time of the death of Lord Northcliffe. The Daily Telegraph called upon T. P. for a long obituary. He had that day to make a long and important speech in the House; he had many points to bear in mind; it was getting late in the afternoon . . . and he had promised the article.

At six in the evening he had made his speech; half an hour later he was in his study sitting at his typewriter. At 10.30 the waiting messenger was handed the complete article. It filled a whole page of The Daily Telegraph, and it was without references of any sort to sources of information . . . eight thousand words in four hours; and T. P. was 74.

Although a Celt of the Celts T. P. O'Connor has never been a hater of England or the English. He has still the delightful brogue that he brought with him more than half a century ago from his native Athlone; but it is as a citizen of the world, a lover of all mankind, that he sits in his flat looking out upon Westminster Cathedral; the most interesting and prolific, if not the greatest, newspaperman of his time.—Ottawa Journal.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Ills., March 5 (Canadian Press).—With buying the most general which has been witnessed in weeks, the wheat market Saturday rose with rye to new high prices for the season. Adverse domestic wheat crop reports from the Central West continued, and wheat export business Saturday from North America was estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, chiefly Canadian.

Quotations on wheat were strong ¾c to 1¼c net higher, with corn ¼c to ⅝c off, oats from ¼c to ⅜c decline to ⅛c gain, and provisions at 2½c setback to a rise of 5 cents.

The finish in wheat was at the day's top level. Despite some pressure on account of reports of rain in the southwest, offerings disappeared fast, commission houses and foreigners showing eagerness to acquire ownership. Besides, numerous speculators appeared to be engaged in spread trading on a large scale, purchasing wheat against simultaneous sales of corn. In addition, previous speculative sellers of the March delivery of wheat were evidently evening up their accounts.

Emphasizing the influence of dullish crop reports about United States Winter wheat, advices were also at hand Saturday that supplies of native wheat in Germany are small and that the German stock of rye is very small. It was also pointed out that of the 100,000 bushels of wheat shipped away from here Friday, the bulk went to millers and talk was current that mills were being forced to draw on Chicago stocks because of inability to obtain supplies elsewhere.

Corn and oats were draggy, most of the time Saturday. Heavy receipts counted as a bearish factor. Besides, weather conditions were favorable for the movement of corn. On the other hand Rotterdam bought some corn at the Gulf of Mexico. Great Britain was also reported a buyer of corn.

Provisions were easy.

VALUE OF OUR DEVELOPED POWER

The profound importance of the asset represented by the abundance of hydro-electric in Canada is particularly in evidence in the coal-less provinces of Ontario and Quebec, which contain the principal centres of population and manufacturing in the Dominion. Here water-power has not only enabled successful competition with the mass production of other countries but has rendered Canada's industrial structure largely independent of foreign fuel. The rivers of the Dominion which are already harnessed, running inexhaustible from year to year, are capable of producing power equivalent to that of 27,000,000 tons of coal burned annually in steam plants of average modern efficiency.

GOD'S MINUTE

"God forbid that I should sin in ceasing to pray."—I Samuel 12: 23

Father in Heaven, we turn unto Thee in the morning of this new day, in loving gratitude for Thy care over us through the past night. We thank Thee to-day for home and food and clothing, for service to which Thou hast called us, and for a measure of health and strength to serve Thee, for friends to love and serve, and above all, for the revelation of Thyself through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

We pray Thee to bless our home to-day; guard every one of us in the hour of temptation; keep us from using selfishly any of the blessings that Thou hast bestowed upon us. Fill our lives with the joy and peace and satisfaction that comes from living in obedience to Thee.

Cleanse and purify Thy Church and strengthen it for the service for which Thou hast redeemed it, empowering all those who preach and teach Thy blessed Word in our land and in distant lands. Fill Thy Church with a passion to finish the task Thou hast given it to do.

Grant to every one we love Thy richest and fullest blessing for this day. We pray in the Name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

CANADA'S LEADING POWER POSITION.

Canada's position in respect to water-power development is one of outstanding importance. Although only only a little more than eleven per cent of her water-power resouces has been developed, her aggreate installation, 4,778,000 horse-power places her second to the United States in the countries of the world. Canada's per capita development, however (502 horse-power to 1,000 population) exceeds that of the United States, and is surpassed by one other country only, viz, Norway.

A Thought

GRACIOUSNESS.

We suspect that some persons resist the impulse to be gracious and are distrustful of it in others because of a feeling that it implies an attitude of condecension. It is unfortunate if one of the most attractive manifestations of human kindliness and sympathy is often held in abeyance through fear that it may be interpreted as a gesture of superiority. Graciousness may be shown by those who are in an inferior position as well as by those who are in a superior; it is equally charming whether it is the expression of appreciation for a favor received or of happiness in rendering a service.

Graciousness in giving does not inevitably imply graciousness in receiving. Sometimes we see persons who give graciously but who as beneficiaries of the kindness of others make a poor response and accept the situation grudgingly. A charming hostess is not invariably a satisfactory guest. And sometimes the persons who are spontaneous enough in showing their appreciation of a kindness are shy and awkward in manner when they try to do a kindness, with the result that the person who is the object of their attention feels that their interest is only half-hearted.

Graciousness, whether in giving or in receiving, means complete surrender to the spirit of good-will. It is inhibited by self-consciousness, pride, introspection and the analysis of motives.

REMOVING FILM EACH DAY does in a small way what your dentist does by cleaning teeth. Thus Anne Pomeroy is urged by her doctor to use Pepsodent.

Film-Free Teeth are white and sparkling

They provide the utmost science knows in teeth and gum protection

RUN your tongue across your teeth and you will feel a film. This film, in the light of recent dental findings, is a menace to pretty teeth and healthy gums.

Film absorbs stains and turns white teeth dull, "off color." It is the chief cause of the commoner tooth and gum disorders. It clings to teeth and stays.

Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Film must be removed each day. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

No other will make teeth as sparkling white. Mail coupon or ask your druggist for Pepsodent.

OBITUARY

ROSE BLACK.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5. — The funeral of the late Rose Black was held from the residence of her brother Charles Black, Ranney Street, this morning at nine o'clock, to St. Mary's Church, where Requiem Mass was sung by the Reverend Father Phelan. Interment was made at St. Mary's Cemetery.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Black. Born in Campbellford, she received her education at the local schools and remained at home as a companion for her mother. At the time of her death and for a few weeks previous, she had been residing in the city of Kingston. She had been ill for only a few days, although her health had not been of the best for some months. Death occurred Friday afternoon, March 2nd. She is survived by her brothers, Charles of Campbellford, John and Daniel of New York City, Harry of Port Arthur, and James of Cleveland, Ohio. There are also five sisters: Sister Adrien of Peterboro, Mrs. L. J. J. Commiskey of New York, Mrs. W. J. Hawkrigg of Cleveland, Sarah of New York, and Helen of Kingston.

Many floral tributes and spiritual bouquets testify to the esteem in which the deceased was held by a wide circle of friends.

MRS. DONALD GRAHAM.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5. — The many friends of Donald Graham, of Detroit, were greatly shocked to learn of the death of his wife on Friday, March 2. Mrs. Graham had suffered an attack of pneumonia but was considered to be improving when she suddenly suffered a relapse and died late Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Graham were on the eve of the fourth anniversary of their wedding when the fatal illness occurred. The body of the late Mrs. Graham was removed to her parents' home in Stratford, Ont., where the funeral service was conducted yesterday. She is survived by her husband and a son about two and a half years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham, Campbellford, parents of Donald Graham, received word Friday that their daughter-in-law was improving, and that their son was returning to his employment at the Ford automobile works. The following day they received word of her death, and at once left for Stratford. Their daughters, Edna, of Jersey City, and Jennie, New York City, also attended the funeral. During the illness of the late Mrs. Graham. Miss Jennie Graham was in attendance as a professional nurse.

MRS. EDWARD McCORRY.

MILLBROOK, March 5. — The funeral of Mrs. Edward McCorry (Elizabeth Blackstock Russell) took place on Friday, March 2, at 2.30 p. m., from Grace Presbyterian Church, Rev. John Riddell officiating.

Deceased, who was born in Peterborough, passed away the previous Thursday, following an illness of several months' duration. She is survived by her husband, an only daughter, Miss Bella, at home, one brother, W. H. Russell of Cobourg, and one sister, Mrs. R. Henderson, of Pontypool.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. G. Fowler, J. L. Byam, G. A. Duncan, T. H. Bradley, J. H. Paul, and I. M. Nattress Carrying the floral tributes were three nephews, Edward Budd, Foster and Garnett Russell. Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

WHEAT GROWN WITHOUT SUN ON REAL SOIL AT UNIVERSITY

Science Produces Hardy Plant Using Electric Light and Chemical.

SAVES TIME IN GROWTH.

Proves Length of Light Period Most Important to Growing Plants.

BERKELEY, March 5. — Science has cast the light of knowledge over another age-old belief by proving that plants may be grown to maturity without the aid of sunlight.

Wheat which has known neither the supposedly essential rays of old Sol nor the life giving touch of Mother Earth is being grown at the University of California, and has been grown to maturity it was revealed here.

Nature's laboratory which nurtures growing things has been outdone by man using artificial light to replace the sun and chemically treated water to replace the soil.

These experiments revealed to-day for the first time, have been conducted over a period of two years by Professor A. R. Davis of the Department of Agricultural Chemistry, assisted by Professor D. R. Hagland. Their laboratory was established at the university greenhouses.

Professor Davis sought, however, not merely the successful growing of wheat by artificial light and without soil, but to learn by this means more of the nature of plants and the causes of growth or retardation under given conditions.

Light Turns Trick.

He sought to create a standard plant by artificial means, and thus conceived the light chamber where a battery of twelve argon filled lamps of 300 candle power each supply steady light for any required period. No sunlight enters this chamber.

He grew the wheat in jars filled with water containing the seven essential chemicals elements of the soil. By this means he obtained a food source which could be maintained at one level without the fluctuations common to soil.

Experiments of this nature had been conducted before but never had they been carried to such successful conclusions. The university laboratory produced mature wheat which, analysis disclosed, was better than the grain grown under the best normal conditions.

Saves Seven Weeks.

This wheat was grown in thirteen weeks, as compared with five months for normal growth.

It was established beyond doubt that length of the light period is most important to growing plants.

In interior Alaska and Northern British Columbia heavy yields of grain are obtained, although the temperature is normally below that of California. Professor Davis' experiments show that this is due to the greater length of the day.

But, even if the sun were to remain at its zenith for hours, the plant would not benefit accordingly, much of the heat of the noonday sun is wasted. The plant's growth is in proportion to its ability to absorb carbon dioxide from the air, and the amount of that element available remains unchanged throughout the day.

In the laboratory experiments, Professor Davis protected the plants from atmosphere variations by confining them in a glass chamber. Sixteen hours a day, unusually at night, the battery of lights glared down.

Light Spread Growth.

If the length of light exposure was doubled, the plant development increased by four. Plants subjected to eight hours light exposure grew faster than those grown in a greenhouse under normal conditions. Twenty-four hours light exposure shot the plants upward at an astounding rate.

Previous experimenters in this pioneer field were troubled by the infra-red, or heat, rays from the lamps, and used a water screen to solve the problem. But this was an unsatisfactory solution and Professor Davis found the correct one. He circulated air through the glass chamber by means of an electric fan.

It was established that the sun rays which contribute to plant growth are present in the electric light rays, even to the longer ultra violet rays.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest.

PORT HOPE PREPARATORY

later moved and rebuilt into the modern building it now is through the generosity of Mrs. Harry Patterson, and a legacy left by the late Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnston, who was the first boy to enter Trinity College School.

Fire Chief Richard Ware characterized the blaze as the worst in his 40 years of experience as a fireman, and stated that if he had been equipped with a fire pump or even had the pressure in the hydrants been normal that the fire would not have reached the proportions it did. He also blamed the gale which blew from the northwest, and not only fanned the flames but drove burning embers to other parts of the building.

While the roof of the school was of slate and fireproof under ordinary conditions, the terrific heat of the flames from the adjoining gymnasium ignited the woodwork under the slates and in a very short space of time the fire had gained such proportions that it was utterly impossible for anything to be done with it. Fire Chief Ware also pointed out that strictly speaking, the firemen were not required to attend the fire, as the college is situated outside the town limits, but every member of the volunteer brigade was on hand from the first alarm until after midnight.

Rebuild At Once.

Dr. Orchard stated that arrangements would be made for the immediate rebuilding of the school, but in the meantime the boys were all being sent home and this recess of three weeks would be looked upon as the Easter recess. On their return, classes will be re-opened in the hospital building and in downtown buildings in Port Hope. He stated that he was proud of his pupils and was thankful that there was no loss of life. The building is fully covered by insurance.

At the meeting of the Board of Governors held in Port Hope yesterday afternoon, those present were F. Gordon Osler, of Toronto; Percy Henderson, of Toronto, and Dyce W. Saunders, of Toronto, and the headmaster, Rev. F. G. Orchard. The meeting was held in the hosptal of the boys be given two weeks' holidays the school and it was decided that and that a new building be commenced immediately to be completed in 18 months' time. The architects are Darling and Pearson, of Toronto, the late Mr. Darling being an old T.C.S. boy.

Wedding Bells

LAKEFIELD, March 5.—The marriage took place in Vancouver, B.C., on February 15th, of Stella Irene Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison of Lakefield, to Mr. James Gordon of Glasgow, Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will reside in Vancouver.

The bride is well known in this locality, and many friends will be interested in the happy event.

AT MARMORA

MARMORA, March 5.—Following are the week-end retail market prices:

Beef, sirloin, 30c; round, 25c; roast, 18 and 20 cents a pound; stew, 15c; pork, 20 and 22 cents; veal, 15 to 35c; breakfast bacon, 35 and 40 cents a pound; butter, creamery, 45c, dairy, 40c; eggs, fresh, 40c, storage, 35c dozen; potatoes, 35c peck; $2 a bag; hay, $10 a ton; oats, 60c bushel.

ALMOST everybody in this country suffers, at some time, from constipation or at least from faulty elimination of waste from the system. Millions are always "not as well as they should be" because their systems are daily absorbing a certain amount of poison.

And yet so easily is this condition prevented. Provide enough roughage in the diet. Eat delicious, tempting Post's Bran Flakes once a day. Post's Bran Flakes is a roughage food which acts as a body regulator.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. You will find it as good as any cereal you ever tasted.

Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time.

But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity.

Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation brought about by too little roughage in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

The Fast Way to Health

© 1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

MEALTIMES.

When shall we eat? The simple answer to this question is: When you are hungry—at no other time. Most of you would have to wait a good many days if you observed this rule to the letter. This is because you are probably overstuffed at the moment you are reading this article.

If no food is taken until normal hunger reasserts itself, you would be surprised how long you would be forced to wait. This is due to the long-continued habit of eating whatever you desire at regular mealtimes whether you are hungry or not.

Of course, you usually have an appetite after you start eating, but this must not be confused with real hunger. A pickle always tastes good, and will excite the taste buds in the mouth, but this is purely an irritation of an artificial nature and has nothing in common with the body's desire for nourishment with which to repair and develop the tissues.

The natural craving for food is no doubt the greatest at the moment of awakening in the morning. If you are one who is never hungry in the morning it is because you are in the habit of eating too much at the evening meal. If the body is at any time ready for more food, it should be after fasting for twelve hours, as you do at night. However, if you are not eager for food at this time because of former dietetic indiscretions, by all means wait until noon, at least, before you take any kind of food. Wash out your tired stomach with a pint of water at the ordinary temperature of faucet water, and continue using only water until you have developed a wholesome desire for some plain food. This desire may develop by lunch time, or perhaps not until time for the evening meal.

One sensible meal, each evening, for a few days may be all that is necessary. On the other hand, if breakfast is relished, you will often find that you are not eager for a heavy lunch. A glass of orange juice or some other kind of fruit will be easily digested, and thus more zest will be given to the evening meal. I believe that this meal at the end of the day should be the most carefully selected of the three.

If you are tired after a day of mental overwork, the best plan is to refresh yourself with a bath and lie down for a few moments of complete relation before attempting to digest even the best of food. Then be sure to not overeat. If you feel sleepy an hour or two after this meal, it is usually a sign that you have eaten more food than your body has energy to digest. Resolve that the next night you will reduce the amount of food considerably, and continue reducing the quantity each day until you can spend several hours each evening after dinner without the accustomed feeling of languor most people expect after a hearty meal. If you do this, you will be surprised and delighted to awaken each morning with an eagerness for breakfast you have not experienced in many years.

But remember, a strong desire for wholesome food will not be possible unless you exercise your body each day, and encourage your muscles to call for more nourishment. Mental exercise alone is not sufficient to give you that normal hunger you enjoyed as an active youngster.

Questions and Answers:

Question—B. A. asks: "What causes a subnormal temperature of from one to two degrees? It runs from two degrees in the morning to one below in the afternoon. My blood pressure is low and I am cold all the time. What would be the causes of these different conditions?"

Answer: A subnormal temperature, with a low blood pressure, shows that you are greatly enervated and require a very definite course in physical culture to bring your strength back to normal. Besides regulating your diet carefully, the one thought for you to keep in mind, and to practise in principal, is to increase your exercises each day, both by taking calisthenic exercises and by

Question—E. S. asks: "Will you kindly advise as to the effect of raw sauerkraut juice upon the system, and whether or not you would recommend it for constipation?"

Answer: The effect of sauerkraut juice is mostly to increase the action of the intestines and therefore it must be considered the same as a laxative. Of course, the juice from sauerkraut contains many valuable organic minerals but the large amount of salt used in the preparation of sauerkraut nullifies much of the good effect which can be more wholesomely secured from plain raw cabbage.

Question—F. Y. asks: "Will you kindly tell me if an operation for a hernia is necessary? If not, I would like to know the best way of removing it."

Answer: An operation for hernia or rupture is seldom necessary, as this trouble can generally be cured through developing the abdominal muscles which when well developed, will hold back the protruding perioneum wall. It is well to wear a suitable support which lightly holds the rupture in place but does not protrude into the weak spot.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

THROUGH DUSK OR DAWN

Has God forsaken you, or you
Forgotten God a little while?
He did not promise all life through
That we should smile.
Is He a God, or is He none,
This God of yours? Or is He one
To praise in joy, to seek in pain,
To follow through the shining sun
And through the rain?

Yes, when He leads us through the vales,
Then shall we fail to follow Him?
The night is not all nightingales
And cherubim.
How poorly we esteem a friend
Who loves us only when we spend:
And what of those who turn aside
From God when pleasure's at an end,
Some joy denied?

I pray we have a better faith
Than just the faith of happy days—
To love through life, to love through death,
Through all our ways.
Just why we do not always know,
But if the vale's the path to do,
I hope that we shall follow on,
Yes, through the roses or the snow,
Through dusk or dawn.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Light-weight striped flannel is a good choice for the spring lounging or bathrobe of the very young man.

Some mothers seem to take the attitude with regard to the apparel of their young sons that after the age of five or six boys clothes are rather hideous anyway and that there is nothing much to do about it, besides seeing that their clothes are mended, reasonably clean and sufficiently warm.

Russet Shades Prevail.

It is really a mistake to imagine that boys of seven or eight or so cannot be dressed as attractively and as smartly as their sisters. I visited a shop today where I saw a display of the new suits and accessories for young boys and realized that enormous strides have recently been taken in improving the cut, finish and general taste of clothes for our young boys. There are suits of soft brown tweeds appropriate for spring, and accessories chosen to go with these suits are often of a warm russet color.

Instead of the waistcoat or vest which was once considered indispensable there are slip-on sweaters of thin wool, made with horizontal stripes sometimes of brown and tan, sometimes of brown and white and sometimes introducing a stripe of blue of a sort that have been worn abroad for several seasons but which until lately were not generally to be had in this country.

His Ensemble.

Let me suggest then for the young man's spring suit one of these soft brown suits made with knickers or straight short trousers—which are now worn by boys of ten or eleven, though formerly considered appropriate only for younger boys. With this a tie of russet color, brown socks to harmonize with the tweed suit and russet oxfords. Then a light-weight slip-on sweater, shirts of beige or white madras made with fairly low collras and a soft felt hat of light brown. Then, if you will, a pair of tan or light brown gloves and you have an ensemble that, though not necessarily expensive, is certainly good to see.

For the mother who must dress her son or sons at small expense it is possible to make the shirts, pajama and even underwear at home. For every-day wear a pair of inexpensive brown cotton corduroy trousers, home-made shirt and hand-knit slip-on sweater—made if you like from an old sweater ripped up and washed at home —and you will need very little else. The dressing gown made of light-weight striped flannels is something that may easily be constructed at home.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, MARCH 6, 1928.

Expect early in the morning this is an unfavorable day in planetary direction, according to astrology.

There is a fairly good sign for going over accounts or for entering into financial agreements.

Newspapers and magazines should benefit under this rule of the stars which makes for large profits.

The public is to turn to reading with renewed zest, it is foretold, and for a time places of amusement may suffer loss.

This is an unfavorable day for seeking support or arousing interest in any business project or political candidate.

It is not a lucky date for those who seek employment and it is wise to delay all applications for positions.

Real estate dealers are subject to discouraging influences under this direction of the stars, which are believed to prevent sales and to affect values.

All the signs indicate progress in business and professional development. Old traditions and customs vanish under this planetary government.

Thwarting and obstructing influences may be apparent in big engineering enterprises, while this sway prevails, but tremendous achievements are forecast in 1928.

Abain the aspects are not favorable toward harmony either in great international conventions and conferences or in families or churches.

Warning is given that the stars seem to encourage egotism and the sort of individualism that prevents united effort in any organized body.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of changes in the coming year. It is well not to antagonize those who are strong or powerful.

Children born on this day probably will have the most exalted ambitions. They should be wisely guided.

Naturally Lovable

"That Schoolgirl Complexion"

—is kept and safeguarded by thousands through following this simple rule in daily skin care

As more women become skilled in the ways of beauty, more and more turn to natural ways in skin care.

That means a clear skin; pores kept free of accumulations to perform their functions naturally.

Thus modern beauty culture starts with soap and water; its only secret being the KIND of SOAP one uses—and how.

Palmolive is a beauty soap. A soap made of bland and soothing cosmetic oils, solely for one purpose; to safeguard the complexion. A soap made to be used freely, lavishly on the skin.

Used in the following way, it is credited with more beautiful skins, probably, than any other beauty method. Its results you see on every side today.

The rule to follow if guarding a good complexion is your goal

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Soap from trees!

The only oils in Palmolive Soap are the soothing beauty oils from the olive tree, the African palm, and the coconut palm — and no other fats whatsoever. That is why Palmolive Soap is the natural color that it is—for palm and olive oils, nothing else, give Palmolive its natural green color.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows

TORONTO, March 5.—The feature of this morning's market was that of Sudbury Basin, which sold as high as $10.25 per share, then easing off under heavy profit-taking, which has been afforded by the rapid advance in price of this stock during the past few days.

Kirkland Lake Gold also appeared in strong demand, and was selling by noon as high as $2 per share, apparently on further reports of good ore being developed on the 2,725-foot level.

Wright-Hargreaves broke through the $5 mark again and we would not be surprised to see considerably higher prices for this stock during the next few months. Also Teck Hughes and Lake Shore were well taken at prevailing prices. A little profit-taking was evident in Amulet, which opened up strong at $4.50 per share, and also in Abana, which seemed in good demand at $3.

Judging by market action both of these issues look good for higher prices. The market as a whole appears firm and it look as though it is only a breathing place in what is now recognized as a general upward movement of prices much of the constructive news that has been accumulating during the past; bear market is gradually receiving due publicity and we believe that the aggregate result will be a continuation of rising prices. The mining industry, particularly of Ontario, Manitoba and North-West Quebec, has never looked better in its history and we certainly believe it is quite possible that the high records of 1927, both in daily transactions and in prices will be superseded during 1928.

Brading Breweries Declare Dividend

The Preference dividend of 1¾ per cent, declared by the Brading Breweries reflects the steady rate of progress of this old established Ottawa brewery.

During the past three years the plant has been twice enlarged, and when the present alterations and additions are complete, all trace of the old buildings erected in 1865 will have disappeared.

In their place, there will be a modern, fully equipped brewery, with a storage capacity of 3,000,000 pint bottles.

Sales have steadily increased since the Ontario Liquor Commission's method of distribution has become settled, and future prospects look particularly bright.

General Motors Run Up To New Record To-day

NEW YORK, Mar. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Violent bidding for the common stock of the General Motors Corporation which was run up early four points to another new high record at 148 on an enormous turnover, again monopolized speculative interest in to-day's stock market. With General Motors, United States' Steel common and American Can in the forefront of a broad advance, the general market showed signs of breaking out of the narrow trading area within which it has been fluctuating for the past month or so.

General Motors continued to respond to predictions of record breaking first quarter earnings. Several of the other motors followed in its wake, notably Willy Overland common and preferred, which also reached new high ground for the year. Dupont, which has large General Motor holdings, jumped nine points to 342, or within two points of the record high for all time established last year.

Sudbury Basin Leads Strong Mining Market

TORONTO, March 5 (Canadian Press). — Sudbury Basin, appearing for the first time on the listed section of the Standard Mining Exchange today, featured a strong market, advancing past the ten-dollar mark. The noon close at 9.75 bid was a gain of about 75 cents. Pend O'Reille jumped ahead more than a dollar to 19.50. The Kirkland Lake issues were strong, with Wright Hargreaves selling through to 5.10, a gain of twenty, and Kirkland Lake Gold closing at noon at 2.00 for a gain of ten cents. The Quebec issues were quiet, but firm, while McDougal jumped sharply to 59½, up five. The big Porcupine stocks were generally steady.

Wheat Prices Go Up While Corn Recedes

CHICAGO, March 5 (Canadian Press)—Wheat peices showed an early upward trend today, whereas corn went lower. A decrease of 4,000,000 bushels in wheat afloat, together with continued unfavorable domestic crop reports, had a bullish effect on wheat. Corn reflected the likelihood of visible supply enlargement. Opened ⅛c off to ¼c up, wheat later scored gains all around. Corn started at a shade to ½c decline and subsequently receded further. Oats held steady.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 136, May 136½. Corn, March 93¾, May 97¼. Oats, March 56⅝, May 57⅜.

Toronto Market Firm; To-day's Session Dull

TORONTO, March 5 (Canadian Press).—General firmness marked a dull session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today, with fractional advances numerous and a large number of issues unchanged in light trading. Walkers set the lead with an advance to sixty and by the noon close had slumped back to 58¾, for a net gain of half a point. International Nickel improved a half at 82½, and Service Station, the third point of interest, sold one higher at 40. Building Products continued upward at 42½, a gain of more than a point, with Industrial Alcohol, International Petroleum, British American Oil, and Imperial Oil generally steady.

VIOLIN RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Edwina Palmer Give Interesting Program.

Violin pupils of Miss Edwina Palmer, L.R.A.M. gave an interesting and much appreciated program of music in the lecture rooms of the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon. There was a good attendance of parents and friends, and the program offered was up to the high standard maintained by students of Miss Palmer's methods of instruction.

At the conclusion of the violin numbers, prizes were given to several of the junior pupils, and tea was served. The prize for showing the greatest improvement in the shortest time was awarded to Jack Dobbin, and Alex. Carlisle won the prize for the best work among the youngest students. Ross Gillespie won the award for the best position, voted by the audience.

Miss Palmer announced that two of the pupils, Arnold Spencer and Stanley Northrop, would broadcast over the radio during the latter part of the week.

The program was as follows:

Handel-Harty—(a) Rigaudon, Max Warne. (b) Arioso, Ralph Clarke. (c) Hornpipe, Ralph Clarke.

Purcell—Minuet and Gavotte, Alex. Carlisle.

Bach—Minuet in G, Jack McKone.

Carse—Gavotte, Gerald Dawson.

Rimsky-Korsakoff Kreisler—Chanson Indoue. Edna Connor.

Pugnani-Kreisler—Tempo di Minuetto, Francis Dinner.

(a) Gluck—Andante; (b) Handel—Bourree, Ross Gillespie.

Haydn—Airs arranged by Dancla, Jack Dobbin.

Beethoven—Minuet in G, Max Glover.

Kreisler — Leibesfreud, Stanley Northrop.

Haydn—Minuet in F, Stewart Dawson.

Beethoven-Kreisler—Rondino, Donald Greene.

JUDGES BEGIN BALLOT INQUIRY

Plan Procedure at Session To-day—Sinclair To Be First Witness.

NEXT SITTING MARCH 15.

TORONTO, March 5. — Canadian Press. — The Royal Commission Justices Magee and Hodgins, to-day formally opened the inquiry into the finding of the alleged provincial election ballots on an Ottawa street.

Planning procedure was all that was undertaken to-day and the next sitting will be held on March 15th, when W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader in the Ontario Legislature, will be the first witness and produce the nineteen ballots received here from Russell Sparks, the defeated Liberal candidate, in South Ottawa at the last provincial elections.

INFANTRY MEN ELECT OFFICERS

KINGSTON, Ont., March 5 (Canadian Press). — At the annual meeting of the Infantry Association of Military District No. 3, held in the Armories on Saturday, and attended by some sixty officers from all over the district, Lieut.-Col. J. A. Hope was elected president of the Association for the ensuing year, the vice-presidents being Col. R. J. Gill, of Brockville, and Col. Fraser Hadley, of Hull, Que., while Capt. Heron, R.C.R., was re-elected secretary.

Delegates to the meeting of the Canadian Association, which is to be held in Ottawa on Friday of this week, are: Col. E. E. Snider of Port Hope and Col. H. H. Magwood of Cornwall.

WOMAN KILLED; RELATIVE DYING

Toronto Woman Murdered With Pickaxe—Brother-in-law Takes Poison.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL.

TORONTO, March 5. Canadian Press. — Cero Pantealo a married woman, aged 27, was found murdered in her home on Glebeholme Boulevard, in the East end, by neighbors to-day.

At a drug store on Woodbine ave., a mile from the house, Pete Pantealo, the woman's brother in law, was picked up in a dying condition, from the effects of drinking iodine, and was rushed to the hospital.

The woman was found lying in a pool of blood at the foot of the cellar stairs of her home a blood stained pickaxe, with which the crime had evidently been committed, lying beside her.

Pantealo, when taken to the hospital, was covered with blood from cuts and had evidently swallowed a large quantity of iodine. The police believe they will be able to connect him with the slaying of the woman.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY CONCERT

Good Program Given Under Auspices of Humane Society.

Another of the successful Sunday evening concerts offered under the auspices of the Humane Society was held at the Regent Theatre last evening with a large attendance of people who seemed to enjoy to the utmost the excellent program of music rendered by local singers. Presiding over the meeting was Thomas E. Sargent.

A number of splendid selections were given by an orchestra directed by W. Boorman and community singing was led by G. F. Liddle. Vocal solos, which were heartily encored and received with much appreciawere given by Mrs. W. H. Horner, Miss Daisy Murray, E. V. Morphet, and G. D. Carlisle.

Next Sunday evening, the program will be given by the Caledonian Choir.

PREMIER MAY TALK ON REGULATION 17

Reported He Will Address Grand Orange Lodge Of Ontario West.

TORONTO, Mar. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Members of the Orange Association are interested in a report that arrangements are under way for Premier Ferguson to appear at the annual convention of the Grand Lodge of Ontario West, opening at Barrie March 14, to deliver an address on the bilingual situation and the abolition of Regulation 17.

GROVE OLD BOYS OF TORONTO

sat before him, he knew that The Grove was fulfilling its function very wonderfully.

A boy visited his parsonage some years ago. He had been in the Air Force and began to chat about his experience in the service. Suddenly he switched off from that topic and remarked, "I came from a wonderful school. Do you know Mr. MacKenzie?" "That boy," added the speaker, "was Jack Hunter. Is he here?" Several voices answered in the negative. "He ascribed everything to the School," said Canon Hedley.

It was indeed a fine thing when a young man was able to ascribe to his school the best things he had. It was a fine thing to keep up that loyalty to the school and to be able to look back on these days with such gratitude. Mr. Hedley then proceeded to indulge in some reminiscences of his own college days, and entertained the audience with many amusing recollections of their old headmaster as a student at the university.

He gave the toast, and the meeting responded with the school yell, which was given with great gusto.

Rev. A. W. MacKenzie.

Mr. MacKenzie, on rising, was greeted with the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow." He thanked the former scholars for the manner in which they responded to the toast. He felt that in responding he was not speaking for himself. For it was they who had made the school. Its growth was due to them. He felt that night, on looking round, that they would make good representatives of any institution. He felt pride in having had some part in forming them. "Boys," said Mr. MacKenzie, "I am awfully glad to see you. One of the happiest days of the year to me is this old boys' night.

"Some of them had changed. He confessed that in some the change was so great that he did not know them at first. He himself was getting a little more stooped and a little more grey. He was not getting bald, but he was getting a little feeble on his skates. The boys did get him out once a year to the field, and it was then he realized he was getting old by the way in which they treated him. It was not a compliment to be treated so gently and to be lifted so easily.

Little Changed Village.

Lakefield had not changed much since they were boys. The school had changed somewhat, but the village was much the same. The school had grown, but the boys did the same things. Did any of those present remember the secret eight and their lair above the woodshed? They were invaded, and there was a great struggle on the stairs. There was no woodshed in the school now. They still burned wood, but it was stowed down below. There were changes in the school, but the people there had still the same affection for the old boys.

Mr. MacKenzie thought there must be something about the neighborhood which inspired the affection of the boys who lived at the school. He believed that some of its charm lay in its simplicity. The boys found great pleasure in the freedom of the lakes and woods. He hoped their recollections would bring back the old boys whenever they could come. The Jubilee of the school would be held next year. It was being held three years late. They had thought that the school began in 1879, but it actually started in 1876.

He remembered his first visit to Lakefield. He went with Canon Hedley to the hill where was now the Lift Lock, and from there they looked towards Lakefield, where he was to spend six months, for that was all the length of time he meant to remain at first. One of the things which Mr. Hedley had spoken of was the delightful society which was to be found in Lakefield. He had not been told the half of it. It was unique. No other place was so characteristic of the early English settlers. They would be sorry, proceeded Mr. MacKenzie to learn that the old Tait House was burned down last week, and the old Strickland homestead had been burned since some of them were in Lakefield.

He got many letters from old boys. One had come from a former pupil who was now located in the Herschell Isles at the mouth of the MacKenzie River. This old boy had been with the Hudson Bay Company, and was now a trader on his own account, who was of sufficient importance to be approached by the Hudson Bay Company with a proposition to buy him out. He had tried to get in touch with the Lakefield school by radio, but had not succeeded. He wrote that he was coming down for the re-union next year. Another old boy wrote from Vancouver; still others from Halifax and Newfoundland. All spoke in affectionate terms of their old school. He could easily understand how much it meant to them.

Influence of Chapel.

The influence of the chapel on the boys, continued Mr. MacKenzie, was incalculable. They all know what a difficult period for boys was that between the ages of ten and fourteen. The path a boy chose then, and his thoughts during that time shaped his mind more than any other part of his life. If the impression was made during that time, the resolutions, aspirations and ideals would stay with him. A worthy master could do something, but who could tell what the Spirit of God Himself was doing for the boy when he went to chapel? There were very short services in the chapel. He wished there were short services in all the churches. (Hear, hear, interjected Mr. Hedley). He believed that services should be such that people would go away from them feeling that they wanted to come back again. He would hate to think that chapel ever became a burden to the boys.

"Boys, I still call you boys," said Mr. MacKenzie impressively, 'I want to give you one word of advice from your old master. You are grown up and are taking your place among men. Don't lose your faith. I don't mean your creed. Don't lose your faith in God, which is faith in goodness. Do not lose your faith in realties. Always connect God with good." He wished them to let each worthy example or the voice of God speaking to their hearts to keep sweet their faith in humanity for that was God speaking to man. He had been asked to pass on a message from the executive of the association. Each member was asked to write to the secretary giving his permanent address and telling what he was doing and giving the names of any other old boys who were not accounted for. They were trying to prepare a list and wanted to get every possible assistance to make this complete. Many of the old records were obsolete and the co-operation of the members was required to bring the new list up-to-date.

H. F. Strickland.

At the meeting last year, Mr. Strickland, requested unexpectedly to speak, responded by recounting a number of his experiences in the early days of the school, which were so appreciated that he was again called upon on Saturday evening. Before arriving at the school, said Mr. Strickland, he had pictured the master of that day, who was named Mr. Sheldrake, as a tall, cadaverous man carrying a cane. I had always associated boarding schools with canes." He arrived in December, 1880, and completed the journey in old cart belonging to a man named Hooper, who might possibly be in Lakefield yet. Opposite the Uplands, the cart was stopped by a sporting looking Englishman who extended his hand to the new scholar, saying, "How do you do, Harry." It was so different from what I had expected that my fears of the cane disappeared for two days," said Mr. Strickland. "After that they returned," he added significantly.

Boyish Pranks.

One night during Mr. Sheldrake's absence in Peterborough, the boys decided to get up out of bed and have some fun. Soon the whole school was out in the field and stump fires were being set alight. They were divided into two parties and the difficulty of getting sufficient wood led to a grand battle between the two factions. Stripped to the waist, the boys were hard at it when hostilities were cut short by the appearance on the scene of the master who had come home sooner than was expected. Something of the humor of the situation struck him and no punishment was meted out. They all received a little advice and were sent to bed.

In those days there were many Indians in and around Lakefield. It was one of the regular rules of procedure among the boy to go down to the Indian camp where they got a bow and arrows and were given an Indian name. I went down expecting to get a name like 'Indian Sun' or 'Star' or 'Great Prince' or something equally high-sounding," said Mr. Strickland. 'I forget the Indian name which I got, but the English of it was 'turnip.' (Laughter.)

"Nowadays, if you go down from Lakefield to Peterborough you go in a Pierce-Arrow or in a train. If the train is five minutes late it is something to talk about." Things were different in the old days. The train was due at Lakefield at noon. Sometimes it go in in the afternoon, sometimes it got in at evening; and sometimes the passengers got out and walked if they were in a hurry.

Mr. Sheldrake wrote an article on the train, which he entitled "A Holiday Trip," which was printed in The Peterborough Examiner. The engine used to burn wood and it was not uncommon for the passengers to alight and help to load the fuel on to the tender from the little piles that were laid at regular intervals along the route."

"Vitamines."

They had heard a lot of talk about vitamines. Well, the boys of the school at one time got their hair cut at a barber's shop in Lakefield which was a frequent resort of the lumbermen. After the haircutting it was discovered that there were "vitamines" in the heads of the boys and from that time Mr. Sheldrake decided that the job would be done by Peterborough barbers. Mr. Sheldrake said that there was no reason why they should not walk to Peterborough. And walk they did—both ways. This was one of the reasons why Lakefield school became known as the finest in the country for good health. A sound mind in a sound body had always been the aim of the masters of the school. He honestly believed that he got the good seed of health at the Lakefield school. They were always in the open air. Boys who could walk to Peterborough and back had not much the matter with them.

They used to have a great deal of trouble with the boys of the village. Scraps between the "bloods" and the villagers One day Mr. Sheldrake came in carrying a message from the village boys which challenged the school to a game of cricket. "I do not see why we should not accept it," he said. The invitation was accepted and the school served refreshments and gave the village boys a big time in addition to a sound beating at cricket. From that time the feuds between school and village became a thing of the past.

Continuing in reminiscent mood, Mr. Strickland spoke of a number of the boys of his day, among whom he mentioned General V. A. S. Williams now commissioner of the Provincial Police of Ontario. Williams, said Mr. Strickland, was then the ringleader of most of the escapades perpetrated by the boys of the school

After the speeches, the members adjourned to the common room where the proceedings were entirely informal the gathering breaking up into little groups for the exchange of recollections and recital of experiences since leaving school for the larger world outside.

This Modern Life

Its Habits Produce Constipation which "Fruit-a-tives" Corrects

MONTREAL, Que. — "After suffering many years from constipation, I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' All my ills are gone now."—Mrs. H. Godin.

Indoor work, soft, rich foods, lack of exercise, impair our bodily functions. The most common evidence is constipation. Normal intestinal activity, denied to most of us by our way of living, is restored and maintained by "Fruit-a-tives", made of the juice of fresh, ripe fruit, blended with health building tonics.

Les Canadiens Defeated in Inter-City Battle

MAROONS WIN FROM CANUCKS AT MONTREAL

N.H.L. Leaders Defeated by 3 to 2 Score in Overtime Tilt.

PLAY FAST HOCKEY

Canadiens Put Up Good Battle in Effort to Hold Inter-City Rivals.

MONTREAL, Que., March 5.—(Canadian Press.) — Montreal Maroons edged two points nearer to first place in the standing of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League by scoring a 3 to 2 overtime victory over their intra-city rivals and holders of first place, Canadiens, at the Forum Saturday night. Fourteen thousands fans, the majority of them wild-eyed Canadien supporters, witnesesd the contest, which was one of the most exciting and thrilling hockey battles of the local season.

The Maroon victory was well-earned, and the big red team deserved the points. They did not gain them, however, without a battle. They gained a two-goal lead in the second frame and then threw away their margin in less than five minutes after the start of the third session by allowing the Canucks to dash through a temporarily disorganized defence to score two goals and knot the count. It was a sudden reverse for the Maroons who in the second session had completely outplayed the flying Frenchmen. In less than five minutes, their good work of twenty had disappeared, and the teams were on even terms again. It was a brilliant spurt by the Canucks, but the Maroons settled down as quickly as they had blown up, and went on to win the honors in overtime.

It took exactly one minute and twenty seconds of extra play for Hooley Smith, star centre, to score the winning counter. The Maroons were one man short at the time, and it was rather a surprise goal. Smith and his remaining team mates were laying back on the defensive waiting for the return of Joe Lamb, who was finishing out a sentence received at the end of the third period. Suddenly, Smith broke away alone. He circled the Canuck defense, and with two desperate Canadien players attempting to body him out of the way, clung to the puc kand coasted in on Hainsworth to flip a backhand shot into the corner of the net.

The play was a brilliant effort on the part of Smith, and culminated an evening in which he proved the star of the winning team. Smith also scored the first Montreal goal, besides making life miserable for the Canuck attackers throughout the game with his sweeping poke check around the centre ice area.

Scores First Counter.

Smith's goal, which opened the scoring in the second period, was also counted when the Maroons were one man short. He broke away on a lone rush and when he reached the Frenchmen's defence, drove a hard one for the corner of the net. Hainsworth made a wild lunge for the puck, but he was not quick enough, the disc going between his body and the post. Joe Lamb, youthful substitute, made it 2 to 0 six minutes later, when he beat Hainsworth with a side shot following a brilliant combination play with Phillips and Oatman. Joliat, Lamb's check, was serving a penalty at the time and Lamb was uncovered as he took Oatman's long pass on right wing.

The start of the final scheduled session saw the Canadiens go on a rampage, and for five minutes they ran wild, led by the brilliant individual play of Moren, closely followed by Joliat. Three minutes after the start, Morenz obtained the disc near his own net and then the prettiest and most dashing piece of play in the game was seen. The flashy Canuck centre easily skated past the Montreal forward line. He dazzled the Maroon defence with a great piece of stick-handling, and then drew Benedict out to flip the disc into an empty net. The brilliance of the play temporarily upset the Maroons. Morenz came right back on another such play. Dutton stopped the Canuck flash, however ,by tripping him, and drew a penalty. With their opponents short-handed, Canadiens rushed to the attack to get the tying goal. It was not long in coming. Less than two minutes after Morenz scored, Joliat wiggled his way around the Montreal defence and beat Benedict.

Canadiens' supporters went wild, and screeched for their heroes to keep the Maroons on the run. The fighting qualities of the Montreal squad then came to the fore They settled down quickly as they had become disorganized and from that on it was a fairly even battle, with Smith's goal finally settling the issue in the supplemental session.

As a result of their victory the Maroons are now within three points of the Canucks, in first place. The Montreal team however has played the game more than their rivals.

Twenty Penalties.

Saturday's game was not devoid of penalties but no actual rough work was seen, the twenty trips to the penalty box being taken for minor offences. A novel penalty was incurred by Leduc in the second period when he was fined ten dollars for attempting to tell Bobby Hewitson how a game should be refereed.

The teams:

Canadiens		Montreal
Hainsworth	goal	Benedict
Gardiner	def.	Siebert
Leduc	def.	Dutton

Lloyd Hahn Sets New Half-Mile Mark

TRACK, NEW YORK, March 5.— (Canadian Press). — Lloyd Hahn, rugged Boston A.A. star, ran the greatest half-mile in track history Saturday night, shattering the world's indoor record as well as surpassing the outdoor mark by winning a special race in one minute 51 2-5 seconds in connection with the I.C.A.A.A.A. championships.

Hahn's performance smashed to smithereens the 24 year old indoor mark of 1:54 3-5 made on March 19, 1904, at Buffalo, N.Y.

It also surpassed the outdoor record of 1:51 3-5, established at Stamford Bridge, London, in 1926 by Dr. Otto Peltzer.

Dr. Peltzer, the German champion, was a spectator Saturday night as Hahn circled the fast intercollegiate track four times in probably the greatest race of his career.

Hahn had two opponents in the special attack on time but he ran the last three laps virtually alone after Sam Martin, of the Boston A.A. had set the pace for the first furlong. Pinkie Seber, the third started, withdrew under the hot pace, but Martin stuck to the finish, coming in 30 yards behind the flying Hahn.

LINDSAY TEAMS DEFEAT P. C. I. IN TWO GAMES

Girls Win Out 18-14 and Boys 23-20 in Visit To City.

HARD FOUGHT MATCHES.

Visiting Girls Come From Behind To Win.

Apparently under the spell of the jinx that has followed Peterborough hockey teams all season, the girls' and boys' basketball teams of the P.C.I. went down to defeat on Saturday afternoon when they met two Lindsay Collegiate teams in the local Y.M.C.A. gym., and were beaten—the girls by 18-14 and the boys by 23-20. In victory the visitors enjoyed a slight edge on their opposition, but difficulty in shooting for certain sinkers kept the count down in both games.

A fair turnout of fans witnessed both fixtures, and the homesters did not appear to have any monopoly on the verbal support.

Lindsay 18, Peterborough 14.

The two girls' teams headed the bill, which opened at 2.30, with Miss J. Stewart, of Lindsay, on the whistle. Neither outfit lost time in preliminaries, but the visitors threatened first with three unfruitful attempts, only to have their good start marred by a single, well-placed ringer that gave the Petes a two-point margin. Play was evenly divided for the remainder of the first ten minutes, with neither outfit succeeding in piling up an appreciable lead.

The Peterborough girls made their best stand in the middle chucker, when they played up to, and managed to outscore the visiting students by three points. In this period play was faster and checking heavier than in the initial session, but there were very few infractions.

The last period was a real battle. Both outfits went out to win, and left little to be desired in the brand of competition dished up. Lady Luck played no favorites, and what the invaders gained in team play, the locals made up in more consistently capitalizing on what shots came their way. They were "sinking 'em" almost turn about until in the dying minutes the Lindsay ladies took the lead, held it, and added to it after being led by 14-11. It was a happy finish for them, and in defeat the Petes were far from disgraced. The return fixture will be run off in Scugogville next Saturday.

The teams:

Lindsay — Forwards, M. Darke, M. Werry, V. Green; centres, B. Keyes, H. McLennan, and M. Fitchett; guards, F. Sanderson, M. Ferguson, and F. Fever.

Peterborough — Forwards, V. Harvey, M. Comstock, C. Patterson, and L. Parsons; centres, I. Davidson and J .Allin; guards, E. Armstrong and A. Comstock.

Lindsay 23, Peterborough 20.

The boys' game, in which the local lads lost, 23-20, provided plenty of thrills, some streaks of smart basketball and close checking all the time. The L.C.I. outfit, with the exception of the elongated Brethour, compared favorably with the homesters in size, and in shooting, or rather lack of ability to locate the hoops, they were not unlike their opposition, for both outfits, while providing plenty of action, fell down in their target work.

The game, played in two twenty minute periods, started out at a live-ly clip with both teams out for first blood. With Brethour out jumping his smaller check, the ball went into Lindsay hands at the toss up, but the Petes were anything but tardy in their checking. In fact they had five personals to the visitors' two, and at the end of the twenty, they were only trailing by 10-6.

The first four minutes of the last half went without a basket until the Petes, running fast, tied the count with two in a row. Not content, they went on until the count stood 13-11, when the sinking started at the other end and in the last two and a half minutes the Petes lost their chances of victory.

Scotty McLeish handled the game quite satisfactorily.

The teams:

Peterborough—Macdonald, Copping, Preston, Walker, Adair, Cowan, Herrick, Westbrook, Hall, Gordon.

Lindsay— Sinclair, Rich, Brethour, Campbell, Beaty, Spratt, Birchard..

OTTAWA SKATERS WIN TITLES

Although only represented in the Canadian speed skating championships by four skaters, Ottawa accounted for three titles. It was a remarkable showing. The four standing figures are the members of the Ottawa club, while the insets are Percy Johnson of Detroit, winner of the men's championship, and Lew Davis, who led a field of 18 in the three-mile feature. The Ottawa skaters are, reading from LEFT to RIGHT: Maurice Rowan, under 14 years old, winner; Wilfred Mathieu, Francoise Desbiens, 18-year-old girl champion, and Charlie Ducharme, 16-year-old boys' title winner.

Old and Young Marathon Runners Start Out On 3,400-Mile Grind

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 5 (Associated Press). — Out of the West yesterday started a band of athletes, numbering approximately 275 on the first stretch of the longest Marathon in modern history —a trans-continental race from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

In mid-afternoon the starter's gun started the legion of runners and walkers away on the 3,400 mile grind to New York City for $48,500 to be divided among the first ten athletes to reach the finish—$25,000 goes to the winner, $10,000 to the runner-up, $5,000 for third place, and $2,500 for fourth. The remaining six prizes are $1,000 each for the next finishers.

The contestants were sent away in groups of 25 and less. There was no nervous pawing of the track, no false starts. Every entrant knew he had plenty of time to run during the next two months or more.

Thousands of spectators milled around Ascot Park as the runners circled the track and turned their faces from Los Angeles. The route leading out of the city was choked with cheering crowds.

A huge motor caravan of the curious formed in the wake of the runners as they set out for Puente, 16 miles distant, the first listed overnight stop.

No sporting event ever drew a stranger entry list. Old men jogged alongside youngsters. A sixteen-year-old boy matched his steps with a grey-haired man of 63. Nearly every race and color was represented.

TORONTO WINS FROM McGILL

Take 47-25 Victory in Last Game of Intercollegiate Basketball Season.

HOLD EARLY LEAD

MONTREAL, Que., March 5 (Canadian Press). — McGill went down to a 47-25 defeat at the hands of Toronto in the last game of the senior intercollegiate basketball season here on Saturday. Varsity's triumph was just about as decisive as the score indicates, and the newly-crowned champions held a decided edge over the McGill squad throughout the two periods. The score at half-time was 20-13 in favor of the visitors, and at no time during the game was their lead threatened. Varsity were superior to McGill offensively and defensively.

RINK RATS LOSE TO GROVE

School Boys Win Fast Exhibition Game By Score 7 to 6.

AT LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, March 5.—The Grove and the Rink Rats played a fast, clean game of hockey in the Lakefield Rink, on Thursday night, with a score of 7-6 in favor of the school boys, ten minutes overtime being required to settle the game. The game was handled by John Sabatino. Owing to the fact that no notice was given, there is no detailed report available. Those who by chance were present report one of the fastest games of the season.

INDIANS DEFEAT PHILADELPHIA 4-2

Increase Lead Over Boston in Canadian-American Hockey League.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 5.—(Canadian Press).—The champion Springfield Indians increased their lead to six points over the second place Boston Tigers by defeating the Philadelphia Arrows in a Canadian-American League game here Saturday night 4 to 2. The locals scored twice in the first period and twice in the second chapter. The Arrows managed to score a pair of goals in the final period. The game was listless for the most part, the Indians having command of the situation all the way. A crowd of 6,000 attended.

Pirates Lose Out 3-2.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 5 (Canadian Press).—Detroit defeated Pittsburgh Saturday night 3 to 2 in what Pirate fans described as a heartbreaking contest, for it greatly reduced the locals' chances of getting in the play-offs.

The deciding goal was registered on a fluke assist that bounded into the home net from the stick of Hib Milks, Corsair star. Laughlin, defence luminary, was behind the Pirate cage at the time, and the break occurred when he tried to pass out to an incoming team-mate.

Drury and Tex White made Pittsburgh's tallies, and Detroit's first marker was the work of George Hay and the second an effort by Pelango.

UNITED STATES REGAINS PRIZED CURLING TROPHY

Defeat Canada for Gordon International Medal in Annual Competition.

278 TO 254 SCORE

Canucks Have Held Trophy for Three Successive Years.

UTICA, N.Y., Mar. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—The United States' curlers regained possession of the Gordon International Medal, prize trophy of the curling world, from Canada in the 34th annual competition here on Saturday, winning by the score of 278 to 254. Canada has held the trophy for three successive years.

United States won ten games and tied another of the twenty waged in the season's event. Canada gained an eight point margin in the opening round, but the States' stars erased the handicap in the second round and decisive victories, scored by the two Utica rinks and one from the Country Club in the third round decided the match. United States also won the final round by two points.

Possession of the trophy for the ensuing years rests with John Leiper, skip of Utica No. 7 rink, who scored a 23-7 victory over Point Clare. The summary:

PORTSMOUTH CLUB DEFEATS CARDIFF

Cup Ties Feature Saturday Soccer Games in England and Scotland.

LONDON, England, March 5 (Canadian Press Cable).—With two sets of cup ties in progress in England and Scotland League football in the British Isles naturally played second fiddle on Saturday. Several interesting matches were staged in the English League, first division, while most of the second division and all the third division clubs were in action. One sporty success was that of Portsmouth, new-comers to the English first division this season, who whitewashed Cardiff City and temporarily lifted themselves out of the cellar in the averages. Watson, Weddle and Smith scored for the Portsmouth club. Forty thousand people saw Liverpool beat Bolton Wanderers. Hodgson, Edmed and Reid ,twice were the Liverpool scorers, while David Jack and Gibson netted for Bolton. Burnley and Middlesbrough played a one-all draw, Camsell scoring for the latter and Bell for the former. Birmingham nosed out Bury by the odd goal. Bradford, who scored twice, played a fine game for Birmingham. Briggs got his club's third counter. Matthews registered for Bury from a penalty and Bullock added another point.

The Manchester City-Blackpool match at Manchester attracted 50,000 spectators. The game was remarkable for the scoring bee indulged in by Roberts, who hit the target four times for the City. The win keeps Manchester City well in the running for the second division leadership with Chelsea, who won from Hull City through Thompson's two counters. The Pensioners are on top in the standing, but have played one more game than Manchester.

A feature of the game at Bristol between the Rovers team of that city and Norwich City was the appearance of the fifteen-year-old schoolboy international, Ronald Dix. He played for the Rovers and put up a magnificent display, scoring one on a brilliant shot.

Hat-tricks were performed by Elliott for Fulham against Bristol City. Waterson for Newport County against Luton Town, and Cickinson for Wigan against Durham City. Fraser of Luton broke his arm and his team had to play one man short for most of the match with Bristol City.

Scorers in Scottish first division league matches were: for Aberdeen, Cheyne (twice), Yorston. For St. Johnston, Maine and Stephenson. For Falkirk, Hutchinson.

GEN. CURRIE IS TO BE EXAMINED

Must Give Evidence For Discovery in His Libel Suit.

BEFORE COMMISSIONER.

COBOURG, March 5.—Judge L. V. O'Connor has granted an application requiring General Sir Arthur Currie to appear for examination in the war leader's libel suit for $50,000 against Frederick W. Wilson, publisher of The Port Hope [illegible], and W. T. R. Preston.

The application was made Friday by Thomas F. Hall, K.C., of Cobourg, counsel for Mr. Wilson. Frank Regan of Toronto has been retained as counsel for Mr. Preston.

The pleadings by plaintiff and defendant were read to his Honor, also an affidavit by Mr. Preston, which stated that, notice of trial having been served by plaintiff for the Assizes commencing April 16 next, it is "necessary and expedient for myself and my co-defendant to examine plaintiff for discovery at the earliest possible moment."

In Another Province.

He pointed out that there are no means by which plaintiff can be examined for discovery, in view of the fact that he is resident in another Province, without an order of the court.

The order decrees that Sir Arthur attend at Cobourg before John Toms Field, special examiner, 'at such time and place as he may appoint," seven days' notice in writing to be given to plaintiff's solicitor. The examination may be proceeded with next Saturday, it is said.

Evidence From Foch.

The basis of the action pertains to what happened just prior to the armistice coming into effect on Nov. 11, 1918, leading to the last engagement of the war being fought at Mons. There is a possibility that a Commission may yet have to take the evidence of Commander-in-Chief Foch of the Allied armies and Field Marshal von Hindenburg of the German armies, it is said.

BARN BLOWN OVER DURING BLIZZARD

Presence of Hay Saves Sheep From Being Crushed—Road Blocked.

DOURO, March 5. — Yesterday's storm was of great severity here. At one time, about two o'clock, it was quite dark, making some think an eclipse was occurring and alarming others at the intensity of the storm.

A log barn on the farm of Joseph Sheehan, on the Second Line, was blown down. The barn was blown to the east, on top of a sheep pen containing 22 sheep. The presence of several tons of hay in the east mow prevented the barn from collapsing on top of the sheep and none of them were injured. Fences were levelled in some places.

Roads Blocked

WARSAW, Mar. 5.—The stage was unable to leave here for Peterborough this morning as a result of yesterday's storm, which blocked the roads badly. No other damage was reported.

MUCH NEW WORK NOW IN PROSPECT

February Building Contracts Break All Records For Month.

Continuing the example set by January, contracts awarded during February exceeded all previous records for that month. The total was $25,875,200. The only very large contracts included in this total were $10,000,000 for power plant in Quebec and $2,500,000 for an elevator in Vancouver.

According to MacLean Building Reports, Ltd., 56.1 per cent. of all construction was undertaken in the Province of Quebec, where $14,512,100 worth of new work was contracted for during February. Ontario followed with $5,845,200, which was 22.6 per cent. British Columbia took care of 15 per cent. on a total of $3,879,900. Prairie Provinces show $1,372,300 or 5.3 per cent., while 1 per cent. is credited to the Maritime Provinces, the total being $265,700.

Engineering contracts, for a change, take the lead, $11,884,000 worth of new work, or 45.9 per cent. of all construction appearing in that classification, $10,000,000 of this amount being for the power development in Quebec, mentioned above. Business buildings accounted for 29.3 per cent. or $7,574,300. Residential work shows an increase over the same month in 1927 and accounted for 18.8 per cent of all construction on its total of $4,855,700. Industrial projects continue active and accounted for $1,561,200, or 6 per cent.

For the two months period the majority of the work is located in the business buildings classification, the total being $15,697,400 or 33.9 per cent. 31.4 per cent of the contracts are included in public works and utilities, the total being $14,559,500. Residential contracts now amount to $11,428,600 or 24.7 per cent, while industrial shows $4,669,700 or 10 per cent.

Quebec Province leads for the two months period also, having accounted for 45.4 per cent of all construction on a total of $21,026,600. In Ontario $16,833,900 worth of New work has been contracted for or 36.3 per cent. $4,784,500 is shown for British Columbia or 10.3 per cent. The Prairie Provinces accounted for 7.3 per cent or $3,365,800. In the Maritime Provinces .7 per cent has been started, the total being $344,400.

NATIVE ANIMALS INCREASE IN PARKS

The operation of the national parks of Canada as game sanctuaries has demonstrated that the sanctuary idea is the most successful method of bringing back native animals once thought in danger of extinction.

HOSPITAL CASE BEFORE COUNCIL

Trouble at Guelph To Be Aired By City Fathers To-night.

ALDERMEN DIVIDED.

GUELPH, March 5.—No new developments have materialized in the General Hospital strike situation, and the possibility of any further trouble, so far as the nurses are concerned, appears to be at an end. Any further action in connection with the dispute hinges on the outcome of to-night's session of the city fathers.

Indications are that to-night's meeting of the City Council will be both lively and lengthy. It is a foregone conclusion that the trouble at the General Hospital, as a result of the recent strike of probationers, will come up for discussion, as several of the Aldermen have already signified their intention of introducing the matter, one even going so far as to suggest that he would move a resolution calling for the resignation of the present Board of Directors of the hospital, and for the appointment of a Commission to run the institution. Others on the Council are just as strongly in favor of leaving matters in the hands of the directors who, they feel, are quite competent to conduct the affairs of the hospital without outside interference.

An interesting battle between the two factions is expected, and the consensus of opinion appears to be that the directors will be upheld in the steps they have taken in supporting the Superintendent, Miss Elizabeth Shortreed, in her refusal to reinstate Miss Marjorie Rowen and Miss Grace Sunley, the two Guelph girls to whom she refused readmission to the training school following the walkout.

It is reported that the hospital question will be brought up in Council by Ald. R. H. Grundy, through the procedure of submitting, as the representative of the City Council on the Board of Directors, a report on what transpired at the recent meeting of the latter body, at which it was decided to ask the Provincial Secretary for a judicial inquiry. This would permit of another Alderman moving that the report be considered in Committee of the Whole, which would allow of free discussion of the matter. Should this plan fail, it is stated that Ald. A. G. Bain, who, with Ald. Grundy, has put up a strong fight to have the nurses reinstated, is prepared to move a resolution calling for the resignation of the hospital directors and the appointment of a Commission to carry on in their place.

She Gained Weieght With McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets

You remember of course—not so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest — any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

WHEN NICE YOUNG MEN STOOP TO FOLLY

Jewel - bedecked and flirtatious dowagers known as "matinee ladies," sleek haired, sallow youths, gigolos, ornate cafes resplendent in an artificial warmth of Jazz and strident geyety.

Into this jazz atmosphere of metropolitan sophistication is woven the plot of Warner Bros.' production of "Matinee Ladies" in which May McAvoy and Malcolm MacGregor play the leading roles.

Weaving its way through carefree comedy and exciting drama, this lively love story is centred in an atmosphere laden with the heedlessness and abandon of a circle made up of idling, thrill seeking women who openly court afternoon pleasure in questionable flirtations with young men of frail moral fibre.

Hedda Hopper plays a principal role as a playfully amorous "matinee lady." Richard Tucker is seen as a wealthy idler whose romantic conquests hint of villainy. Miss McAvoy is a quietly unsophisticated cigarette girl in one of the cafes. MacGregor as the college student, embarrassed by financial difficulties, and in love with Miss McAvoy, momentarily yields to the temptation of a gigolo flirtation with Miss Hopper as a way out of his troubles.

The story unfolded is startling in theme and has a sparkle of mingling comedy and melodrama.

Byron Haskins directed. The scenario is by Graham Baker.

NEW ROADS BRING MANY VISITORS

Tourist traffic in Yoho national park was five times greater the year of the opening of the motor highway from Lake Louise to Field in Yoho park than in the previous season. In 1925 visitors to this park numbered 6,000. In 1926 after the road was opened, visitors numbered 30,000.

COSTES ILL.

French Fliers Postpone Flight From Detroit To Chicago.

DETROIT, Mar. 5. — (Canadian Press.)— Because Dieudonne Costes, French airman, was slightly ill, his companion, Joseph Lebrix, said the French four continent fliers probably would remain the guests of Detroit to-day, postponing their take-off for Chicago until to-morrow.

3RD PETERBOROUGH "VIMY" TROOP

Friday night's meeting began in the usual way with flag break and inspection. The seconds gave reports on patrol attendance.

Immediately after, William Hogan took the Scout Promise, and was invested as a Scout, the newest member of the Third. Good luck and good camping to you, Scout Hogan!

Another event worthy of mention was the presentation to Bobbie Ross of his second class badge. Bob passed his last test on a hike a week ago and earned his badge after months of hard work. This is the fourth second class badge in the troop and we hope to have several more in the near future. Let's see how soon you can get your first class, Bob!

A "session" on tub-tilting followed in which each Scout took his life in his hands, stood up on a chair opposite his enemy, and tried to knock said enemy off his chair. Those that succeeded were declared winners and by a process of elimination the champion was discovered.

The scoutmaster formed the troop into horseshoe formation and told a story in which each Scout had to imagine himself as one of the principals and to prove whether he was an honest man or a rogue. The test was a weight judging contest. A number of articles were laid out and each Scout had to estimate and write down the weight of each. The average for each patrol was taken and points given for nearest correct in each case. Some excellent estimates were turned in. The weights had been determined by the scoutmaster beforehand and ranged from a letter of an ounce to heavier articles up to 3 and 4 pounds.

Did you ever try blindfold boxing? If you didn't, you don't know what you are missing. The Third had a whale of a time trying to find someone to land a haymaker on. For a start, two Scouts were blindfolded and with the gloves on "went to it." Then, unknown to either, a third Scout was added to the fray. It was a scream to watch the three trying to locate each other, then a bump, a swift exchange of wild punches (most of which landed on shoulders and backs) and they were far apart again. Each Scout had an opportunity to try his luck and some budding Jack Dempsey's were found.

Points in the patrol competition were posted, showing the Hawks first and the Wolves, Foxes and Chickadees following in the order named. Twenty points separate the first and last patrols.

The Foxes are duty patrol for this week.

Next week the Wolves and Chickadees are acting a charade on some Scout Law.

The competition ends on the last Friday in March, and to mark the occasion, the troop is having a parents' night, to which the fathers and mothers of all Scouts are invited. The Scouts would like to see a 100 per cent. attendance of all Scouts and parents for that special night.

FOURTH PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

The meeting opened with flag break and inspection. A corral tug and a wheelbarrow race were then run off, followed by two instruction periods.

In the corners the Kangaroos had instruction on fire lighting with a fire bow set, and morse signalling with a morse flasher. Ronald Asquith passed his second class signalling test.

The Owl patrol had instruction on Kim's game.

The Crow patrol had instruction of semaphore signalling and fire lighting.

A quiet game, scout law, baseball was played. The catchers and the pitchers had some good signals and soon put the batters out. A number of first aid carries were shown and also how to lash poles together to make stretchers.

The troop announcements were made by the S. M. The troop was dismissed at 9.10 with the usual ceremonies.

A court of honor was held to talk over the problems of the troop.

Next week is stunt night and everybody is to be on hand with a stunt.

"CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Margaret Odell is found strangled. Skeel's finger prints are found in the apartment, but Vance believes Skeel had been hiding in a closet while the murder was committed. The thing that baffles police is the side door to the alley, which had been bolted on the inside the night before and was found the same way in the morning. Mannix, Dr. Lindquist and Cleaver all lie about their whereabouts the night of the murder. Spotswoode, who had called on the girl, had rushed back to her door at the sound of a scream, but had been reassured that everything was all right. Then Skeel is found strangled—just like the "Canary"—after he had promised to tell who murdered the girl. Heath arrests Jessup, believing him the only one able to manipulate the side door. But Vance declares Skeel could have gone out that way and rebolted the door on the inside.

CHAPTER XLIII

"Skeel!—This ain't the age of miracles, Mr. Vance."

Vance swung about and faced Markham.

"Listen! I'm telling you Jessup's innocent." He spoke with a fervor that amazed me. "And I'm going to prove it to you—some way. My theory is pretty complete; it's deficient only in one or two small points; and, I confess, I haven't yet been able to put a name to the culprit. But it's the right theory, Markham, and it's diametrically opposed to the sergeant's.

"Therefore, you've got to give me an opportunity to demonstrate it before you proceed against Jessup. Now, I can't demonstrate it here; so you and Heath must come with me to the Odell house. It won't take over an hour. But if it took a week, you'd have to come just the same."

He stepped nearer to the desk.

"I know that it was Skeel, and not Jessup, who unbolted that door before the crime, and rebolted it afterward."

Markham was impressed.

"You know this; you know it for a fact?"

"Yes! And I know how he did it!"

(Monday, September 17, 11:30 a.m.)

Half an hour later we entered the little apartment-house in 71st Street. Despite the plausibility of Heath's case against Jessup, Markham was not entirely satisfied with the arrest; and Vance's attitude had sown further seeds of doubt in his mind.

The strongest point against Jessup was that relating to the bolting and unbolting of the side door; and when Vance had asserted that he was able to demonstrate how Skeel could have manipulated his own entrance and exit, Markham, though only partly convinced, had agreed to accompany him. Heath, too, was interested, and, though supercilious, had expressed a willingness to go along.

Spively, scintillant in his chocolate-colored suit, was at the switchboard, and stared at us apprehensively. But when Vance suggested pleasantly that he take a ten-minute walk round the block, he appeared greatly relieved, and lost no time in complying.

The officer on guard outside of the Odell apartment came forward and saluted.

"How goes it?" asked Heath. "Any visitors?"

"Only one—a toff who said he'd known the Canary and wanted to see the apartment. I told him to get an order from you or the district attorney."

"That was correct, officer," said Markham; then, turning to Vance "Probably Spotswoode—poor devil."

"Quite," murmured Vance. "So persistent! Rosemary and all that. . . . Touchin'."

Heath told the officer to go for a half hour's stroll; and we were left alone.

"And now, Sergeant," said Vance cheerfully, "I'm sure you know how to operate a switchboard. Be so kind as to act as Spively's understudy for a few minutes—there's a good fellow . . . But, first, please bolt the side door—and be sure you bolt it securely, just as it was on the fatal night."

Heath grinned good-naturedly.

"Sure thing." He put his forefinger to his lips mysteriously, and, crouching, tiptoed down the hall like a burlesque detective in a farce. After a few moments he came tiptoeing back to the switchboard, his finger still on his lips. Then, glancing surreptitiously about him with globular eyes, he put his mouth to Vance's ear.

"His-s-s-t!" he whispered. "The door's bolted. G-r-r-r . . ." He sat down at the switchboard. "When does the curtain go up, Mr. Vance?"

"It's up, Sergeant." Vance fell in with Heath's jocular mood. "Behold! The hour is half past nine on Monday night. You are Spively—not nearly so elegant; and you forgot the mustache—but still Spively. And I am the bedizened Skeel. For the sake of realism, please try to imagine me in chamois gloves and a pleated silk shirt.

"Mr. Markham and Mr. Van Dine here represent the many-headed monster of the pit.'—And, by the bye, Sergeant, let me have the key to the Odell apartment Skeel had one, don't y' know."

Heath produced the key and handed it over, still grinning.

"A word of stage-direction," Vance continued. "When I have departed by the front door, you are to wait exactly three minutes, and then knock at the late Canary's apartment."

He sauntered to the front door and, turning, walked back toward the switchboard. Markham and I stood behind Heath in the little alcove, facing the front of the building.

"Enter, Mr. Skeel!" announced Vance "Remember, it's half past nine." Then, as he came abreast of the switchboard "Dash it all! You forgot your lines, Sergeant. You should have told me that Miss Odell was out. But it doesn't matter. . . Mr. Skeel continues to the lady's door. . . thus."

He walked past us, and we heard him ring the apartment bell. After a brief pause, he knocked on the door. Then he came back down the hall.

"I guess you were right," he said, quoting the words of Skeel as reported by Spively; and went on to the front door. Stepping out into the street, he turned toward Broadway.

For exactly three minutes we waited. None of us spoke. Heath had become serious, and his accelerated puffing on his cigar bore evidence of his state of expectancy. Markham was frowning stoically.

At the end of the three minutes Heath rose and hurried up the hall, with Markham and me at his heels. In answer to his knock, the apartment door was opened from the inside. Vance was standing in the little foyer.

"The end of the first act," he greeted us airily. "Thus did Mr. Skeel enter the lady's boudoir Monday night after the side door had been bolted, without the operator's seeing him."

Heath narrowed his eyes, but said nothing. Then he suddenly swung round and looked down the rear passageway to the oak door at the end. The handle of the bolt was in a vertical position, showing that the catch had been turned and that the door was unbolted. Heath regarded it for several moments; then he turned his eyes toward the switchboard. Presently he let out a gleeful whoop.

"Very good, Mr. Vance—very good!" he proclaimed, nodding his head knowingly. "That was easy, though. And it don't take psychology to explain it. —After you rang the apartment bell, you ran down this rear hallway and unbolted the door. Then you ran back and knocked. After that you went out the front entrance, turned toward Broadway, swung round across the street, came in the alley, walked in the side door, and quietly let yourself into the apartment behind our backs."

"Simple, wasn't it?" agreed Vance.

"Sure." The sergeant was almost contemptuous. "But that don't get you nowhere. Anybody coulda figured it out if that had been the only problem connected with Monday night's operation.

"But it's the rebolting of that side door, after Skeel had gone, that's been occupying my mind. Skeel might've—might've, mind you—got in the way you did.

"But he couldn't have got out that way, because the door was bolted the next morning. And if there was some one here to bolt the door after him, then that same person could've unbolted the door for him earlier, without his doing the ten-foot dash down the rear hall to unbolt the door himself at half past nine. So I don't see that your interesting little drama helps Jessup out any."

"Oh, but the drama isn't over," Vance replied. "The curtain is about to go up on the next act."

Heath lifted his eyes sharply.

"Yeah?" His tone was one of almost jeering incredulity, but his expression was searching and dubious. "And you're going to show us how Skeel got out and bolted the door on the inside without Jessup's help?"

"That is precisely what I intend to do, my Sergeant."

Heath opened his mouth to speak, but thought better of it. Instead, he merely shrugged his shoulders and gave Markham a sly look.

"Let us repair to the public atrium," proceeded Vance; and he led us into the little reception-room diagonally opposite to the switchboard. This room, as I have explained, was just beyond the staircase, and along its rear wall ran the little passageway to the side door. (A glance at the accompanying diagram will clarify the arrangement.)

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 2. (Canadian Press).—The "Expositor" says:

The farm women of Ontario, with their wonderful institutions, have shown that the men in this part of the country have no monopoly on brains for business or community work, and their western and eastern sisters are no whit behind them. As a cold fact the men have made a poor fist of institute work in this province. It took the women to show them how.

FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Dante Gabriel Rossetti and Elizabeth Siddal (I) — By Nicholas Afonsky

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

In many of the pictures by the great English artist, Dante-Gabriel Rossetti, you see the face of Elizabeth Siddal, for ten years his fiancee, for two his wife, his inspiration for the twenty years he outlived her, and the model for some of the best of his work.

He was born in 1828—three-quarters Italian, for his father was born in Italy and lived there until four years before the son's birth. It was only when he knew that the king's gallows would get him if he stayed longer in Italy that he fled to Engand.

Rossetti's mother was also part Italian. When he was fourteen Rossetti went to art school. From the beginning of his training his work was strongly individual—though it was always adversely criticized by the more conservative artists. Undaunted he persevered, and in 1849 painted his first picture.

In the meantime, a beautiful, tall, thin and graceful girl was working as assistant in a London bonnetmaker's shop in Cranborne Alley. She was not very strong, but after her work she sketched and wrote verse. Her name was Elizabeth Siddal, and she later became Rossetti's wife.

AN ARCHITECT'S HOME
Arthur E. Cubbidge, Architect.

When an architect builds his own home it may be expected that all the results of his years of experience will enter into its design. Unhampered by the otherwise inevitable slight dashes of opinion between himself and a client, he may design what, to him, represents the perfect home. Here is a house actually erected under these ideal conditions.

A wooded lot, 75 ft. by 450 ft., on the banks of the Red River, forms a splendid background for an English Cottage design such as this. Imagine the beautiful sight it would make with its white roughcast walls, Persian red shingle roof, and scarab green woodwork, in such a setting, during any season.

The plan, as we may expect, comprises absolutely the most desirable arrangement possible, and contains numerous built-in features. Notice particularly, the large beautiful living room, with its abundance of windows, and the clever manner in which a built-in bookcase balances the hall doors on the opposite side of the centre fireplace. Cathedral stained oak trim, and a solid beamed ceiling makes the hall, too, a place of distinction.

Efficiently planned and equipped, the kitchen quarters would reduce housework to a minimum. An arrangement such as here shown, with the sink located under a large window with a dresser on each side, forms a beautiful and efficient fixture, at which work becomes a pleasure.

A linen closet, a tiled bathroom, a good size store room and three bedrooms are located on the second floor. The beautiful large bedroom over the living room has a built in wardrobe and two clothes closets. In the bathroom a built-in bath is installed, the ends of the recess being occupied by a medicine cupboard, and a towel and soap cupboard, respectively.

With hollow tile walls, and hot water heating, this home cost approximately $8,500.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with MacLean Builders' Guide, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont. who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 114. Copyright, 1 28.

WHEN WHITE PINE WAS KING

The early history of the lumbering industry in Canada is practically the history of the lumbering of white pine In the early days of lumbering, the lumber-producer both as to quanity white pine was considered the main, if not the only, tree of value in the forests. It was the premier lumber tree, and for years held first place as lumber-producer both as to quantity cut and the value of the product.

"WHY WASHING TAKES SO MUCH OF YOUR TIME"

by
HILDA DORAN ROSS
Home Economics Counselor

SOME housewives divide their washing—the regular washing and the fine things which need special care. This makes two washings—twice as much work.

"As Home Economics Counselor, I have found that this is one of the most common mistakes made by housewives. They know that ordinary laundry soap ruins fine, dainty clothes. But they do not know that they can get a fine, pure soap which is cheap enough to use for everything—and which will not hurt filmy silks and laces if they can be washed in water at all.

"It has been part of my work for many years to study soap. Finally, I discovered Princess Soap Flakes. They are fine pure soap in thin flakes which dissolve almost instantly. They contain no harsh chemical filler or harmful free caustic, which are the elements in soap so ruinous to clothes and so hard on your hands. My tests proved that Princess Soap Flakes are best for any type of washing. And they have the added advantage of being economical. A little of this pure soap makes mountains of foaming suds, wonderfully effective for any washing or cleaning task."

Big Yellow Package

DON'T HAVE RED HANDS
Princess Soap Flakes will not harm your hands because they contain no harsh chemical filler or free caustic.

OUR GUARANTEE
We guarantee to replace any washable garment which, by reason of its having been washed with Princess Soap Flakes, has been damaged in texture or its color made to run, provided such garment has been washed in accordance with our instructions.

RAYNOR RECEIVES FOUR-YEAR TERM

Picton and Belleville Automobile Dealer Will Not Appeal.

BELLEVILLE, March 5. — R. H. Raynor was found guilty of fraudulent conversion and failure to account for funds before Judge McLean late on Saturday afternoon, and was sentenced to four years in Portsmouth penitentiary. The accused took his sentence in a calm manner and the cases having lost considerable of their interest there were only a few spectators when sentence was pronounced Raynor has thirty days in which to appeal the sentence, but F. L. Ward, his counsel, stated that no appeal would be entered. It was learned that Raynor would be taken from Picton county jail to-day to the penitentiary by Sheriff Barker and Bailiff Hoover.

CONFESSED SLAYER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

George Chisholm Tries To Gash Throat With Prong of Belt Buckle.

INDIAN HARBOR, Ind., March 5 (Canadian Press). — George Chisholm, formerly of Montreal, who has confessed slaying his two young sons, attempted suicide last night after he had been brought here from East Chicago jail to avert threatened mob violence. A belt buckle, the prong of which he used in an effort to pierce his throat, was the weapon Chisholm employed. Police Captain Knight, who had just locked Chisholm in the cell, turned back on a sudden impulse in time to witness the suicide attempt.

Chisholm confessed yesterday that he had drowned his two sons, George, nine, and Edgar, six, because Mrs. Helen Lawrence, with whom he lived, had nagged him about their presence in the household.

BOYS HOLD BANQUET.

Losers of George Street Bowling Contest Entertain Their Conquerors.

The boys of Charles Elliott's class of George Street United Sunday School entertained the boys of Trevor Miller's class at a very enjoyable banquet in the auditorium of the Sunday School on Friday evening. This supper was the climax to a bowling contest in which the losing team was to banquet the winners.

The tables were very attractively decorated and a splendid supper provided by the Co-Workers' Bible Class. Harry Northrop acted as chairman and also presided at the piano for community singing. The program included a splendid address by J. John, a duet by Jack Baird and Bob Allin with the rest of Mr. Miller's Class joining in the chorus, and an instrumental solo by Harry Northrop.

A vote of thanks to the Co-Workers' Class was moved by Garnet Dainard and tendered by the chairman. The boys then sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" Mrs. A. I. Brown replied.

Obituary

MICHAEL MELLON.
The death took place at Nicholls Hospital early this morning, March 5, of Michael Mellon, formerly of Ottawa, but of late employed as a chemist at the Deloro Mines. He was brought to Peterborough on February 9. The remains will be sent to Ottawa to-night, the funeral to take place from his home in that city. A brother, Dr. Mellon, came to Peterborough, and is accompanying the remains to the capital.

CHARLES H. MOONEY
At St. Boniface Hospital, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Friday, February 17th, at 7.30 a.m., there passed away Charles H. Mooney, beloved husband of Laura Phelps, at the age of 59 years.

The funeral service was held in Mordue Bros.' funeral home on Tuesday afternoon, February 21st, and was attended by a large number of friends. The service was conducted by Rev. W. H. C. Leech, a former pastor of the deceased. Mr. Mooney, he said, had for 30 years been engaged in the hazardous and strenuous life of a railroad conductor, but had never allowed the temptations of that life to dull the finer instincts and qualities of his manhood. His great kindness of heart had won for him a host of friends who looked upon him as one of the cleanest men on the road. He had been most devoted to his wife, who for years has been an invalid. When on the road his thoughts were ever of her and if his train were detained for any cause, he would wire her, allaying her fears. When off the road his whole time was spent with her, and his every thought was for her happiness. One was reminded, the minister said, of the statement made concerning the Saviour when he hung upon the cross: "He saved others, Himself He could not save." Anyone, he said, who thus gives himself for others, does not care about saving himself.

The memory of that life best known to her who was nearest and dearest to him, would be a great service of comfort and strength to her in the days to come.

The Scripture lesson was taken from the 90th Psalm and the 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel. "Lead, Kindly Light" was sung as a hymn, and Miss Edna Morgan sang "Abide With Me."

Mr. Mooney was born in Peterborough, Ont., 59 years ago and was the son of the late Frederick and Elizabeth Mooney.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Mildred Mooney of Bracebridge, Ont., and Miss May Mooney of Toronto, Ont., and two brothers, A. L. Mooney of Duluth, Minn., and A. W. Mooney of Biggar, Sask. Those present from outside points were: Miss M. Mooney of Bracebridge, Ont., Mr. Fred Mooney and son of Duluth, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mooney of Biggar, Sask.; Mrs. Robert M. Shaver of Edmonton, Alta., and Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Davison and Roberta of Melville, Sask.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Mr. Mooney was laid to rest in Elmwood Cemetery among the flowers he so dearly loved.

Mayor Suggests That Trinity College Use Vacant Buildings Temporarily.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 5. — (Canadian Press).—A recommendation that Woodstock College buildings be offered Trinity College, Port Hope, as a temporary home for the students pending the re-building of the college destroyed by fire on Saturday, was of Woodstock to Chancellor Whidden made in a telegram from Mayor Sales of McMaster University, Toronto. The Woodstock College buildings have accommodation for three hundred students, and have been vacant for nearly two years.

WEDDING BELLS

BLACK—VEENMAN.
A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage of the Pauline United Church, Toronto, at 5.45 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 29th, when Doris, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Veenman, became the bride of George Black, of Toronto. She was becomingly attired in a dress of poudre blue flat crepe, with a corsage of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley, and blonde shoes and hose to match.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on the evening train for Ohio, where they will spend the next two weeks. The bride travelled in a Hudson seal coat and small, close-fitting hat.

The bride and bridegroom were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts, showing the high esteem in which they are held.

FORMER LOCAL BOY HELPS SCHOOL WIN

W. J. Riddiford is Member of McMaster University Debating Team.

An old Peterborough boy and former pupil of King Edward School, W. J. Riddiford, son of Captain the Rev. W. C. Riddiford, at one time minister of Park Street Baptist Church and now located in Burlington, Ontario, distinguished himself by winning in conjunction with C. H. Howard of Toronto the judge's decision for McMaster University against Loyola University of Montreal in the final series of the Inter-University Debating League held in Castle Memorial Hall, McMaster University, on Friday evening.

The subject was: "Resolved, that Canada's position on the Council of the League of Nations is inconsistent with her membership in the British Empire," and the McMaster representatives were called upon to uphold the affirmative. On account of the fact that another McMaster debating team, defending the negative position on the same resolution lost to Osgoode Hall, the Baptist institution failed to reach the top position in the contest and had to be content with second place.

Mr. Riddiford, who is a member of Class '28 and is president of the General Student Body of McMaster University, has had a brilliant debating career since entering the university. Two years ago he was one of the debating team which defeated University College and won for McMaster the Kerr Shield, the trophy of the Toronto Inter-College Debating Union. After graduation, he proposes to enter Osgood Hall.

FOUR INSPECTORS AT PACKING PLANT

Government Employs and Controls Men Who Grade Meat.

Every meat packing plant in Canada has a staff of Government inspectors who are appointed gy the Federal Departmentof Agriculture. In the local C.P.C. factory there are two veterinary inspectors, one assistant, and one veterinary hog grader. The government defines their duties and they are not, as might be supposed, under the control of the management of the plant.

These inspectors are on duty continually while all or any department of the plant is in operation. They inspect the live animals immediately on their arrival and while in the process of being dressed. They regulate the disposition of those that are unfit for human consumption. They see that nothing but the best of ingredients are used in the processing of the product. They see that the manufactured product is consistent with its descriptions as known on the market.

The use is prohibited in the plant of any carcass of meat or portion that was not dressed in an establishment under government in spection and all manufactured products must have the number of the plant stamped on it.

This all goes towards the safeguarding of the public's health, a benefit that is regulated and paid for by the government and towards which each taxpayer contributes indirectly his share. Every consumer should ask to see the government stamp on the meat he is buying so as he will insure himself and his family from any disease that may be found in meat that has not been inspected. The local C.P.C. plant is known as establishment number 2C and such legend insures the buyer that it is "Made in Peterborough" product.

U.S. COURT DECIDES CANADIANS MAY CROSS BORDER FREELY

Right to Cross International Line Settled By Jay Treaty of 1794.

AFFECTS THOUSANDS.

Decision Arouses Much Interest in State and Labor Departments at Washington.

NEW YORK, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Canadian residents holding or seeking employment in the United States may cross the international boundary daily without respect to immigration laws, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously ruled yesterday.

The decision affects thousands of Canadians who cross the international boundary daily to work in industrial centres on the United States side of the border.

The decision was based on the Jay Treaty of 1794 between the United States and Great Britain, which was interpreted as granting residents on either side of the border the right to cross and re-cross daily to transact business without the usual immigration restrictions.

The Government had contended that the word 'business' in the treaty referred only to trading and merchandising. The Court's opinion, however, written by Presiding Judge Manton, in the case of Mary Cook and Antonio Lanelon, foreign-born residents of Niagara Falls, Ont., who were detained by authorities when they attempted to enter Buffalo to work for the day, said "business is a very comprehensive term, and embodies everything by which a person can be employed."

"They were both permitted by law to enter the United States temporarily for their respective business, one to work and the other seeking employment," the Court said. "At no time did they intend to remain permanently or seek to migrate here.

"The treaty effective at the time of their crossing and re-crossing gave them, as British subjects, privileges accorded under the explanatory of Article 3 of the Treaty of 1794, which included that of crossing and re-crossing for the purpose of business and commerce, and such they were engaged in, the writ should have been sustained and their discharge granted."

A writ of habeas corpus sued out for the petitioners was denied by District Judge John R. Hazel, in Buffalo. Judge Hazel said the new border crossing regulations, effective December 2, which prohibited foreign-born residents of Canada from crossing the border for employment unless they have quota immigration visas were not inconsistent with the immigration rules or with the Jay Treaty.

Washington Interested.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 6 (Canadian Press). — Decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals of New York State upholding the right of British subjects resident in Canada to commute across the border to work on the United States side has aroused much interest in the State and Labor Departments in Washington.

Immigration law regulations hampering foreign-born Canadian residents in crossing into the United States will, however, not be changed because of yesterday's decision, Carl Robe White, Assistant Secretary of Labor, announced, and the decision itself will be immediately appealed by the Government to the Federal Courts.

Mr. White said that if the Court's decision classifying Mary Cook and Antonio Lanelon, respectively English and Italian born Canadian residents, as non-immigrants, and free from obligation for obtaining passports for traversing the boundary, should be sustained, the entire Federal border regulation system, as it now stands, would have to be modified.

"The Government will appeal the case, and I have no doubt but that in the final adjudication the immigration regulations will be upheld."

Lumbermen Shoot Fox Dead In Traps

Two lumbermen while tramping through a field near Allandale in the township of Otonabee last week saw a red fox curled up in the snow. They approached within several hundred feet of the fox and yet "Red Reynard" made no motion to move on so one of them went for a gun while the other stayed to watch the fox. In a short time the man returned with the gun and fired at the fox. On closer investigation the fox was found to have died and was lying frozen in the snow, caught in two traps.

Blast Kills Four In Cocaine Raid

WARSAW, March 6 (Associated Press).—The Polish Telegraph Agency yesterday says that four persons were killed outright and seven others mortally wounded in an explosion in a house at Dziaioszyn, near the German border, during a raid by Treasury agents. The householder had been suspected of smuggling cocaine and saccharine.

DORIS McDONALD CONFESSED CRIME, DENVER OFFICER SAYS

Detective Sends Copy of the Story Told By Doomed Girl.

DESCRIBES CRIME.

MONTREAL, Que., March 6 (Canadian Press).—Local papers yesterday feature a detailed confession alleged to have been made by Doris Macdonald, who with her husband is awaiting death on the scaffold for the murder of Adelard Bouchard, Lachine taxi driver, last July 17.

The confession is alleged to have been made to Sergeant Bert. T. Clark, Assistant Captain of Detectives of Denver, Colorado. Doris is alleged to have made the statement while in Denver last August awaiting extradition to Canada. It is signed by Sergeant Clark.

After recounting that Doris and her husband had to leave Montreal because "things were getting too warm for us," it states that they hired Bouchard to drive them to the border, intending to take the taxi away from him en route.

The statement describes the crime as follows:

"I had the straps with me to tie him with and Frank had a beer bottle to hit him on the head with, to knock him out. I was to say: 'You have a flat tire,' which I did He stopped, and we all got out; he got nearly out and looked at the tires on that side and said: 'The tires are O.K.' We said, 'Come on, get out.' Frank got yellow standing there shaking like a leaf. When we told him to come on, get out, after seeing his tires were all right, he started to get back in and I shot at his feet to scare him. I only had one bullet for my little automatic.

"I tried to get some up there but could not, so the taxi driver jumped back into his car, started to try and get away, slamming the door shut, Harry (or Honey, as she called her husband) then hit the glass door, breaking it with his fist, taking his gun in his left hand as he hit the glass, then pulling the door open, reaching for the driver.

Shot at Driver

"The driver, reaching for his inside coat pocket, I thought, Mr. Clarke, that he was reaching for a gun, so I grabbed Harry's (or Honey's) gun out of his left hand and shot at the driver four times, as we couldn't afford to be taken. Our suit cases were in the car, with all those Government cheques and plates in the suit case. We then pulled him out of the car to the side of the road. I went through his right side and took $75 off of him. He was reaching for his money and I thought he was reaching for a gun. I see by the papers the next day or two, where he had $500 I missed. I sure hated to miss all that money when I went through him. Frank, the yellow cur, stood there shaking all over and said while I was going through him: 'Get his wrist watch, get his wrist watch.' I jerked the wrist watch off of the driver's wrist and threw it in Frank's face.

"If he had gone through with his part this would never have happened. I then changed my dress and left it there. Honey taking the wheel. We got in the car and started for the border. Frank and I as man and wife, and Honey as the taxi driver."

The rest of the confession describes the flight to the United States of the trio and the subsequent arrest of Doris and her husband. The "Frank" referred to in the statement is still wanted by the police and there is a reward outstanding for his arrest.

THE WEATHER

The temperature was quite sharp again this morning. At six o'clock it was three degrees below zero. During the night it had been down to five below zero. These "cold facts" are likely soon to be a thing of the past. Occasionally, however, the cold weather lingers, and even St. Patrick's day has given us zero conditions here in Peterboro.—W.P.

Official Comment Withheld At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Ont., March 6. — Canadian Press. — While the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the cases of Mary Cook and Antonio Danelon, was referred to as a "very interesting" pronouncement, official comment is withheld here, at any rate until the judgment is available. It is pointed out that the immediate situation with respect to persons resident at border points in Canada, but employed in the United States, has been met by the extension of the time for qualifying under the United States quota laws.

Islanders Travel To Polls By the Sea

PENZANCE, Cornwall, March 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—Voters of the Scilly Isles, of whom there are 950, will be conveyed 40 miles by sea to this town to cast their votes in the by-election to-day in the St. Ives division of Cornwall.

Residents of the islands, who make their living principally by growing flowers and vegetables, are without the benefit of campaign speeches to help them make up their minds for whom to vote as the three candidates were reluctant to venture on a journey to the islands, which are embraced in the constituency, for fear contrary winds would keep them stormbound for several days.

The three candidates in the by-election, which was made necessary by the appointment of J. A. Hawks, Conservative, to the bench are: Mrs. Walter Runciman, wife of the Liberal M.P. for Swansea West, Liberal; Sir Andrew Caird, former managing director of the Daily Mail, Conservative; and Fred Hopkins, Labor. The constituency is largely agricultural.

ST. PAUL'S MEN WIND UP YEAR

J. A. McNabb Elected President —Adrian Macdonald Gives Address.

ON SEEING OURSELVES.

The closing meeting of the Men of St. Paul's, held last evening, was, in many respects, an outstanding even in the annals of that organization. A splendid program of musical numbers and a highly interesting address on "Seeing Ourselves as Others See Us," delivered by Adrian Macdonald, M.A., of the Peterborough Normal School, were listened to by a large number of the members, accompanied by their ladies and as this closing meeting replaces the usual annual meeting, election of officers and reception of annual reports also took place. In its every feature the gathering was indicative of a well-organized healthy organization in St. Paul's.

The committees in charge had decided to depart from custom in that the usual banquet, which precedes regular meetings, was dispensed with, and the program proper begun as soon as the members and their friends had assembled in the Sunday school hall. The retiring president, Hurrell Dodds, as master of ceremonies, called for the toast to the King, and then introduced Tom Dutton, who, on behalf of the organization, welcomed the ladies.

The musical part of the program was of a high order, Mrs. Hazel McClelland, contralto, contributing two solos, and the quartette from the Male Voice Choir being heard in two selections, and Harold Snelgrove rendering two tenor solos. Introduced by Jerry McClelland, Jack Primeau delivered a couple of monologues in his own inimitable manner.

Officers Elected

During the evening, Mr. Blewett submitted the report of the nominating committee, and the following were elected to office:

Honorary President—Richard Lees.
Past President—Hurrell Dodds.
Chaplain—Rev. William Allan.
President—J. A. McNabb.
First Vice-President—Tom Dutton.
Second Vice-President—John Anderson.
Treasurer—A. D. McLeish.
Executive—J. W. Anderson, J. Gillespie, W. S. Hill, R. F. Raines, Walter Baptie, C. E. Blewett.

Speaker Introduced

In introducing the speaker of the evening, the Rev. William Allen recalled meeting Adrian Macdonald while attending an "At Home" at the Normal School. Mr. Macdon-

GUN-RUNNING EPISODE TO PROVE COMPLICATED PROBLEM

Question of Principle Involved in How Far League Can Investigate Matter.

ITALY SHELVES MATTER.

Argued No Security For Allied Powers if Treaty Thus Violated.

GENEVA March 6. — The machine gun shipment seized on the Austrian frontier and involving what is known as the "St Gothard incident," has come before the League of Nations council. It is likely to prove a complicated problem The guns, numbering about 2000, entered Hungary from Italy, and were marked as destined for Poland. They were neatly packed away in six cars and were supposed to be agricultural implements

The question of principles involved in the alleged clandestine importation is how far the League of Nations is entitled to investigate or control former enemy countries in the matter of armaments received in this way It is argued by France and the Little Entente—Jugoslavia, Czechoslavika and Rumanian—that if former enemy powers were permitted with impunity, to import arms, thus violating the armaments provisions of the treaties, there would be no security for the Allied powers.

Hungary, which has already discovered the guns and sold the scrap, protests that the Little Entente is trying to set up an unjustifiable precedent by establishing the right of such League control.

Italy, whose part in the affair is suspected in some quarters would prefer that the matter be shelved, arguing that peace would best be served in this way, while Germany is said to be only lukewarm in support of Hungary.

Much is expected to depend upon the attitude of Eir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of the British foreign office, as Great Britain is regarded as the most disinterested of the powers in this particular question which will likely come up definitely at to-day's meeting of the council Causes Stir.

Geneva, March 6. — The Chinese delegate, Chu Chao-Hsin, dropped a firecracker in the League of Nations security committee meeting last night while that body was discussing the draft model for a general convention of arbitration and conciliation.

With an obvious allusion to unequal treaties, he called attention to a phrase in the preamble of the draft noting that "respect for rights established by treaty or resulting from international law is obligatory upon international tribunals."

Mr. Chu said that these are such universally accepted principles it was unnecessary to repeat them. He said they were included in the covenant of the League and he added that there was also in Article 19 of the covenant a clause providing for revision of treaties which had become inapplicab and the continuance of which might endanger the peace of the world. He proposed suppression of the words of the preamble.

Dr. Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, as chairman of the committee, said the formula was found in all treaties of this kind and did not signify that the covenants were unchangeable. Therefore the phrase was not incompatible with Article 19. M. J. Valdes Mendeville, Chilean delegate supported the attitude of the chairman. The matter was dropped, but Mr. Chu was assured his remarks would appear in the minutes. The committee probably will terminate its session to-day.

IRAK SITUATION CAUSES WORRY

Britain Awaits Anxiously Next Move of Sultan Ibn Saud.

WAR OF CONVERSION.

LONDON, March 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Great Britain to-day awaited with some anxiety the next move of Abdul Aziz Ibn Saud, Sultan of Nejd and King of the Hedjaz, knowing from past experience what indefatigable fighters the Arabs are.

Ibn Saud was quoted as having said that it was impossible to bring the "infidels" of the British mandated territories of Koweit, Irak, and Trans-Jordania to his sect of Islam by peaceful methods and he had therefore decided to take up the sword.

It was believed that he intended to support the tribesmen who have harassed the mandated district because of fear of his own political position.

George Chisholm To Plead Insanity

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Mar. 6 (Canadian Press).—Insanity will be George Allen Chisholm's plea when he faces trial for the murder of his sons, George, Jr., 9, and Edgar, 6, whom he drowned in the Indiana Harbor Ship Canal.

Arraigned yesterday on two charges of murder, Chisholm was ordered held to the Grand Jury. He appeared in Municipal Court, after appearing as the only witness at coroner's inquests here and in East Chicago, Ind., so weak from loss of sleep and weeping that he had to be supported between two officers.

Called to the witness stand at the inquest here into the death of little George, Chisholm fainted and slumped to the floor. Revived, he tried to recite anew the gruesome details of a previous written confession—how he tricked the youngsters into playing cowboy and lassoing themselves with loops of wire which prevented death struggles when he enticed them to the canal and pushed them in.

NATIVE SONS PLAN TO FORM BRANCH IN CITY

Development of Higher Type of Canadian Citizenship Aim of Order.

NOT FOR SEPARATION.

President of Riverdale Branch Declares Imperialists Are Numerous in Society.

Peterborough is shortly to receive an addition to its list of organizations in the form of a branch of the Native Sons of Canada, which will be established here within the next three weeks.

"We are planning to take down to Peterborough about 200 of our members in Toronto to give the new branch an auspicious send off," said Norman A. Knight, president of the Riverdale, Toronto, branch of the Native Sons of Canada. "We believe that in Peterborough and district, we have a good field for our organization, which is probably the fastest growing body at present in the country."

"What are the aims and objects of the organization, Mr. Knight?" asked the interviewer. "Is it the case that the Native Sons of Canada are out for independence and complete separation from the Motherland?"

"Nothing of the kind," was the reply. "If anyone tells you that independence and separation are official planks of the organization, he is saying what is not true. We have among our numbers, some who believe in separation, but we also have in our membership many Imperialists. We admit them all. We are absolutely non-sectarian and non-political. We are simply a Canada First party and are out to encourage Canadians to take a little more interest in the managing of the affairs of their own country. Here in Canada we have Sons of England, Sons of Italy and many other organizations on a national basis. We think it is time to have one with Canadian consciousness, but we are no more out for complete independence than are the Sons of England.

"We often find that many institutions and public bodies are practically run by people born outside the Canadian border. This is chiefly owing to the fact that Canadians take insufficient interest in public business and these matters are to a great extent left to others. We believe that natives of the country are best able to manage its affairs and want to do all we can to persuade them to take a hand towards that end. We are out to foster a spirit of law observance and devotion to national duty. In fine, we are aiming at the creation of a higher type of Canadian citizenship."

Beyond stating that he knew there were many citizens in Peterborough who were prepared to support and become members of the new branch, Mr. Knight was unable to give the names of the probable heads of the organization in Peterborough.

From another quarter has come the suggestion that John McCann is one of the local citizens who are very much interested in the establishment of the Native Sons in Peterborough district.

Four new branches of the Native Sons of Canada will shortly be opened in Toronto and one in Oshawa.

Houdini Sends Word From Beyond Grave

LONDON, March 6. — (United Press.)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has announced that he had received word from the widow of Harry Houdini that she had received a pre-arranged code word from her late husband. Sir Arthur said the word was left to Mrs. Houdini by the magician as a test of the authenticity of spiritualism. He said the word was received in a test held under the presidency of the New York spiritualist, Arthur Ford. He said the word was communicated through a control known as "Fletcher." "I understand the experiment is not quite yet complete, but that much has been fulfilled," Sir Arthur said.

LOCAL M. L. A. WANTS FISHING THROUGH ICE MADE ILLEGAL

Bring Matter Up at First Meeting of Fish and Game Committee.

WOLVES NUMEROUS.

Member For Parry Sound Declares That Menace is Greater Than Ever.

TORONTO, March 6 (Canadian Press).—W. H. Bradburn (Conservative, Peterborough) asked that fishing through the ice in his constituency be prohibited, when the Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature held its first meeting of the session to-day.

The wolf menace in Ontario, which Dr. Harcourt, Conservative member for Parry Sound, declared was greater now than ever before, was also considered. A substantial increase in the bounty, now $15, with the return of the skin, or the appointment of Provincial officers to exterminate wolves, was urged by Dr. Harcourt as the best means of limiting the number of wolves, which, he said, were ten times as numerous in Northern Ontario as in the early days of settlement. Hon. Charles McCren pointed out that it was expected fifteen thousand wolves would be killed this year, and the province was paying as much as any other province in bounties. He thought sheep killing was decreased, though Dr. Harcourt said this was because the farmers were giving up sheep-breeding in disgust.

A closed season for muskrats was advocated by H. H. Colliver (Conservative, Prince Edward).

GRAND JURY PANEL USED IN LIBEL SUIT

Counsel Confer On Method To Be Followed in Currie Case.

COBOURG, Ont., March 6 (Canadian Press). — An unusual method of procedure is probable in the suit for $50,000 damages taken against the publisher of the Port Hope Guide and W. T. Preston, for alleged libel, the complainant being General Sir Arthur Currie, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Corps in the War.

On Thursday counsel will confer here on the appointment of a special jury in the case. It is proposed that the jurors be struck from the Grand Jury panel rather than from the Petit panel. It is understood that similar proceedings have not been disclosed in the records of this section for over half a century. The action arises from the publication in the Port Hope Guide of an article written by Mr. Preston, dealing with the attack on Mons just before the Armistice, occasioning, it was claimed, "unjustifiable" sacrifice of human life.

DUNCAN ON TRIAL FOR KILLING WIFE

Former Brantford Policeman Arraigned There For Murder.

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 6 (Canadian Press). — George Duncan, a former Brantford policeman, to-day before Mr. Justice Logie, was placed on trial for his life. He was arraigned on a charge of the murder of Margaret Duncan, his wife, who died in their car on September 29 while driving to their home in this city. A coroner's jury found death due to carbolic acid poisoning. Witnesses traced the progress of Duncan's car from Hamilton to Brantford, showing Mrs. Duncan to have been alive and apparently well at Hagersville.

In the average family where all the cooking is done electrically, the monthly energy consumed is 31 k. w. hours per person per month.

COUNCIL WILL ASK DEPARTMENT FOR APPROVAL OF APPOINTMENT; LENGTHY DEBATE BEFORE VOTE

Officer Not Definitely Appointed By Council at Last Night's Meeting.

FINANCES CONSIDERED.

Tax By-law Passed Calling For 37 Mill Rate—Street Signal Ordered.

A request to the Department of Health to approve of Dr. A. W. McPherson, school medical officer and a former city Medical Officer of Health as full time Medical Officer of Health for the city was passed by the City Council last night after hearing the report of Ald. Ackerman, chairman of the special committee appointed to go into the matter. Ald. Ackerman's report and explanation was followed by a great deal of discussion, but when the vote was taken only the Mayor and Ald. Phelan opposed the motion.

Last night's was the regular March meeting of the council. The meeting was featured by the large gallery, the members of the Friday Night Club of the Y.M.C.A. being present in a body to get an insight into the government of the city. The principal routine work was the passing of the by-law fixing the rate at 37 mills and levying the taxes for the year. The taxes will again be paid in three instalments, due July 9, Sept. 8, and Nov. 8.

Ald. Ackerman's report on the appointment of a full time Medical Officer of Health read as follows: :

"The special committee detailed by the Council to co-operate with the Board of Education and Separate School Board in the investigation and survey of the Health Department of the City of Peterborough wishes to reoprt as follows:

The City of Peterborough spent in the year 1927 the amount of $23,430.00. These disbursements in detail are as follows:

School doctor	1500.00
School nurse	1500.00
School dentist	1200.00
School dentist's assistant	360.00
M. O. H.	2000.00
Dr. Waite	1000.00
Technician	1200.00
Stenographer	780.00
Provincial nurse	500.00
Health Association	1000.00
Well Babies' Clinic	700.00
Isolation Hospital	8000.00
Sanitary and Relief Officer	3500.00
	$23430.00

"It will be seen that with expenditures such as the expenditure upon the Isolation Hospital and the expense attached to the Laboratory cannot be considered in counting upon the full-time Medical Officer of Health, so that to start with a necessary reduction of approximately $11,480.00 would have to at once be made from $23,430.00. This would leave a balance of $11,950.00 which together with the $2,500.00 allowed by the Provincial Government, combined with assistance in the provision of a public health nurse by the Red Cross Society and possibly another assistant supplied by the Metropolitan Life, it will be seen that approximately the sum of $16,850.00 would be available for the Medical Officer of Health.

"Assuming that the services of a full-time Medical Officer of Health can be secured at a salary of $4,500.00 a year that would leave an amount of $12,350.00 with which he would be able to engage assistants and carry on the administration of his work.

"Your committee desires to impress upon the Council the work especially that has been rendered to the Protestant Public schools through the services rendered bw a school doctor and dentist, and it would appear that by far the greatest amount of public health service will be rendered to the ratepayers through the medium of school children and their parents.

"The purpose of this report to the Council is primarily for the purpose of laying before the Council some facts as to the financial responsibility that has been assumed by the city through public health matters.

"By extending this service to the Separate Public schools and with an amount of money not in excess of the amount of money expended last year for this work much benefit will accrue to the city in effecting this change."

Dr. McPherson Proposed.

"I discussed this with Dr. McPherson,' began Ald. Ackerman in explanation, "because he has been for a number of years in charge of the health work in the Public Schools and as medical officer of the city. I went over these figures with him and he would be willing to take the position at $4,500, with an increase of $500 if he gets a certificate for public health. This certificate would show that he had certain other qualifications not demanded but desirable."

Ald. Ackerman then moved that the name of Dr. A. W. McPherson be submitted to the Department of Health for approval."

The Mayor: "You'd have to get rid

Reich Crown Prince Rents Naples Villa

NAPLES, March 6.—The former German Crown Prince has decided to spend the spring near Naples and has already arrived here incognito. He has leased the beautiful villa Pilangieri at Torre Annunziata at the foot of Mount Vesuvius. The ex-Crown Prince announced he will remain at the villa for two months.

Sunny 1928 If Old Theory Is Correct

LONDON, March 6. — The Bruckner theory, a theory of definite thirty-five-year weather cycles, tells that 1927's raininess is to be followed by a year of moderation and sunshine. The theory of the late Professor Bruckner has been gaining in scientific support year after year as more close observations are continually being made.

The weather for 1928, according to the theory, will repeat the weather of 1893;; every thirty-five years the weather in temperate zones is repeated. Nineteen twenty-seven is supposed to have been similar to 1892, 1926 to 1891, etc.

TEN LOSE LIVES AS HOME BURNS

Mrs. Thomas Cliche, Eight Children and Father-in-law Die in Fire.

NEAR QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, March 6 (Canadian Press).—Ten lives were lost when fire swept the home of Thomas Cliche, near Valley Junction, in the Parish of Stemarie De Beauce, last night. The dead are Mrs. Thomas Cliche, her eight children, and the woman's father-in-law, Charles Cliche. Mrs. Cliche lost her life in an unsuccessful attempt to save her children.

It is believed that the fatal outbreak was caused by an overheated furnace. The blaze spread through the house with alarming rapidity and the occupants had practically no chance of saving their lives. All the members of the family were in bed.

When they discovered the fire, Thomas Cliche and his wife ran out in night attire to raise the alarm. They then tried to re-enter the blazing structure. Cliche was driven back by flames and smoke, but his wife managed to get into the house through a window, and went in search of her children. She was not seen alive again.

Charles Cliche, aged father of Thomas, was sleeping in an upper apartment of the house. It is presumed that he was suffocated while still sleeping. Of the home, nothing remained to-day but a heap of smouldering ruins, through which residents of the locality searched for the remains of the victims.

The names of the young victims were not known. They ranged in age from sixteen to four years and include three boys, the eldest twelve, and five girls, the eldest sixteen and fourteen respectively. It is believed that the victims were saved the torture of being burned to death and that they were asphyxiated before their bodies were consumed by the flames.

MODEL ENGINE VERY COMPLETE

Tiny Steam Engine On Display in Examiner Window Actually Works.

Working models of any form of machinery are usually interesting but doubly so is the model of a two-cylinder high pressure steam engine which is to be seen in The Examiner window. It was built by C. G. Thomson, of 537 Sherbrooke Street, and embodies every feature of the full-sized steam engine. It is mounted on a small wooden stand and it reflects a great deal of credit upon its builder.

PAVING BY-LAW AND AGREEMENT SENT BACK FOR ALTERATIONS

Campbellford Town Council Will Meet Again Next Monday To Continue Matter.

ENGINEERS HEARD.

Council Decides To Advertise For Tourists—Opposes Act Governing Peddlers.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6.—At the regular meeting last night, the Town Council made decided progress toward the proposed paved streets for this season. All the members of the Council were present and much useful information was forthcoming from Mr. Fellows, Government road engineer, and J. M. Breen of the Canada Cement Company. As requested by letter, Colonel F. D. Boggs, K.C., Cobourg, solicitor for the United Counties, had submitted a blank agreement form and by-law, but these were found to be incorrect in certain details and were returned with certain corrections to be redrafted. It is expected that they will be returned in a very few days and the Council will be able to continue its meeting from where it was left off with last night. The adjourned meeting is set for Monday night at seven o'clock in the clerk's office. Owing to Mr. Lazier, paving engineer, not being present, there were further delays which will be overcome at the Monday night session. Though this is expected to be a short meeting, as the business to be transacted will be in shape for speedy attention and despatch.

Mr. Breen, Canada Cement Company engineer, addressed the Council and gave some very useful information. He stated that there were only two kinds of permanent pavement and these were concrete and bituminous. Of these he was in favor of the concrete for various reasons. First of all, the maintenance cost of concrete was approximately $25.00 per mile per year. It was practically guaranteed to last twenty-five years, and some engineering companies claimed that it was good from thirty-five to fifty years. He declared the concrete was less slippery in wet weather, lighter for night driving, was not dusty, and was permissable on steeper grades.

Regarding cracks, he claimed these could be overcome by expansion joints, and the permanent character of the pavement permitted it to be resurfaced many years later if so desired. Noise, he thought, could be practically disregarded in this day of rubber-tired vehicles. There were, he claimed, 1,500 miles of concrete pavement in Ontario and over seventy miles in cities and towns.

If Campbellford decided to lay concrete, the company he represented was prepared to use local material and labor as far as either was procurable. Only their engineer and foremen would be brought from out of town. On streets where it was not desirable to close the entire street during the operations, the work could be done in half sections and thus leave one side of the street open all the while paving was in progress. It was also possible, he stated, to open the streets from four to seven days after the pavement had been laid. The cost would be approximately $23,000.00 per mile.

LEAP YEAR DANCE

Veterans' Jewels Presented at Social Evening of I.O.O.F., 296.

PONTYPOOL, March 6.—Robert Gray and Robt. Halloran were presented with veteran jewels by I.O.O.F. No. 296 at a recent social evening. The presentation was made by J. McRoberts and Mr. Youngman congratulated them on attaining 25 years continuous membership. Both gentlemen replied, thanking the members for their kindness. Mr. Gray stated that during his entire membership he had never had to ask the Lodge for any money for sick benefits. The evening was spent in old time dancing, the larger part of the dance being of the leap year variety. The ladies having to ask for the dances provided a busy night for the men. Music was provided by Messrs. E. and S. Webb, L. Ramsberry, and P. Porter. Messrs. M. Gray and L. Aldread were floor managers. Lunch was served at midnight by the ladies.

CAUGHT IN BELT; ESCAPES INJURY

Warsaw Man Has Clothes Ripped in Course of Sawing Bee.

WARSAW, March 6.—What might have been a very serious accident occurred at a sawing bee recently when one of the men reached over the belt for something and was caught. Men rushed to the rescue and the belt was thrown. He escaped with no injury other than the destruction of part of his clothing; even the mitts and handkerchief in his hip pocket were riddled. Reg. Bolton has charge of the outfit and has started the season's work.

Blue Jay's Visit.

Residents of this district have noticed a blue-jay around for several days. Mrs. Moore heard a crow on the latter part of February and one was seen on the second day of March.

A hen pheasant has made Robert Moore's garden its home all winter. Lately it has come quite close to the house, where they feed it greens.

Guild Meeting.

The St. Mark's Ladies' Guild held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. H. G. E. Choate with nearly all the members present. Plans were made for the St. Patrick entertainment.

WESTWOOD COUPLE MOVE TO HASTINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Warner Presented With Piano Lamp.

WESTWOOD, March 6.—A large number of the members and adherents of St. Andrew's United Church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warner, on Friday evening to bid farewell to them before their departure for their new home in Hastings. During the evening G. Humphries presented them with a piano lamp, and the accompanying address was read by Rev. S. H. Moyer and signed by Rev. S. H. Moyer, G. A. L. Humphries, R. C. Breckenbridge, John Hope, E. W. Sargent, T. Breckenbrige and David Tucker. Mr. Warner responded in a very suitable manner. The evening was spent in music and games after which a dainty lunch was served.

HOUSE DANCE AT BURNBRAE

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Simpson Entertain on Removal to New Home.

NEW POWER LINE

BURNBRAE, March 6.—One of the most enjoyable house dances of the season was given by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Simpson recently, when a large number were present. Music was supplied by Ed. Anderson and Roger Lain while W. Fry, Lews Little and Mac Anderson assisted.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are leaving the farm which they have occupied for several years, known as the Ketchen estate, and are moving to the farm owned by Mrs. T. A. Smith, of Belleville.

New Power Line.

As the farmers of South Seymour have definitely decided to buy power from the Campbellford plant, arrangements for building the line are going forward rapidly. P. C. Denyes, who is handling the business part of the proposition, has a number of men cutting poles before the ice goes out of the swamps, and local farmers who have a surplus of marketable cedar of right lengths, may be able to dispose of it to good advantage.

Y.P.L. MEETING AT PONTYPOOL

Interesting Talk Given By Rev. Mr. Boomham.

PONTYPOOL, March 6.— The Young People's League meeting was under the leadership of the devotional vice-president, Rev. Mr. Boomham, who gave an interesting talk, and the current events were taken by J. Payne. Miss Grace McMahon gave the scripture reading, and interesting readings were given by Miss Iva Shaw and Mrs. H. M. Richardson. Games were in charge of Miss M. Kellar, which consisted of a city and town contest, the winning couple being Mrs. H. M. Richardson and J. Payne. It was decided to have a campaign for membership to raise the funds. The pastor offered to donate the prize for the one who secured the most members. The contest will last for a month.

Personals.

Mrs. Charles Hickling, of Toronto, spent the week-end as the guest of her son-in-law, Mr. W. L. Rayfield.

Mr. Jack Thompson of Millbrook spent a few days as the guest of Mr. James Chambers of Drum Corners.

Miss Bernice Cain of Peterborough was a recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cain.

The Ladies' Aid held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. J. Richardson on Thursday. Election of officers and important business was discussed, after which a dainty supper was served.

LEAGUE SERVICES

Rev. Mr. Daniel Takes Devotional Topic, "The Worst Sin."

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, March 6.—The League service on Thursday evening in charge of Thomas Fry, devotional convenor, was one of the best ever held this year with an attendance of fifty-four. The scripture was given by Mr. Fry with the combined devotional and discussion topic led by Rev. Mr. Daniel "The Worst Sin" in the words of Shakespeare "Man's Inhumanity to Man." Others taking part were, prayer, Amos Barnum; reading, Mrs. Fry and a vocal duet by Mrs. Lorne Barnum and Mr. Fry completed the program. The Ford group led in points for the evening due to visiting friends from Stanwood, but the Whippet group still leads the contest, with the Chevrolets only a few points behind.

Earl Fairman, missionary convenor, promises a good program for this week. Competition is keen among the leaders as points are given for programs.

Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, March 6.—On Saturday afternoon, March 3, Kenneth Morris played host to a number of his young friends on the occasion of his seventh birthday. The earlier part of the afternoon was given over to tobogganing and then the children gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Regent street, where indoor games were played and supper served. Everyone, including Kennie, himself, had a good time and hoped that it would not be too long before there was another party.

Hockey Game.

The hockey team of the Canada Cement Co. played the team of the Belleville plant on Friday night in Belleville, with a score of 3-2 for the Belleville boys, who are the champions of the Bay of Quinte League. The return game will be played in Lakefield on Tuesday night.

Sunday's Fire Alarm At Lakefield Was Argument For New Apparatus

When the siren's warning note sounded through the village about 1145 on Sunday morning to the accompaniment of fearful gale from the southwest, hearts sank all over the village, for it was one of the worst possible days for a fire to break. Those who were in church at the time were filled with apprehension, which was increased when a few minutes later, the lights went out. This last, it was thought, meant a serious fire which must be fought against terrible odds by the heroic band of volunteer fire fighters, who are "ready, aye ready" for the call. The engine is good and does a boy's work well, but in the event of a serious fire an engine of greater capacity insures greater safety.

The fire was a chimney blaze at A. V. Hill's house on the corner of Bridge and Clement streets. Prompt action put out the fire and the damage resulting was small.

The wail of the siren, which was plainly heard in five of Lakefield's six churches, and the howl of the gale which accompanied it, was a mighty strong argument for a new triple combination pumper.

On Saturday afternoon the brigade was called to a chimney fire at Mr. Silas Pearson's, on Bridge street. In both cases the high wind gave the fire a good start.

LOCKED DOORS!

'Suspicion is the poison of friendship'

"Is that room haunted?" I asked Cam.

CAM had carried his pretty girl-bride over the threshold of her beautiful new home in the traditional manner. It was such a home which only great wealth and exquisite good taste could make possible. Joyously, breathlessly, Rosamond flitted from room to room, clapping her hands in ecstasy and wonderment.

And then .... she paused before one unforbidding door upstairs — glanced at her husband — tried the handle .... it was locked! Why? An anxious expression warned Rosamond to drop the subject. But, curiosity and suspicion got the better of her. "Is that room haunted?" she enquired, lightly. And all he said was:—"You're too much of a baby yet to be trusted with such a big problem!".

What a little spark is required to fan the flames of jealousy! Rosamond was hurt at her husband's apparent lack of confidence in her. And gradually there conjured up in her mind the thought that Cam was a modern Bluebeard — that behind that closed door was .... Oh!

And later as Rosamond stood before that closed door which her own hands had unlocked against her husband's wishes, she began to shake from head to foot, too limp to turn the knob and come face to face with the haunting secret that was to wreck her life. Little did she realize that her sudden fear was a warning —one of those psychic messages from—who knows where?—warning her that behind that door lay ....

But to appreciate this poignant story—taken from life — you must read it as told by the woman in whose life the episode is a continual nightmare .... the memory and result of which she will carry with her to the grave. It is entitled: "LOCKED DOORS" — and appears in TRUE STORY MAGAZINE for APRIL — now on sale at the newsstands.

MISSION BAND HEARS STORY ABOUT INDIA

Children of St. James' Church to Hold Open Meeting Next Month.

The Mission Band of St. James' United Church met on Saturday afternoon with the president, Mabel Copson, in the chair and all the officers present. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were given by Dorothy Drysdale and Dorothy Dudgeon. Scripture lesson were read by Edith Patterson and Pearl Welsh and sentence prayers were offered by Mabel Copson, Margaret Patterson, Jean Rose, and Edith Patterson.

The little McAdams sisters sang very prettily "I Am the Door." The superintendent, Mrs. Elliott, told a story entitled "A Little Widow of India."

The April meeting on the first Saturday of that month will be an open meeting. The members are preparing a special program and inviting their mothers and friends.

THE CHURCHES

St. Peter's Cathedral

"Go to Joseph and do all he shall say to you" (Gen. XLI, 55), was the text of the sermon preached at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning by Rev. P. Costello. This text is appropriate for the month of March, just beginning, as this month observes the solemnization of the feast of St. Joseph, great patron of the universal church, patron of the dying and exemplar of all that is noble in a Christian man.

"One of the teachings of the church," said Father Costello, "is to honor the saints, to think of them as men and women like ourselves who fought the good fight on earth, who went through the same trials and temptations and difficulties that beset our paths in life, and to whom we may look for intercession to God in heaven, as earthly subjects go to a favorite of an earthy king, when they desire to ask favors of a monarch.

"God chose the Blessed Virgin to be His mother here on earth and sanctified her in a special manner, preserving her from the taint of original, as well as all other forms of sin. He also chose St. Joseph to be the guardian of Mary and His own special protector in this life. The coming of Joseph is pre-figured in the Book of Genesis in the form of the great patriarch of the same name. When King Pharaoh was approached by his hungry people, asking for food, he said to them: 'Go to Joseph and do all he shall say to you'."

In the litany dedicated to this great saint, the church repeats the words: "He hath made him master of His house and ruler of all His possessions." When God chose this humble man to be His foster father, He dignified labor, for St. Joseph was a carpenter who conscientiously fulfilled the duties of his lowly lot in life. He is called "a just man," one who was obedient to the will of God, humble, pure and honest. The integrity of his existence makes him a model for the Christian father, just as the Blessed Virgin Mary is the model for Christian womanhood, and the little Infant Jesus, remaining in His home, subject to His mother and foster father, is the model for Christian childhood.

St. Joseph has been named as the patron of the universal church and he is also the patron of the dying. This just man, who lived his humble and obedient life, subject always to the will of God and desirous of carrying out His least wish, is concerned with the salvation of the souls of men and women who journey through life, battling its trials and temptations, and to him the mind turns for help and assistance at the last moment, looking for succor and aid from the saint who has been made "master of His house and ruler of all His possessions."

The Salvation Army.

At the afternoon service in the Temple on Sunday, His Worship Mayor R. Denne was present, and officially welcomes to the city Ensign and Mrs. Green. Addressing himself to the new officers His Worship said:

"I wish first to say that it is a pleasure for me to be here this afternoon and especially to welcome you, sir, and Mrs Green, to our city. I would also say that the Salvation Army has always done its bit in this city, and I am a Peterboro-born citizen, and we are proud of your organization. You are doing a work that possibly the other churches in our city are not doing, and you are doing it well.

"I would here like to take the opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the interesting service rendered to the Peterborough Exhibition, of which I am president; especially would I give our thanks to your splendid band, of which we in the city are real proud, and also the boys' band for they have rendered us real service and helped considerably in the success our city exhibition enjoys.

"'Again, sir, I am delighted to welcome you to our city, and assure you of my cooperation, the cooperation of the city council, and the citizens in general in any of your undertakings that are for the betterment of the community."

Ensign Green in reply, assured Mayor Denne of his desire that all of His Worship's expectations should be lived up to, and that their association together should be of blessing, and that the Salvation Army in the city should become a bigger and better corps. Of course," said the Ensign, continuing, "there will doubtless be some differences in our work here from what there was in Montreal, but, sir, I would like to pay tribute to Mayor Mederic Martin, whose interest in the Salvation Army was very practical. I assure you, sir, of my desire to be of service to the community while I am honored to remain in charge of the work in the city. On behalf of our corps we thank you for your presence this afternoon and I personally speaking for my wife and myself thank you for your cordial welcome you have accorded us, and also the warm welcome we have received from the citizens in general."

Preceding the meeting His Worship had also addressed the members of the Sunday schools, and behalf of the children accorded the Ensign and Mrs. Green a cordial welcome, in which he eulogized the work of the Salvation Army amongst the young life of the city, paying tribute to R. C. Braund, who for many years has been the faithful leader of the Army Sunday Schools.

Inspiring music rendered by the Band, Songsters, and the Young People's Singing Brigade, made the afternoon a very profitable season for the large crowd gathered. Mrs. Ensign Green also addressed the audience with some very helpful remarks.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6. — Miss Hazel Thomas, Booth Street, returned home yesterday from Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, where she underwent an operation recently.

Frank McNaughton, an employee of the Canadian Paper Box, injured his back when he was jammed between a heavy bale and a freight car. As far as can be learned, the injured man was assisting with the unloading of bales of paper from a freight car when he missed his footing on the snowy platform and was jammed between the bale and the car.

The first new car to be delivered in town this season is the sedan which was purchased from R. J. Allan, local dealer, by Walter Scott, Meyersburg. Mr. Allan has been unable to get in his supply of cars owing to the impassable condition of the roads outside the town limits.

Of Campbellford's 2.97 miles of connecting links, it is proposed to pave two miles this season. This will include the major portion of the work in the business section of the town.

A broken wheel is given as the cause of the wreck near Hoard's Station on Sunday when sixteen freight cars loaded with grain were derailed. Of this number only seven were at all broken. The remainder were merely derailed and their loads were not spilled. Working in the bitter blizzard that raged all day on Sunday, the wreckers and section men were able to clear the line so as not to interrupt the passenger service on Monday morning. Train No. 101 arrived in Campbellford a few minutes behind schedule, but it is explained by the fact that the Bellevile connection was ten minutes late. Thus the delay was not in any way caused by the freight wreck.

HUNDREDS NOW END COLDS BY HOSPITAL-TESTED METHOD

Doctors and Druggists Show Quickest Way to End Head Colds, Coughs and Chest Colds

Inexpensive For Home Use and Brings Quick, Sure Relief, Often in a Few Hours

Stuffy head colds clear up quickly—coughing is stopped in two to three minutes—and even deep seated chest colds disappear in a day or so—when treated at home by the Ayer method, now recommended for home use by doctors at the hospital.

Nose Cleared—Head Cold Quickly Ended

The case of C. M. Baker is typical of the quick, sure relief that has come to so many Peterborough people, according to leading druggists here. Mr. Baker contracted a stuffy head cold which he attempted to treat with a salve. It opened up the pores of his nose and throat, causing him to catch a fresh cold when he went outdoors a few hours later. The cold began settling in his bronchial tubes and he called on the hospital for advice.

Doctors then gave him Ayer's Cherry Pectoral — a concentrated mixture of special ingredients which hospitals have found to be the quickest, safest and surest to end a cold. With the first pleasant spoonful he felt its comforting, healing warmth, from his nose passages deep down into his chest. Relief began immediately—and in a day or so the cold was gone.

Child Coughed All Night—Grandmother Feared Pneumonia

Mrs. Edith Cummings became frightened when her seven year old granddaughter, Betty, coughed so hard Sunday night it seemed she would strangle. Her little bronchial tubes were rapidly filling up with congestion and pneumonia was feared. As soon as daylight came she called her family doctor who phoned the druggist to send up a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Little Betty like the taste and just a swallow or two relieved the hard coughing spells. She continued taking it as the doctor ordered and in a day or so was out frolicking—as well as ever.

Note: Other cases reported daily —all certified by the physician who treated the case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Hospital directions with each bottle.

THE THIRTEEN MADE GOOD.

It is probable that history will preserve a particular niche for the "noble thirteen" in Nova Scotia who have voted themselves out of a life job, and in sacrificing themselves have removed from the shoulders of the people of the Province a political encumbrance in the form of the Legislative Council.

The bill which will bring the career of the Upper House to an end on May 31 was signed by the Lieutenant-Governor on Saturday, and soon Quebec will be the only Province in the Dominion to retain an Upper Chamber in its Provincial machinery.

The story of the wiping out of the Nova Scotian Legislative Council is full of interest.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, the present Premier of the Province, pledged himself to this reform during the general election of 1925, and tackled the problem as soon as his party was placed in power.

Naturally the members of the Council had no desire to be thrown out in the cold, but the Premier got around that obstacle by obtaining authority to enlarge the Council, and then appointed fourteen new members who were pledged to support a bill to bring the existence of the Upper House to an end.

Last week the appointees—or at least thirteen of them—were ready to swing the axe in accordance with their promise, the bill was passed on Friday, and the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor was obtained the next day, with the result that Nova Scotia's Legislative Council will soon be no more.

NO NEED TO FEAR.

With the protest uttered by Mr. Girouard, M.P. for Drummond-Arthabaska, in regard to the visit to Canada of such statesmen as Mr. Amery, there will be not much sympathy.

Mr. Girouard seems to fear that the inference the world will gain from these visits is that the people of this country are not competent to govern themselves without the advice of old country leaders.

There is not much ground for such a fear.

Most of the guests from overseas whom Canada has been glad to welcome recently have been particularly careful not to offend the most sensitive Canadian by offering criticism or advice.

They have been satisfied to study Canadian progress and development, quick to recognize the opportunities offered by Canada, and ready at once when they return home to tell their fellow-countrymen of what the Dominion has to give the man or woman who is willing to work.

In fact, Canada has, as a contemporary pointed out the other day, no more enthusiastic publicity agents in the old land than the Prince of Wales, Premier Baldwin and Mr. Amery.

So long as British statesmen go home and act as zealous advocates of the possibilities of the Dominion, the Girouards in the House of Commons need have no worries.

Remember, it was the Prince of Wales who said: "Canada, the heart and soul of Canada, the possibilities of Canada is a reef of precious metal so vast in extent that no man living can chart it, so rich that no man can value it."

THE MACHINE AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

The displacement of manual labor by machines is believed to be a largely contributing factor in the present unemployment in New York State. Not since 1921 have so many men been out of work, and the highest mark for that year has actually been exceeded by the recently published figures for January. Industrial activity has lost some of its briskness in recent months, but there has been no sweeping setback and decline like that of 1921.

Present unemployment is regarded as plainly disproportionate to the slackening in industry; and factory statistics seem to be pointing directly at the machine for a large measure of the responsibility for the lengthening bread lines this winter. Last year the factories of the United States produced 4 per cent. more goods than in 1923 with 9 per cent. fewer workers. In other words, the means of productions have been becoming more efficient and more self-sufficient. This has been observed not only in factories but on the farms, in the mines, in the building industry. The output of cigars and cigarettes has increased 53 per cent. in four years with 13 per cent. fewer employees. Figures compiled in Ohio show that in the building trade 15 per cent. fewer men were engaged, but 11 per cent. more square feet of finished buildings were completed in 1927.

Not only have men been eliminated by the machine, but they are confronted with the feminine invasion. For instance, Binghamton, in New York State, has a population of 67,000, with about 25,000 wage-earners, one-third of this total number of workers being women.

These are conditions which prompted United States Secretary Hoover to undertake a short time ago an industrial survey which will give special attention to unemployment and its causes.

AN EPIC OF THE NORTH.

It is probable that when the full story of the adventure of the two members of the Royal Canadian Air Force and their Eskimo companion comes to be written that one of the most thrilling and inspiring chapters in the history of aviation will be compiled.

The matter-of-fact 200-word outline of this epic of Northern Labrador wirelessed by the commander of the air force at Port Burwell contains all the elements of an epic that, coming from the pen of a fiction writer, would be regarded as overdrawn and impossible.

It is known that the two airmen and their companion, engaged in their day's work of surveying the movement of the ice off the Labrador coast, had to make a forced landing on the ice sixty miles off shore, and so uncertain of their exact location that for a day they travelled in the wrong direction.

The journey to shore, aided first by an air raft for crossing the open leads in the ice, and then after that auxiliary had been lost, depending upon large cakes of ice to carry them across these passages, took a week, and what a long week it must have seemed to the intrepid trio!

And then came more difficulty and danger and another long struggle before an Eskimo hunter guided them to safety, after they had kept themselves alive by eating raw walrus flesh, obtained by the use of an emergency kit rifle.

The few details so far known are enough to show that Lewis and Terry and their gallant Eskimo lived up to the best traditions of British service.

The future of Canada's air force is assured when it is manned by men who can rise triumphant over odds such as these aviators had to overcome.

WHY UNIVERSITY MEN GO TO THE STATES.

(Calgary Herald.)

Why do so many Canadian University graduates leave Canada. We encourage our bright young Canadians to go to university, they put in years qualifying themselves for their future work, their parents make sacrifices to give them a university education, and the country pays a large sum for the upkeep of schools, teachers and universities. Then many of these young men go to the United States. Why?

The Herald will give one answer to this question.

We have before us two recent bulletins of the Civil Service Commission of Canada, No. 374 and No. 376, in which the Commission announces open competitive examinations for certain Dominion Government positions.

In Bulletin No. 374 there is notice of an opening for an experimental farm assistant, for the Experimental Farms Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. The duties of the position are: to be responsible, under the superintendent, for experimental work in horticulture, particularly in pomology; to conduct investigations and research relating to plant breeding and other problems in pomology, as assigned; to keep records of experiments and to handle correspondence relating thereto; to prepare results of investigations for publication and lectures, and to do other related work as required.

To be considered for this position the bulletin states that an applicant must be a graduate of an agricultural college of recognized standing, with specialization in horticulture; he must have taken a post-graduate degree course with specialization in pomology, with training in genetics, physiology and histology; he must have had at least one year of post-graduate experience in experimental work in pomology, research ability, supervisory ability and good address. He must produce proof of his rating in education and experience, and pass an oral examination, if required.

And a university graduate with all this education and experience, who has fitted himself as a specialist after years of study and practical experience, will be given $1,620 a year, with an increase of salary of $60 per annum for five years, when he will be at the limit of his earning powers, $1,920.

Bulletin No. 376 contains notice of a position as assistant to the chief of the narcotic division at Ottawa. To qualify for this position an applicant is required to have only a high school education with two years of clerical experience, preferably police experience, and "some" knowledge of drugs. And this position will pay $2,400 the first year, with annual increases of $120 per annum until a maximum of $2,880 has been reached.

That is, the Dominion Government will pay nearly $1,000 a year more for ordinary police services, based on a high school education, than it will pay to a university graduate, a specialist with post-graduate experience, who has spent probably seven years doing university work to equip himself as a specialist in science. And the police officer with a high school education can go on to a salary approximately $1,000 a year higher as a maximum than the university graduate.

That is one reason why Canadian university graduates leave Canada for the United States.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 6 (Canadian Press).—There was an improved demand from United Kingdom and Continental buyers for Manitoba wheat here yesterday and a moderate amount of business was worked. There was also some inquiry for ocean grain room and engagements to Bremen were made at 15c per 100 lbs. for May loading, and Hamburg, Rotterdam and Antwerp were firm at 14c per 100 lbs, while several loads were taken to Manchester at 1s 9d per quarter for nearby shipment.

Owing to the steady upward tendency of prices for oats at Winnipeg of late and the improved demand from domestic buyers the tone of the spot market was stronger and values were advanced one cent per bushel.

The local and foreign trade in Spring wheat grades of flour was quiet, but prices were unchanged. A moderate amount of business was done in Winter wheat grades and prices ruled firm.

An active trade was done in all lines of millfeed and prices were firmly maintained. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm with a small trade passing.

A fairly active business was transacted in all grades of fresh and storage eggs and prices ruled steady. The receipts were 1,548 cases.

The demand for Quebec potatoes continued good and a firm feeling prevailed in the market.

The trade in imported beans was fair and prices were unchanged. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $3.50 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $3.60 per bushel, ex-store.

The strength which has characterized the local butter situation of late was again the feature yesterday and prices were marked up another ¼c to ½c per pound. This was attributed to the improved demand. The receipts were 238 packages.

The cheese trade was dull and featureless. Prices were firm. The receipts were 344 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 6. — (Canadian Press.) —Big buying sent the wheat market soaring yesterday to the highest prices which March and May deliveries have attained since September 12 last. July wheat quotations reached a new top record for the season. Rye available for immediate use climbed to figures that for a parallel go back to May, 1925.

Broadening of demand for wheat was credited largely to unfavorable domestic crop reports and to 4,168,000 bushels falling-off in the amount of wheat ocean passage. Closing quotations on wheat were strong 1, 1-4 cent to 1 3-4 cent net higher, corn 1-4 cent to 5-8 cent up, oats varying from 1-4 cent decline to 3-8 cent gain, and provisions showing a rise of 10 cents to 20 cents.

Assertions of crop damage to domestic winter wheat were current that in some cases bordered on the sensational. Lack of rain, especially in the southwest, gave further impetus to buyers.

Houses with foreign connections were especially prominent yesterday, the purchase of Chicago wheat futures deliveries, and the bullish effect of this circumstance was emphasized as a result of brisk export business in North American wheat yesterday, totaling 1,200,000 bushels, it was announced that the United States wheat visible supply had diminished 2,023,000 bushels for the week.

Corn sympathized with wheat strength, but at times was influenced by heavy receipts of corn at terminals and by favorable weather for corn movement. There was also some selling of corn against purchases of wheat. The corn visible supply increased 3,026,000 bushels cash demand for corn was only fair. In the oats market, September was under considerable selling pressure, but other months were firm. Eastern buying of lard helped give strength to the provision market, despite weakness of hog values.

Beef, sirloin, 30c; round, 25c; roast, 15-20c; stew, 13-17c; pork, 15-25c; breakfast bacon, 35c; butter, creamery, 42c; dairy, 35c; eggs, fresh, 27-35c, according to size; chickens, 22c; stewing fowl, 17c; potatoes, 30c peck; $1.50 a bag.

A Thought

THE THINGS THAT COUNT

Not what we have, but what we hold;
Not what we see, but what we choose—
These are the things that mar or bless

The sum of human happiness.
The things near by, not things afar;
Not what we seem, but what we are—
These are the things that make or break,
That give the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true;
Not what we dream, but good we do—
These are the things that shine like gems

Like stars in Fortune's diadems.
Not as we take, but as we give,
Not as we pray, but as we live—
These are the things that make for peace,
Both now and after Time shall cease.

SAVE THE FORESTS!

Hamilton, Ont.,
Feb. 28, 1928.

To the Editor
Dear Sir:

At our present rate of forest products consumption of one million acres per year, which is annually increasing rapidly, how long will our forests last? Some estimate 10 years, some 20 years, and some 30 years.

Departmental reports show reforestry progressing at a fair pace, but the earliest prediction of an actual pulp wood results is 25 years, and the average prediction is about 50 years before a new cut could be resold to advantage, and then not be nearly so valuable as our present original fully matured growth.

Reports of recent pulp wood sales show in one township a small quantity sold at $1.00 per cord; in another a larger quantity at $2.00, and in still another a very large quantity at $3.00 and a few cents per cord.

The general cost prediction of reforestry is $25.00 per cord, and many predict the [illegible] be nearer $40.00 [illegible] whether the estimated time for growth and [illegible] really right or wrong,—why sell fully matured pulp wood at say $3.00 per cord, when it costs $25.00 to reproduce an inferior quality? I believe it is well worth this price right now and especially for export.

If we are going to continue permitting raw pulp wood to be exported, why not charge $25.00 per cord on the stump right now? (at least as much as reforestry will cost), then instead of the settlers cutting, hauling, piling at the rail or water shipping points at $7.00 per cord, they will get $25.00 per cord, plus the cost of cutting, hauling, etc.

This would encourage settlers in our timber areas, because they would not cut their homesteads clean for a number of years, which might help our immigration policy, for an abundance of employment is the only thing that really attracts immigration.

I note the greater part of the proposed Arboretum on University Avenue and extensions, are to be designed entirely for beauty, hoping ultimately to produce the most beautiful spot on earth.

Why not turn to the practical side, and employ the greater part of the Arboretum with practical and experimental reforestry, which would be ever so much more interesting to observers, and which is as beautiful as though it were entirely ornamental. Such a spot of practical reforestry in the centre of our Provincial Capital would be viewed by millions of people, as compared with a few hundreds or thousands that might be sufficiently interested to go to the rather remote Government experimental plots of today.

Why not make our frills practical, useful, and profitable, as well as ornamental, and thereby get a sufficiently practical return for our larger investments, with the beauty side thrown in.

To illustrate:—The Brampton rose and orchid garden as a practical and profitable commercial concern is far more beautiful and interesting than any exclusive display spot. So that public ownership only requires the practical side put into it, to make it the greater success.

Let us try the practical and profitable side of the question on our proposed new Arboretum on University Avenue.

In fact most of our present public beauty spots could be easily converted to the practical and profitable side.

ABOUT PICKEREL.

Editor, Peterboro Examiner,
Peterboro, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

I would like to take up some of your valuable space, if you will permit me in reference, to the controversy which is taking place over the pickerel fishing at Rice Lake.

I believe for the best interests of the province that steps should be taken to stop the sale of these fish.

I believe that the law should be so regulated that only two or perhaps five of these fish could be taken per man per day through the ice, but it should be absolutely prohibited to have these fish for sale.

I note that in all reference that is made to these fish, that they are called Rice Lake pickerel. I haven't seen a great many pickerel on the other side of the line, and pickerel which I have come in contact with have only had one large fin on the top of their back, and the fish are much longer and not so stubby.

The pickerel on the other side are also very much lighter in color, and the spots are more pronounced.

In looking in the standard dictionary you will note that this is a fact, that pickerel have only one fin on the top of their back, whereas Great Northern or Wall-Eyed Pike have two fins on the top of their back, and the fish are of a different shape.

I believe if we should advertise that there are wall-eyed pike fish here, and make this a selling point to the tourists, that it would appeal more to them than pickerel fishing.

I would like to hear from some of the other sportsmen here in town, in reference to what species of fish that the controversy is about.

Yours truly,
FISHERMAN.

HEART WAS SO WEAK
Had to Stay in Bed

Mrs. F. Wilson, Lethbridge, Alta., writes:—"My heart was very weak, and I had to stay in bed for five weeks with it.

GOD'S MINUTE

We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers; Remembering without ceasing your work of faith, and labor of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father; Knowing, brethren beloved, your election of God. For our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance.—Thessalonians 1:2-5.

Eternal God, our Father! Ere we go out into the world to meet its trials and temptations, we come to Thee for strength to fortify our spirits. Give us Thine own armor—Truth in our thoughts and motives, our words and actions; a sense of obligation in our work and in all relationships; courage to face difficutly, because we know we are true and therefore have the Father with us. May our daily tasks whether commonplace or exalted, be glorified in the consciousness that we are doing our Father's bidding. Give us patience with the shortcomings of others, and wisdom in the disciplining of our characters. May no evil blight this day, and mar the finished structure of our lives, but may we keep ourselves unspotted from the world. And as we go our several ways, will Thou watch between us while we are absent one from the other. Grant us this prayer in Christ's name. Amen.

MRS. PARNELL IS PRESIDENT

Elected at Annual Meeting of Home and School Association.

IN NORTH WARD

Officers were elected at the eighth annual meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, which was held on Monday evening, March 5th, and the reports of the year's activities were presented.

Elections for 1928 resulted as follows:

Hon. President: Mrs A. Mowat.
Hon. Vice-President: Mrs. W. G. Walker.
President: Mrs. R. Parnell.
1st Vice-President: Mrs. E. Telford.
2nd Vice-President: Mrs. J. H. Vance.
Secretary: Mrs. L. C. Deyell.
Treasurer: Mrs. H. H. Tewsley.

Convenors appointed to different committees:

Visiting, Mrs. H. Tremaine; Relief, Mrs. George Helson; Telephone, Mrs. Karl Simpson; Entertainment, Mrs. Purdy; Flower, Mrs. S. Kingdon; Social, Mrs. . E. Stephens.

The secretary's report showed that interest had been well sustained, the membership having been increased from 72 to 108 members.

Addresses at entertainments had had been given by H. B. Cowan, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Mrs. K. S. Wightman, Mr. W. Clark, L. J. Pettit.

The teachers' annual concert was again a great success. Other entertainments have been given by talent provided by Mrs. Purdy and Mrs. H. C. Cheverill.

Five paper collections were held and were well looked after by the children.

Relief work has been carried on by Mrs. George Helson in her usual capable manner.

The treasurer Mrs. J. T. C. Lang, presented a very encouraging report showing that $310.57 had been raised through the year with a balance on hand of $117.90.

Splendid reports were given by the convenors of the different committees.

Mrs. W. G. Walker was appointed the representative of the Well Babies Clinic, and Mrs. J. T. C. Lang and Mrs. Cheverill to the Local Council.

Greetings were read from Mrs. Yenny of Grimsby, the first president of the association; also from Mrs. Touchbourn, Mrs. H. G. Walker, the third president of the association, was present and spoke a few words of greetings and good wishes to the association.

The attendance picture for this month was won by Mr. Park's room.

At the close of the business meeting, dainty refreshments were served

CITY COUNCIL RESIGNS OFFICE

Niagara Falls Men Will Stand For Re-election To Positions.

DISAGREE OVER REPORT.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 6.—The whole City Council, Mayor and aldermen, will resign and stand again for re-election at an election to be held shortly. The solicitor will be asked to co-operate to make sure that defeated candidates in other elections do not step into the vacancies thus created.

Many harsh things were said and warm words were exchanged around the Council table last night. The challenge to resign was made by Aldermen Newman and accepted by the other members. The bone of contention was the recommendation of the new city manager, H. E. Goddard, formerly of East York, who favored dismissing City Clerk Seymour, Assistant Clerk Miss Durdan, and City Treasurer Elizabeth Hopkins.

The vote was three to two in favor of amending the by-law, but the Mayor voted against and tying the vote, negatived it. A special election must be held shortly to fill the seat made vacant by the unseating of M. J. Allen, and it is planned to hold a general election at that time.

No charges were made by the manager in his recommendations to the Council, but in the interim report of the special auditors, H. T. Jamieson & Company, Toronto, strong criticism was voiced of methods in use here. It was claimed that the collector's roll supplied to the tax collector by the city clerk, shows a discrepancy of $1,430 less than the total of the assessment roll.

"The city clerk has neglected to prepare a proper collector's local improvement roll. This very serious omission has been the cause of much confusion that exists in the collector's department," the report states. W. J. Seymour has been city clerk for 21 years.

Discussing the treasurer, Elizabeth Hopkins, the auditor's report states: "The city treasurer has failed to demand particulars of and exercise control over taxes in arrears and considerable taxes are outstanding."

The motion to amend the by-law and dismiss the officials was supported by Aldermen S. R. Frost, George Ilinglis, J. R. McAninch, and opposed by Aldermen A. H. Newman and K. S. W. Fordham and Mayor P. Stephens. A new election cannot take place for at least a fortnight if it is to be held at the time of the special election, as Mr. J. Allen, unseated alderman, has still until March 15 to appeal the decision of Judge Livingstone. Then the Mayor can order a new election in another fifteen days.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

The datum or reckoning point from which all calculations in coast surveying of North America are made is on Meade's Ranch near Waldo (Russell county) Kan.

"Bring Others" Class Will Now Be Known By Name "Swastika."

The "Swastika" Sunday school class, was the name decided on by members of the former "Bring Others" class of St. James' United Church, as the title by which they will in future be known. This change was recorded at a meeting held last night at the home on Morrow street of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford, who entertained the members for the regular business session which was followed by a pleasant social hour.

The meeting was opened by the singing of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," the favorite hymn of the teacher of the class, Mrs. Patterson, followed by prayer. The secretary's report, given by Miss Gladys Langton, was read and adopted and an impromptu speech, which proved very helpful and inspiring, was given by Miss Ella Heal, speaking on Japan.

The musical program of the evening included vocal solos by Miss Gladys Langton, with accompaniment played by Miss Clare Wilford, and by Miss Aileen Rose, with accompaniment by Miss O. Prest, who also gave a piano solo. A reading was given by Willow Wilford.

Prizes for contests were won by Mr. and Mrs. Wilford, Miss Pearl Welsh, Miss Aileen Rose, Miss Alice Meade and Miss Gladys Langton. The president, Mrs. Patterson, spoke briefly at the conclusion of the evening, which ended with the service of refreshments.

The class will be entertained by Miss Olive Prest at their next regular meeting on the first Monday in April.

LEADS AND SECONDS PLAY CLOSE GAMES

Annual Competition For These Players Proves Exciting.

The leads and seconds bonspiel at the curling rink is proving to be the real thriller of the season. All those who played lead or second during the season's schedule have been grouped together and rinks formed. A preliminary round was held, after which the winners were grouped into one section and the losers into another. The winners of these two sections will play off in the finals to-morrow night. J. T. Braund and Art. Wood have entered the finals in the losers section, and R. D. Bacon is there in the other group.

SEEK NEW VARIETY OF WHEAT

The production of a variety of wheat combining high yield and good baking qualities with a high degree of resistance to stem rust, is one of the most pressing problems at the present time according to the Dominion Dept. of Agriculture. Careful consideration is being given to rust resistance in new varieties and strains developed by the Dominion Experimental Farms. New varieties are produced chiefly through the medium of artificial crossing of carefully chosen parent varieties, the crossing work being confined chiefly to the Central Farm at Ottawa and to the Rust Research Labratory at Winnipeg.

Washington, D.C., has virtually no manufacturing industries.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, March 6. — The mining market this morning showed a renewed vigor and trend of prices was undisputably upward. The feature at the opening was that of Barry-Hollinger, which sold quickly as high as $1.15, and later eased off, apparently under a little profit taking but the manner in which the stock is holding seems to indicate it is in a good position for further advances. Authentic news is scarce but we are informed that an important strike around the 500-foot horizon is responsible for the demand of Barry Hollinger shares.

Many mining men in the face of adverse comment from numerous sources have maintained that sooner or later a profitable gold producer will be developed in the Boston Creek area. It looks as though Barry-Hollinger has quite a fair chance of fulfilling such a prediction as richer and more profuse ore deposition is confidently expected to be encountered as the work proceeds below the 1000-foot level.

Wright-Hargreaves was conspicuous and in strong demand at $5.25 to $5.35 per share which is considered just a reaction to more normal levels.

Kirkland Lake gold continued its advance. This is another stock which appeared to be good for higher prices Gold Lake also showed marked strength, but as yet no reasons are forthcoming on street for this advance. The remainder of the market was decidedly strong particularly in Northwest Quebec and Kirkland Lake issues. The opinion is being expressed on street that the general action of the market foreshadows a big BULL movement.

Many stocks are undoubtedly selling below intrinsic values at current quotations and we strongly recommend the immediate purchase of the active and favorably developing properties.

The way to make profits in any market is to buy low and sell high. Mining stocks are still selling low. The conclusion is quite obvious.

Wheat Prices Go Up On Crop Damage Reports

CHICAGO, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Despite unresponsive cables, Chicago wheat prices averaged higher early today, with adverse crop reports continuing to come from the Central West. Sangamon, Cass, and Morgan Counties, Illinois, reported average damage would be 50 per cent, and then scored general gains. Corn and oats also developed strength, corn starting ⅜c lower to ⅛c higher and subsequently showing an advance. Provisions were mostly higher.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 137¼, May 137¾. Corn, March 94⅜, May 97⅞. Oats, March 57⅛, May 57½.

Nickel's Strength Features Dull Toronto Market

TORONTO, March 6 (Canadian Press). — International Nickel's resumed climb was the feature on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, when the market was very dull and trading light. Nickel, however, on heavy turnover climbed 2¾ points at 85 at noon, after touching 86¼ in the sessions. The other issues were generally firm and very quiet, with British American Oil at 35¾ and Service Stations at 41⅛ improved to some extent. Walker and Imperial Oil were unchanged but Carlings at 35½ and Canadian Malting at 37¼ were slightly higher. In the regular list Page Hersey at 93⅞ and Massey Harris at 39½ were fractionally better.

Mine Trading Heavy But Trend Uncertain

TORONTO, March 6 (Canadian Press)—In exceptionally heavy trading with transactions verging on the two million share mark, an indefinite trend was shown on the market on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Spectacular price movements of any kind were lacking. Barry Hollinger was active leader and it climbed nine of 107 after touching 116, at one point in the session. Reaven sold up seven to 169 and Howey the same amount at 134. Pend O'Reille slumped 70 at 18.70, with Sheritt Gordon five firmer at 740, and Hudson Bay up 35 cents at 17.35. Wright Hargraves led the Kirklands with a 30 point gain at 540, Teck Hughes recording a twenty point advance at 9.10 and Kirkland Lake itself gaining seven at 2.06. The fourth of this active group, Lake Shore, improved ten at 24.00. Trading was well scattered over a broad list, and prices changes elsewhere were not unduly large.

Motor Shares In Demand; U. S. Rubber Stock Sinks

NEW YORK, March 6 (Canadian Press).—An outbreak of selling in the rubber shares caused only a temporary halt in the upward movement of prices in today's stock market, which was again featured by the heavy accumulation of motor shares. Trading in General Motors Common, the feature of the three previous sessions, quieted down somewhat, although the stock mounted to a new high record at 148½ after having dipped to 146 around midday.

Hupp Motors, in which William C. Durant is reported to have a large interest, ran up to a new peak of 41⅞ and there was a brisk demand for Packard, Nash, Studebaker, Hudson, and Chrysler. United States Rubber Common sank more than three points to a new low at 42⅞ and the Preferred broke five to 83¾ on fears for the safety of the Preferred dividend and rumors of large inventory losses through the recent drop in crude rubber prices.

MILLBROOK WINS FRIENDLY MATCH

Two Rinks of Curlers From Peterborough Defeated 35-24.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 6.— Two rinks of curlers came out from Peterborly game with the local men, the latter winning out in a total score of 35-24.

Four times the score was tied between the rinks skipped by J. Maynard and H. Ross Edmunds, finally standing at 12-12, after a sixteen end game. The other rinks, skipped by Rev. Mr. McDonald and G. W. Sayles, had a more one-sided game, finishing up 23-12. The players were::

OTTAWA, March 6 (Canadian Press). — The Government will give further consideration to the claims of the Home Bank depositors which have not been satisfied. This was stated to a delegation of members of Parliament to-day by the Hon. James Robb, Finance Minister. The amount necessary to satisfy these claims was estimated by the delegation at approximately $450,000.

ACCIDENT BLESSING PREMIER DECLARES

Will Focus Attention on Work of Government in Far North.

TORONTO, March (Canadian Press).—The accident which befell the Canadian aviators, Lewis and Terry, on the Hudson Straits air patrol, was a blessing in disguise if it served to focus public attention on the work of the Canadian Government in the Arctic and the efforts being made to open a new outlet to Europe, in the opinion of Captain Bernier, veteran government Arctic navigator. The experiences of airmen illustrated necessity of a radio direction finder on Button Islands and the reliability of the Eskimo for guidance, Capt. Bernier said.

SLAIN FARMER AND MURDER SUSPECTS

Three have been arrested following an investigation into the circumstances in connection with the death of Michael Jonash, prosperous farmer in the Waterdown, Ont., district, whose dead body was found outside his house. Stories that Jonash had been murdered by chicken thieves or had been killed by striking his head on a wagon wheel, after he had fallen from the porch, were discounted by police after a blood-stained hatchet and hammer were found hidden in the shed at the rear of the farmhouse. Joseph Deczuk, a brother-in-law, and Jacob Sczepanek, hired man, are under arrest as well as the widow. The murdered man is shown in a Russian army uniform in picture No. 1, and again in No. 2 with his widow and two of their childen. The brother-in-law and hired man are shown in No. 3. The bottles, said to have contained the beer consumed during the party on the night previous to the murder, are shown in No. 4, while No. 5 is of the farmhouse with the shed in the rear where the weapons were found.

At the inquest a verdict of murder by a person unknown was returned. Mrs. Jonash told of seeing the two men attacking her husband.

MURDER CHARGE READ IN HOSPITAL

Vito Pantaleo Remanded For Week On Charge of Killing Sister-in-law.

TORONTO, March 6.— (Canadian Press.) — Magistrate R. J. Browne visited the General Hospital to-day and remanded Vito Pantaleo for one week, after reading the charge that Pantaleo murdered his sister-in-law, Elvira Pantaleo, yesterday with a pick-axe. Pantaleo had been taken to the hospital yesterday after drinking poison after his sister-in-law's body had been found at her home.

Pantaleo is reported to be progressing favorably from the effects of poison and cuts on the head. He will be able to leave the hospital within a few days.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Peterborough Examiner's Lift Lock Puzzle.

Q.—C. D., Interested Reader, asks regarding figures.

A.—Figures as taken are correct; more detailed explanation could be given by personal letter.

Q.—Must I send in the subscribers I have secured before March 15, or can I send them later on the second puzzle.

A.—No subscription or cash is taken on the contest after March 15; solutions mailed on March 15 are accepted, but it is better to send your subscribers' names now and give them a chance on the contest; any others you might get before closing date can be sent on in the same manner, but if a second puzzle is necessary no cash can be sent on this.

Q.—Do the figures in the Lift Lock Puzzle represent the actual weight of the Lift Lock?

A.—No. This is only a slogan for the puzzle and has no reference whatever to the actual weight of this structure.

Q.—Do I have to divide the answer I get to get tons?

A.—No; the sum total of the figures on the chart stands for tons.

Q.—If I were to subscribe to The Examiner for six months* would I qualify for every prize except the First Grand Prize?

A.—Yes; you qualify for any prize except the First Grand Prize. In order to qualify for this at least $9 in subscriptions must be sent.

Q.—I take The Examiner from a boy at 15 cents per week. If I buy a $3 book of tickets will these last for six months, as the rate for The Examiner is $6 per year?

A.—No; you get 22 weekly tickets which is really valued at $3.30; thus you save 30 cents, by buying these tickets rather than pay 15 cents each week.

OPERATION PERFORMED.

Miss Heenan, Daughter of Minister of Labor, Expected To Recover.

"The Home had to be broken up"

THERE was nothing else to be done.

Her husband had been a rising automobile dealer. Doing well, he had worked without stint for his loved ones at home. He had always meant to insure for their benefit but had kept putting our agent off.

He wanted to wait until he could spare the money to take out "a policy worth while" as he put it.

And now he was gone. Spent too was most of the savings. That auctioneer was almost giving her things away! She would have to go back to her mother's until she could decide what to do. If only—That tragic "if only"!

If husbands could only realize the anguish and bewilderment that grips the young widow who must face "her world in ruins" and provide for her children—with no insurance money—there would be vastly less suffering in the world.

To protect his home and those dependent on him is the first duty of every man. A modest deposit made yearly with us would bring a monthly cheque to your dependents that would keep them in comfort.

COUNCIL WILL ASK DEPARTMENT of the other man first."

Ald. Ackerman: "If we don't get the approval before asking Dr. Young to resign, we may be left without any M.O.H. This is just a request for approval, and would at the same time get the feeling of the Council."

Ald. Stocker: "We don't have to do that. We can ask the Department to get his resignation."

Ald. Phelan: "Would the Board of Education be willing to take anybody else? I think the position should be left open. I don't think we should let them have control." Ald. Phelan went on to cite the number of bodies now giving orders to the Council which, he fears, is becoming little more than a rubber stamp. "If the Board of Education or the Separate School Board comes along and says we'll take their officer or nobody, I would say drop it."

Ald. Ackerman: "Would it be anything unusual if the Council favored Dr. McPherson?"

Ald. Phelan: "I think it should be an independent man ,other than the two present officers."

Ald. Ackerman: "Would you go so far as to take the responsibility for bringing in an outsider to satisfy the Council, the Board, etc.?"

Mayor Denne: "Why not get a man like Murray Fraser?"

Ald. Ackerman: "All I can say is that the satisfaction Oshawa is getting is because a man is devoting his life to building up a Health Department. In Dr. McPherson we have a man who is willing to give his services in the same way. It is very easy to suggest another course, but this conclusion has been reached after a great deal of thought, and Dr. McPherson is fully qualified to do the work."

Ald. Greene: "I'd like to second the resolution and in doing so would like to say I think the Council and citizens should be grateful to the man who has been endeavoring to whip this thing into shape. Ald. Ackerman has spent a good deal of time getting the co-operation of the various bodies concerned. As far as Dr. McPherson is concerned, we must all appreciate the fact that this proposition could not be worked out satisfactorily if the Board of Education was left out. We all know that the man whose name is submitted has been with the Board for a number of years. Knowing the man and that he has been endorsed by the Board, we must give ear.

"I admit Ald. Phelan's contention is right that we are being deprived of a great deal of our authority, but here is a body that has had years of experience in this work and a great deal of the work will be done under its authority. If after five or six years they would recommend him, it seems to me he ought to be quite satisfactory."

Ald. McIntyre: "The point is here, as I see it. Aldermen Ackerman and Greene are for Dr. McPherson, but have we anything to say about who shall be appointed? We recommend a change, but can we give any reason?"

Ald. Huffman: "If these gentlemen here (pointing to the gallery) recommended a man we would be wise to consider him. We have the Board of Education recommending a man, and we know what he has done. It is a feather in his cap to be recommended."

Ald. McIntyre—"That's not the point. What about getting rid of the other man?"

City Solicitor Wearing—"That's not in this motion. That would come up again. The council would ask for his resignation and show cause."

Ald. McIntyre—"What is cause?"

Mr. Wearing—"That's not for me to say. The minister might consider the change of system as cause."

Everything Considered.

Ald. Ackerman explained that that matter had been carefully considered and that he was certain there would be no opposition to the change. He would not make a change without the approval of the whole council, but thought that it could be shown that the natural evolution of things justified a change

The Mayor asked if he had got an assurance from the board about what it would do if the council decided to employ someone else. Ald. Ackerman replied that he had not thought it wise to do so as eight per cent. of the work comes under the board's auspices. Ald. Phelan asked if the board would still employ a nurse and Ald. Ackerman explained that the man appointed would organize the work, and the council's chief concern would be the budget. The grants now made to various organizations could be cancelled and their work done by the city's staff.

"Out of the $23,000 spent for health work the Board of Education spent $5200," Ald Phelan pointed out. "It seems to me that they are dictating to us what man should have the position. My idea was to ask them would they accept any man we appointed. We are the city council and should be boss." No doubt Dr. McPherson is a good man on school work, but there is other work. It wouldn't be fair to appoint him without throwing the thing open and telling the Board of Education we are going out on the open market to get a doctor, and hope they are satisfied."

Ald. Ackerman submitted in reply that the Board's $5200 meant work for a great many school children and was of great value.

Ald. Stocker expressed regret at seeing the work of the Well Babies Clinic disturbed, eulogizing the effort being put forth along this line.

Clinic Work Upheld.

That it was not being curtailed but extended, and it would be possible under the new system to hold clinics in several parts of the city, was Ald. Ackerman's explanation, but Ald. Stocker reiterated his faith in the experience of the ladies doing the work, and the Mayor asked if Miss Foote, the clinic nurse would be retained by Dr. McPherson.

Ald. Ackerman was not prepared to answer this question, and the Mayor turned his attack to a different point, urging that the first thing to be done was to put through the necessary two-thirds vote favoring the proposition.

"The council did that," was Ald. Ackerman's reply.

"All that motion does is to commit the council to Dr. McPherson," responded His Worship. "We should put the other motion first."

Ald. Stocker—"What I want to know is whether the experience these women have is worth anything."

Ald. Ackerman—"Dr. McPherson has experience."

Ald. Stocker—"Will he recognize their experience?"

Ald. Greene—"It seems reasonable that a man will recognize those who have experience."

Ald. Phelan—"The point I make is that other apointments are by applications. Other doctors should be given a chance. They might be acceptable to us, and to the Board of Education or they might not be. We shouldn't take so drastic a step as to recommend Dr McPherson."

Ald. Greene—"The department said to make a recommendation and it would support it. That's what this is."

Mayor Denne—"I think we should put a two-thirds vote to the council first."

Ald. Phelan—"This motion is all right if the council wants to appoint Dr. McPherson."

Mr. Wearing—"It binds you to nothing"

Mayor Denne—"The council would be committed to Dr. McPherson."

Ald. Hamilton—"What would you do?"

Mayor Denne—"I'd pass a two-thirds vote that we want a full-time M.O.H."

Ald. Hamilton—"We did go on record as favoring one."

Ald. Lowe—"If the Department doesn't approve of Dr. McPherson what will the Board of Education do?"

Mr. Wearing—"I think what the Mayor means is dismiss the present M.O.H. first."

Ald. Ackerman—"We can't dismiss the M.O.H. until we have a new one."

The Mayor—"The matter is before you—vote on it."

Ald. McIntyre—"Shouldn't we refer it back to the committee?"

Ald. Macdonald—"We appointed a committee to go into the matter. No doubt when we make a new departure some officials will be hurt. The committee has made its recommendations and we should accept them."

The Mayor—"The Board of Education didn't go on record. It appointed a committee."

Ald. Macdonald—"They will stand behind their committee the way we stand behind ours."

Ald. Phelan—"Ald. Ackerman said he didn't think it wise to suggest a different man. That sounds as if they put it up to him to take this man or none. We shouldn't be dictated to."

Ald. Macdonald—"I think in a new departure we should go carefully in dealing with other bodies."

Ald. Greene—"There was no dictation by the Board of Education. The name was put forward as a suggestion."

Mayor Denne—"Phelan and I have nothing against McPherson. If you're going to get rid of the present man why recommend McPherson. Get applications from others."

Ald. Ackerman—"I took up the matter with the Medical Association and can say that representative officers of that association said he would meet with their approval."

When the vote was taken all the aldermen voted in favor of asking approval of Dr. McPherson except Aldermen Phelan and Lowe. Ald. Phelan voted against. He then called for the "Ayes and Nays." Ald. Lowe did not wish to vote, but when required to declare his stand joined the "Ayes." The aldermen lined up as follows:

Ayes	Nays
Cotton	Phelan
Stocker	Mayor Denne
Huffman
McIntyre
Hamilton
Macdonald
Ackerman
Greene
Lowe

Street Signal Ordered.

Ald. Greene resumed his attack on the proposal to buy traffic signal lights for the corner of George and Charlotte Streets to no purpose last night, the project going through with only his vote registered against it. Aldermen Stocker and Huffman moved that it be bought, recalling their promise, made in committee, to support it if the police estimates were cut.

"Why throw away five hundred dollars on something that isn't needed " was Ald. Green's reply.

"We all have ideas. You think it isn't needed; I think it is," retorted Ald. Huffman. "The chief thinks it will cost $1,100 for men to replace it. If we spent the $1,100 we wouldn't even have a receipt at the end of the year, while if we buy the signal we would still have it."

Mayor Denne—"The two men that the chief wants are not for that corner alone but for general traffic work."

Ald. McIntyre—"We've got to come to it sooner or later."

Ald. Greene—"Is it possible to get exact figures of the cost of having a man there at various times last summer? As one who is close, it seems to me $200 would cover it. The cost was to be $500; now it is $575."

Ald. Cotton—"I'll show you why." He produced a fist full of catalogs and price sheets and proceeded to explain the reason for the difference. The vote was then taken and the purchase approved.

Ald. Lowe succeeded in having arrangements made to provide the police department with an extra hundred dollars to give Police Matron Amy Wood an increase. While praising her work, Ald. Stocker opposed the $100, declaring that the chief had been able to save the price of a car out of last year's appropriation and should be able to make up this $100 for her from the sum allowed him this year.

Seeks More Taxes

That there is $400,000 worth of property belonging to public utilities which the city cannot tax, was pointed out by Ald. Greene, who urged that steps be taken to get legislation enabling the city to tax them for school rates at least, and possibly for the general rate.

The Mayor informed him that such a bill is now before the House, but Ald. Greene moved that, in case the bill should not pass, a resolution be passed and sent to other municipalities urging the legislature to pass such legislation and having it put on the order paper of the meeting of the Union of Canadian municipalities.

Ald. Huffman: "In case it went through and they had to pay the taxes, would they not raise the rates?"

Ald. Greene: "They might or might not. If they raised the rates it would be taking it out of one pocket and putting it into the other. It would be putting them on the same basis as private concerns. It would give the councils more money to work with, either for greater efficiency or lower taxes. If the people paid more for rates they would get it back in lower taxes or more work done by the city."

Ald. Huffman: "The waterworks plant is in Smith and would be taxed there, while we would have to pay higher rates."

The resolution was passed.

"You understand that he have a fairly good fire equipment but that the department is not numerically strong enough and I move that the Fire, Water and Light Committee take up the matter of arranging for a volunteer fire department, consisting of the outside staff of the Utilities Commission at an honorarium."

Thus Ald. Huffman introduced a proposal to augment the fire department at low cost, but he was assured that Ald. Cotton already had the matter in hand."

Tax Increase Explained

By-laws were passed as follows:

2763—Authorizing the borrowing of $5,600 to pay for extension and improvemnets in the waterworks system in 1927.

2764—Fixing the rate and providing for the levying of taxes for 1928.

Ald. Greene: "I was unavoidably absent at the meeting at which the rate was struck. The rate has been placed at 37 mills, one mill higher than last year, or approximately $21,000. I think it is only right that the citizens should know how this increase is made up. We have had several sheets of figures given to us and I would move that these figures be given the press."

Ald. Phelan: "The school rate is up mill 1 1-10, and the general rate down 1-10. If their rate hadn't been up, the rate would have been down one-tenth of a mill."

The Mayor: "I might say to this, that next year it will right itself, as they will get the grant and fees from outside pupils. I want to be fair to the other Board."

Ald. Phelan pointed out the City Treasurer, Frank Adams, explained the reasons for the increase in his letter submitting the data, which follows:

"During the past month, the preparation of the estimates for the year has been in progress. Where the different committees had prepared their requirements, they were submitted to and considered by the Finance Committee, and after mature deliberation and discussion from all angles, and some paring, the rate was fixed at 37 mills, an increase of one mill higher than last year, when the rate was 36 mills.

"This increase was due to increased demand of the Board of Education for $3,500 for Collegiate Institute, $3,400 for Public Schools, and $19,750 for the amount required to be paid in 1928 on the $295,000 Debentures issued for the extension of the Collegiate Institute. These increases over 1926 necessitated an increased rate of 1 1-10 mills. There has been a reduction of one-tenth of a mill in the total for all other purposes, as compared with 1927.

"This rate of 37 mills has been made possible, very largely by the fact that there is no demand from the Nicholls Hospital, and there has been a reduction in the amount required for the Protestant Home.

"In the statement comparing the assessment for taxation for the years

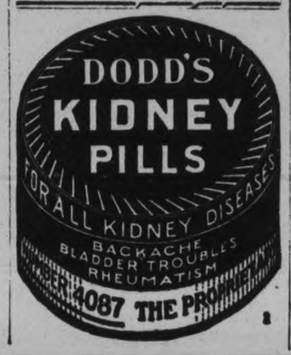
The palatable way to take Yeast

Soak a cake of Royal Yeast with a little sugar in a quarter of a glass of tepid water over night. Stir well, strain and drink the liquid. Many people prefer to take it in orange juice.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES



ACUTE NERVOUS INDIGESTION

It requires steady nerves and a cool head to mount tall ladders and frail poles and do a good job of painting. This is why the "big boss" of the Dyer Painting and Decorating Company, 27 Railway Street, Hamilton, is so grateful to Tanlac. This grand medicine enabled him to go on with his work, after he had suffered for three years with acute Stomach Trouble. "What little I ate seemed to lodge in the pit of my stomach and besides causing intense pain and bloating would make me so nervous on a ladder or scaffold that I was always fearful of falling. Lack of food and sleep, and excessive nervousness, kept me tired and run-down, and I was so miserable that I lost many a day's work. But thanks to Tanlac, I am my old self again, and life is very good to me. I eat and sleep fine; and am free of pain. The stomach trouble and nervousness have disappeared; I have gained eleven pounds in weight; and it would be no job at all for me to paint the City Hall flag pole."

All over Canada, Tanlac is helping men and women to win back their health. It is wonderful for Stomach Trouble and Run-down Systems, relieving gas, pain, unstrung nerves and dizziness. Tanlac contains no mineral drugs—just roots, barks and herbs—so you know it is pure and good. It costs less than 2c a dose—and your money refunded if you are not perfectly satisfied. PAVING BY-LAW

By-law Out of Date.

Mr. Fellows, Department of Public Highways, did not address the council till the discussion had arrived at the stage of semi-formality. After asking a few questions necessary to familiarize himself with the situation to date, he outlined the general procedure and expressed the opinion that the agreement which had been prepared ought to be approved by the department and saw no reason why the counties would have any objection. But he noticed that the agreement was not entirely correct and appeared to have been drawn from the old form of the act and not the one which had but recently come into use. In this respect the agreement and by-law had to be re-drafted and presented at a later date. This was done after some discussion and the town solicitor was instructed to make the suggested alterations and re-submit the forms to Col. Boggs. Neither the by-law nor the agreement could be dealt with until these alterations had been made.

On motion of Reeve Bygott and Councillors Abernethy, the necessary resolution authorizing the mayor and clerk to proceed with the work was carried. Further discussion revealed the fact that the engineer's report was hindering further progress and it was decided to notify him of this state of affairs. Nothing further could be done so the matter was left over till the Monday meeting at seven o'clock in the clerk's office, unless otherwise advised by the Mayor.

No Extension To Wall.

The regular business of the council was of short duration. No matter was brought before the councillors' attention but received thorough consideration, but everything was dealt with in a very business like manner. The first letter was from the superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, Peterborough, referring to the matter of water overflowing on the property of residents on north Front street, and the petition which these residents had signed asking that the department extend the concrete wall north on the east side of the canal and thus prevent this condition, the superintendent stated that he had complied with the request of the council and forwarded the petition to the proper person of the department. A further communication advised the council that the government would take no action in the matter whatever. The communication was received and placed on file for further consideration if the matter is ever re-opened.

Protest Change in Act.

A letter from Lindsay addressed to the clerk here, referred to a bill which is before the Legislature at the present time. The bill is number 74 and deals with the licensing of peddlars, hawkers and transient traders. It appears that the towns are about to lose this source of revenue and the licenses will be issued by the cities and counties. The letter from Lindsay asked that Campbellford take some action expressing disapproval of the act. Mayor Kingston said that he had already instructed the clerk to advise Dr. Robertson, member for this district, that Campbellford wished to go on record as protesting the change. On motion of Councillor Stone, the Mayor's action was endorsed.

Advertising for the tourist trade was also considered and Campbellford will have a half-page advertisement in the Ackerman's Sportsman's Guide The Guide is an American publication and practically every summer resort in or near summer resort in Ontario is advertised in it. The rate for half a page is $35. When first read, the letter was laid on the table, but later in the meeting Mayor Kingsotn, Clerk J. A. McGregor and Deputy-Reeve Davidson were appointed a committee to prepare the copy for the advertisement.

Traffic Signal Left Over

In reply to an inquiry made in Belleville re the cost of an automatic traffic control signal, the cost was given as $282.00 for the signal, $223.00 for the control box, and about $75.00 for installation including the material. The Belleville engineer recommended the pendant type as more desirable and efficient than those placed on the corners of the curb. In the case of Belleville, the company had required two months from receipt of order to make delivery. The purchase had been made from the C.G.E., Toronto. This letter was also received and filed.

The Counties Clerk, Colonel MacNachtan, advised the council that the by-law and other forms required by the town had been drawn up and was being forwarded immediately. This letter was also filed. A letter from Colonel Boggs to the same effect was also filed.

Robert Fraser asked permission to install a gas pump in front of his property on Tice street. The necessary permission was given subject to the usual conditions.

The reports of the committees were short and were given verbally. Deputy-Reeve Davidson reported that the police committee had decided not to act on the request of Officer Duncalf till the next meeting. Councillor Stone reported that committee named to attend to the matter of numbering the houses and places of business in the town had found the task of much greater proportions than it had originally believed it to be, and asked an extension of time till the next meeting.

Councillor Wilkinson brought up the Stop and Go sign business again and spoke very strongly in favor of installing one on each corner at the end of the Bridge street bridge. His Worship the Mayor reminded him of the expense which would be involved and the consequent increase of one mill on the tax rate, but Councillor Wilkinson firmly believed that the lights should be put into action. On motion of Councillors Stone and O'Sullivan, the matter was given "twelve months hoist."

Was Not Notified

Councillor Wiggins reported that the finance committee had investigated the auditors' report and was well satisfied with it. He moved that it be accepted, but Councillor Cole declared that he had not been notified of the meeting and refused to sanction the acceptance of the report till he had been given the opportunity to examine it. Councillor Wiggins claimed that Councillor Cole had been out of town the day of the meeting and had not been available. This Councillor Cole denied ,asserting that Councillor Wiggins could have located him had he (Wiggins) so desired. So the matter was left in such a way that the report was accepted immediately Councillor Cole accepted it as O.K. Not till then will the auditors receive their salaries.

Councillor O'Sullivan reported that he had received terms and prices for tile for the enclosing of the open ditch on Ranney Street, in front of the public schools. These prices came from Peterborough and Trenton. The terms from Trenton were more generous, however, and it is likely that the order will be placed there. The Tranton firm has agreed to make the tile on the site of the work and employ local labor with the exception of the foreman. This firm has further agreed to begin the work immediately weather conditions permit. The improvement will be hailed with gladness by the residents of this section of the street.

Councillors O'Sullivan, Stone, Cole and Deputy-Reeve Davidson were appointed a committee to proceed with the work and have complete authority. This will include the power to purchase the tile from wherever they see the most reasonable terms.

At ten minutes to eleven, the business of the meeting had been dealt with as far as possible with the material at hand and in order to speed up operations, the meeting stood adjourned till Monday at seven o'clock in the town office, or at call of the mayor.

PONTIAC FACTS

On figures compiled for the first ten months of 1927, Pontiac increased its sales by 56,660 over 1926, while twenty-five makes of cars out of thirty-nine lost in sales.

OBITUARY

JOSIAH JOHNSTON.

SPRINGVILLE, March 6.—The funeral of the late Josiah Johnston was held recently from his residence in North Monaghan. Interment took place at Fraserville Cemetery. Rev. A. H. McConnachie was in charge of the service at the home, assisted at the graveside by Rev. W. H. Foley, pastor of Fraserville Church.

Mr. Johnston was a Methodist, but for the past five years was a faithful worker and loyal supporter of Springville United Church which he became a member. Although seventy years of age, he was young with the young people. He was an enthusiastic member of the Literary Society, in which he took an active part.

Mr. Johnston was born in Manvers Township, May, 1858, where he resided until coming to North Monaghan five years ago. He was a member of a large family, having nine brothers and one sister. His parents were James Johnston and Mary McCall.

In 1880 Mr. Johnston married Sarah Jane Peel of Bixby.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and his two children, Melville of North Monaghan and Mrs. Wilfred Fallis of Millbrook; three brothers: Richard of Bethany, James of Peterboro, and Albert of Dauphin, Man; also nine grandchildren.

Pall-bearers were: Messrs. Sidney Fairbairn, Willis Tully, George Patton, Thomas Jackson, Charley Peel and Wm. Rowland.

The funeral was largely attended by his many friends from Manvers and the surrounding community. Those from a distance were: Mrs. Wm. Mitchell of Rochester, John Peel of Buffalo, Charley Peel of Coboconk, Joe Peel of Port Perry, Charley Rowland of Port Perry, Fred Peel of Lindsay, Wm. Coulter of Lindsay, Joe Coulter of Lindsay.

ISAAC GLENNY.

OMEMEE, Mar. 6.—Mr. Isaac Glenny (the veteran caretaker of the Omemee High and Public schools) passed away on Thursday night, March 1st, at the home of his grandson, Herman Watson, of Toronto.

Mr. Glenny had reached the good old age of eighty-three years and despite the severe handicap of having lost an arm in his young manhood, he was very active. Deceased with his family moved to Omemee almost fifty years ago. Mr. Glenny was the owner and operator of a threshing machine and it was in the machine that he had the misfortune to lose his arm. Later he was appointed janitor of the school, which position he filled faithfully and well for over forty years. The deceased gentleman had been spending the winter months at Hepworth with his daughter (Edith) Mrs. Atchison and was on his return home when called by death.

He was predeceased by three daughters, Rachael, Hattie and Olive and his wife (Ellen McCaffrey) passed away last September.

The funeral was held on Saturday, Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Trinity United church, officiating. Many beautiful flowers graced the casket and the remains were tenderly borne to their last resting place in Emily cemetery by his two sons, James and George, a son-in-law, E. Wedgery, two grandsons, W. LaFore and Herman Watson and one nephew, Hillier Cunningham.

The members of the family who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Wedgery, Buffalo; Mrs. Connors and Mr. George Glenny, Chicago; Mrs. White, of Buffalo; Mrs. Atcheson,of Hepworth: Mr. James Glenny, Burk's Falls; William LaFore, of Fort Erie; Herman Watson, of Toronto. One daughter, Mrs. Graham, of Chicago, was unable to be present.

LEAVE FOR CHICAGO.

PARIS, March 6.—(Canadian Press).—It was semi-officially announced here today that Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, French aviators now in the United States, have been instructed by the French aviation authorities to return to France immediately, abandoning their projected trans-Pacific steamship journey and Asiatic flight.

HAVE HEARD NOTHING.

DETROIT, March 6.—(Canadian Press).—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix said here today they have received no instructions to return to France, as was semi-officially announced in Paris. The French aviation ambassadors took off for Chicago shortly after noon today.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

A Trouble Which Leaves People Depressed and Unhappy.

Nervous exhaustion is often the cause of great unhappiness, because the sufferer and his friends do not recognize it is an ailment. To them, and even to himself, he seems to be merely crotchy and irritable.

The peevishness for which women and girls are often blamed is not their fault—it is their misfortune. Their nerves are "all on edge." The least shock, a sudden noise, or even being spoken to unawares causes real suffering, and no one ought to be surprised if hasty words are the result. But this does not mean bad temper; it means starved, exhausted nerves.

Headaches, low spirits, poor appetite, weariness and lack of energy follow nerve exhaustion, and relief is easy to obtain. What the starved nerves need is richer, better blood, and this can be obtained through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By their blood enriching qualities these pills do wonders; nervous men and women become calm, steady and energetic under their influence. New blood is what does the work. To obtain it give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BIG INCREASE SHOWN.

Bell Telephone Reports Net Gain of Nearly 40,000 in 1927.

Over sixty per cent. of the 668,383 Bell telephones in service in Ontario and Quebec at the end of 1927 were in service in homes, says the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

To provide the net gain of 38,222 telephones during 1927, the company installed 130,307 instruments and removed 92,085. These figures give some idea of the problem involved in keeping telephone users supplied with service in spite of many changes of location.

SUPERINTENDENT TAKES STAND AT HOLLINGER DISASTER INQUIRY

CLOSELY QUESTIONED.

TIMMINS, Ont., March 6 (Canadian Press).—C. C. Williams, general superintendent of the property and V. Emery, mine superintendent, discussed together the problem of disposing of the refuse from the powder thaw house and decided it would be "a good idea" to put it where backfilling was going on in the centfal wsate pass, according to the evidence of Emery, given last night before the Royal Commission investigating the Hollinger disaster. Mr. Emery told Peter White, K.C., counsel for the commission, that each day's supply of debris was small and any quantity of filling going in afterwards would have been sufficient, in his opinion, to remove the danger of fire.

The witness testified that he had given verbal instructions to the mine foremen under hm regarding the method of disposal, and he was questioned closely on the evidence of William Leblance who, according to Mr. Godson, had sworn that for two and a half years he had been disregarding these orders and had put the refuse in the stopes.

Undoubtedly lots of orders are disobeyed," replied witness.

"But this was flagrant and persistent," continued the commissioner.

His Lordship went on to ask if it were a matter of personal convenience to Leblanc, to which Emery replied, that he could not see that it was. It would have been as easy for Leblanc to have gone to the central pass and there was nothing to hinder him having done so. "I can see no possible reason for putting it in the stopes," said the mine superintendent.

It would not make good filling he said, but if it got into the current waste flow it would help cement the rock together. "It didn't in M2," observed the commissioner, who added that he did not believe the men who were doing it were breaking the rules. There was too much cleaving to their jobs, his lordship said.

Received Anonymous Note

At last evening's session, Mr. White intimated that he had received an anonymous note, in which he was requested by "a friend" to call W. Matener, a track man, who, the communication stated, could give evidence of interest.

The commissioner asked if Matener were in the hall, and if so to be ready to testify today, but there was no response, although A. G. Slaght, for the company, asked for the name.

Emery was on the stand when the proceedings closed for the day. He has been mine superintendent since 1912, and Mr. Williams is his immediate superior, he told the court. He has the superintendence of all underground work except hoisting and crushing. There are sixty-odd stopes working in the mine, witness said, and he told Mr. White he did not have time to go into every part of the mine. That would be impossible and "carry on my duties as I see they should be carried on." It was a very difficult problem and "almost inhuman," he said. Emery told Mr. Justice Godson he had to depend "on the links of the chain."

Little Girl, 10, Eats So Much Mother Amazed

"My 10-year-old daughter had no appetite. Then we gave her Vinol, and now she eats so much we are surprised"—Mrs. W. Joosten.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a big appetite. Tastes delicious. McDermid & Jury, E. L. Payne, McDermid Drug Co.

U.S. COURT

Mr. White said. "It is my understanding that the Court rested its finding on the provisions of the Jay Treaty between the United States and Great Britain, adopted in settlement of the revolutionary war. The same ground has been urged by Seneca Indians for assuming the right to cross and re-cross the border without immigration oversight, and there was an original Court decision which sustained their claims.

"Nevertheless, the Labor Department holds that the Jay Treaty is no longer valid, partly because England itself repudiated the Treaty in the war of 1812, and partly because of other well-settled policies of Government in the matter of treaty obligations.

"Our solicitor, who is our departmental legal advisor, holds that the law and the regulations are proper, and until the highest Courts have ruled otherwise, we shall be obliged to determine and apply the law as we understand it. The regulations will stand meanwhile."

The Immigration Department will appeal to the United States Supreme Court against the decision that the Jay Treaty of 1794 "gives His Majesty's subjects" right to cross and re-cross the border to transact business, and Judge Manton's definition of "business" as "everything by which a person can be employed."

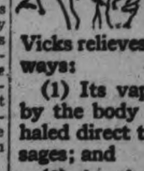
"Y" LEADERS PRACTICE

Prepare Gymnastics for Annual Circus—Good Program Promised.

Though practices have just begun, the fourteen or fifteen "Y" leaders who have turned out are showing good form and should work out a mighty clever program of gymnastics for the annual Leaders' Circus which is to be held at the Y.M.C.A. within the next few weeks. This event is considered one of the red letter affairs of the winter season at the "Y" and according to Instructor Doug. Loomis it's going to be better than ever this year.



Sore throats need this Double-Treatment

Rubbed on the throat, Vicks relieves in two direct ways:

(1) Its vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages; and

(2) At the same time Vicks "draws out" the soreness like an old-fashioned poultice.

MILLBROOK LADIES AT LEAP YEAR TEA

Ladies' Aid of United Church Give Miscellaneous Program.

MILLBROOK, March 6.—The 'Leap Year' tea given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the United church on Wednesday, Feb. 29, was quite successful.

Appropriate to the month, the decorations were of a Valentine character, red and white being the colors featured in hearts, small and large, and in the bunting which was gracefully draped between the pillars, while a large Union Jack made a suitable background.

Red runners centred the long tables which were filled more than once during the tea hour, the menu being of a most satisfying nature. While the guests were being served music was furnished by Miss Estelle Hetherington, the church organist, who played a number of piano selections.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. M. E. Needham, the second vice-president, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, occupied the chair.

Mr. W. F. Fallis managed the lantern for the community singing with which the program opened, and which was interjected at intervals during the evening. The accompanists were Misses E. Elson and S. Hetherington. Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard led in the opening prayer.

Those contributing to the program were: Mrs. G. W. Sales, whose solos, "Charmaine," and "Pals of Long Ago," were heartily encored; Miss Dorothy Crossley, whose reading, "The Bachelor's Dream," was quite appropriate to the occasion, as was also the one rendered by Miss Jean L. Burnham, "Hulda's Courtship"; Messrs. H. J. Anderson and W. H. Coombe, who were obliged to respond to the demand for an encore after their duet, "After the Fray"; Mrs. Hilliard Lang, whose reading, "Mrs. Smart Learn to Skate," was full of humor; and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Miss Ella Elson, with a duet, "Dreaming of You," which was especially appreciated and for which an encore was insistently demanded.

A "Talent Tea" was daintily arranged near the entrance door, and stocked with attractive wares such as bouquets, in the fashionable wool flowers, for which there was a ready sale; buffet sets, and those in 'vanity' design; waxed vases and flower bowls; home-made cookies, vegetables and other merchandise, all of which was disposed of before the event was brought to a close.

The Aid is already planning a lawn social, probably in June, as the next activity for adding to its funds.

Refitting Auditorium.

A new hardwood floor is being laid on the stage of the concert auditorium of the town hall by the Women's Institute. This is a much needed improvement, and the thanks of the community are due the Institute for its initiative in this matter. If some furniture for the stage and dressing rooms could be included in the program of improvements, a long-felt want would be at last supplied. Possibly the municipal and Cavan councils will see their way clear, in the near future, to replacing the worn-out scenery and drop curtain with some of a more up-to-date design. The Institute expects to make some changes in the room under the gallery, used as a kitchen, when the service of refreshments is a feature of public gatherings in the hall, adding a pantry, shelving, etc.

The improvements now under way will probably be completed in time for the social evening which the Institute is sponsoring for March 16, immediately preceding Saint Patrick's Day, which falls this year on a Saturday.

Miss Crocker Honored.

A pleasant surprise was recently prepared for Miss Lillian Crocker, by members of Trinity church (the (Marsh) as a token of thier appreciation for her kindness in presiding at the organ during the illness of the regular organist, Miss M. Wood.

The gift presented was a sterling silver fountain pen, Rev. P. C. Howard, the assistant clergyman of the parish, reading the accompanying address, which was signed by W. Wood and H. Blakely.

Mr. David Fowler was a visitor to Wellington last week, going to see his sister, Miss Kathleen Fowler, who was ill. Miss Kathleen has been convalescing at home for the last few days, and expects to return to her position as bookkeeper in the W. A. Moore firm at Wellington the early part of the week.

The Men's Bible Class of the United Church Sunday school, Mrs. Rae teacher, is preparing an entertainment to be given about the middle of March, which promises to be one of the most enjoyable social events of the season.

Warsaw

WARSAW, March 5.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Woman's Institute will be held on Thursday afternoon, March 8. Mrs. Thomas Crowe will give a talk on "Home Gardening," with special reference to the home vegetable garden.

Mr. Ed. Hawthorne entered the United Church Choir on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Payne entertained a number of their friends, with cards and dancing on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Charles Gow is visiting his sister, Mrs. E. R. Hamblin.

Mr. H. G. E. Choate is in Toronto for a few days.

INCREASE IN LEAD PRODUCTION

The total increase of lead production in Canada in 1926 was 15,150 tons or nearly 12 per cent of that produced in 1925; and of zinc 20,335 tons or between 37 and 38 per cent of that of 1925. Increases in both are indicated for 1927.

White Teeth Deceive 4 out of 5 BECAUSE .. Pyorrhea attacks the gums

SO many people think they are secure when teeth are gleaming white. But too often they are fooled.

Lurking behind clean teeth is the marauder that takes high toll in health from 4 persons out of 5 after forty, and thousands younger —dread Pyorrhea. It ignores the teeth and attacks the gums.

Take this precaution: See your dentist every six months. And start using the dentifrice that cleans teeth without the use of harsh abrasives and at the same time helps keep the gums firm and healthy—the best safeguard against Pyorrhea:

Morning and night, every day use Forhan's for the Gums. Massage your gums daily with this dentifrice, following directions in booklet that comes with tube. Then you provide the protection teeth and gums must have. At all druggists—in tubes, 35c and 60c.

A Modish New New Frock

Of girlish simplicity is the attractive frock shown here. The two-piece skirt is shirred to the bodice having a round neck and gathers at the front of each shoulder. View B has short kimono sleeves and View A has long sleeves shirred to the short ones and gathered at the lower edge into wristbands. A chic bow is placed at the left shoulder and a wide girdle is crushed into a buckle at the front. No. 1588 is for Misses and Small Women, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 3⅛ yards 39-inch material, or 2⅞ yards 54-inch; ½ yard less 39-inch material is required for dress with short sleeves. Price 25 cents the pattern.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out. Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make without difficulty an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

NEW STATION COMES IN WELL

Heard From Sydney To Victoria and South To West Indies.

OPENING TO-NIGHT.

The first regular broadcast of the new Gooderham and Worts' radio station (CKGW) took place last evening and was a pronounced success, both as to clarity and volume. High expectations were more than realized. Peterboro, which has long been recognized as a "dead spot" by radio engineers for the reception of Toronto stations, has now the opportunity of tuning in to a station which comes in even better than the most powerful American stations, which have hitherto been our mainstay for entertainment along this line. Station CKGW was heard last night from Sydney, N.S., to Victoria, B.C., and from Florida and the Bahamas Islands to the Arctic Circle. The official opening is to-night.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

THINGS MEN WON'T TOUCH

These men are queer, you must admit;
A wife, at least, can swear to it.
There never was a man so good
He wasn't queer about his food.
A woman has to watch with care
When fixing up her bill-of-fare,
Because there always is so much
He doesn't like and wouldn't touch.

One man may long for lemon pie,
That makes another nearly die;
And I've heard screams from great big men
Because their wives had prunes again.
Some want their gravies good and thick,
And that makes other husbands sick.
I never dare make such-and-such
Because that's one thing he won't touch.

I wouldn't mind it, though, at that,
But here's what I go crazy at;
We're having dinner at the Green's;
Our hostess serves us butter-beans.
He really eats more beans than wise,
And lauds her cooking to the skies.
That isn't what I mind so much,
But beans are things he wouldn't touch.

He says, "By gosh, these beans are great!
Why haven't we had some of late?"
I say, "You never liked them, dear."
He says, "Not fixed like these ones here?"
And then I get a dirty look
That says, "Poor man—she just can't cook."
Yes, when they're out, it beats the Dutch
The way men eat what they won't touch.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7, 1928.

This is read by astrologers as a menacing and threatening day in planetary guidance.

Those who wield power under this direction of the stars are likely to be overbearing and dictatorial.

Employees should cultivate patience and remember the value of a soft answer even when unjustly rebuked.

Women should be especially circumspect while this rule prevails, for they may be easily misunderstood.

Part of the effect of recent reactionary influences in the aspects of the stars may be seen in women's public status, the seers point out.

The year may not be fortunate for women in politics, but they may take comfort in the prophecy that they are soon to gain their right place in all public affairs, astrologers declare.

The seers foretell that by the end of 1928 airplanes will be much used for general transportation as the stars indicate that the year is to be historic in its development of the art and science of flying.

Women may rejoice because the stars presage a prevalence or of beauty and it is to be natural and not artificial.

Girl babies have a greater chance to be perfect physically than in any previous age, the seers foretell.

Truth is to become fashionable, it is predicted, and the trend toward high standards of living will be marked.

Under this sway of the stars food and drink will be of increased importance to individuals, astrologers declare, and the year will be a time when much attention is paid to what goes into the stomach.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of much pleasure in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be clever as designers. The subjects of this sign may be artistic but inclined to be wayward.

DON'T STAY FAT IN THESE DAYS

You see countless people who have gained new beauty, new health and vim, by fighting excess fat. Some have done this by abnormal exercise and diet, some in a modern, scientific way. Why not follow their example?

There is a way based on scientific research. It combats a cause of excess fat which starvation cannot fight. That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, now used for 20 years. Millions of boxes of them. The results you see wherever you look should induce you to accept them.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. So there is no secret, no reason to fear harm. You will know that all the good results come in a natural way. Go learn them now, by asking your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola.

Hints on Etiquette

1. Irrespective of length, how should knives and forks be arranged when setting the table?
2. What is the maximum number of knives and forks that should be placed on the table in advance?
3. Should additional silver just be brought in as needed?

The Answers.

1. The ends of their handles should be one inch from the edge of the table.
2. Three of each.
3. Yes.

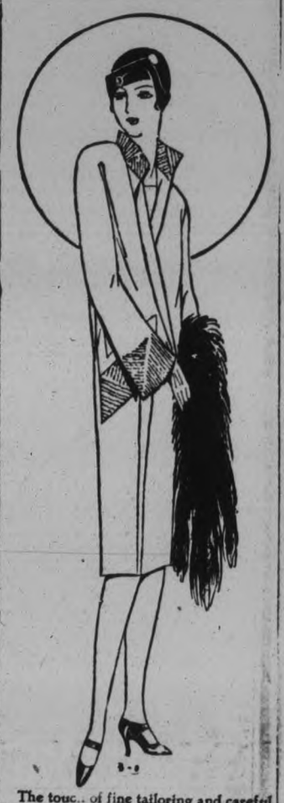
DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



The touc.. of fine tailoring and careful finish characterizes this furless coat of light-weight woolen material trimmed with bands of material and stitching in darker shade.

Many, probably most, of the spring coats are made without fur trimming and the great advantage of this turn of fashion is that more attention has been given to the detail and fine finish of the coats. Whether or not your costume remains furless is for you to decide. The separate fur scarf is frequently chosen to go with the new wrap.

New Coats of Interest.

There is a decided revival of interest in conventionally tailored coats and suits which may be worn with fur scarfs or one of the oblong or square scarfs.

Ensembles for spring frequently show coats of three-quarter or seven-eighth length. You may have a frock of figured material with a coat of plain darker color lined with material to match the figured frock. The seven-eighth coat reveals a narrow border along the hem of the frock. The border is of material like the coat so that there is no marked contrast between frock and coat when the coat is worn.

Black With Anything.

There is nothing smarter than black for the spring coat, either of wool or silk. Black has the advantage that it may be worn so well with green—and green and black are emphatically smart for spring. Black with red is also exceptionally good. If you choose a black coat with an inconspicuous gray lining you might use it effectively with gray and black combinations, with black and green or with black and red.

Gray is also a good choice—only it is not so durable as black and does not fit in with such a variety of color schemes. Navy blue or the somewhat lighter shade known as middy is important for spring and there are ensembles consisting of coat of light-weight wool or heavy silk with matching frock of georgette or crepe.

Snappy Car Goes —Pulled By Horses

Old Dobbin comes into his own occasionally. There are times when he can snort derisively at the pretensions of motor-driven machines, when something goes wrong with the innards of these swift monsters and they are compelled to resort to the aid of a horse.

Yesterday, two sedate members of the equine kingdom made their way carefully along Reid Street, dragging a long wagon on which was superimposed in regal state a green-bodied touring car. The entire machine had been hoisted upon the wagon and within it sat three people, getting a ride home, but not in the usual manner.

Hornsby Picks Pirates to Win 1928 Pennant Race

CARDS, GIANTS WILL BATTLE FOR 2ND PLACE

Rajah of Ball Rates Boston as Dark Horse for Coming Race.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Reds and Robins Have to Show Unexpected Strength to Figure in Fight.

ST. PETERSBURG, Florida, March 6. — As Rogers Hornsby figures the 1928 race in the National League, Donie Bush and his Pirates will have an opportunity next October to make amends for their decisive walloping of a few months back. The Rajah has been giving considerable thought to the prospects of his new team, as well as the others, and the result of that pondering shows the Pirates in front, whether you care to read from top to bottom or from left to right.

After that, as Hornsby sees it, is a scramble for second and third places, with considerable doubt about the strength of the Cardinals and Giants, who should do most of the scrambling. Boston is rated as a dark horse, that has some distance to travel, but is always a threat.

Hornsby's views on the race, which are doubly interesting because he has led Cards and Giants in the past two seasons, read something like this:

Cuyler Trade Helped.

"The Pirates look better to me today than they did a year ago, and I believe they will play better as a result of the confidence gained last season. The Waners are young and should improve. Bush gave up quite a ball player when he traded Cuyler, but it was the sort of trade which helped his club.

"He had a good outfield without Cuyler and he needed a good second baseman. He got what he wanted in Adams. His infield looms as far better than it was last year, and the outfield is just as good. I believe, too, that Grimes will be a lot of help to the pitching staff.

"The Giants must be considered a factor in the pennant chase, but I figure that young players, no matter how promising, cannot be counted upon too strongly until they have been in the thick of a major league fight. I hope Andy Cohen, or whoever gets my old place, is a success from the start; but neither Cohen nor Reese has had much experience, if any, at second base for a major league club.

"The catching, too, must remain doubtful if only for the reason that Hogan and Cummings, who are slated to do the work, are young in the ways of big league ball. I do not figure Aldridge to be as useful to the team as Grimes, but I do not say that in criticism of McGraw's judgment in making the deal. I just express my own views on these two pitchers and you know all winter deals are uncertainties.

Lindstrom's Fault.

"McGraw has a wonderful shortstop in Jackson, and I believe Lindstrom would be more valuable if he could forget his batting average. There is a lot of strength to the club, but one cannot overlook the uncertainty regarding the infield and the catching. The pitching and outfield seem O.K.

"There are many 'ifs' about the Cardinals. Alexander and Haines do not figure to continue having great years and both were great last season. If either falls back from that top form the pennant chances will fall back at the same time. There are three big question marks after the names of O'Farrell, Hafey and Blades.

"With these men in top form and the pitching up to last year's standard the Cards would be a hard team to stop, but all three have been ailing as a result of severe injuries, and it is not likely that all will come through.

"Boston has some good young pitchers, measures up to the standard defensively and has enough hitting strength to be dangerous. The return of Zach Taylor ends all worries about catching. Eddie Farrell, no longer forced to serve as a substitute, should be a success from the start at shortstop. If our pitchers come through up to expectations the Braves will cause a lot of trouble, and may work their way into the pennant scramble.

Cubs Weaker.

"The Cubs made quite a bid last year, but I do not figure them to be as strong in the coming race. It will be quite a task to fill Sparky Adams' place, and he was the brightest star of the infield. Root may not have another big year. You know baseball history is full of examples of star pitchers doing too much one season, and losing their effectiveness the next. I do not figure the Chicago infield as good enough to carry the club to a pennant.

"Both the Reds and Robins will have to show unexpected strength to figure in the fight. Robbie has made several changes, but the uncertainty surrounding new players makes the team a problem. The Reds were a weak scoring machine last year and no real strength has been added. The Phillies do not figure to get out of last place."

Kolehmainen Leads Foot Racers In Second Lap Of 3,400-Mile Jaunt

BLOOMINGTON, Calif., March 6 (A.P.).—Setting the pace for a field of 198, Willie Kolehmainen, sinewy 40-year-old Finnish runner of New York City, led the transcontinental foot racers into Bloomington yesterday to complete the second lop of the 3,400 mile jaunt to New York that started Sunday from Los Angeles.

The track Finn covered the distance from Puente, where the first lap of 16 miles ended, to Bloomington, a distance of 34.7 miles, in 4 hours, 12 minutes and 30 seconds. He dashed into the city control station several minutes ahead of the next runner, Ed. Gardner, negro entrant from Seattle, Washington. The rest of the field was stretched out over a space of approximately 10 miles when the leaders reached the 50-mile post of the long race which is to be worth $25,000 to the first runner to reach New York. There are prizes of $18,500 to be distributed among the four men reaching the terminus behind the leader.

A steady drizzle of rain handicapped the runners, who started early yesterday morning from Puente, where they rested Sunday night. Puente also was the scene of the elimination of 76 of the contestants in the nondescript parade of 275 that started from Los Angeles. They dropped by the wayside footsore and weary.

Crowds lined the highways yesterday as the human calvacade plugged along the countryside course.

CURLING

LAKEFIELD, March 6. — The first games in the mercantile bonspiel for the oranges and potatoes, last Friday evening, resulted as follows:

F. S. Brown	M. Watson
W. Robinson	H. Wannamaker
E. Watson	D. H. Webster
J. E. Galvin	C. Waldon
Skip ... 10	Skip ... 9
H. Miles	S. J. Charlton
J. Knox	Rev. S. A. Kemp
E. H. Northey	C. S. Tanner
D. H. Charlton	P. Spence
Skip ... 8	Skip ... 5

Played on Saturday, the final game for the FitzGerald Cup took place as follows:

F. Madill	J. McDonnell
Rev. S. A. Kemp	W. Robinson
E. H. Northey	C. S. Tanner
P. Spence	J. R. Hill
Skip ... 17	Skip ... 7

The three-cornered tie for first place in the local competition for the Fitz-Gerald Trophy between P. Spence, J. R. Hill, and J. W. Ridpath had been played, and Percy Spence wins the cup.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, March 6.—The challenge game for the Carew Cup, which was to have taken place on local ice on Friday evening, was unavoidably postponed as one of the players from Gravenhurst, the rink next in line in the competition, was ill and unable to keep the appointment for that date.

The two rinks of local curlers who attended the bonspiel in Toronto last week gave a good account of themselves, but failed to bring home any of the trophies. The rink skipped by R. H. Edmunds won six games out of nine, and lost three, their final defeat coming in the fourth round for the Sieberling Trophy, when Ray Best of Peterborough won out by a score of 12-4. The rinks from here were: T. H. Collins, W. E. Ball, G. W. Sayles, R. H. Edmunds, skip; H. R. Scott, H. B. Allen, J. E. Allen, J. N. McGill, skip.

DUKES TAKE FIRST GAME IN O.H.A. FINALS

Newmarket and Marlboros Play Careful Hockey, Which Grows Monotonous.

SCORE 2 TO 1.

Pringle and McPherson Are the Stars—Six Man Defence.

TORONTO, March 6.—Held in the leash of caution, Marlboros and Newmarket picked their way through the first half of the Junior O.H.A. finals at the Arena last night, Dukes boasting of a goal lead, after it was all over, with a 2-to-1 victory. The largest crowd to ever witness an amateur game at the Gardens was deprived of the usual spectacle provided in junior championship contests, for both teams played close, careful hockey, the methodical play almost reaching monotony. The brand of hockey was the closest approach to the professional style ever seen in the junior ranks, but with the systems solved the second game of the series on Wednesday night might be the reverse, for both sixes are capable.

Playing strict six-man defensive hockey, both teams laid back and waited for the breaks, which were few and far between, most of the action being supplied between the two blue lines, where the forwards waged a desperate checking bee. A barricade of bodies and sticks formed in front of almost every rush, and few tried to penetrate the obstacle, most of the shots on goal being from far out.

Teams Well Matched

On the style of play the teams were well matched. Marlboros getting their margin by opening up a little, while the lads from North York stuck to their defensive play, even though two goals short at one time. Half the game had elapsed with almost every offensive effort smothered in the checking cloak when Mercer and McPherson, Marlboro's mid-ice marvels, broke away, and working a clever combination play tapped the Newmarket twine for the first tally. But even the score did not shake the Northerners out of their protection play.

Marlboros had a margin at centre ice that seemed big enough to carry them to victory, Shrimp McPherson and Don Mercer, who alternated at centre for the Dukes, being far superior to Bill Thom and Blonde Trivett, the Newmarket pivots. McPherson checked the Redmen into submission, mighty few eluding him, while Mercer was just as good, and the better of the pair on the offensive. Mercer mixed his plays with judgment, and his tricky stickhandling and fake shot gave Newmarket plenty of trouble. McPherson, although not spectacular, conducted the Dukes' play with care and precision, speeding up the pace when needed, and if extra defensive efforts were needed he slackened it up.

Both Defences Strong

Both defences, although receiving help from their forwards, played hard and steady hockey, using the body check most of the time to halt attacks. Red Horner bounced and bumped every Redman that ventured near his side of the ice, while Frank Irvine was also strong.

The Newmarket rearguard played similar to their opponents, being free with body-checks, while Pringle added a scoring punch that gave the Dukes the most trouble. Pringle pounded his way through for the Northerners' lone marker, and had he been like his teammates, racing away after every shot, he would not have scored. Pringle landed the goal by racing in for a rebound of a close shot, and although he was smothered by checkers he managed to poke it into the cage.

Board Battles Even

The battles along the boards were close, Fred Murray tying up Charlie Conacher, while "Lank" Collings and Roly Conacher were also well matched on the other rail. Collings turned in about the best game of the Newmarket front line, driving many hard shots from the right rail, but Goalie Harris swallowed up all long shots with ease The Marlboro rail men did most of their sniping from far out, never venturing away from their lanes for fear of giving their checks too much liberty. Charlie Conacher's sizzling shot gave the Newmarket followers a few thrills, but he only came close, and close doesn't count. Both goalies performed in star manner.

It was the play of Shrimp McPherson that made Marlboros so much the better, for he crippled the Newmarket combination with his checking.

McPherson Switches Style

The second period continued the same until McPherson started his aggressive tactics, and the reward was a goal lead. Charlie Conacher was again penalized twice in succession, while Pringle drew a pair of penalties, getting one with a teammate in the box, and that was when McPherson made the manoeuvre for the marker.

In the third period there was not much change in the play, the main thrill of the session being when Horner body-checked Perrault so hard that he was forced to retire for repairs. The same "Red-head," added a little more action when his long shot bounded into the Newmarket cage, but Pringle got it back on a determined rush, the score sounding a truce until Wednesday, when the struggle will be renewed The teams:

Newmarket—Goal, Ames; defence, Perrault and Pringle; centre, Thom; wings, Collings and Murray; subs, Trivett and Marshall.

Marlboro—Goal, Harris; defence, Horner and Irvine; centre, McPherson; wings, R. Conacher and Conacher; subs, Mercer and Jackson.

Referee—T. Hillman, Kitchener.

Winnipeg Welcomes Returning Champions

WINNIPEG, Man., March 6 (Canadian Press).—A warm welcome was extended by Winnipeg's curling enthusiasts to Gordon Hudson and his three curling champions, who arrived here yesterday from Toronto, where they succeeded in capturing the Macdonald Briar Tankard, emblematic of the curling championship of Canada. It was the first time the city of Winnipeg had a championship curling team, and also the first time that the famous Tankard ever came West.

SACRED HEART MIDGETS WIN FINAL TUSSLE

Defeat Immaculate Conception 2-0 to Win on the Round 4-2.

FEW PENALTIES

Both Goalies Put Up Good Performance—Stop Many Shots.

After playing to a 2-2 tie in the first game of the N.H.L. Midget playoffs, the Sacred Heart boys won on the round by defeating the Immaculate Conception crew 2-0 in the second game played at Brock Street Rink last night. The game was fast throughout, with the players being inclined to mix it. Both goalies performed well, especially the Immaculate Conception net guardian, who was called upon many times to stop several shots from the opposing lines.

Houlihan played a good game for the East City crew, while Courneya put up a stellar performance for the South-Enders. Lazure scored the initial goal of the game for the Sacred Heart in the last moments of the first period on a rush from the South-End defence line through the Immaculate Conception crew to make a point blank shot at Merdock, who failed to save. Martin tallied the second marker for the victors in the last period with a direct shot from in front of the East City goal mouth.

O'Dette was the leader of the "bad boys" for the Immaculate Conception, taking two penalties, while B. Merdock was sent to the bench for tripping the Sacred Heart centreman. Burke and Courneya were the bench-warmers for the South-Enders.

The line-up:

Sacred Heart—Goal, H. Grady; defence, V. Lazure and J. Martin; centre, R. Courneya; wings, L. Burke and M. Collins; subs., B. Hatton and J. Amyotte.

Immaculate Conception—Goal, M. Merdock; defence, J. Houlihan and G. McCarthy; centre, V. Vienette; wings, J. O'Dette and B. Merdock; sub., R. Leonard.

Referee—Joe O'Connell.

P.C.I. ENTERS SCHOOL FINALS

Meets Either Belleville or Madoc Here on Friday.

HOME-AND-HOME SERIES

After a long rest, the P.C.I. hockey team, having eliminated Bracebridge in the semi-finals, will swing into action against the winners of the Belleville-Madoc series, here, probably Friday night of this week, in the first of home and home games —the finals, for the Central Ontario Interscholastic crown.

The local lads line up into an aggregation that would look good in Junior O.H.A. company, while many of the other teams which they have face, have also listed O.H.A. players on their roster. This fact is indicative of fast hockey and the fans who hunger for a little more of the winter pastime before the ice is gone, would do well to be on hand at Brock street for this game.

SEMI-FINAL DRAW.

LONDON, March 6.—The draw for the semi-final round of the English Football Association Cup competition on March 24 was made yesterday. It follows:

Huddersfield Town vs Sheffield United at Manchester.

Blackburn Rovers vs. Arsenal at Leicester.

FISHER BODY and Fisher Body alone made it possible for Chevrolet to demonstrate what wonders can be accomplished in beautifying a car of popular price. There is an obstacle which quite literally prevents any car from giving that which only Fisher gives. This obstacle is the stubborn fact that nowhere in the world is there anything even remotely approaching the unrivaled facilities of Fisher Body in the creation either of beauty or of value. For that reason the several new cars with Body by Fisher which are arousing unusual admiration cannot be duplicated or rivaled because Fisher Bodies cannot be duplicated or rivaled. Chevrolet was able to draw upon these unrivaled Fisher Body resources and the result is an exquisiteness of appearance so unusual and so advanced that it places the car absolutely alone and supreme in its class

COMING TO THRILL YOU!
PERCIVAL WREN'S Celebrated Novel,

"BEAU SABREUR"

The answer to "BEAU GESTE"

A Paramount Picture with GARY COOPER EVELYN BRENT NOAH BEERY WILLIAM POWELL

BEAU SABREUR makes a bid for "Beau Geste's" enviable place in the cinema sun.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"BEAU SABREUR."

P. C. Wren, the man who wrote "Beau Geste," must have suffered the fate that befalls all writers.. He must have had his composition picked to pieces. And one of the main criticisms may have been the inspiration that it lacked a touch of comedy to relieve its grimness. This must have been the case, else why would he write a sequel to that unforgettable story and give it such a decided atmosphere of opera bouffe?

"Beau Sabreur" is a very entertaining picture. If you haven't seen "Beau Geste," you will like it very much. If you have seen the first picture, and expect this to be a satisfactory sequel to it, you will be disappointed. The lightening touch of humor has been injected with such vigor that it has lost altogether the impression of stark reality that colored "Beau Geste" from beginning to end. In "Beau Sabreur," even the dead men give the impression, when they pass out, of play acting. One expects them to appear in the next scene, alive and hearty.

However, it is a very worthwhile production, splendidly photographed, and provides an excellent evening's entertainment. It illustrates beautifully the manner in which a certain color, if used strongly enough, can change the mood and tempo of a cinema story. A whimsical, somewhat Puck-like humor dominates "Beau Sabreur" from beginning to end. What might easily be a tragedy becomes a comedy.

The characterizations are very likeable. Gary Cooper, as Henri Beaujolais, would make an admirable tragedian in the role of "Beau Sabreur," but the mood of the picture saves him from this fate. He does his best to be stern and forceful and reminds one at times of Milton Sills in younger days. The finger of comedy makes him just a little bit theatrical at times. One would like to see him in a production of the "Beau Geste" type. A member of the Foreign Legion, operating in Africa, he has sworn to his uncle to put France first—always— and let no woman interfere with his duty to his country. Then Fate intervenes and saddles him with a pair of women who accompany him, willy-nilly, on a dangerous camel ride through the desert, to enlist the aid of El Hamel, Sheik of the Great Oasis, in saving the beleaguered city of Zaguig from the clutches of revolting Arabs. At crucial moments, he is compelled to desert his brave male comrades, who pass out almost immediately thereafter, but he arrives finally at the Oasis, where the fat Sheik with the glistening nose entertains him at a dinner of thirty courses, three hours in length, and incidentally casts a desirous eye on his feminine companions who have, by the way, in their flight, thoughtfully brought along a complete change of costume for evening wear.

The Sheik is divided between a wish to accede to the request of Beaujolais and cast in his lot with France, in return for five million gold francs, and a contrary desire to aid the revolting Arabs, whose spokesman, Bacque, has arrived shortly before Beau Sabreur. Between the latter and the emissary of the revolutionaries is an old-standing feud, which finds relief in a sabre duel that finishes spectacularly the career of the mischievous Becque, traitor to the Foreign Legion and France. This little occurrence and the fact that the lady who has enchained his fancy turns out to be a good shot, decides the volatile Sheik in favor of Beaujolais and makes a satisfactory conclusion to the picture. Evelyn Brent is the heroine, Mary van Brugh, an English novelist searching the desert for local color, and Noah Beery is the fat Sheik.

The comedy with this feature is very good Lupino Lane effort, full of laughs.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

"MATINEE LADIES"
AT THE REGENT

"Matinee Ladies," a Warner production, with lovely May McAvoy as the star, is the attraction at the Regent. And it is an attraction! In support of Miss McAvoy is the popular Malcolm McGregor, who is cast as a young law student who turns dancing-man to raise funds to pay his way through college. At the roadhouse he meets Sallie, the cigarette girl, and the two manage to steer clear of entanglements overly serious, with lackadaisical matinee ladies who would ensnare the youth, and pot-bellied rounders who would inveigle Sallie from the straight and narrow path. A story of force, beauty and humaneness and at the same time of the utmost modernity is the result of Graham Baker's adaptation of the work of Albert S. Howson and Sidney R. Buchman. Others in the cast are Hedda Hopper, Margaret Seddon, Richard Tucker, Jean Lefferty, Cissy Fitzgerald and William Demarest. Bryon Haskins directed. No one should miss the pleasure of seeing "Matinee Ladies."

Tex Rickard Gets Mandell Title Bout

NEW YORK N.Y., March 6. —Canadian Press. — Spirited bidding for a light weight title match between Sammy Mandell, the champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, the Irish lad, who bowled over Sid Terris in a single round, apparently ended yesterday in a victory for Tex Rickard over Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter.

Eddie Kane, manager of the titleholder, will return to Chicago to-day, bearing with him a "satisfactory" offer for Mandell to fight McLarnin in the Polo grounds here on May 17. Rickard said he would announce Mandell's decision within a week.

In the meantime, Rickard said, Kane will endeavor to convince Mullen that there is no chance of a Chicago promoter gaining McLarnin's services for a bout in Chicago. The latest sensation from the Pacific coast is bound by contract to fight for Rickard while Mullen has an agreement with Mandell for a title fight with McLarnin in the Mid-West in June. Kane assured Rickard that his contract with Mullen was not binding unless McLarnin was secured as his opponent.

FINAL GAME IN SCHOOL SERIES IS TO-MORROW

Peterborough and Belleville Collegiates To Battle For Championship.

P.C.I. ARE GOOD.

Local Students Have Climbed Through Three Districts To Finals.

The Peterborough Collegiate team, the only local outfit to make a bid for a hockey championship this year will be seen in action at Brock Street Rink tomorrow night, when they meet the Belleville Collegiate in the first of home-and-home games for the Interscholastic title. Belleville qualified for the finals by beating Madoc for the eastern honors last night, while the P.C.I. team has disposed of Port Hope, Bowmanville, and Bracebridge in climbing through three districts to the final stage.

The Peterborough team contains a number of players of O.H.A. experience including Carl Woods, former Peterborough Junior and last year with Marmora, and Gordon Cuthbertson and Joe Dunkerley of the St. John's Juniors. The students have been playing good hockey all season and are considered to have a fine chance to bring the Interscholastic championship here for the first time.

Tomorrow's game should be full of excitement and should attract a big crowd. The P.C.I. team has earned support by its consistent record throughout the season.

SOCCER ASSOC. ELECT OFFICERS FOR 1928 SEASON

Vincent Stewart Again Appointed President for the Year.

NEW RULES SUGGESTED.

Minutes and Financial Reports Were Accepted as Read.

The annual general meeting of the Peterboro and District Football Association took place last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. President Vincent Stewart occupied the chair and was supported by Vice-President, Jack Hodgson; also Secretary John Warde.

An excellent attendance of soccer fans were present to hear the final reports of last season's transactions that proved interesting, as details were tabulated under the various headings to show the profits and loss attributed to the various cup ties and league games.

Minutes Accepted.

The Board approved of the minutes of the final meeting of the 1927 season after various discussions relative to players being suspended; also that the constitution be thrown out and a new one printed.

The new executive were authorized to revise the rules and regulations of the local association; also make amendments so as to foster the universal code.

Financial Statement.

Secretary John Warde read the financial statement of the 1927 transactions, which was accepted as read, after being audited and found correct. All injured players accounts were paid, with the recommendation that the new executive appoint an official doctor; also suggested that in future that all accounts be paid on a percentage basis.

Office Bearers Appointed.

Hon Pres: Hon. G. N. Gordon.
Hon. Vice-Presidents: Messrs Gordon Matthews, R. M. Glover and Roland Denne.
President: Vincent Stewart.
Vice-President: Robert Gilmour.
Secretary-Treasurer: John Hodgson.
Executive members: Tom Stewart and William Rickard.
Auditor: Tom McArthur.

New Rulings

It was decided by the new executive that in future the White Cycle and Sports Cup be played under the cup-tie principle, as requested by the donors. The executive also decided that the League winners receive 75 per cent and runners up 25 per cent. according to the financial condition of the association so that they may buy medals or other souvenirs.

Desire Referees.

All clubs desiring to become associated with the P. and D. F. A. are requested to notify Secretary John Hodgson, at an early date. Any gentleman desiring to act in the capacity as an official referee will receive a cordial welcome from the new board who are endeavoring to foster the game in the city.

Hockey Notes

Canuck Juveniles and St. Peter's Juveniles will play the second play-off in the Holy Name Society League at Brock Street Rink, on Wednesday night from eight to nine. The Canucks have a one-goal lead. All players are requested to be on hand.

RETURN GAMES ARE ARRANGED

P.C.I. Basketball Teams Will Visit Lindsay Next Saturday.

WOULD REVERSE COUNT

Anxious to make up for their two defeats, received here on Saturday at the hands of the Lindsay Collegiate teams, the P.C.I. boys' and girls' basketball teams will invade Scugogville this Saturday and they figure on returning with the weighty end of the count in both games.

On their play in the last games, they looked as good as their opposition and the victories of the visitors was by no means decisive. The Scugog students are all set for stiff arguments and many P.C.I. supporters are counting on making the trip.
